MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

INDEX TO VOLUME XXXIX, 1925

Compiled by A. H. PIKE.

NOTE:—The regular features to be found in most every issue, are not indexed by titles. These include Editorial, Chronicle, News Gleanings, Answers to Correspondence, The Forum, etc. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. Reference in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles. The proper names placed in brackets denote the author of the article indexed. Special reference to individuals will be found under "Personals". Activities of stamp clubs will be found under "Organized Philately". Deaths under Obituary. Illus. denotes that the article is illustrated. Por. denotes that a picture of an individual or group is shown.

STEAMBOATS AND "STEAMBOAT CANCELLATIONS.

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

So little of the actual history of steamboats has been given to stamp collectors that I believe the following articles may be of interest.

"Boat" cancellations are extremely rare, no question about that, possibly too rare to ever be popular with the rank and file of collectors. There are not "enough to go 'round", and there are only a very few of what might be termed "comprehensive collections" of them.

I think I may correctly state that the majority of these cancellations came from the well-known correspondence of Buchanan, Carroll & Co., or the succeeding firm of Carroll, Hoy & Co., of New Orleans, and possibly fifty per cent of these are on United States envelopes of the Nesbitt issues of 1853 and 1864.

These cancellations are quite distinctive, often being of fancy design and in brilliant colors, no doubt to advertise the special boat they were used on. Most of them are found on boats plying the Mississippi River and its tributaries, occasionally a California or a "Lake" boat, or a coastwise packet, but I do not remember having seen any of boats that crossed the ocean nor of any on rivers outside of the United States. They seem to have been a purely American idea.

This article is compiled from much-cut-down notes I have made during the last seven or eight years, and a good deal of it is taken directly from "Gould's History of River Navigation", which is the best text book that I have found.

To Robert Fulton, in 1807, is generally given the credit for building the first steamboat. According to Captain Gould (and he proves his statements) there were eleven steamboats, built and tried out with varying success, prior to the cruise of Fulton's "Cleremont" in 1807.

"The first vessel ever moved by steam in the United States (and there is reason to believe in the world) was a small skiff. The experiment was made by John Fitch, assisted by Henry Voight, on the Delaware River, about the 20th of July, 1786. The second vessel ever moved by steam, built by the same man, was 45 feet long and 12 feet beam and the engine was a 12 inch cylinder. Six oars or paddles, working perpendicularly, were on each side of the boat."

In 1796, Fitch built a yawl, which was propelled by a screw propeller at the stern, and, in this same year, Samuel Morey, of Connecticut, constructed a steamboat with paddle wheels at the sides. These, with other boats constructed by Fitch, Oliver Evans, and John Fox Stephenson comprised the eleven built previous to 1807.

Then came Robert Fulton, with the twelfth boat, the historically well-known "Cleremont", which made trips between New York and Albany twice a week; distance 160 miles, running time about 32 hours.

There was a rival steamboat company formed, and in 1809 there occurred what was probably the first steamboat race, between the boat owned by this rival company and the Cleremont, in which the Cleremont was victorious.

Mr. Fulton associated himself with a Mr. Livingston, and in 1811 the New York legislature passed an act securing Messrs. Fulton & Livingston's exclusive rights of steam navigation in the waters of the state, for the period of twenty years. This act, however, was not respected and several opposition boats were soon started.

That's a rough sketch of how steamboating started and now we will take up the introduction of the steamboat on the Mississippi River and the early navigation there.

The Mississippi River, how it was opened up to navigation and the value of the steamboat in the development of the country.

From 1804 to 1812, all commerce on the Mississippi was carried by "flatboats" and was so immaterial that no records were kept.

In 1812 a new era in transportation appeared, when the first steamboat, the "New Orleans" arrived in New Orleans, two years later, the second boat, the "Vesuvius", arrived, and in 1815, the "Enterprise" (incidentally, she was the first to make the return trip to Pittsburg).

The value of produce received at New Orleans from the interior in the year 1815-1816, almost entirely due to the development of the steamboat, was nearly ten millions of dollars.

From 1815 on there was a steadily increasing number of boats in the Mississippi trade, it having increased to six regular boats, carrying exports and imports, in 1816.

The first steamer, the "Orleans" or "New Orleans", was built at Pittsburg, in 1811, by Livingston & Fulton. She had a propeller at the stern and two masts and was of 100 tons. Her first trip from Pittsburg to New Orleans in 1812 was made in fourteen days (a distance of more than 2,000 miles). She made regular trips between New Orleans and Natchez until in 1814 she was wrecked near Baton Rouge, by striking a snag.

The fares charged to passengers on this boat were $18, descending the river from Natchez, and $25 ascending, a record of one trip is noted as taking 32 hours (in 1812).

From 1816 to nearly 1840 is a period which has no special interest to the stamp or cancellation collector. It was,

MATCH AND MEDICINE

With the New Year, I am suggesting something old—those hundreds of designs of private revenues used on boxes of matches and bottles of medicine between 1864 and 1883 to pay Civil War Taxes to the government.

Match and Medicine stamps have been one of my lines as a U. S. Specialist for years and I believe I am about the only dealer who pretends to handle the line regularly.

I claim to have the largest stock in the country, to which I have recently added two nice collections, which I am now breaking up.

I solicit want-lists or I have general selections ready to send out. With either, I require reference—the names of your bank and two stamp dealers preferred. [75 however, a time when steamboating developed. To show this development, there arrived at the port of New Orleans.

In the year 1816 6 steamboats.
In the year 1821 287 steamboats.
In the year 1825 715 steamboats.
In the year 1840 1,958 steamboats.

(Naturally, these last figures must represent several trips of the same boats.)

In twenty-five years the steamboat had secured a practical monopoly of the traffic and trade of the Mississippi and developed an interior commerce of immense proportions. Between 1830 and 1840 the river cities increased rapidly in population and wealth, and New Orleans advanced more rapidly than any city in America.

Boats were used to carry the mails, and sometime before 1840, these "Mail-boats" used their own cancellations, specifying the boat name. I do not know how many boat cancellations a complete collection, up to the time of the Civil War would contain, but at a guess, I would say 300 different ones or a trifle more.

This period is referred to as "the Golden Days of Steamboating". The war put an end to this and the development of the railroads started the decline of the usefulness of the steamboat as a mail carrier. There was, however, a period from 1865 to 1872, during which much mail was carried by boats, and during which they used their own distinctive cancellations on such mail. These cancellations are nearly, if not quite, as rare and desirable to the collector as the earlier period and there seems to be about an equal number of them to be found, mostly appearing on the current U. S. stamped envelopes. They are just as much to be collected as the earlier ones and it is much easier to develop their history.

The earliest packet cancellation that I have seen is on a letter-sheet dated "Nov. 12, 1831" and is of the Lake Champlain Steam Packet "Franklin". The second earliest is that of a Texas boat, the "Steamer Columbia", dated 1838, and also on a letter-sheet. One seldom finds these, antedating 1850. From 1850 to the outbreak of the war, when boats carried the mails, and in the period from the end of the War until 1872, is the time most of these cancellations were used.

When the war broke out, commerce on the Mississippi was halted. Many of the old mail carrying boats were destroyed, to prevent their falling into Northern hands, some were used to transport troops, and the remainder were idle in the various ports. Practically no cancellations are to be found from 1861 to 1865.

I find record of the following boats whose names are more or less familiar to collectors, being destroyed during the war: Capitol, Magnolia, Magenta, John Walsh, Natchez, Dew Drop, Emma Betts, Vicksburg, Lizzie Simmons, Tigress, and but few of the old boats seem to have carried and cancelled letters after the war was over. An interesting exception to this is the Red River Steamer, "B. L. Hodge," which even used the same cancelling device before and after the war.

There is record of the first steam whistle to be used on the River Boat St. Charles, which was built at Pittsburg in 1844.

A musical steam calliope was first used on the Ohio River, by the Steamer Unicorn, in about 1850.

Boats were named after towns, prominent citizens, river captains or owners, or they were given fanciful names: Belle, Southern Belle, Belle Creole, Bayou Belle, etc.

The most notable record of early days was that of the Steamer J. M. White, in 1844. She left St. Louis on a Monday, with 600 tons of freight, and arrived in New Orleans on Friday evening. Time, 3 days 16 hours, and she returned to St. Louis in 3 days and 23 hours. For all detentions of coaling, unloading passengers, mails and freight, the round trip was accomplished in less than nine days.

After 1871, the railroad supplanted the steamboat as a transporter of mail, and the steamboat, therefore, ceases to be of special interest to the stamp collector.

I would suggest to collectors of steamboat cancellations that they use the lists of boat names published by Dr. Chase and George B. Sloane. If they have a name that does not occur in those lists, that they help by adding that name. It's the only way to ever get a complete list, and it's as interesting a sideline to the collecting of United States as there is. These cancels are possibly rarer than "Railroads" and they are quite as attractive.

ENVELOPES FOR AIR MAIL.

Recently we noted the fact that envelopes of distinctive design for air mail had been put into use, consisting of parallel bars of red, white and blue across the face of the envelope, each approximately a quarter of an inch wide. A specimen was sent us for chronicle.

Joseph A. Steinmetz now sends us a copy of the New York Post Office "Bulletin of Information" which illustrates and describes this new feature in air mail service. It is stipulated that these bars must be placed in the middle of the envelope. These envelopes are not furnished by the department but any person may have his envelopes for air mail use printed in the manner indicated. Their use is prohibited for mail other than that to be carried by airplane.

It has been suggested to the Post Office Department that stickers be issued in strip form in red, white and blue in packs of one hundred or in booklet form so that they could be used on any regularly printed business envelope. It is unreasonable to suppose that various business houses will have a special lot of envelopes printed for occasional use by air mail. It would be well if the devotees of the air mail service should write the department at Washington and suggest the modification above suggested.

PACKETS OF EARLY U. S.

These are "educator" packets made up for the many collectors who are not sure where to find album spaces for the early issues of United States postage stamps. All are clean, sound stamps, good condition.

Packet "A" contains 30 varieties U. S. postage stamps including all issues from 1851 to 1887, each one dated for you, price $2.00

Packet "B" contains 20 varieties of hard-to-place Bank Note issues of 1870 to 1887, every stamp identified for you, price $1.00

Four hard ones, 50c: the 4c Green, 4c Carmine, 5c Brown and 5c Blue U. S. stamps of the 1880's. All sound copies.

We solicit want lists of seasoned 19th Century issues of United States or Foreign stamps and will gladly send approval selections to general collector or specialist against dealer references.

We buy and exchange stamps; the collector's duplicates, the dealers' "Hard to move" items, old correspondence, or accumulations. [111

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

No doubt some of you collectors are sitting snug in your dens looking at things that would give our readers plenty of enjoyment. Often collectors are bashful in bringing forth their choice bits for public scrutiny. The Query last week gave you all a chance, inasmuch as it asked you to make the question. So if you have an item you believe to be unique, why not put this in the form of a question, then if nobody can duplicate it, come forth yourself with the answer, and thus help solve some of the mysteries that surround us. This department is ready and waiting for questions and replies. The Forum is all yours, and you are requested to make use of it at all times.

Reverting to revenues used for postage, in a little auction lot last year was a small parcel of old documents bearing postage stamps used as revenues. I noticed one with the 30c 1861, and 5c brown 1862, making a 35c item. Can't someone give us a higher rate than this?

Many business firms used these small double ringed dating affairs in the '60's. They had the company name around the top, and the town and state at bottom, with the day, month and year enclosed in the inner ring. They were commonly used at that time, and you may have seen them applied to the face of old covers of this period, being the date the firm received the letters, or the date they replied to the contents. Then, too, they were used to cancel the stamps on documents. Black, blue and red were usually the colors used. Many collectors save revenue stamps with these pretty cancellations, and when neatly applied, as was the rule, we find a pretty combination in the way of a 2c blue revenue with a round red cancellation. Red would look well on a 1c or 2c of the period, tho I have never seen these bank cancellations in red on either stamp. They are found sometimes on the 3c 1861, however, and are rare and pretty. In black they are frequently found with these "Bank Cancellations," so called.

The black Jackson was perhaps the postage stamp most used as a revenue. All checks required the 2c stamp, and this stamp was perhaps handy, and so applied to the document. The much despised "Punch" cancellation becomes a work of art on a postage used for revenue, when used with the bank cancellation in addition.

One of my prized "Jacks" is punched with a small round hole, and in addition is mutilated further by the embossed "P. Lorillard, N. Y." handstamp. If it were a revenue stamp it would probably end in the wastebasket.

In answer to my ads, a local buyer of old paper stock one day brought in the remains of what he said was originally about a hundred 2c black Jacksons on small bits of bank checks. He found them on the entire checks, each stamped by a bank, and his wife helped (?) him tear them off the checks, as close to "the fringe" as possible.

As this number seems to have developed into personal misadventures, will mention another funny one. A man in answer to my ad (which has now been running locally for five years) fetched in about 300 Black Jacks along with a mess of other stamps. They looked just like real stamps, yet there was something funny about their appearance at a glance, so I selected a copy and smoothed out all four corners, then gave attention to what looked like a good sized pin hole amidships. I gave it up as a damaged stamp, and on looking at others, they all had that same hole in them, with the bent corners. Funny, so I ventured to ask the man "How come?" Well, you'd have laughed—I didn't, cause I like Black Jacks too well. He said that in his attic, he found one of these here now things that look like the Hawaiian Uke artists wear round their necks when on a musical spree, so he got it down, and found someone had strung all these black stamps onto a thread, and that was how every one of the poor things had pin holes thro them! Well, it might have been worse if he had saved his '47's that way; but he didn't have any. I had heard of this pastime; but I am here to state that it is rather wearing on any chain of stamps.

Mr. R. C. Munroe has called my attention some time past to what he aptly calls the "Tow Line" on the 12c 1869. This is a nicely placed guide line, running from the W. side of the margin into the bow of the boat, and is so taut that the ship must be under a heavy strain. I have noticed several being so towed, and hope you may find one.

The answers to this week's Query should be interesting, so don't fail to answer if you see anything that looks promising. Question — "What is the largest used block of 3c 1851's that you have seen?"

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

READ THIS!

A good customer in Haverhill, Mass., wrote us:—

"It has been some time since I have had such pleasure in dealing with a stamp house as with yours. Every stamp I have obtained from you has been perfect and your offerings of George stamps unused at half catalogue has been seldom met with before."

Here is what another satisfied customer from Houston, Texas, writes:—

"Your stamps have always been lower in price and higher in quality than is usually found. Another advantage in dealing with you is that if you have a scarce stamp you do not keep stalling off until you are offered a bigger price."

The above speak for themselves. The originals have been shown the WEEKLY. Start the New Year right by getting in touch with us when you require some British Colonials, the most beautiful, most desirable and the best investment that money can buy. They have increased in catalogue value from year to year and are destined to go much higher.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS, POSTAL STATIONERY, 1924.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Although postage stamps inscribed "Turks & Caicos Islands" were issued in November, 1900, the first piece of postal stationery so inscribed, a 2d blue, registration envelope, was issued only on Jan. 15, 1924, having come out in November, 1922, with the Crown type stamps.

On September 26, 1908, the Postmaster at Grand Turk advised that 2½d stamped envelopes (in two sizes), 1895 issue, and 1d carmine reply post cards, 1893 issue, both Queen Victoria type, were available, but these exhausted soon after, and were not to be had December 21, 1909.

When the writer visited Grand Turk in September, 1920, no stamped post cards, wrappers or envelopes were to be had. There was, however, a registration envelope, without an impressed stamp, in two sizes, made of tough paper, with "Registered" in the upper left corner, and the usual vertical and horizontal lines (in blue) at the front and back. The demand was small, and they sold for but a trifle over cost. During 1923 these envelopes (in two sizes) without impressed stamps, were brought into use in the Cayman Islands.

The 2d registration envelopes are in two sizes, 150x93mm and 200x125mm (sold at 3d and 4d respectively), linen lined, with flap at the back, right hand end. The embossed stamp is circular in form, with the head of King George to the left. The outer band is lettered "Two (Crown) Pence" at the top, and in the lower part "Turks & Caicos Islands Registration Fee". The usual vertical and horizontal lines (in blue) are at the front and back, and three lines of letter press (all caps, those of the first line being larger than for the others) on the front, "Registered Letter. This letter must be given to an officer of the Post Office, to be registered and a receipt obtained for it." A large "R" within an oval occupies the upper left corner, and in the upper right, within an upright rectangle, in five lines of small caps, is "The stamp—to pay the—postage—must be—placed here."

REGISTRATION ENVELOPES.

1919, (?) No value (two sizes).
1924, Jan. 15. 2d blue, King George, 150x93mm and 200x125mm.

In February, 1924, all values in the small head type, Roman CA watermarked, were still available at Grand Turk, but only the ½d, 1d and 2d script CA.

Mr. H. A. Bascom, who succeeded Mr. L. Lea Smith, as Asst. Treasurer and Postmaster of the Dependency, on Jan. 1, 1922, left Grand Turk, by the steamer "Huron", the latter part of December, 1922, to take up his appointment as Colonial Treasurer of Dominica. Capt. G. H. Frith, formerly clerk to the Commissioner, was immediately appointed to act as Postmaster and Asst. Treasurer, in which position he was later confirmed.

Grand Turk, Salt Cay and East Harbour are now in communication with each other by radiophone. The tariff is ½d per word, with a minimum charge of 1s; name and address and signature free. Between ships and shore, the rate is 2d, and the minimum charge, 1s6d.

The new cable from Barbados with spurs to Trinidad and British Guiana, costing £242,146.0.0, and connecting with the Direct West India Cable system, is to be landed at Grand Turk in June, 1924. The section of the cable between Halifax, N. S., and Bermuda was opened to the public on July 14, 1890, and the extension to Grand Turk and Jamaica on January 31, 1898. The Turks & Caicos Islands Government contributes £120 yearly for a news supply.

Mails are received and dispatched via New York, about four times a month, by the steamers of the Clyde-Santo Domingo and Columbus Lines. On arrival of mail from abroad, dispatches are made up for the outports, and forwarded at the earliest opportunity by small sailing vessels or salt schooners. The letter rate on Grand Turk is ¼d an ounce, and to Salt Cay, East Harbour and the Caicos settlements, ½d. There is no house to house delivery; on Grand Turk letters are called for at the P. O., and in the other islands, at the constables quarters.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

H. C. Murdock, Newton Center, Mass.
Henry Perlish, Far Rockaway, N. Y.
Miss Debby Lewis Kirk, Phila., Pa.

Harold C. Murdock, 54 Hobart Road, Newton Center, Mass., makes his application for membership in the Honor Club, and we cannot forbear quoting from his letter as follows:—"I have been a subscriber ever since my school days at Worcester Academy where I saw a special number devoted to Hawaii and immediately became a regular subscriber. That was twenty-two years ago and in all that time I cannot remember of a copy failing to reach me each week." This is a fine tribute to Uncle Sam and the postal service. The managing editor will be pardoned for noting the fact that the Hawaii number referred to was one of the products of his brain and industry and had much to do with ultimately giving him a real voice and influence in the management of the affairs of the WEEKLY. Many special numbers have been issued in the years of our existence, but none has ever surpassed the one referred to for real merit.

We are also indebted to Henry Perlish, 1420 Sunnyside Ave., Far Rockaway, N. Y., for his application for membership in the Honor Club. We recognize Mr. Perlish as a longtime friend of the WEEKLY, as collector and advertiser. He is vice-president of the Charles T. Wilson Co. Inc., New York City.

Through the office of Eugene Klein, from whom by the way we receive many subscriptions to the WEEKLY, comes a remittance from Miss Debby Lewis Kirk, 6300 Greene St., Germantown, Philadelphia, for membership in our Honor Club. We take pleasure in entering Miss Kirk upon our honor roll, and hope that at a no distant day our readers may be favored with an insight into her collecting activities.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Karl Koslowski took advantage of the much-heralded opening week of the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit, the largest hotel in the world, and entertained thirteen of his close philatelic friends at luncheon, December 13th. After the luncheon the party was taken in autos to his residence, where his collection of some thirteen large albums filled with stamps was viewed and admired, and especially his U. S. cancellations. Refreshments were served and it was long into the wee little hours when the guests bade the host au revoir.

—A most pretentious price-list under date of November 1924 is just at hand from Stanley Gibbons Ltd., 391 Strand, London, England. It is a booklet of 48 pages, giving full particulars of the various albumns, catalogs, handbooks and philatelic accessories sold by the Gibbons firm. It is called "An Illustrated Guide for Stamp Collectors" and it is all of that and even more, for the general public would be interested in noting the extent of stamp collecting interests. A sample copy will no doubt be sent upon request.

—A price-list of United States stamps and accessories has been received from B. L. Voorhees, 25 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. It prices a fine line of U. S. stamps including revenues, and will prove of interest to every collector of these stamps. The booklet is well printed and reflects credit upon the firm issuing it. A specimen copy may be obtained upon request.

—P. J. W.—If you will write the firm of J. M. Bartels Co., N. Y. City, you can doubtless obtain the information you desire. For a personal reply always enclose a stamped and addressed envelope.

—C. A. L.—M. T. Mauck, 911 Harlem Ave., Baltimore, Md., can give you the desired information regarding the insurance of stamp collections.

—The Third Canadian Stamp Exhibition will be held in Montreal in September, 1925, under the auspices of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club. A preliminary prospectus providing for about forty classes will shortly be issued. There will be cups, medals, etc., in all classes. Thanks to E. E. Goodchild for this item of news.

—There is a letter at this office for E. Allen Dexter. Can any subscriber complete the address? Our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically, but by cities and states.

—We have received a copy of the United Stamp Company Herald, Chicago, which is a well-presented little house paper with news of the business of the company.

—Commenting on the item in Mr. Ward's issue of the WEEKLY to the effect that he was in favor of a portrait of Walter Johnson on the new thirteen cent stamp, Mr. E. C. Bailey of the Decorah Republican, Iowa, writes, "If—mind you I say, 'if'—Walter's face should adorn one of Uncle Sam's promises to deliver, why not inaugurate a new denomination, eighteen cent, in honor of Walter's eighteen years in the great American game?"

—We notice that in a number of foreign stamp journals reference is made to communications from the New York Library in which the Director expresses the wish to receive certain numbers of the publications in order that files may be completed. The editors who were not able to supply the missing numbers called upon their readers in the hope of being able to meet the library's wishes. It is evident that the New York institution is making a systematic effort to complete its philatelic sections.

—The following paragraph from the last report of the Postmaster-General will explain the circumstances whereby certain charges for postage due were made on mail that a reader speaks of receiving: "At the present time the deficiency in postage, no matter how small, must be subject to a minimum charge of thirty centimes or six cents. This provision has been modified so as to provide for a reasonable imposition of a charge of a minimum of ten centimes, in any case not to exceed double the deficiency." The reference applied to Postal Union mail.

—A Los Angeles paper recently contained news to the effect that a man was arrested there for removing cancellation marks from stamps with the intention of disposing of them for use again as unmarked stamps.

—Wm. M. McFarlan sends us a clipping from the London Times-Weekly showing an illustration of what is called a "Mount Everest Expedition" stamp. It is shown on a postcard recently received in London, the stamp bearing the cancellation mark including the words just quoted and also "Rongbuk Glacier Base Camp". Further particulars will be awaited with interest.

—With reference to the 150pf imperforate Germany in your issue for November 17th, I wish to say that only the Scott's No. 170a exists imperforate. This value and the 4M posthorn, wmk., network, No. 202, are the only recent German stamps that exist both perf. and imperforate.—J. L. RIEDEL.

—"Hark to this philatelic bon mot of the genial Dr. F. A. Kraft of Milwaukee:

"A stamp album is like a cemetery,—you have so many 'dear' ones buried there!"

"Which is merely a sample of the way forty-five members of the M. P. S. felt after having enjoyed a delightful banquet as a finishing touch in connection with the annual exhibition by Mr. Wm. J. Uihlein of his superb and beautifully mounted general collection on December 4th.

"But remember, 'good fellowship' and 'society spirit' are by-words in philatelic Milwaukee! (even tho 'M.T.' Dome does does hail from there.)"

—We are advised of the death of Carl H. Kampmann, a veteran costumer of Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Kampmann was a national authority as a theatrical costumer. He became a stamp collector early in life and owned a very fine collection. He was a member of various fraternal organizations.

—We recently had the pleasure of a visit from Professor E. G. Young of Peking, China, who gave us an interesting account of philatelic conditions in China where it is evident, there are a good many serious collectors of stamps; and the expected rule holds good that the issues of the home country have the edge in collecting favor.

—The Brooklyn Stamp Club held an exhibition at its Club Rooms, 123 Schermerhorn St., Wednesday evening, December 10. K. N. Woodward, well known New York philatelist, exhibited his wonderful collection of early United States and British Colonials. The collection brought forth much favorable comment as it contained many rarities, such as early British Guianas, British West Indian bisects on cover, strips of 3 of early 6 penny imperfs of Canada, etc. In United States he showed practically all the early issues in mint condition which his father purchased years ago when they were current, including the State Department complete, the 1869 issue, and others too numerous to mention. An informal auction sale was held.—H. C. MEYER, Pres.

DANZIG WITH CENTER INVERTED.

By EDWARD STERN.

Few know that the five-mark Germany, 1906-11 issue, with the center inverted, ranks with the rarest of all stamps with inverted centers. There are only three copies in existence. One lodges in a prominent collection here, and the other two are in Germany. All are cancelled on covers, and were found in the correspondence of a Hamburg Bank. There must have been one complete sheet of twenty of these originally, but they were used up on commercial correspondence and only three of the twenty were found. The other seventeen will most likely never come to light.

In 1920 the City of Danzig, formerly under control of Germany, was proclaimed a Free State. The current German stamps, issue of 1906-11, then in use, were surcharged DANZIG.

At a Stamp Dealers' Fair in Leipzig, a young man purchased a set of this particular issue. On arriving home he discovered that the five-mark, contained in the set, had the center inverted. He immediately tried to secure more from the same dealer, but all that he had left were of the normal variety. The "find" soon became known, and everyone, collectors and dealers, scrutinized their holdings carefully with the result that a Mr. Sperling found he had two copies, and a Mr. Max Bullmann discovered that he was the lucky possessor of sixteen, making a total of nineteen in all. These stamps were printed in sheets of twenty and the missing copy has disappeared.

Realizing their rarity, I made a special effort to procure these sixteen copies, and after considerable negotiation, finally closed the deal. An interesting feature in connection with these stamps is that the sheet was originally in the stock of a dealer who was unaware of the variety. He sold them at different times, and those who bought them did so under the impression that they were of the normal variety. They were sold in sets along with the other values at a nominal sum.

MEXICO

We have a small specialized collection of Mexican stamps of the late War period. Contains stamps from Number 322 to the last permanent issue, both used and unused, in singles and blox, also some covers. Full sheets of the Coach and Anvil Seal stamps which can be plated are also shown. The collection is a snap for anyone wanting to specialize these issues, and is very cheap at our price. Just 987 stamps, most of which are priced by Scott and a few by Gibbons, and the total catalog value is over $125. Mounted in a loose leaf album, $27.50.

A handbook on these stamps free with above.

500 all different, unused stamps, from 40 different countries, guaranteed to catalog at least $15.00. We make this packet ourselves to clean up a big surplus of odd stamps. You never bought a bigger bargain. $1.00

500 all different unused Blox of Four. A wonderful lot that will catalog about $50 to $60, at only one cent each for the lot, postpaid for $5.00

We have remounted and cut prices on all our approval books. Ask for a selection on approval and see if the books are not bargains, otherwise tell us to stop them.

GEORGE W. LINN COMPANY, 210 CLINTON BUILDING, COLUMBUS, OHIO

DANGER AHEAD FOR PRECANCELS.

By N. R. HOOVER, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Can anybody say that precancels are anything but a source of perpetual delight? Those who handle regular postage who are not initiated are inclined to turn up their noses, but precancels are like the plague; until one has caught it, you don't know what it is. The point is that mighty few regular postage collectors are immune; it is going to get the great majority of them in time; they are coming in increasing numbers.

The chief reason for this is that regular postage is becoming too difficult, too expensive. In precancels one can do so much in enlarging one's collection by pick-ups among friends, in one's own mail, from local business places, in mail trades with stamp friends.

However, consider this: as good as the precancel sport is, there are drawbacks. Some collectors can't resist the temptation to try to get favors from local postmasters or permit-holders, whereby they can obtain what are certainly unnecessary emissions. These wild fellows will go so far as to inspire the creation of doubles, ups, downs, inverts, one up and one down, etc., things that would not happen in the ordinary course of work in preparing precancels. These enthusiasts don't realize that when they influence a change from black ink, for instance, they risk the discharge of local postal clerks as anything but black ink is specifically taboo by the government.

This fact, along with a number of other definite rulings, is not generally known by precancel collectors and the lack of this knowledge is the very thing that is sapping the strength of precancels. These government rulings should be heeded by collectors and dealers in precancels.

The conviction grows with me that all traders, collectors and dealers in precancels who want the precancel industry perpetuated, should form some kind of an association, incorporate, and proceed to sort out those of us who realize the seriousness of the situation. Such members could adopt some form of identification for use in their individual advertising or publicity which will instantly tell others that such persons are pledged to influence nothing in precancels which would injure the game. This association would have nothing to do with the A. P. S., S. P. A., A. S. D. A., J. A. P. S., in fact, all such societies should be helped by such an association.

What do you think of the whole plan? I'll be glad to hear from any who have ideas on the subject.

BOSTON SOCIETY MEETING.

At the regular November meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society the entertainment consisted of talk on and an exhibition of the stamps of Nova Scotia, given by Mr. Brewer Corcoran of the Springfield Stamp Club. Among other interesting items several covers with bisected copies were shown. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Corcoran at the close by the forty odd members present.

WELLS TAKES 5,000 LINES FOR 1925

The Home of the Postage Stamp has contracted to use 5,000 lines during 1925, and we are of course gratified at this mark of distinction accorded us by a progressive firm which does not hesitate to give the WEEKLY strong words of commendation as a business producer.

PRECANCELS

EDITORIAL.

The Philadelphia Ledger of December 9, 1924, had a story of the kind that rates high in public estimation, of Keti Tkach, a young Ukrainian film actress who appeared at Eugene Klein's auction sale of Miss Debby Lewis Kirk's collection among others. It is represented that the young actress bought with a practised philatelic mind, evidently paying well for stamps that stood for good value. She got one Russian stamp for $60. and another for $122. Mr. Klein says that he did not know Keti Tkach, but it was evident from her philatelic aplomb that she must have a good collection. By the way, Miss Debby Lewis Kirk is well remembered by those who have attended recent conventions of the American Philatelic Society for her pleasant personality and her Quaker speech.

Mr. L. H. Brigham, Southbridge, Mass., has sent us a copy of The Stamp Collector for April and May, 1880. This journal was published by Arthur Fountain, 79 Nassau Street, as a sort of house sheet, and we are more impressed by the old address of Arthur Fountain at 79 Nassau Street than anything else about the paper. Forty-five years ago Nassau Street was not the philatelic thoroughfare that it is now, and it would be interesting to know how Mr. Fountain, who gave a scarce foreign stamp with every issue of his paper to subscribers at twenty-five cents a year, fared in later years. We may add that in 1880 a complete set of Navy Department stamps, used, cost seventy-five cents, and a set of Justice canceled, $1, while the five stamps of the Executive set, unused, was quoted at $1.

Apropos of Mr. Edward Knapp's article on the "Ten Cents" Confederate, we have the following coincidence to report. In the article, Mr. Knapp says that he has never seen one of these stamps canceled before May 2, 1863, but only a few days ago, old circumstance smiled on him and he received on approval one of them canceled April 28, 1863, so plainly as to be wholly unmistakable. Further, the cover is signed in the upper left corner, "J. A. Seddon, Sec." (Secretary of War, Confederate States). When it is said that for ten yeàrs Mr Knapp has been scrutinizing dates on this stamp and that he never saw one before May 2, 1863, the appearance of the stamp with the April postmark is something to cause wonder and delight on the part of a Confederate enthusiast.

We continue to hear of the enterprize shown by workers in the philatelic cause in all parts of the country, and we, as always, commend the unselfish devotion shown to stamps by these persons who are willing to go to some length to further their belief in them. It is our opinion that the collector who makes a stamp item grow in a newspaper where one never appeared before is entitled to consideration; and all praise is due to these oftentimes unknown and unsung pleaders in the cause of philately. The man who starts a stamp society in his town is another hero in the ranks, and though his activities do not always blossom into full philatelic flower, his influence is felt somewhere. We find that those who profit most through stamps are not always those who yield philately the greatest veneration backed by service, but often-times the isolated collector is most assiduous in promoting proper publicity for our pursuit.

The newspapers and other publications seem to be giving attention to early postal information as applying to America. References to the mail service in Colonial, Revolutionary and later days are met with, and occasionally some reference is made to stamps in the course of the articles. For instance, Mark Stuyvesant in his "Famous Firsts" tells of the first post route in the American colonies, and he says that "in those days there were no such things as postage stamps," testimony that need not be advanced for the benefit of philatelists, it is needless to say. In "The Spirit of the Revolution," John C. Fitzpatrick tells of the establishing of a postal system by William Goddard, publisher of a weekly newspaper in Baltimore, who organized a line of riders from Massachusetts to Georgia, which developed into a service that competed with that of the Royal Mail postmen. Goddard's service by 1774 had been instituted from Massachusetts to Georgia as has been said, and there were many verbal and physical encounters between the Loyalists and the Royalists; and the observation is made that these conflicts were in the nature of an overture to the war that was soon to be engaged in. The fact is one of historical interest, and it is said that when the Continental Congress organized its postal service its task was easy, because there was necessity for doing little more than amplifying the service already performed by William Goddard's newspaper mail.

The Sunday newspapers in different cities recently contained a somewhat sensational article that purported to reveal the sinister designs of Soviet Russia at the expense of "gullible stamp collectors". The recital is one which is to be taken with some reservation, as it does not ring true in all respects to philatelic logic. Of course, stamp collectors may not rest secure in the belief that their hobby is not to be the object of attempted exploitation, aside from any consideration of the article that has been mentioned. It is something of a testimonial to the influence of philately that governments aim to use collectors as a source of "easy money". From time to time, it is to be expected that forays will be made into philatelic territory but the collector of today is by no means a person who cannot do his own thinking and results of any incursions of the kind cannot be of any great benefit to the raiders. Reverting to the newspaper story, it is not necessary to comment on it until further particulars are available.

I have bought the Collection of
CONFEDERATE STATES
of J. Leon Adutt of England.
This is in three large volumes, with the stamps all priced separately.
It includes a representative lot of the Provisionals, some on covers, but is specially strong in the General Issues, unused in singles and blocks and used in singles and pairs and several hundred stamps on covers. It includes:—

1861, 5c green,	16 unused.	57 used
1861, 10c blue,	9 unused.	26 used
1862, 2c green,	14 unused.	4 used
1862, 5c blue.	189 unused.	41 used
1862, 10c rose,	7 unused.	21 used
1863, TEN cents, blue,	9 unused,	2 used

There are many of the small 2c, 5c, 10c & 20c in all shades, blocks, rare imprints and many flaws and re-entries. In the used there are many rare cancellations and a great many stamps on covers.
The collection can be sent on approval to collectors known to me or against references.

CANADIAN COLORS AND CHANGES.

By EDWARD E. GOODCHILD.

Regarding the socalled new color of the 50c current Canadian issue the Postage Stamp Department states that no such change was ever authorized and the manufacturers will not admit it is a new color although the ink is of different ingredients than previously used, which may account for the brown tinge in the latest supplies.

The long delayed changes in the seven cent has become operative and it now appears in a red brown, thus distinguishing it from the four cent. Another change or two in colors will take place in about six months.

The Canadian foreign rate has been lowered, from 10c to 8c to take effect some time about the middle of next year. That means a new 8c stamp will have to be issued in blue, and as blue is the color of the current 10c issue, another color will have to be found for the latter.

The current 1c, 2c and 3c have all been issued officially imperforate, but no other values will thus appear, nor further supplies of the 1c, 2c and 3c be printed.

The Canadian Bank Note Co. experimented with a new paper, not only for the current 5c as reported, but also for the 2c and the three postage due denominations and all five appear on an extremely thin paper with the design showing through to the back. These were not approved of by the Department and consequently all issues are now appearing on the former papers.

JANUARY OFFERS

ST JOHN'S NEWFOUNDLAND POSTAGE. THREE PENCE

We want to make this first month of 1925 the largest month we ever had in volume of business done. In order to do this we are going to adopt the policy of large Department Stores; that is, run a BARGAIN SALE.

Many prices have been slashed, because we would rather sell a 1000 sets at a very small profit than 100 sets at a little higher rate. For months we have been planning this campaign and we are sure that it will appeal to our customers. Large savings can be made by those who purchase from us NOW.

An eight page list has been prepared, mimeographed to save "overhead" which you would ultimately pay. It is FREE for the asking.

We will make the following concessions to buyers: Some unadvertised novelty will be sent to every customer when their purchases for the current month reach the amount of $5.00. The exact nature of the novelties will not be announced, but in each case it will be an item of real value.

5% discount on all orders, with payment in advance, amounting to $10.00 or more. 10% discount on paid orders of $25.00 or more.

We offer MINT stamps only. The following countries are well represented: AUSTRIA, BAVARIA, BOSNIA, DANZIG, EPIRUS, GERMANY, HUNGARY, JUGOSLAVIA, NEWFOUNDLAND.

ALL OFFERS ARE GOOD UNTIL FEBRUARY 1st, 1925.

THE MID-WINTER CANTALOUPE 300 VARS. OUR OWN FLAVOR $1.02

Since the famous MELON CUTTING of last Summer, we have been storing up stock toward next Summer's packets. So many people have asked for one of our inimitable products that we have decided to put up a few hundred right now. We will fill all orders received this month, but the first comers get the best packets. An exception bargain for Mr. Average Collector. Come quickly!

THE MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL 122 MINT BLOCKS GERMANY $2.04

A larger packet and a little different than ever before. We are including one of the scarce SE TENANT Blocks of the 1920 Germania Issue, the ever popular Castle and Cathedral and most of the Provisionals and High Values.

THE MAGYAR CROWD 112 MINT BLOCKS HUNGARY $2.04

Complete sets—"The FIVE HANDSOME MEN"—The Prisoner Charity set—are the outstanding features of this packet. Dozens of lots sold and plenty re-orders, so we know that The Magyar Crowd appeals to the Collector.

MUCH MORE CLUTTER 65 MINT BLOCKS DANZIG $2.04

The most popular Block packet we ever had. Plenty of scarce items included, like the 250Mk, No. 108, Cat. 40c each. Order yours today and see how good it is.

MURAL COVERING 122 MINT BLOCKS NEW EUROPE, ETC. $2.04

This new "Block-of-Four M. C." is surely all that its name implies. Not long ago we had an opportunity to purchase several thousand sheets of "Wall Paper" at a very low rate. Ukrainia Pictorials complete, White Russia complete, Liechtenstein, Western Ukraine, and a few Portuguese Cols. These sheets and some others from our stock have been put up in the classiest bunch of junk you ever saw. The condition of the stamps is splendid and you will have more real sport with this lot than you expect. We haven't told all of the good qualities of THE MURAL COVERING. It is a great collection.

SPECIAL Your check or M. O. for these four M. C. lots entitles you to a FREE BLOCK, or maybe more, that will open your eyes! Mention "M. C. S."

HOBBIES.

By FREDERICK A. LOWENHEIM.

The human brain needs variety. When a person devotes his entire time, energy and thought to one subject, no matter how worthy that subject may be, then that person becomes one-sided and narrow-minded.

To prevent this state of affairs a hobby is to be recommended. This hobby may be anything from stamps and coins to match-boxes and cigar bands. There is no end to the long list of hobbies. A hobby is good for man, woman and child, and doctors prescribe one for nervous people, as something they can concentrate on, to the temporary exclusion of all their troubles, real or imaginary.

Of course, as everything else may be done to excess, so may a hobby. Then a person is right back from where he started.

As one of the best and most popular of hobbies, stamp-collecting, or philately, is to be recommended.

In the United States alone, there are nearly one million stamp collectors, who may be divided into three classes:

The "kid kollector." The boy who "collects stamps" by taking them from letters and getting the free stamps which dealers offer from time to time to attract trade, in this way getting no stamps of real value.

The serious collector, who buys stamps once in a while, subscribes to a few stamp papers, and tries to get some fairly decent stamps.

The specialist or "condition crank." The highly advanced stamp collector who usually specializes in a certain country and collects about twenty copies of the same stamp because there is an iota of difference in them that he needs strong magnifying glasses to discern. He can tell you all about stamps from beginning to end, and thinks he can tell a fake the minute he sees it.

Then a fourth class might be added, the dealer, who goes in the game from a purely commercial point of view. Fortunes have been spent on stamps, and in a few cases people have been put on easy street by the sale of one stamp, a "scrap of paper." For instance, in the recent Ferrari sale in Paris, a British Guiana stamp, of which only one copy is known to exist, went for $32,250. About a half year ago, a hick-town farmer found a stamp in his attic which proved to be valuable. One of the so-called "Phoolatelic Phools" saw it and the farmer sold it to him for $12,500.

Whichever way one looks at philately, it has its advantages.

From an educational point of view. It is a valuable aid in geography. It tells one the names of many new countries, and also their location if one looks them up in the atlas. Also the stamp albums have certain statistics about stamp-issuing countries, such as area, population of country and of the capital, government and capital.

From the point of view of pleasure, the biggest factor in this case. A stamp lover can sit with his stamps hours upon hours and enjoy it. Of course, one who is not in the charmed circle of stamp fans will say: "How do they do it?" Let him get inside and see for himself.

Last but not least, the business of dealing in stamps has grown to vast proportions. Then too, there are the many competitive stamp papers, with circulations ranging all the way from 100 to 5,000.

Mr. Non-collector, why not follow the crowd and gain admission to the ever-increasing army of stamp fans? It will do you good. It's absolutely the best cure for a grouchy disposition! Look at some of the big men who collect: King George V, Senator Frehlinghuysen, and many others. So get in line. There's always room.

[EDITOR. The foregoing article was written some time ago when Lowenheim was thirteen years old and submitted as his theme in English in high school.]

SHANGHAI ON UNITED STATES

Most of the collectors of our own issues are also interested in these overprints used at our Shanghai Post Office previous to its closing at the end of 1923. Of the $1 and $2 value but few were surcharged, and they are likely to become somewhat scarce. At present, I can offer in mint condition:

SHANGHAI

Nos. 3280 to 3297—2c-$2 (16 stamps, complete)	$ 5.50
Nos. 3298 and 3299—2c and 4c Local overprint	1.25
No. 3297a $2 Double overprint, magnificent	125.00

The latter is one of the few copies that I have seen in mint condition wherein the two surcharges are spaced some distance apart. It seems that most of the sheet where the surcharges were distinct, were used—the unused copies being generally those where the two overprints were very close together. Only a single copy on hand—a real error of surcharge—made at the Bureau of Engraving & Printing.

United States.

A considerable amount of mail has accumulated during my seven weeks' visit abroad, and I now find much information of interest to our readers in the reports and letters that have reached my office while away.

Annual Report of the Director of Bureau of Engraving and Printing for Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1924.

The annual report of the Director, dated October 15, 1924, arrived the latter part of November, and there are always details of interest to the philatelist in this report.

We find that the electrolytic section of the Engraving Division (which was discontinued about a year and a half ago, at which time we were informed the section was run at a great cost with few benefits,) has again been re-established as it was found that its discontinuance was ill advised. We are told that satisfactory progress has been made in the advancement of the electrolytic plates, and we are further informed that the continuance of this section will be insurance against a shortage of plates necessary to meet demands.

Heretofore, all stamps—both postage and revenue—were perforated in one division, but we are now informed that Documentary stamps printed in the surface division are now perforated at the time the stamps are printed. This change promotes efficiency, rapid transit of work and economy. Automatic feeders have been installed on a number of presses, and orders for others have been placed.

During the year there have been in excess of sixteen billion postage stamps printed for the United States Government. Of the Harding stamps issued up until June 30th, there were 1,560,207,385, so there certainly will be enough to go around. In excess of one million and a half of the 50c Postage Due stamps were distributed, while 325,668 of the 30c were sent to postmasters.

We are informed that the Bureau overprinted 3,295,000 stamps for the Canal Zone, of which the 50c will possibly be the scarcest, as only five thousand of these were overprinted. There were ten thousand of both the $1.00 and the 1c Postage Due. Of the other stamps there were varying quantities from 25,000 up. It may be of interest to know that the Bureau received compensation in amount of $649.81 for this work. About thirty-seven million stamps were printed for the Philippines in quantities of one hundred thousand or more of each type printed.

Annual Report of the Postmaster-General.

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. S. Regar, Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department, I am in receipt of an advanced confidential copy which is now ready for release of the annual report of the Postmaster-General. The report covers the expenditures and workings of the department, in addition to detailed information as to changes made in the different branches of the department to better the service.

Our attention is called to the special series of air mail stamps and the proposed establishment of the transcontinental air mail route.

We are also told about the special stamps commemorating the 300th anniversary of the settlement in America of the French and Belgium Huguenots.

Precanceling of postage stamps with the name of the mailing office as a part of the original process of manufacture has effected large economies.

It may be of interest to mention at this time that Mr. Richard Braden, the Assistant Superintendent of the Division of Stamps was awarded on December 16th by the Postmaster-General, upon the recommendation of the Committee on Experiment, Research and Design, a sum of one thousand dollars, the maximum permitted by law, and the highest yet to be paid for inventions of labor and money saving devices, for his work in connection with the development of the precanceling stamp device which has previously been described in this column It is estimated that the Government saves an annual amount of $250,000 because of these machines.

Mr. Braden has been connected with the Division of Stamps for a great many years and those who are acquainted with his conscientious work will appreciate that the award is well merited. Had he been in the employ of a private corporation, the amount would be much more.

Another interesting thing in the report of the Postmaster-General is the fact that if postage had been collected on matter, which was privileged to go through the mails free, it is estimated that the revenue would have been in the neighborhood of thirteen million dollars.

In his recommendations he has requested of Congress the privilege of making a charge for a return receipt of registered articles and has asked for authority to fix the fees chargeable for registration of mail matter and for indemnity payable and not to exceed one thousand dollars. As far as I can see, his other recommendations are not of especial interest to the stamp collector.

Proposed Changes in Postage Rates.

Through the courtesy of the Postmaster General, I am favored with a copy of his communication of December 12th, addressed to the Honorable Thomas Sterling of the United States Senate, in regard to post office matters. The Postmaster-General deals at great length with the receipts and expenditures of the department, and brings out in detail the costs of the several classes of mail. After considering these costs, he recommends that the following changes in postal rates and fees be made.

First-Class Matter.

The rates on letters to remain as heretofore, but postals are to be increased from 1c to 1½c.

Second-Class Matter.

No change in rate on reading portion of newspapers or periodicals classified as scientific, agricultural, religious or fraternal when published and mailed by organizations not conducted for profit, or any private stockholder or individual. The present rate on reading portion of newspapers is 1½c per pound. This is not changed. The present rate on reading portions of the periodicals mentioned above as not being conducted for profit is 1¼c per pound, and this is not changed. The rate on the reading portion of all other publications should be increased in accordance with the recommendation from 1½c to 2c a pound.

STANLEY GIBBONS LTD

It is also recommended that the rates on the advertising portion of publications now subject to zone rates be increased 2c per pound in the first three zones, and 1c per pound over the second three, with no changes in the seventh and eighth zones.

Third-Class Matter.

To be changed so as to limit the weight to eight ounces. All matter now in third-class weighing more than eight ounces shall be classified as Parcel Post and increased from 1c for each two ounces to 1½c for each two ounces with certain exceptions.

Fourth-Class Matter.

There are proposed changes approximating 2c per package for all zones, with increases averaging more than 2c in the nearby zones.

Registered Mail.

The present fee of 10c on registered mail to be increased to 15c with an extra charge of 3c for a return receipt. This will mean a charge of 20c in the case of registering a local letter where a receipt is desired. At the present time we are paying the highest registration fee of any country on earth, and at the last meeting of the Universal Postal Union, the American delegates had to secure special permission to even charge 10c, for the maximum rate in accordance with the prevailing Union understanding is 8c.

Special Delivery.

The present fee of 10c applies to all matter regardless of weight. The department recommends a proposed fee of 15c for mail matter weighing in excess of two pounds and 20c for mail matter in excess of ten pounds.

This data is now before Congress and it is a question as to whether they will act upon it in the short session ending March 4th.

U. S. Carriers.

In this column for November 17th I had the date of the Franklin and Eagle Carriers transposed, the Franklin Carrier having been issued on September 29, 1851, and the Eagle Carrier on November 17th of the same year. Mr. B. K. Miller kindly calls my attention to the discrepancy.

15c 1869 Inverted Center.

Mr. Eric H. Kling kindly advises me that he has located in Sweden and has since sold a copy of the 15c 1869, with inverted center on the entire cover. This stamp is used in connection with two other values and the cover was addressed to Sweden.

1916, 1c Postage Due Unwatermarked.

I recently advised in one of our numbers that I had never had the pleasure of seeing an unused copy of the 1c Postage Due, perforated 10, on unwatermarked paper, and that I was beginning to doubt its existence in other than single used copies. Mr. Joseph Wood kindly sends for my inspection a left plate strip of three of this variety from star plate No. 5541. It is in the light shade peculiar to the 2c denomination of the same series, and I must say that Mr. Wood is fortunate in obtaining such a piece.

BULGARIA.—We have received from Mr. A. W. Dunning the following new surcharges of Bulgaria: On the 20s and 5s, postage due stamps of the 1919-22 issue, "10s" and "20s" respectively, in black. The 5s green of the 1919 issue has been overprinted for use of 1L, in blue. The 50s of the 1922-23 series has been surcharged for use of the 3L, in red. Also the 1L carmine of the 1921 set has been overprinted for use as the 6L, in black.

CAMEROONS.—Mr. E. A. Bauer sends us a copy of a letter received by him from a correspondent regarding the surcharges on the 2fr and 5fr which reads as follows: "There were 65.000 of the surcharges printed but only a few hundred sent to the colony, not enough for two each for every white man in the colony. The postmaster in Donala has these but by order of the governor will not issue them until he tries to straighten out the matter. The whole number, 65,000 (with the exception of the few hundred) were sold at the Paris General Post Office to stamp dealers.

CANADA.—Mr. E. L. Taylor under date of the 12th inst. advises that the 7c stamp in the new color will be issued in the course of a day or so. Mr. Taylor also adds that the foreign postage rate will be lowered from ten cents to eight cents about the middle of 1925 and that the new 8c stamp will make a very handsome addition to the present issue of Canadian stamps.

EGYPT.—Mr. M. H. Abela sends us a cutting foreshadowing the issue of a special stamp to commemorate the International Geographical Congress to be held in Cairo next April. He also tells us that the 4 mil. stamp, in the current portrait type, is unobtainable in Port Said, the Independence stamp of this value being on sale. There are rumours that the colour of this value is to be changed. Automatic machines are to be installed in Cairo for the sale of 5 and 10 mil. stamps. We do not know whether this will give rise to any special method of perforating the stamps. Probably not.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

FRANCE.—Dr. F. P. Renaut sends us details of the 20c stamp (Sower) printed by a new and cheaper process, which gives the stamps a rather blurred appearance. The sheets are of 100 stamps only, in two panes of 50 (5x10), the upper and lower borders being filled by solid blocks of colour running diagonally. All the Pasteur stamps are printed by the new process, and the 10c, green, Sower. New plates are used for this printing of the 20c, the chief differences being the peculiar shape of the "S" in the inscriptions (this letter having a very small top), a white line inside the lower curve of the figure "0" and an extra white line to the lower frame just below the feet of the Sower. The 3c on "G.C." paper, the last of the war-time printings, has now disappeared, and the latest 3c is in a bright orange shade.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

LEBANON.—Mr. G. N. Taylor in noting the appearance of the new surcharged French stamps being used in this country calls to our attention that there is some difference in the type of surcharge. He forwards a pair of the 1 piastre on 20c and points to the bottom Arabic value, composed of two characters or groups of characters followed at the left by the numeral "1" or "2". In the case of the 2 piastres on 40c, the native value is composed of three characters or groups of characters with the numeral "2" at left.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. R. J. G. Collins kindly sends us the 1s K.G., perf. 14x14½, in a very pale washed-out shade of red; also the 1d Universal, 1d Map, and 2d K.G., on a rather thick paper. Another correspondent sends us the 1d Universal, Official, in corner blocks, one with smooth paper and yellow gum, and the other with very smooth paper and white gum.

A suggestion has been made that New Zealand should issue a special stamp or set of stamps bearing the portrait of Lord Jellicoe, to commemorate his term of office as Governor-General. We do not think the usual custom of reserving postage stamps for the Royal portrait will be departed from in this instance.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

PALESTINE.—Some comment is being caused locally by the fact that the designs and details of the new pictorial issue for Palestine have been published in a German paper. One wonders whether the stamps for the Holy Land are to be printed in Germany. If so, we think we can promise the authorities sufficient publicity to insure that such a blunder is not made again, but it seems very unlikely that the order has been given to Germany.

The designs described include views of the Tower of David and the town of Tiberias. (Cuttings sent by Mr. M. H. Abela.)—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

SEYCHELLES.—Mr. A. W. Tyrell shows us two distinct shades of the 2c Script, a deep reddish chestnut and green, and a dull, rather more yellowish, chestnut and green.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

URUGUAY.—Newspaper stamps.—Our Buenos Aires correspondent writes:

On the 19th July the new values of 6 and 9 centesimos for newspaper stamps were placed in circulation, for which purpose the Rodo (not Rod's) commemorative stamps of 4 and 5 centesimos were surcharged with the word PRENSA to the left of the portrait of Rodo and 6 cts. and 9 cts. respectively to the right. With the 3 centesimos the set of 3 values is completed. The quantities printed are as follows: 231,000 of 3 centesimos;

ROTNEM STAMP CO., Eastern Branch
204 Craigie Hall, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

190,000 of 6 centesimos; 122,000 of 9 centesimos.

The 2c teru-tero stamp of 1923 promises to be scarce, because most of the stock on hand has been overprinted with the word OFICIAL and it has been replaced by a new issue which is similar in design, but there are numerous differences which will enable the collector to easily classify the two stamps.

The new stamp is smaller, the colour is violet-rose, and it is printed on unwatermarked paper.

Football Commemorative.—It is expected that the Football Commemorative stamps issued on 29th, 30th and 31st July last will be scarce in Europe, because they appealed to the mass of the population, with the result that thousands of people who are not collectors have purchased at least one set as a memento of the occasion, and it is believed that very few, if any, fell into the hands of speculators, who are generally much to the fore when commemoratives are on the tapis.

Lapwing type re-drawn.—The undermentioned values of this series have been received in the reduced size of 17mm x 21-mm, as compared with 18mm x 22mm, which was the size of the original issue: 1 centavo, orange and 2 centavos, mauve. —Philatelic Magazine.

IMA POET.

It is the policy of the WEEKLY to hear both sides of a case. In no other way can justice be done to both parties. So when we received the above effusion imitating and condemning M. T. Dome's poetical attempts we had no alternative but to let him see the communication. The response made by him indicates the fine poise of temperament that he possesses and of course comes in rhyme:—

MY ANSER
By M. T. DOME.

Kind critic, you make it most clear
That to you "M. T.'s" stuff brings no cheer.
So I strongly advise
That you save time and eyes,
Or wear "blinders" should more soon appear.

("The paths of glory lead to many a one-arm lunch", says the poet.)

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

THE HUMAN INTEREST.

Newspapers and newspaper writers have much to say concerning "the human touch." It may not be perfectly described but it can be understood. Occasionally a letter comes to the office that is so warmly appreciative of efforts made to please that it cannot pass unnoticed. O. W. Briggs of Marshfield, Ore., sent Mr. Ward of Philadelphia a letter of appreciation of the special number of the WEEKLY that Mr. Ward edited, and we are taking the liberty of making a quotation from it as follows:—

"A philatelist would not be living up to his standard if he overlooked the splendid issue you gave the WEEKLY of October 27 and failed to put in an appreciative word, and so I am writing you to say it was the most enjoyable issue in many moons.

Romance of stamps, as set out in the article 'A Great Correspondence Rich in Stamps and Autographs' was rather heartbreaking, when we consider there are few chances that there are any such 'Finds' left.

The editorial, 'Organized Philately' to me was very interesting and put me back into the '90's, when I was a stamp buyer, often frequenting the Chicago auction sales on Wabash Avenue, when S. B. Bradt was selling and Severn, Wolsieffer and others gathered there to discuss the theme.

'Postage Stamps As An Investment' was also my idea of the pursuit. There may be those who collect in these days for the mere amusement of collecting, but it is a great stretch of imagination to think so, after having been a collector for 40 years.

I have often seen articles in the WEEKLY about old subscribers, but I have never seen more than one or two references about the Mekeel Daily, which was printed in the '90's. I was living in Illinois when the daily was started and was a subscriber as long as it lasted.

Seven years ago, or probably eight, I was the victim of typhoid fever, and in the convalescence period, having nothing to do, I wrote to have MEKEEL'S sent me, sending my letter to St. Louis. Imagine my surprise to receive an answer from Portland, Maine. You see, I had been out of collecting for 20 years. Since then I have again gathered a respectable accumulation of U. S., and whoever says that collecting is not an investment has several guesses coming.

In closing I want to add that your little commendation of P. M. Wolsieffer was a fine compliment to a most deserving member of the klan. I knew Mr. Wolsieffer very well and one time printed a philatelic magazine for him."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Judging from reports that have reached us the authorities are making inquiry tending to trace any irregularity in the handling or use of precanceled stamps, although no definite information is available on the subject.

—At the annual meeting of the Hackensack Philatelic Society the following officers were elected to serve during 1925: President, W. C. Steiger; Vice-President, H. Gatjen; Secretary, H. F. Christensen, P. O. Box 231, Emerson, N. J.; Treasurer, L. P. Lord; Sales Mgr., H. S. Dunhaupt; Exchange Mgr., E. J. Hauck; Auction Mgr., H. A. Bullard. Meetings of this society are held the second and fourth Fridays of each month at Y. M. C. A., Main and Passaic Streets, Hackensack, N. J. Visitors and nearby collectors are welcome to attend any of our meetings.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN.

New Britain, Conn. — The source of supply for these precanceled stamps is the hardware store. New Britain is surpassed by none in the manufacture of hardware and is known throughout the country as the "Hardware City." The current precancels may be found in two types. Type II which is illustrated in the Perf. 11 section of the catalogue, is a handstamp, reading, usually, up and down. The two cent to twenty, exclusive of the 13, reading up and down, together with the 1 cent engraved and 3 cent surface print in horizontal, inverted, up and down positions comprise the list. The 11 cent value is the best of the lot. Of the electrotype plate precancels, I can list everything from one cent to one dollar, exclusive of the 13, and the perforated 10 Rotary. This plate precanceled only a small quantity of the 2 and 5 cent stamps of the 1917 series, and these items should be better property than any of the rest, yea, even than the one dollar value. The 10, 50, 30, 11 and 9, follow the latter stamp in order of scarcity. The twenty cent denomination has a prolific use, so although the new issue replaced the old stamp some months ago the latter cannot be classed as scarce.

New Haven, Conn. — Inverts were formerly seldom seen but early in 1922 they started coming in volume. As a result they are not worth much of a premium over normals, except in the case of their existence on the 13c and $1.00 values. Brown ink varieties may be found along with the black and are about three times as scarce. The perforated 10x11 Rotary Press issue is a much better item than the perforated 10x10. The type formerly listed by B. as V is a package cancellation used provisionally to precancel and has not a place in the catalogue. Type VI or the U-8 handstamp, will henceforth be Type V. This is chronicled as having appeared on all values from one cent to one dollar except the 3, 11, 12 and 13. The 7 cent and 20 cent are known in the reading up position and the 20 and 50 in the reading down.

New London, Conn.—The U-6 handstamp is current. It has overprinted everything in the regular set from one cent to fifty except the 13. Also the perforated 10 Rotary and 3 cent Surface. Only the lower values fail to come within the "pale" of scarcity.

Norwich, Conn.—Here we have two current types again. The U-1 electrotype plate and a handstamp producing an overprint of medium sized serifed capitals in two lines between bars. Both sets include all denominations from one to fifty cents. Type II (electro) precanceled the three surface prints and Type III only the three cent, which is probably as common a Norwich variety as any. Few inverts occur in this type, only the five cent being recorded, and to my knowledge there have been none in Type II.

Oakville, Conn.—Generally rather illegible, as the ink is of poor grade. Handstamped in capitals about the size of U-4, between bars, the 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 15, 20 and 30 is the sum total on record as having been used. Who has unlisted values or any inverts?

Putnam, Conn. — A neat handstamped type of capitals and lower case letters between bars, similar to U-9, has precanceled for many years. The perforated 11 varieties to list are: one to ten cents, fifteen and twenty. The 11 and 12 and possibly the 13 may have been used but they have not been reported up to this time.

Southington, Conn.—Universal Type 3 (electrotype plate) is the one and only device to have produced regular precanceled stamps for this office. It occurs on the perforated 10 issue as well as the perforated 11's but as it is primarily the latter stamps which we are considering, in this series of articles, we shall confine our attention to them. One to thirty cents, exclusive of the 13, and the 7 and 12 inverted are listed varieties. Nearly all the Southingtons reaching my hands have been "ventilated" with the initials P. E. X. L. O., so don't discard them if you have an aversion to the little holes in your stamps, for that is the general condition in which they reach the outside world.

South Manchester, Conn.—As yet there has been only the one type, which Bushnell calls U-17. Inverts are nearly as plentiful as the normals and command but a slight premium. The 4, 7 and 50 have been listed in the inverted position but the remainder of the set exclusive of the 11 and 13 have been seen both normal and inverted. Lately the overprints have been coming in purple ink, which improves their appearance somewhat. As they are produced from an electrotype plate the ink varieties are worthy of being classed as distinct variations.

South Norwalk, Conn.—A similarity of the type used by So. Manchester may be found on the handstamped productions of this office. Our list shows the 1 to 20 cents engraved, except the 3 and 13 cent values, and the 3 cent Surface as having been reported. All normal and also a twelve cent inverted.

Stafford Springs, Conn. — The three line U-19 handstamped precancels of this city are scarce items. None to speak of reach this section of the country. Their prevalence may be traced exclusively to the holiday season, 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 15, 20 and 3 cent Surface have been shown us and if further varieties exist we shall appreciate their being called to our attention for inclusion in the forthcoming catalogue.

Stamford, Conn.—What others beside the 9 cent exist in the handstamped type, similar to U-22? Our records can be added to, I'm certain, for that is the only variety of the 1917 set to be found recorded. This is priced at 40 cents, as it is a scarce "baby."

Thomaston, Conn. — In two lines of solid capitals between bars is the handstamped cancellation employed by this recent addition to the precancel fraternity. They are in use throughout the year but not to a large extent, for one seldom chances upon them. The 1, 2, 4, 4 inverted, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 15, 20 and 3 cent Surface Print have come to hand during the past six months.

Torrington, Conn.—Before speaking of the regular precancels issued by this city, I wish to mention those listed by Bushnell under Type IV. These are a result of the provisional employment of a double line package roller, when the stock of the electrotype plate printed precancels is temporarily exhausted. They shall be omitted henceforth.

The "electros" can be found in both normal and inverted positions on all denominations up to one dollar, also on the 1 and 3 cent Surface Prints, and perforated 10 Rotary. I have never seen the 2, 3 (engraved), 8, 11, 30 and one dollar, with the inverted overprints but believe they exist. The 3 cent Surface Print is about twice as common in this position as in the normal. It might be well to note that the 1 cent Surface is easily worth three times Bushnell's catalogue figures, if comparative scarcity with the other denominations is considered. Collectors who are looking for a good value to specialize should start chasing this gray green stamp, as its true scarcity is hardly yet realized. Five years hence, a collection of these items is going to be a desirable possession, from a financial view point.—Precancel Gazette.

Happy New Year To All Who Read This Paper!

WHO IS INTERESTED IN A FINE COLLECTION OF 1847 ISSUE?

I am going to sell my fine private collection of this popular pair of stamps. I have 115 copies of the ten cent, about a third of lot on original covers, including one pair, rest off covers, including one pair and perhaps a dozen unused copies; rest are fine lot of shades, cancellations, etc.

This lot I have been 7 years accumulating, and it is a nice bunch for plating, as it is unpicked as far as plating goes. I will not break lot. price for 115 copies, is $40.00.00. This lot will not be broken.

In 5c of this issue I have 265 selected copies, about ⅓ of lot on original covers, including many pairs. In singles I have wonderful bunch of shades, and many pairs, and many rare cancellations. The price for the 5c is same as for lot 10c, $100.00. This lot will not be broken.

Anyone desiring more information, or wishing to see lot or lots, please communicate with me at once.

I feel either lot is a good buy to hold for rise.

I have many ordinary copies of both 5c and 10c in my regular stock I will price and send on approval.

I am also breaking up my private collection of used and unused U. S. from 1851 to 1873; many wonderful copies in this lot, including many rare cancellations, also strips, blocks, pairs, shades, covers, etc., etc. A chance to add some fine things to your album. Write me what you are interested in. Address, [75

OVERLAND MAIL SERVICE.

(From United States Official Postal Guide, November, 1924.)

The recent establishment of daily transcontinental air mail service connecting the Atlantic and Pacific coasts on a 34-hour schedule presents a marked contrast to a similar feat some 66 years ago when the overland mail was placed in operation between San Francisco and St. Louis.

The first stage, ran after a year's work of mapping and road building, left San Francisco at ten minutes past midnight of September 14, 1858, and arrived at the terminus of the Pacific Railroad at Tipton, Mo., at 9.05 a. m., October 9, where the mail was placed on a train, reaching St. Louis at 8.45 p. m. the same day. The time consumed by the journey was 24 days 18 hours 26 minutes (allowing for the difference in time between the two points), a far cry from the 34-hour air mail service which crosses the Mississippi River and goes on to New York City in that length of time.

On September 16, 1857, Postmaster-General Aaron V. Brown signed a six-year contract bi-weekly service between St. Louis, Mo., Memphis, Tenn., and San Francisco, at an annual cost of $600,000. The contract called for "good four-horse post coaches or spring wagons suitable for the conveyance of passengers" and prescribed a limit of 25 days for each trip each way.

The contract was entered into with John Butterfield, of Utica, N. Y., William B. Dinsman, of New York City; William G. Fargo, of Buffalo, N. Y.; James V. P. Gardner, of Utica, N. Y.; Marcus L. Kinyon, of Rome, N. Y.; Alexander Holland, of New York City; Hamilton Spencer, of Bloomington, Ill.; Danford A. Barney, of New York City; Johnston Livingston, of Livingston, N. Y.; David Moulton, of Floyd, N. Y.; and Elijah P. Williams, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Under the terms of the contract the overland mail was to start from both St. Louis, Missouri, and Memphis, Tenn., the two branches converging at Little Rock, Ark., and continuing westward. A supplementary arrangement, however, permitted the contractors to make the converging point of the two branches at Preston, Tex., instead of Little Rock. From here westward the route called for a crossing of the Rio Grande above El Paso not far from Fort Fillmore, thence over a new road being opened to Fort Yuma, Calif., and on to San Francisco.

The departures and arrivals of the first stages were accompanied with unbounded demonstrations of joy and exultation, Postmaster-General Brown reported to Congress.

[NOTE. The frontispiece of the supplement pictures the overland mail en route.]

McVITTLES GOES TO DETROIT.

By COTTON C. DOYLE.

"Well, old stamp licker me lad, and how are you, and when did you get back from wherever you've been, and where was that," asked Casey all in one breath as he entered McVittles emporium one scorching day late in August, 1924.

McVittles sighed wearily as looking up from a bunch of letters on his counter he grasped his friend's hand and shook it cordially.

"If you'll wait till I deposit three more of these not so very important communications in the waste basket where they most rightfully belong and where they're goin' whether they belong there or not Casey," replied McVittles, "I'll answer the whole mouthful of questions you're shootin' at me."

"But I just want to call your immejit attintion to the large and increasin' number of brainy boys—many of whom will never see their forty-second birthday agin—who delight in bombardin' myself and other good lads temporarily sentenced to the stamp business f'r life or good behavior with want lists consistin' only of stamps that will be rated at least forty per cint higher in the catalog that is soon to appear—and that may be the truth—than they are in the present but soon to be obsolete edition of the same matchless book. Every last one of them lads is willin' and anxious to take advantage of the gray hairs and failin' eyesight he thinks I am afflicted with and hopes to smooch a good laugh and a rare bargain out of my stock before some kindhearted friend tells me there will be a new catalog between now and 1930 and that some of the prices in it will be different from those I have spent many a weary hour learnin' by heart,"

"Oh, ho," said Casey, "so that's what's in the pile of letters you've been groanin' at—do them lads ever have as much luck as they go fishin' for?"

"I think not," answered McVittles, "and if you mean here, I'd bet money or even good old U. S. against them. Their letters all read as innocent as if mamma's darlin' ittle snookie ookums had written them all by his ittle selfums, but never a one of them do I answer."

"You are wise," said Casey, "but a poor business man, even for a stamp dealer."

"That may be," replied McVittles, "so I'll change the subject and tell you why the place here has been closed up and the bell discontinued ever since Saturday the ninth day of August. You needn't keep it a secret unless you want to but I have broken a life long habit and commenced on another one. As the poet says, 'man is a creature of habits' and most of them aren't worth the trouble we take to prevent them from gettin' away from us. I have been to the 39th Annual Convention of the Stamp Collectors Society, Casey, and believe it or not, but at this very minute I hope to live long enough to attend 39 more conventions, as good or better. I don't know what I missed in staying away from the first 38 conventions, so I shan't worry about it, but henceforth and until I have made the big find all philatelic lads hope to make I shall devote my entire worryin' to the problem of carfare and other expenses necessary to attendin' stamp conventions.

"It was a grand idea I had, Casey to look in at the convention and take a couple of nice boat rides for a vacation at the same time. I went up to Niagara Falls and noted with pleasure that Lake Erie was full of nice green water as usual and that the Falls had not stopped performin' but were doin' business to a large and appreciative audience at the same old stand in the same old way. I didn't see any whales leapin' the Falls either up or down, and just between us Casey, when Ben Franklin wrote that whale story I have no doubt he was doin' a bit of press agentin' to boost the business of entertainin' European tourists—English preferred."

"Sunday evenin' August tenth, found me at the wharf in Buffalo ready to board the steamer for Detroit and wonderin' if it was goin' to be a lonesome ride so far from the bandstand at Strawberry Mansion, back in the park at home. Would you believe it Casey, but a whole bunch of other lads had also conceived the brilliant idea of a Lake Erie boat ride to Detroit and there at the whar like a reception committee to meet m was a jolly crowd, all headed for th stamp convention. Not one of them ha any kind of a chance to get lonesome."

"One lad from Boston had a pocke full of red stamps with green cancella tions and green stamps with pink car cellations and many other rare and cur ous combinations which crafty dealer had unloaded on him at wholesale rate a few years ago when a stamp was stamp and a cancellation was somethin to apologize for like a scandal in th family and the less said about it the bet ter. If I could have persuaded that la to part with what he had at five time what he paid for them the deal woul have paid me better than the best fin that ever I made. But it was no use Never a one would he sell. They're bor hard-boiled those Yankees are, Casey, an anyone who tries to stick them will d well to practise a bit beforehand hatchin chickens out of hard-boiled eggs."

"The convention gave me the warmes kind of a warm welcome. They wrot my name in a book and pinned a beauti ful badge on me with a real stamp on i and tried to make me feel as if someon had just left me the hotel in his will With some conventions you have to ge yourself elected a delegate Casey o there's nothin' doin' but in the stamp con vention you elect yourself to go or sta away and even if you don't belong to th society you can get in if you haven't sol too many Hawaiian Missionaries printe on paper that was made fifteen or twenty years after the stamps. I suppose the have to draw the line somewhere."

"What most impressed you at the con vention," interrupted Casey.

"I don't know," replied McVittles "several things. The most noticeable wa the number of heads that were bald o well on their way there, and the gray o grayer heads of other lads engaged i what so much of the world outside phi lately persists in regardin' as a youthfu pastime to be outgrown like marbles an measles. If the rest of the world knew how much of the enthusiasm and joy o its own youth could be renewed through stamp collectin' I doubt if all the hotels in Detroit could hold more than a tin fraction of the next convention."

"Another thing that seemed almos marvelous to me Casey was this: th convention was the 39th held by this same society of stamp collectors. There ar many conventions held in that hotel i Detroit every year, and in other hotels i other cities. I wonder if as many as ten per cint of the different societies an organizations have reached their 39th year of continuous progress. Yes Casey 'tis indeed marvelous the hold that stamp collectin' has on people, and the kind o people it attracts and holds. Our society is gettin' venerable. It is only twenty years younger than the G. A. R."

"A convention is a good thing. Some collectors—and dealers too—take along a bunch of more or less high grade stamps and buy and sell and swap and dicker and, if they're clever or lucky, maybe make enough to pay their hotel trips Others bring along a big stock of A No 1 good cheer and friendliness and have a

OUR CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

By WILL O. W. (1880-1890).

Out of compliment to the A. P. S. and in acknowledgment of the popular fancy we present our readers this week with a crossword puzzle. We shall be very glad to receive solutions and will publish the names of those who succeed in solving it. The range of philatelic terms was not sufficiently broad to enable us to make it a strictly philatelic puzzle. No doubt some of our readers may favor us with one.

If there be any who are unacquainted with the method of solving this kind of puzzle we might say that black squares on horizontal and vertical lines mark the beginning and ending of words. The numbers given are used in the definitions listed below:—

Horizontal.

1. A term used in the print shop.
5. An indefinite article.
6. A pronoun.
7. A fairy.
9. A minute organism.
13. Well then.
14. A French article.
15. Destitute of merit.

Vertical.

1. A measure of time.
2. A kind of fish.
3. Tenseness.
4. Inert.
8. Across.
9. A person.
10. Indebted to.
11. A Latin diphthong.
12. Abb. for Deputy Lieutenant.

grand and glorious time meeting old friends and makin' new ones. They all go home strengthened in the faith and more firmly convinced than ever before that theirs is the best indoor sport in the world. And the beauty of it is, they're right."

"There's my old friend Ban Harmon, f'r instance. Ban's goin' to make a real prize-winnin' stamp collection one of these days—has been goin' to get started at it ever since I've known him, and that's a good many years. Why, if Ban didn't go to the convention every year or so he'd get discouraged and give up all idea of makin' a collection and a lad who has put his shoulder to the wheel a good many times to help philately over the hard places would be lost to us and we'd have to scratch around and hunt up some other lad with the right kind of brains and pluck to take his place."

"And there's Bill Ring who lives way off, somewhere in a town of 5,000 people and the other 4,999 all think there's something not quite right about Bill because he likes to fuss with old cancelled stamps. Bill comes to the convention and meets a lot of other lads, some of whom have bank accounts that Bill's banker would take off his hat to without waitin' for an introduction, and they talk about things that Bill likes to talk about, and he understands their lingo and they understand his, and Bill goes back home with a flat pocketbook and a bunch of stamps and pities the other 4,999 folks in his town because they're missing a lot of good clean fun they could have if they didn't harbor such queer ideas about stamp collectin'. Bill's right, and meetin' the other lads at the convention proves it to him.

"If the Bans and Bills didn't come there wouldn't be any stamp convention and if there wasn't any convention pretty soon too many Bans and Bills would be strugglin' along in the cold cheerless world outside philately."

"Yes, Casey, I went down to—Bob Lo on the boat with the other lads, and attended some of the business meetin's and helped elect 'P. M.' president of the society for the next year and he's a competitor, and I wish I had more like him, and I had a nice time and didn't hurry home, and Charley Severn made me promise to write a piece for his paper, and if you'll slide the gaboon down this way so I won't have to lean over quite so far, and will busy yourself huntin' through this box of 3c greens f'r a block of 7c Stanton's I've mislaid I'll try to make Charley wish he hadn't got that promise out of me."

Casey started to do as he was told but before McVittles could find paper and pencil, remarked, "where is the convention goin' to be next year I might like to go myself."

"Why don't you", answered McVittles. "There was a lot of talk for Boston and some f'r St. Louis, but neither of them got it. Reminded me it did of the last election over in the 19th ward. The crowd that made the most noise got the fewest votes. The California boys had a big bunch of votes all sewed up in advance—they didn't need to shout."

"Well," said Casey, "the votes are what count."

"Yes," replied McVittles, "that's why I'm savin' up to go to Los Angeles next year."

ESSAYS of the old CLASSICAL STAMPS of the EARLY ISSUES of SPAIN up to the so called DON CARLOS STAMPS which are included

WE ARE KEEPING OF THE SAME

The Finest Collection Existing in the World

The said ESSAYS, which I could acquire only by chance, belonged to Mr. Moens, the oldest stamp dealer of the world, who no doubt may be considered as the symbole of the philately.

There are many ESSAYS which are lacking in the biggest specialised collections, some items are quite unique. Many in different colours and designs which are unknown since they were not adopted at the time. There are essays in lithography, engraving, typography, copper-print, embossed — printing, etc., misprints in most interesting executions. Further, the early stamps of the Deputy Chamber and the Senate, things of Andalusia, etc.

The Colonies are also represented profusely. — The forgeries are especially interesting, more particularly those of the classical issues which were made with a view only to do prejudice to the Postal administration. There are many used items, some were produced in a very sly way. In most cases the Postal administration did not notice the forgeries.

As we have stated already, the collection contains many unique pieces of which there exist but one or two copies altogether. Remarkable among the unknown proofs are the marvelous designs and colours, the fiscal, police and commercial stamps in all possible colours, including essays of the latter. The collection is of the highest interest and of an inestimable value. It contains, moreover, scarce telegraph stamps, as well as essays of the same Brief. You are offered here a unique collection really fit for purposes, containing hundreds and hundreds of different kinds. A specialist in Spanish stamps cannot do without such a collection; he must have it.

I am ready to send the collection out for examination upon request against postage should it not be possible to come to business.

Perhaps it would be possible for me to retail in the case of a considerable purchase.

SPECIALISTS, don't miss this opportunity which will not occur again by asking us at once for particulars.

THE RAREST GEORGIANS.

For the purpose of this article I shall ignore the temporary War Stamps, such as War Tax, and Occupation Issues on ex-enemy stamps.

As I consider that the main test of rarity is value, there is no need for me to exclude errors or minor varieties. There are, however, some stamps to which this test cannot properly be applied, such as those containing a very large amount of face value. As far as any ordinary person is concerned a stamp of which, say, ten copies exist, but which no one wants, is not so rare as one of which a hundred copies exist and for which there is a very keen demand. Allowance has to be made for such cases.

I do not propose to tell you which is the rarest Georgian stamp, because in my opinion there are three with almost equal claims to this honor. These are:—Newfoundland, 3c, Hawker; Nauru, 10s, Waterlow; and Jamaica, 1s, centre inverted. Of these three the first is most frequently met with, and there are more copies of it in existence; but, on the other hand, it has great historical interest, and is in keen demand by collectors of Air-Post stamps as well as collectors of Colonials. The second is far rarer in point of numbers, but its value is detracted from by the fact that there is another printing of the same stamp which is quite common. Of the third, very few copies exist, and its real value has hardly been tested, but the fact that it is an error tends to reduce its market value.

This group is followed at a respectful distance by a group of five:—East Africa, 50r, Script; Nauru, 2s6d, sepia, De La Rue; Togo, 1s, emerald; Malta, 10s, Multiple CA; and Nauru, 5s, Waterlow. I have put them in this order because I think that this is the order in which they should come, as in my opinion the Malta 10s has been unduly speculated in—hence its high price—while the Togo 1s, emerald, owing doubtless to the fact that at one time it was considered doubtful if it was ever issued, has not received the attention which it deserves. The others call for no comment.

In addition to the above there are several other stamps whose value is not yet established, and it may well be that before very long they will be entitled to be included in the above groups. To mention a few of these:—

Rhodesian perforation varieties (there are about six rarities among these); Morocco, 6p on 5s, pale rose; Bechuanaland, 5s, De La Rue; Mauritius, 10r, experimental; Nigeria, 10s, experimental; Malay-Borneo on Straits Settlements, $5; Malay-Borneo on Trengganu, $5; and some of the Malay-Borneo errors.

In conclusion, I would like to say just one word of encouragement to the collector of Georgian Colonials. In my opinion these stamps have not yet received the attention that they deserve and that they will ultimately get, and when that time comes, and I do not think it can be far off now, the genuine collector of these issues will have no cause to regret his choice—from a financial point of view, at any rate.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

THE MONTH'S BEST EDITORIAL.

Until late years it was never hinted by Government officials, even of the smaller British Colonies or Central American Republics, that stamps were ever issued for any other purpose than the convenience of the public and the working of the postal services. The idea that all new issues were forced by circumstances beyond the control of the Government concerned was sedulously fostered. Commemorative issues were supposed to be uncontrollable expressions of spontaneous joy or gratitude on the anniversary of some great national event, such as the murder of a President or laying the foundation stone of the local Cinema. We were supposed to visualise the patriotic pride with which the inhabitants plastered the overgrown labels commemorating these inspiring events on their correspondence. When philatelists hinted that the issues were made primarily for the purpose of increasing the internal revenue at the expense of stamp collectors, the correct official attitude was one of pained surprise. There was an unwritten law that government officials should never admit a fact that was patent to everybody.

It was left to Mr. H. H. Cummings, the Commissioner for Grand Cayman, to break away from all precedent, at a meeting of the Justices and Vestry of the Cayman Islands, held for the purpose of voting estimates for the ensuing year. This was on September 19, 1919, and we are indebted to the Philatelic Magazine for the following particulars: Mr. Cummings pointed out that the stock of stamps then on hand was of the total face value of 16,000 pounds. He thought this was too much, considering that "one-fifth would be ample, and much more likely, by regular small replenishings, involving minor varieties, to influence sales in the early future, and thus render this source of revenue more dependable. With such an immense stock on hand, it is difficult to offer anything new or attractive, for it is only new issues or varieties that command any considerable sale." Possibly Mr. Cummings was new to his job, and had not been supplied with a book of rules, but collectors should be thankful to him for his ingenuous explanation of the primary uses of Cayman Island "postage" stamps. — Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

PHILATELIC EFFICIENCY.

By CHARLES SIDNEY THOMPSON, A.B., A.M., F.S.M.

We often hear people remark that philately is a science, when they intend to convey the idea that it is a study. Keen students of philately continually use scientific methods in making their studies and investigations, but these methods are not learned from the study of philately. They are the result of work in chemistry, optics, mathematics, and other branches of human knowledge which ARE sciences.

All of these subjects have terminologies, nomenclatures, and formularies peculiar to each, constructed and arranged to serve certain definite ends, the most important of which is the conservation of time. Chemistry is most conspicuous in this respect, with its system of elementary symbols, and formulae indicating atomic, molecular, and compound structure, and the reactions taking place between them.

Some such a system should be applied to philately, for reasons which will become apparent on examination. The first application of a system of this kind should be to the names of countries. Every collector should become familiar with a set of symbols indicating all countries in exactly the same way that a chemist knows that H means an atom of Hydrogen, or NaCl a molecule of common salt. We have this idea in embryo with abbreviations like U. S. and B. C., but these are just as cumbrous as the archaic symbols utilized in the chemistry of seventy-five years ago; crude attempts at symbolization which are no more like the present elegantly simple system than a stone knife is like a razor.

With the continually increasing bulk of catalogs, and the consequent increase in price, it becomes evident that some such economy of space is imperative. It particularly applies to price lists, where a very large per cent of the printed page is occupied by mere names. It concerns advertising with even more force, because the high cost of advertising space is one of the prime causes of expensive philately. MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS is printed with slugs which are two and one-fourth inches, or thirteen "ems" long: advertisements are printed in six-point type, which means that there are twelve of these lines in an inch of the column. Advertising cost is based on the space occupied, and when we find that "Cape of Good Hope" in the type used in this journal occupies exactly one inch, or six ems of length in a line, we can readily appreciate that space, and consequently money, could be saved by a symbol for Cape of Good Hope, for example, Cgh.

If we consider all the countries whose names commence with C, we would have the following table:

Cameroons	= Cm	Cilicia	= Cc
Canada	= Cd	Colombian Republic	= Co
Canal Zone	= Cz	Congo	= Cg
Cape of Good Hope	= Cgh	Cook Ids.	= Ci
Cape Verde	= Cv	Corea	= K
Carinthia	= Ca	Corfu	= Cf
Carolines	= Cs	Costa Rica	= Cr
Castellorizo	= Ct	Crete	= Kr
Caymans	= Cy	Cuba	= Cb
Central Lithuania	= Cl	Curacao	= Cu
Ceylon	= Ce	Cyprus	= Cp
Chile	= Ch	Cyrenaica	= Ka
China	= Cn	Czecho	= Ck

I have purposely selected "C" for this demonstration, as it is a difficult list to formulate, owing to the large number of short names, many of which are composed largely of vowels, while over one-third commence with "Ca." It will be noticed that three of the symbols proposed begin with "K" instead of "C", following the chemical precedent of using a Greek initial for a Greek name. Crete is properly "KPHTH" hence "Kr." Cyrenaica is properly "Kyrenaica" hence "Ka." Corea is hardly Greek, but "Korea" is more correct, as the name of the country is Cho-Sen, and "ch" should be transliterated by "k."

If we consider the names beginning with "A" we have

Abyssinia	= Ay	Annam and Tonkin	= Ao
Afghanistan	= Af	Antigua	= At
Aguera	= Ag	Argentine	= Ar
Aitutaki	= Ai	Armenia	= Am
Albania	= Al	Asencion	= As
Allenstein	= As	Australia	= Ac
Angola	= An	Austria	= Au
Angra	= Aa	Azerbaijan	= Ab
Anjouan	= Aj	Azores	= Az

In like manner we might go through the entire category of names, indicating the departments or states of a country, like the Colombian Republic or the foreign offices of a country, such as Austria, by a combination of symbols, exactly as in the case of a chemical compound. For instance, CoBy would indicate Boyaca: AuKr would signify Austrian Offices in Crete.

The argument will be advanced that learning all these symbols would take too much time, and require too much work, to which it may be answered that if philately is ever going to be anything except a mere hobby, on which to while away an idle hour without mental effort, well and good. But if we are going to have any real progress, or any actual attainment, we require actual effort, and real work, the same as in any other study which may be dignified with the name of science. Stamp collectors are essentially lazy. This is no slander—it is a fact. No further evidence is required than that afforded by current philatelic publica-

MATCH AND MEDICINE

With the New Year, I am suggesting something old—those hundreds of designs of private revenues used on boxes of matches and bottles of medicine between 1864 and 1883 to pay Civil War Taxes to the government.

Match and Medicine stamps have been one of my lines as a U. S. Specialist for years and I believe I am about the only dealer who pretends to handle the line regularly.

I claim to have the largest stock in the country, to which I have recently added two nice collections, which I am now breaking up.

I solicit want-lists or I have general selections ready to send out. With either, I require reference—the names of your bank and two stamp dealers preferred. [75 tions: the writing for a collecting public of certainly one hundred thousand is done by a mere handful of public-spirited men and women, probably not over forty in number, fifty at most. An examination of the journals of past years discloses a similar condition of affairs: stamp progress has been made by the comparatively few; the great mass of collectors has been content to muddle along, and potter. It is certainly time that collectors became acquainted with more than one book in addition to the album in which they mount their stamps, but it would be an improvement, nevertheless, if they really did become sufficiently well acquainted with the catalog to know its contents!

That catalog becomes bulkier year by year, the price increases proportionately. Many of us can remember when the catalog cost a fraction of a dollar, and could be carried comfortably in a pocket. But in order to help the catalog, something more than the abbreviation of country names is needed. This something is another type of formula which shall express the color in which a stamp is printed. Here we are not compelled to invent our symbols, as they have already been devised and are in constant use by those who handle colors. R always means red, and V always means violet, while combinations of the six or seven capital letters used to indicate the primary colors will express the secondary combinations. Thus, RO=red-orange, YG=yellow-green, BV=blue-violet. If more orange is present, we may have ORO, indicating orange red-orange, or if there is an extra amount of green, we may have GYG, meaning green yellow-green. The formulation of color symbols, even for such things as the complex shades indicated by some stamp names, offers no difficulty whatever: the publishers of the catalog have made one step in this direction, and only one, when they indicate a stamp is printed in black by printing the color of the paper in italics. Beyond this they have not gone, nor can they go, in the present state of philatelic apathy which resents any innovation tending to produce efficiency and conserve space if it requires the expenditure of a moiety of mental effort.

The "Standard" catalog is printed from 10-em slugs, but there is no reason why it should not be produced from 7-em slugs, which would allow three columns to the page, instead of two, as at present, and this could easily be done if formulas were used to express the colors, and a slight amount of condensation were effected. The result would be a book with a thousand pages instead of fifteen hundred. It would mean a vast saving to the publishers in paper, typography, and packing charges, and a commensurate saving to the public in cost of the book, carriage, and ease of handling. Gibbons' catalog is printed from 12-em slugs, and in this case it would be possible to produce both parts of that excellent book in the space now occupied by one. Considering the cost, we find it to be almost exactly in accordance with the length of the printer's slugs: the shorter the slug, the more economy, and the lower-priced the book.

Such changes, however, cannot come until collectors are willing to take sufficient mental exercise in their hobby to enable them to use a book scientifically constructed, but it is inevitable that such an improvement in catalogs must take place. Otherwise the size of such books will become unwieldy, and the cost prohibitive.

If we apply the proposed improvements to advertising, we find that the advertiser will save much valuable space, and the slight increase in the cost of "split" columns will be saved many times on account of the vastly-increased display facilities.

At present an advertisement in this journal has lines whose length is 13 ems. Reduction of these lines to six ems has been resorted to occasionally by advertisers, and there is no particular reason why collectors should not be willing to cooperate with dealer and publisher sufficiently so that all advertisers should use formular advertising. This would enable them to offer more goods, as well as reduce advertising overhead. As an example, take a front-page from a recent number of M. W. S. N.

"Cape of Good Hope, 1853, 1d red on blued, square pair, unused, o. g. ....125.00"

As will be seen from the set-up on this page, this requires almost two lines, or say 26 ems of composition. It could well be abbreviated to which is a line about 8 ems long. The advertiser does not venture to use such efficient methods, because he knows his public will not understand them. In addition, he knows that even if it did, most members of that public would be too apathetic to read the advertisement understandingly, on account of the mental effort required. So he uses three times the space, words of one syllable, and gets results. It may be argued, of course, that a few ems more or less make little difference with high-priced items of this sort. But what are we to say of the smaller dealer who offers low-priced material? He must sell a large amount of goods before his advertising is paid for, and his public must pay the bill. If he were able to reduce this single item of overhead, he might offer many more items in the same space, receive larger orders from his prospective customers, and save much time in answering queries regarding stamps which he could not offer under present circumstances, but could list under a system of abbreviated names, colors, and other essentials.

A system of this kind would not result in advertising being cut down—rather it would cause it to double or triple. It is a sad commentary on our American methods and philatelic enthusiasm that European papers, which in most cases present few articles of any kind, and practically none of real value, are superloaded with advertising to the extent of sixty or seventy pages as large as those of this journal, which contains sixteen pages of text and advertising on the average, and publishes some of the most valuable philatelic articles produced.

The principal reason is that it costs a large amount of money to produce a high-class journal, vastly more than the nominal subscription price, and this deficit must, perforce, be borne by advertising. How much more easily and efficiently this could be done, then, if the philatelic public were educated to the point where it could read an advertisement written in a code scientifically constructed, without getting apoplexy, motor ataxia, or hemiplegia!

Books are the tools of the brain, and philatelists are alleged to have brains, whether they have the books or not! At any rate, any man of brains, who is a collector, should realize that he should acquire something in the way of a philatelic library beyond a catalog and perhaps a postal guide or an almanac! When we become more educated philatelically, we shall perhaps have an international commission of symbols and formulas, and these men will determine the shape our abbreviations shall take.

This will be the most important step ever taken to fundamentalize philately, and the writer of this article hopes that he may live to see it done.

WANTED--U. S. STAMPS

We want to buy in quantity all U. S. stamps, both common and good, except about ten of the extremely common 1c and 2c stamps.

We need especially the COMMEMORATIVE ISSUES, and the LATEST (1923) SERIES, values from 9c up, the HUGUENOT set, and also precancels.

Save up your U. S. stamps and send us a list of them, with your best price for each item and for the lot—or if you cannot name a price, send lot for inspection and we will make an offer.

We also wish to buy U. S. Revenues, both 19th and 20th century, especially Proprietary, Wine, and Playing Card issues, also 1917 documentary.

We will buy any quantity, large or small, if price is right — the better the stamps, the better the price.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Earliest date of use of the 5c 1857, Type I, red brown is named as Apr. 13, 1858. Mr. S. P. Hessel reports having a cover bearing strip of three of these from New Orleans to Paris dated Feb. 22, 1858, also another from New York City, to Paris, dated Mar. 3, 1858.

1c National without grill, a curiosity. Mr. E. N. Costales sends a most unusual item, the entire stamp being crossed by lines about 1mm apart, running almost horizontally, and in about the same shade as the stamp itself, the copy having common black cut cork cancellation. These lines are of partially broken appearance, and are undoubtedly engraved, possibly to deface the plate. Has anyone ever had any such items in this issue?

12c National ungrilled. Mr. Costales has also included a fine plate variety on this 12c stamp, the same variety having been shown me by Mr. Hammatt, making in all four copies known to me. It is a colored dot of generous proportion directly below the "O" of "Postage" at the top of the white ellipse surrounding the medallion. It is so large that a portion of the "U. S. Postage" tablet has been cut away to allow this dot to stand out prominently, and it may be readily seen without a glass. This is so neatly made, and so centrally placed as to appear intentionally made. You may have such a copy in your collection.

3c green American prints. Mr. G. A. Jackson has sent in the most perfect cancellation on any 3c green I ever saw. It is "Putnam, Conn Sep 27 1879" in a 30mm double ring circle on bit of the cover, the two rings being not over a ½mm apart, the outer being double the thickness of the inner ring. About 3mm from this ring, or postmark, is the obliterator—a 17mm ring—containing the letters "U. S." in tall thin type, this falling partly on the stamp, partly on the cover. A printer sending a proof to a customer could not have been more careful with the work, and it is very beautiful in royal purple. Along with this piece is another bit of cover posted with similar double ring pmk. 32mm across "Canton, Ga. R. H. Daniel, P. M. Jul 2 1879", while over the stamp falls the 5 point star in circle typical of that period, this too, being in purple, tho not in a class with the Putnam cancellation.

Mr. R. J. Tarpy sends a very interesting cover mailed from Chicago with a 3c green American, the Chicago pmk. being a common black cancellation. This was mailed to Freeport, Ills., and was forwarded to another town. The striking thing about this is the clean cut obliteration alongside the Freeport pmk., it being a beautifully made "bee" with folded wings, and cleanly hit on the cover. This "insect in three letters" measures 13mm from wing to wing, and is 15mm from head to tail, with six stubby little legs protruding. This is a very sturdy bee, and one is fortunate if he finds covers from this town with that bee on them. Most of the other bees that I have seen on covers look as tho they were out hunting trouble, with wings outspread, ready for malicious action at any moment, example, that Waterbury one with its nest on the 3c 1869.

Mr. C. H. Stiles has sent in quite a fine little lot of items, from which I will mention the 3c greens at this time. First, there is the "snow man" or maybe "scarecrow", on a 3c green stamped envelope of the period; it is in black, and quite clearly cut. You may have seen this chap, arms extended, and with a round head, probably from Boston as "—TON" shows. There is a "Rut. & Wash. R. R." on 3c Contl., and a fine thick lettered "Boston & Albany R. R." in the old type, on a 1c re-engraved, which is unusual. By the way, why doesn't someone interested, start a list of the Rail Roads on stamps later than the 1861's? The '47's and '51's are pretty well cared for, with the 3c '61's covered more or less by random notes, and now auctions list 3c greens with their individual R. R. cancellations. A pair of 3c Contls. show each cancelled with "US" in block letters in black about 12mm in height. Another shows a ring type as a postmark, bearing the single word "Missent", an unusual type of this P. O. marking. On a 3c Contl. are two big 7's, making a very fine 77 year date right on the stamp, the figures being 14mm tall, and well made. On a 3c American are the block type handmade letters "WK" almost 20mm tall in black. Beside these are other interesting cancellations which will be noted later.

Mr. F. E. McCann calls attention to a present issue 2c red stamped envelope showing numerous breaks in the design, one being right in the eye. These breaks sometimes occur at odd points, I once had one of these, there were many of them in the lot, all with an "F" for an "E" in the word "Cents".

As a preface to one of the questions advanced for this week, a word about "Patriotics". These mean what we might term propaganda devices, and inscriptions, printed on the face of the envelopes. They are mostly thought of as being of the Civil War period, where we see them adorned with flags, soldiers, cannon, eagles, figures of Liberty, heads of generals, regimental addresses, etc., both being used by the North and the

THE PHILATELIC INSTRUCTOR.

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.

CHAPTER V.

Creating the Nucleus.

If you have chosen well, you will have an album with pages on which spaces are ruled, titles of countries given, and some illustrations, notations, etc., for "hinging on" your stamps in their "allocated places." For most people, a permanently bound volume is better than a looseleaf proposition, because being bound it has limitations, and limitations are what you need to enable you to set a reasonable definite goal.

Some beginners are lucky. That is to say, they start with a nucleus of stamps, which they had either previously gathered prior to making the decision to embark actively upon the hobby, or relatives,' and friends' accumulations had been presented to them.

Others, however, are not so fortunate. They find themselves on the scratch line, namely: they have to create their own nucleus. To the majority this seeming disadvantage proves a blessing in the long run.

The new stamp collector who has an album, a catalogue and philatelic publications, but has no stamps with which to begin, should not begin by buying from catalogues. Doing so is a prosaic procedure, for it robs the joy of unearthing "finds". Were one to buy from the first price-lists at hand, one might as well order a ready-made collection, all mounted and "finished". Not much art nor science in that!

The way most recommended for creating a nucleus is along the following lines: The advertisements in your philatelic publications will show you which dealers are offering "packets". A "packet" usually contains a quantity of stamps without specialization in the strict sense of the word. The same dealer may offer packets containing stamps all different, or also packets containing duplicates. Read the ad carefully. The lowest price does not necessarily mean the best buy. Compare the offerings of the several dealers whose "copy" appeals to you. Write to the publishers of your catalogues and obtain their price-lists of packets. From among all these offerings, select the largest "all-different" general world packet that your cash appropriation permits. Don't buy mixed packets, nor "continentals", "missions", etc., because "continentals" are cheap mixtures of European issues, and "missions" contain too many "commons" and duplicates, while "mixed packets" will give you too many duplicates for a beginning. Later on you may have use for them, but not at this early period of your philatelic career.

Stamps are usually sold by dealers "free from paper", but exceptions will be met with.

Before being included in your album collection, the specimens should be detached from any paper still adhering to their gummed side. This is accomplished by soaking the stamps in cold water. Care must be taken not to allow the colors to run. Most stamps are printed with fast inks, but the British Colonies, for example, are notorious. When in doubt, lay the stamp face down on a dry blotter, and place on its upturned back (with the paper to be removed) a water-soaked sheet of clean blotting paper. For removing the unwanted paper, use a pair of tweezers. A nickeled pair, made for philatelists, may be bought for 50c to 75c.

Never paste a stamp directly onto an album page. Use "peelable" transparent hinges manufactured for the purpose. You can buy 1,000 of these, die cut to size, for 15c, more or less, according to quality. Fold one of these hinges, gummed side out; moisten one of the bends and stick to back of stamp (at the top); then moisten the other bend and attach to place on the page. This makes a "hinge", by which a specimen may be lifted from the bottom and looked for watermarks, flaws, etc.

WHITFIELD KING NEW ISSUES.

The firm of Whitfield King & Co., Ipswich, England, when sending us copy for the advertisement which appears elsewhere in this issue emphasized the fact that they had distributed 1032 standard varieties of new issues during the year 1924. The firm also added the following statement:—"We believe this number to be 50% more than any other English new issue service."

This firm was established in 1869 and takes a pardonable pride in the business which has been built up. A standard catalog is published annually and a line of stamp albums is also a part of the firm's activities.

BRITISH VIRGIN REMAINDERS DESTROYED.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Early in 1924 a circular was sent out to the Colonies by the Colonial Office in London, notifying that immediately a new series of stamps was put on sale, the superseded series should be withdrawn and destroyed. On June 19, 1924, at Road Town, Tortola, British Virgins, in the presence of four members of the Board of Survey, the remainder stock of the King George series, 1913 (DLR-1888 type), comprising 42,569 stamps, valued at £332.7.11, was consigned to the flames. Included were some ½d and 1d script CA, but no 3d or 2s6d.

The first King George series of the British Virgins, issued in February, 1913, was printed from De La Rue's Postage and Revenue (1888 design), keyplate 1, 240 set, the two lower panes only being overprinted. The ½d and 1d values were subsequently reprinted from other plates, as were also the 1d and 3d overprinted "War Stamp."

In 1917, the 1d was printed from plate 5; in 1919, the ½d and 1d from plate 6, and in 1920, the ½d from plate 8. Only two values of the series were printed on script CA paper, ½d and 1d plate 10, die 2, issued on November 18, 1921. The lot sent out consisted of 145 sheets of ½d (17,400 stamps), and 104 sheets of 1d (12,480 stamps), but the requisition must have been for about twice this quantity, as, according to official advice of August 29, 1921, "dealers' requirements to the extent of one-half the requisition have already been received through the Crown Agents."

The combined King's head and Seal type was issued June 15, 1922, and due to the fact that the surplus stock placed in the Treasury vaults, had stuck together, a large quantity of all values, except 3d and 2s6d, had to be destroyed on May 4, 1923.

A small miscellaneous lot retained in London by the Crown Agents for sale to stamp collectors was sent out to Tortola, and a fresh printing ordered of the 2d, 2½d, 1s and 5s.

The 2d of the second printing was in slate instead of the original gray: the 2½d changed from ultramarine to orange; the 1s as before, black on emerald green, Roman CA, and the 5s on script CA yellow. These were issued Sept. 1, 1923, and differ from the first printing in that the marginal line is double instead of single. This feature alone distinguishes the second printing of the 1s from the first.

Of the 2½d ultramarine, 130 sheets (15,600 stamps) were received at Tortola, 76 sheets (9,120 stamps) were destroyed leaving 54 sheets (6,480 stamps) to be sold locally. Similarly, of the 5s Roman CA yellow, 86 sheets (10,320 stamps) were sent out, 62 sheets (7,440 stamps) were burned, and 24 sheets (2,880 stamps) left for local sale. The quantities sold by the Crown Agents in London were of course, additional.

The 2½d ultramarine exhausted in December, 1923, but the 5s Roman CA yellow was still to be had at Tortola on Sept. 26, 1924.

Gibbons, 1925, prices the 2½d ultramarine at 8d, and the 5s Roman CA yellow at 12s6d, respectively. The former should prove a very good buy, as it is doubtful if more than 3,000 were sold by the Crown Agents.

Only stamps of the combined King's head and Seal type, and Leeward Islands Federal series (Roman CA watermarked) are now obtainable at Tortola.

On August 28-29, 1924, for the second time in eight years, Tortola was devastated by a hurricane, in which 27 lives were lost, and thousands of pounds damage done to property. The Government House was wrecked, as were also the G. M. O.'s house, the Hospital and Experimental Station. The prison alone of the Government offices, escaped injury. On the morning after the storm, Tortola was described as "looking like a village in France after a severe German bombardment."

Relief work was started immediately, and food and clothing were distributed to the most needy. Supplies and medicines were rushed from St. Thomas in the American Virgins, and donations to the extent of over £4,000 were received from abroad.

I have bought the Collection of
of J. Leon Adutt of England.
This is in three large volumes, with the stamps all priced separately.
It includes a representative lot of the Provisionals, some on covers, but is specially strong in the General Issues, unused in singles and blocks and used in singles and pairs and several hundred stamps on covers. It includes:—

1861, 5c green,	16 unused.	57 used
1861, 10c blue,	9 unused.	26 used
1862, 2c green,	14 unused.	4 used
1862, 5c blue,	189 unused.	41 used
1862, 10c rose,	7 unused.	21 used
1863, TEN cents, blue,	9 unused.	2 used

There are many of the small 2c, 5c, 10c & 20c in all shades, blocks, rare imprints and many flaws and re-entries. In the used there are many rare cancellations and a great many stamps on covers.
The collection can be sent on approval to collectors known to me or against references.

WHY YOU SHOULD SUBSCRIBE

No one who uses the Catalogue should be without the "Journal"—for it is the Catalogue supplement, listing new issues until the next Catalogue appears.

No one who wants to keep in touch with philately should fail to read it. For its articles are authoritative, interestingly handled,—the work of recognized experts.

No one who likes bargains should miss an issue. For, monthly, we make offers—exclusively in the "Journal" which the shrewd collector is always waiting to profit from.

If you fall into any one of the above classifications the dollar that a year's subscription to "Scott's Monthly Journal" will cost you will be one of the most profitable and satisfactory investments you ever made. L76

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN COMPANY
33 WEST 44TH ST. NEW YORK CITY

SWITZERLAND--COLLECTORS CLUB.

Reported by CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

On Wednesday, December 17th, Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein made a display of the early issues of Switzerland at the Collectors Club, N. Y. City, and gave a most interesting talk on dates of issue, relative rarity, the use of various kinds of cancellations, a study of which is of special interest in these early stamps, and many other details which should prove of real value to all who listened to his remarks.

This collection of early Swiss stamps is, I consider, the best studied, the most complete and the finest known to exist. In every issue Mr. Lichtenstein has gathered together real unused stamps in singles and blocks, but refuses to include the stamps that have been used on correspondence but not cancelled, or cleaned copies which are so often met with especially in the "Rayon" issues.

In the used he tries to get all known varieties of cancellation, both off and on covers.

A few of the many rare items shown were as follows:—

ZURICH.

In March, 1843, the stamps with vertical lines were issued and those with horizontal lines did not appear until 1846.

The 4rp stamps were for use in the City, the 6rp in the Canton. In general the City of Zurich used red cancellations, and the Canton black cancellations.

In the vertical lines I noted 4rp five types, unused and all types used and on covers with cancellation, red and black rosettes, P. P., etc.

In the vertical 6rp attention was drawn to the fact that real unused copies were rarer than the 4rp.

HORIZONTAL LINES.

4rp the five types, unused and many used.

4rp and half of 4rp used as 6rp on cover.

A large number of 6rp were shown with red, blue and black cancellations, and with P. P.—Town names and several of the large "retouch" were shown, including one on cover.

GENEVA.

5c+5c on yellow green. This, the rare 10c, was represented by a block composed of six whole stamps and three halves with the top margin and inscription. Also unused block of 4, two unused pairs, four used and four on covers, including some cut the wrong way.

Mr. Lichtenstein said this stamp was overvalued considering the number known in Swiss collections. Of the rare Geneva envelopes, uncut, two used small size, and two used medium size were shown. These are rarer than the 10c stamp. Several of the envelope stamps were shown cut out and used as adhesives on covers.

Geneva, Small Eagle.—Unused block of six, strip of 5 and a number of singles.

Geneva, Large Eagle.—Yellow green, strip of 10, block of 4 and here was the finest thing in the collection, a superb uncut sheet of 100 stamps, with full margins and the whole of the top inscriptions a wonderful piece and of great use for studying the make up and arrangement of varieties.

Geneva, Large Eagle.—Blue-green, unused blocks of 12 and 4.

BASLE.

2½ rap. 5 unused, 6 used, pair used and 7 used on covers, and finally a superb block of 15, out of the original sheet of 40.

or Geneva Transitional Stamps 4c, two fine and really unused and rare in this condition. In the used there were 2 pairs, 5 singles and four on cover.

5c unused, Blocks of 12, 8 and 4. In the large number of used Mr. Lichtenstein drew attention to some interesting varieties. Long tail to "5" No. 9 on the sheet. The four corner stamps each have a red dot in centre of cross. Two copies are shown with the cross badly out of register. Copies are also shown on covers used in conjunction with the Rayon II, 10c yellow.

NEUCHATEL (So called).

5c. Two superb pairs unused and with gum and two singles, rare, really unused. A number of singles used.

ZURICH (So called Winterthur).

2½ rap. Unused, Two pairs and two singles. Used. Block of four, four pairs and a number of singles. Several used shown on covers, used with Rayon I, 5rp and with Orts-Post, 2½ rap. One is shown on cover dated Feb. 25, 1850, the earliest date known.

FEDERAL ADMINISTRATION.

A grand lot of the Orts-Post and Poste-Locale were shown, really unused in singles, pairs and strips, and reconstructed plates of the 40 types. Mr. Lichtenstein drew attention to the great rarity of the substituted transfers in the Catalogue mailed on request.

Orts-Post, framed cross. He showed pairs of Nos. 39 and 40, on the sheet, with No. 40 retouched and then pair consisting of Nos. 39=39, the second 39 being substituted for the retouched No. 40, which was removed. Attention was also drawn to the fact that the "Poste-Locale" stamps were for use in the French speaking territory and the "Orts-Post" in the German speaking territory.

RAYONS I, II AND III.

In the very large number of these stamps I can only draw attention to a pair on portion of cover of the 10rp with totally framed cross, a very rare item. In the 15 cents, a used block of four is a scarce piece. A great study has been made of the cancellations on these stamps and almost all varieties are shown.

SILK THREAD ISSUES.

These also are a wonderful lot, including a grand lot of unused blocks with many rarities, such as Munich printing on thin paper, emerald green thread, 5rp vine-red, the only unused copy known. Also a mint block of four of the 5rp red-brown, of which only one other block is known. The 40rp in the real apple-green color is also here in mint condition. This is from the Ferrari collection and it is so rare that neither Worthington or Duveen had a copy.

The error of color, 5rp milky-blue is here in a single used copy from the Ferrari collection and a superb one on the whole cover.

A very hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Lichtenstein for his display which was generally considered one of the finest and most instructive that the Club has been for a long time.

LAURENTIDE AIR MAIL.

By R. DE L. FRENCH.

The new gold fields in the vicinity of Rouyn, P. Q., in the northwestern part of the province are fifty miles from the nearest railway. The country is typical Canadian wilderness, dotted with lakes and heavily timbered. The increasing influx of miners and others has created a demand for some more rapid means of transport than that supplied by the usual means.

Early in the spring of 1924, the Laurentide Air Service, Ltd., began operating HS-2-L flying boats from Haileybury, Ont., on the Canadian National Ry., and Angliers, P. Q., on the Canadian Pacific Ry., to Rouyn and Lake Fortune, and return. A considerable traffic in passengers and express matter was quickly built up, and on September 1st, 1924, the carrying of mail both ways was begun, in co-operation with the Canadian Post Office. Mail is handled by the pilots in sealed parcels, which are prepared or opened by the postmasters at the terminal points. Regular postage must be affixed to the face of letters to be carried by air, they must be endorsed "By Air Mail" on the face, and must carry on the back one of the Laurentide private stamps.

Of these there are now four varieties, as follows:—

1st Issue—Issued September 1, 1924—First flight September 11, 1924.
1. (25c) green, rouletted 8 at left and at top or bottom.
2. (25c) green, rouletted 8 at top only or at top and bottom.

2nd Issue—Issued October 1, 1924—First flight October 3, 1924.
3. (25c) red, rouletted 8 at top only or at top and bottom.
4. (25c) red, perforated 11½ all round.

Of No. 1, only 200 were printed and probably fewer than 40 actually issued. Flown covers are practically unknown. Covers bearing No. 2, and dated within the life of the stamp are less rare, but not at all common. Flown covers with Nos. 3 and 4 are comparatively easy to get.

Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were issued in books of eight, No. 1 bound at the left and the others bound at the top.. No. 4 is issued in sheets of 20. All are gummed, printed from copper plates on unwatermarked paper, and were produced by the Dodd-Simpson Press, Ltd., of Montreal, from designs by one of its own artists.

The writer believes that No. 1 in any condition is destined to be one of the classics among private air mails. Mint it is scarce, of really flown covers only two or three exist, as the make up of the books in which it was issued was unsatisfactory and they were almost immediately succeeded by No. 2.

This service is now suspended for a short time, until the ice on the lakes becomes strong enough to support the boats, which, in the meantime are having their pontons replaced by skiis for winter use.

SCANDINAVIANS

We are pleased to Announce the Purchase of the Enormous Collection and Accumulation of all the Scandinavian Countries as well as Holland and Colonies, from

MR. HOWARD L. SPOHN

Norway is most highly specialized and will appeal to all real students of these interesting stamps. We should like to hear from collectors or dealers who are ready to make large purchases in quantity from any of these countries. This is a most unusual opportunity to secure these stamps in large quantities for specialization. Our prices to large purchasers will be very moderate.

Another Choice United States Item

While on the other side another item of interest which I was able to purchase, and which I now offer, is a magnificent pane of one hundred (100) of the blue Eagle Carrier. This pane has full gum and I note offhand that one stamp shows a decided transfer, one has a gash, and there are numerous other minor varieties of less importance. Every stamp differs in some minor detail from the other, so that the sheet could be readily plated from single copies. Complete panes of the old stamps issued in the early '50s by Messrs. Tappan, Carpenter, Cassilear & Company are not to be met with every day, and a choice item of this kind may be considered in the same category as the purchase of a seasoned bond. Only the one sheet to be had, and when this is placed, I know where no other can be obtained.

Secured a wonderful lot of other unusually interesting items, which are being put into book form and being mailed to interested clients just as soon as the opportunity permits.

If you are collecting in certain lines and I am not acquainted with your wants, may I be advised. Bank references preferred in the cases of clients unknown to me.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

Early United States Varieties.

Mr. B. K. Miller writes that he has recently obtained a copy of the 1857, 10c green, type I, Scott's No. 49, wherein a very strong shift is to be found in the left "X". He states that this is not to be confused with the variety showing the curl but is something new that has not been discovered heretofore. I have not seen the stamp in question but it is surprising that a new variety should be found at this late date in view of the fact that the stamp has been plated, and one would think that every stamp on the sheet had been studied most carefully.

Waterhouse Sale.

I have received through the courtesy of Sir Nicholas Waterhouse and Mr. Frank Godden a neatly bound copy of the catalog of the famous Waterhouse sale, together with illustrations and a price list giving the prices which the several lots realized. Sir Nicholas has autographed these copies and it is indeed an interesting addition to any library. This sale along with the Seybold, Worthington and Eagle rank as the largest auction sales of United States varieties that have ever been held.

I happen to have priced catalogs of each and it is of interest to note how our stamps are increasing greatly in market value from sale to sale.

Air Mail Service.

Under date of October 1st, the headquarters of the Air Mail Service was moved from Washington, D. C., to Omaha, Neb. The "Daily Postal Bulletin" made official announcement of this fact at the time.

The Philadelphia Ledger the latter part of October carried a detailed article on the Air Mail Service contrasted with methods of delivery in 1672. We are told that the receipt of a letter back in the olden days was an event, and that the postman was any person who happened to be passing that way. New York's first real service was started in 1710.

Canal Zone.

Mr. R. S. Carter kindly advises that it is expected that a new postal card will be issued in the Zone to correspond with the envelopes recently placed on sale. He also kindly advises that he will keep us informed in the future as to any new varieties, which may be issued in our little possession to the south.

ARGENTINA.—Our agent writes us that a new issue is in preparation and that the old watermark of single suns will be reverted to.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

ASCENSION.—The Postmaster of Ascension Island writes us that all the overprinted stamps have been returned to St. Helena to be destroyed.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

AUSTRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us for chronicle the following new colors in the 1924 design: 700kr brown, 800kr violet, 1,500kr orange and 4,000kr blue on blue. We notice that in the last two values the figures of value are at the base of the stamp with the letters used for kronen in each lower corner.

BARBADOS.—The 1sh stamps with script watermark are exhausted. We are informed that there will be no further printing of these stamps, as the new issue is expected to be on sale in March next. —Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

BELGIUM.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 4fr parcel post stamp of the current series in a rose red shade.

FRANCE.—From the Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. R. Roberts come copies of the new 25c claret, Exhibition Stamp. It is oblong in shape and pictures an artist at work on a vase which he holds with his left hand. At the top is the inscription "Exhibition Internationale" while the left has the word "Postes" and the right the name of the country. At the bottom is the figure of value with the two line "Decoratifs Modernes" at the right and "Des Arts Paris 1925" at the left. Mr.

oberts advises that they are printed in ree panes of 25 each.

MONACO.—The Economist Stamp Co. lvise of two new items for this country. They are the 10c blue in the new Arms design and a 25c red bearing a profile portrait of the ruler.

NAURU.—Messrs. Ewens, Ltd., report the 10s Pictorial in a distinct ochre shade, of which they believe only one sheet exists.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

ITALY.—We have received from Mr. W. H. Souls a cover bearing a pair of the current 50c, with a label of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. se-tenant. The label is printed in red. The letter was mailed at Naples on the 21st day of Nov. last.

NETHERLANDS.—From the Economist Stamp Co. we have received a copy of the 5c green in the new design and also three values of a type bearing the inscription "Voor Het Kind" with the name of the country at the top. The design shows a child's head encircled by the wings of two angels. The values are 2c green, 7½c brown and 10c red.

NORWAY.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle a copy of the 45c blue in the type of the 1922-23 issue.

PALESTINE.—The new postage dues, printed in London, are now issued and the restrictions against their sale have been withdrawn; the denominations are, 1, 2, 4, 8, 13 milliemes and 5 piastres.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Iron City Stamp Co., Box 1224, Philadelphia, Pa., is out with a price list of U. S. and foreign stamps in singles and sets. A copy will be sent upon application.

—The firm of C. S. Watson Co., Inc., sends us a Chinese P. O. circular announcing that the $5, $10 and $20 stamps will be withdrawn from sale January 1, but that they may be purchased cancelled up to June 30. From July 1 the stamps will no longer be valid for prepayment of postage.

—If E. Allen Dexter will favor this office with his address we shall be pleased to forward a letter addressed to him in our care. Our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically.

—The Boston Post of Sunday, Dec. 28, contained a stamp story in which the chief figures were Daniel F. Kelleher and Wm. L. Aldrich. The article was illustrated with a halftone of these two dealers and the Post reporter wrote a thrilling story as to the profits in stamp dealing.

—H. Coburn Jones informs us that insurance on postage stamp collections may be placed with H. B. Warren, Wells River, Vt. This in answer to certain queries regarding insurance which have come to our office.

—The last regular meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society for the year 1924 was held December 18th. The following officers were elected:—Pres., C. W. Hennan, M.D.; V. Pres., J. F. Vickrey; Sec., F. J. DeWitt; Treas., G. F. Mann. Directors:—L. Josephson, C. E. Severn, L. A. Lauritzen, J. A. Zalud, A. F. Boehm.

—The Fellowship Stamp Agency of Fresno, Calif., has removed to 214 Rowell Bldg. The new quarters are superior to the old and there is ample room for the growing business of this progressive firm.

Happy New Year To All Who Read This Paper!

WHO IS INTERESTED IN A FINE COLLECTION OF 1847 ISSUE?

I am going to sell my fine private collection of this popular pair of stamps. I have 115 copies of the ten cent, about a third of lot on original covers, including one pair, rest off covers, including one pair and perhaps a dozen unused copies; rest are fine lot of shades, cancellations, etc.

This lot I have been 7 years accumulating, and it is a nice bunch for plating, as it is unpicked as far as plating goes. I will not break lot, price for 115 copies, is $40.00. This lot will not be broken.

In 5c of this issue I have 265 selected copies, about ⅓ of lot on original covers, including many pairs. In singles I have wonderful bunch of shades, and many pairs, and many rare cancellations. The price for the 5c is same as for lot 10c, $100.00. This lot will not be broken.

Anyone desiring more information, or wishing to see lot or lots, please communicate with me at once.

I feel either lot is a good buy to hold for rise.

I have many ordinary copies of both 5c and 10c in my regular stock I will price and send on approval.

I am also breaking up my private collection of used and unused U. S. from 1851 to 1873; many wonderful copies in this lot, including many rare cancellations, also strips, blocks, pairs, shades, covers, etc., etc. A chance to add some fine things to your album. Write me what you are interested in. Address, [15

THE FORUM.

South, the latter being far less common. In addition we find the "Intemperance is the Bane of Society", and "Cheap Ocean Postage" with 3c Imperfs of 1851, the latter being used in both the U. S. A. and England.

Questions—

Mr. E. C. Bailey asks "Why is it that one runs up against so many 'hard-to-get' low priced stamps? If they are hard to get—and they are—why the low price? Dealers can't get them and still they never advance in value." What have you to say to that in the way of any logical answer?

Mr. B. F. Borhek asks "How early a date have you seen on a patriotic envelope?" meaning, I presume, on our historic Civil War stamp devices applied to those covers. This is a very good query, and while I have had many hundreds of them shown me, have never given any thought as to when they first appeared. There are probably many more than 5,000 designs of these war covers. Some are funny, some are supposed to be, and many are serious. Have you any that should be mentioned to our readers of the Forum? Answers are always welcomed tho it takes some time to get them back, as they are returned after the issue with notes about the item in question.

LOOKING AROUND

Like Ukraine, Cilicia has been neglected since the first rush, by all but a wise few. I know of magnificent collections of this country, owned by collectors in the British Isles, but strangely enough, though good check lists have been published, nothing exhaustive has so far been written, to my knowledge, on the interesting settings of the "T.E.O." overprints. Cilicia is a country to watch, for there is a steady French demand, owing to the fact that the stamps were issued by French authority, and with increased attention given by English collectors, prices must move upward eventually.

A reader informs me that Chinese Turkestan overprints are being forged in China, but the forgeries can easily be distinguished as the bottom character has the left-hand stroke vertical and straight, instead of sloping and slightly curved as in the genuine stamps. This is an interesting little lot of stamps to get together—if you can find a home dealer who has any stock.

A group which will bear watching comprises the more modern issues of Azerbaijan, Georgia, and Armenia (bogus issues excepted). These are not easy to get in any quantity, and whenever a small lot is offered it is quickly snapped up at good prices. I am glad to see that Mr. Fred Melville has just issued a little brochure on Azerbaijan, and I hope he will follow it up by dealing with the other countries mentioned, in the same way. Modern Russian stamps are also in keen demand, which is having a retrospective effect in bringing the early issues and those of the war period into a prominence which must have its effect upon prices.

The unrest in Egypt and the Sudan will have the usual effect of drawing special attention to the stamps of these countries. They are always popular with collectors, but countries "in the news" always have an added attraction, which sometimes results in a first-class "boom."

Ireland, too, is likely to be in the limelight for some time. High prices are being asked and obtained over there for both minor and major varieties, in the overprinted stamps, and stocks both in Ireland and in this country are dwindling. I hear that the 4d Dollard with carmine overprint, is being picked up by the knowing ones, and there are other standard stamps, which are still obtainable at less than they are really worth. Of the current issue, the 10d is the hardest value to get in used condition.

I presume the day will come when used Colonial stamps will be priced by the catalogues at something like their true value. Fine used specimens of even the low values of many colonies are many times as rare as the corresponding unused stamps, yet they are rarely priced any higher. From the point of view of eventual value, I would rather own a representative collection of modern colonials in used condition, but it would no be an easy display to get together.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

Coloured Papers.—The collector of recent varieties of coloured papers sometimes finds the dark evenings, which are now at their maximum, a serious hindrance to his studies, and until fairly expert, it is best to reserve this work for daylight, unless one is a fortunate possessor of a daylight lamp. It is fairly easy to distinguish the various green papers in artificial light, but the yellow, and particularly the lemon shade, is almost impossible to distinguish with certainty.

Despite the above-mentioned handicap, which can be got over even in December, the popularity of this group continues, and those who imagine the prices are now at their highest will be disillusioned before very long. There is still field for further discoveries in this group, and fresh varieties are still being chronicled. This is not in the direction of further splitting—a practice to be deprecated—but stamps in one of the well known groups not yet chronicled in the catalogue. An example of this is the 3d and 4d of Turks Is. K. G. old type on the pale yellow paper, which appear to be rather scarce. Mauritius King George issues also offer a field for exploration. The 25c undoubtedly exists in more papers than are chronicled, and the 5 Rupee exists on more than one paper. The question of dies also comes in, as the 5 Rupee Die I on pale yellow is generally regarded by those in the know as one of the Georgian rarities, whilst the same stamp on orange-buff paper is not far behind; these and similar stamps can be picked up very reasonably in view of their great intrinsic scarcity, and offer a very profitable field to those interested.

It sometimes happens that a much boomed stamp moves back somewhat, and in this column these have been pointed out from time to time so as to show both sides of the question. The £1 Trinidad and Tobago old type Script wmk. does not appear to be fetching such high prices as formerly. This is probably due to the fact that there were two printings of this duty, and the figure previously stated in some quarters—2400—probably only referred to one of the printings. At any rate the stamp is obtainable now for about £2 to £2 10sh. The 5sh of the same series seems to be continuing its upward movement, and is now difficult to obtain at much under £1.

Barbados Script.—The latest sensation has been over the 1sh Script of Barbados, which was all sold out in a few days. Collectors are asking what it is likely to be worth. Fortunately, we know the number printed, but the uncertain factor is that a second printing may be sent out as no official announcement has appeared yet as to the date of appearance of a new set.

If it is not re-issued, it will be about as rare as the 1sh Cayman Is. on green CA single paper. This was issued to the same number, viz., 6,000 in 1908, and the following year the stamp appeared on the multiple paper. After 15 years the stamp was catalogued at 12s6d, and is certainly scarce, but at the time of its issue and for a year or so after it was obtainable for much less than is being commonly asked for the Barbados stamp. The trouble about the latter is not that so few were issued, but that they have nearly all gone into a very few hands, who are trying, of course, to make the most out of them, one dealer alone, according to this journal, getting nearly a thousand of them, and one may conclude that practically the whole lot will be ultimately available for collectors, and to take a modern comparison, the stamp will be about as scarce as the 1sh St. Kitts Tercentenary, and on numbers alone, more frequent than the 1sh Gibraltar emerald old watermark.

S. African Union.—It sometimes happens that a projected new issue does not eventuate nearly as quickly as is anticipated. Thus the new issue of the Union of South Africa is still not likely to appear for some months at least. The contract specification for this new issue was most interesting, in that it gave the estimated annual consumption of the various values, which were presumably based on what is being used of the current series. The most noteworthy feature of these figures was the very large number estimated for of the £1 duty, which has always been looked upon as rather a scarce stamp. No doubt the majority of these have been used telegraphically, but for some reason even these have not been coming forward very freely. It is within the recollection of many, however, hat the analagous £1 stamp of the Transvaal was quite scarce during its long currency, but that shortly after it became obsolete, large parcels came on the market, and it has been quite cheaply priced ever since.

Irish Remainders.—Over a year ago it was announced that the Irish Government had decided to dispose of its large stock of used Free State stamps. These were put up in parcels of various grades and offered for tenders. For some reason the tenders were not accepted, and it has now been decided to offer the entire accumulation in one lot. These, of course, have mostly been telegraphically used, but will be difficult or impossible in many cases to distinguish. The parcel contains a very large number of the higher valued stamps—some thousands even of the 10sh—and so should be a boon to the Irish specialist when they come on the market, as these have remained rather expensive in used condition, and as all issues appear to be represented, there will be some excitement when they do eventuate. The enthusiast will have to contain his patience however as at the rate things are moving, it may be some months yet before stocks are released.—Philatelic Magazine.

NEWS FROM MID-EUROPE.

By A. KOECHLIN.

Switzerland has been quite productive of stamps in the last four months. The steadily increasing air mail service brought forth three additional values: 65c blue, 75c brick red, 1 fr. violet.

It may be of interest to aero cover collectors that there are now three air mail lines for despatching mail to the U. S.: (1) Zürich - Basle - Paris - London, (2) Bern - Basle - Brussels - Rotterdam, (3) Geneva-Zürich-Munich-Bremen or Hamburg. The service of the two last is stopped during the winter months and reduced to once a week on the first line.

The reduction of the rates for foreign mail, 25c to 20c for postcards and 40c to 30c for letters required a change of color of the 20c, 25c, 30c and 40c values.

The 20c violet was changed to red orange and 30c Helvetia to 30c blue, Tell. The change of 25c and 40c will follow after exhaustion of the stock of the old values. The new color will be brown and red violet on yellow green respectively. A new 70c blue violet Helvetia type has been issued to simplify franking of foreign registered letters (30c tax and 40c registration fee).

To meet the requirements of a modified parcel post tariff a set of special parcel post stamps made its appearance in October. The set consists of the 4 values: 90c green and red on greenish, 1.20 frs. lake and red on reddish, 1.50 frs. cobalt blue and red on bluish, and 2 frs. dark grey and red on grayish. The design, a rather unlucky attempt at modernizing the 1st issue of the federal administration, is the work of painter Salzmann of Geneva who is also the designer of the new postage dues.

October 9th, the 50th anniversary of the U. P. U., has been commemorated by the issue of a 20c red and a 30c blue. Both values, double size of the current stamps, represent in different frames the building in which the first congress met and founded the U. P. U. These stamps had only franking value till November 30th. Of the 30c there are two sizes. The stamps of the 1st, 3d and 5th row of the sheet of 5x5=25 have 24 perforation holes vertically, those of the 2d and 4th row 25 holes.

December 1st, as in former years, the Pro Juventute stamps were issued. Series of cantonal arms continued: 5+5 Appenzell, 10+5 Solothurn and 20+5 Schaffhausen. The frame of the 30c+10 arms of Switzerland is a reminiscence of the war with Burgundy. To the left a Burgundian nobleman, to the right a Swiss warrior. The Pro Juventute stamps are for sale during December only but have franking value till April 30, 1925.

Together with the "Pro Juventute," a new set of Postage Dues made its appearance; it consists of the 6 values: 5, 10, 20, 25, 30 and 50cts. The new design, the same for all values, shows two children holding a medallion in which the value is inserted. A bottom label containing the inscription Helvetia is surmounted by rhododendrons. The stamps are printed in olive green, the medallion and the rhododendrons in red. In order to exhaust equally the remaining stock of the current dues the 1c and 3c had been overprinted 10c and the 50c had received a 20c overprint. This makes altogether 25 new stamps of Switzerland to be chronicled.

Germany has also commemorated the 9th October by issuing a 10pfg green and 20pfg blue, both bearing the likeness of postmaster von Stephan, founder of the U. P. U. Only design and inscription of the frame are different from the 60 and 80pfg formerly issued. The current eagle type series has been completed by the 20pf blue. The 50pfg yellow has been distributed to the attendants of the Berlin philatelic exhibition but is withheld till after the exhaustion of the 50pf Japanese type.

Of the large size mark values the 1 Mk green castle Rheinstein and the 3 Mk claret castle Marienburg are now sold over the counter. Castle Rheinstein is situated on the left bank of the Rhine below Bingen. Castle Marienburg is in W. Prussia; till 1457 it was the residence of the grand masters of the order of German Knights.

The 5, 10, 30, 40, 60 and 80pf values have been overprinted Dienstmarke for official use. It is to be noted that on the 60 and 80pfg the overprint does not run diagonally from the left lower corner to the upper right one but merely covers the bottom label leaving the likeness of von Stephan untouched.

WANTED

U. S. DEPARTMENTS

I have a number of important clients who want United States Departmental issues both in used and unused condition and particularly items used on covers.

The first and foremost consideration is condition. Only absolutely perfect and superb copies are desired. Unused must have full original gum. Price is of some importance but is secondary.

Ordinary copies are not wanted at any price. I have a large stock of departments but it has been reduced to ordinary copies and further of that condition is not desired at any price.

If you have something really superb in condition, send it by registered mail. A report will be given you within 24 hours.

going to supersede the crown, Austria felt the want of 4 more values to complete the current set: 700kr brown, 800kr violet, 1500kr orange and 4,000kr blue on bluish.

Hungary has stopped issuing stamps with triangular perforation. The scheme was a failure from the start. Hungary, like many other countries, had installed a philatelic agency, where the stamps of the current issue were sold at the rate of 5 to 20 per cent. over face value to dealers and collectors; but most of these, unthankful enough, preferred to patronize the public window, where the same stamps could be gotten at face value. This had to be checked in some way.

Now, as a general rule, philatelists care very little for stamps damaged by perforation; therefore, it was decided to perforate all the stamps to be sold at the public window and provide only the philatelic agency with intact ones. It was the egg of Columbus but it proved to be a rotten one. In the first place, the perforation was an official one and a neat one, too, and secondly, to save money and time the perforation had been applied only to the two center rows of the sheets and thus resulted in bringing forth 20 pairs with and without perforation se tenant.

Just the thing collectors were looking for.

It can easily be imagined how the philatelic agency benefited by it, but the Hungarian post as a whole most likely was a great loser by it. This is the explanation of the triangular perforation asked for, months ago, in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

Besides a new 2 lire special delivery for foreign mail Italy continues producing provisionals. The latest is a 25 on 45 olive. 4,000 copies were sold over the counter at Rome and 4,000 at Naples. 92,000 are to be distributed to other cities and the remaining 300,000 shall be saved for the philatelists. A courtesy to be recompensed with 20 per cent. over face value, so the rumor goes. As it became known that a royal decree had ordered to forbear any further commemoration issue, a sigh of relief went through rank and file of the philatelic army. But, alas, too early. Letting go by 1925, the holy year, without a philatelic celebration would have been the pitch of barbarism never to be accounted for.

So October 19th, at a sitting of the ministerial council it was decided to issue a holy year commemorative set of 6 values, 20c, 30c, 50c, 60c, 1 lira and 5 lire. The stamps to sell at an advance of 50 per cent. They'll have franking value till end of 1925. The centesimi values to represent the four principal churches (Basilikas) of Rome, the lira values, pictures of the opening and closing of the holy door, a performance that the public is allowed to witness at St. Peter's cathedral every 25th year only.

Then, of course, the 700th day of the death of the Saint Franciscus of Assisi could not be skipped neither, so it was decided to commemorate this event with a series of four values showing episodes of the life of the saint. Italian artists have been invited to submit sketches for competition till March 31, 1925. So far no decision has been taken concerning the 25th anniversary of the king's coronation day; but as the ice is broken again, one may venture to say, that this famous chance won't be missed and that we may expect one more hip, hip, hurrah, set in 1925.

That's only work for the future, but in the interval the Turin press is always kept busy getting out something new. The latest are stamps of the current issue with advertisements in colored design se tenant.

A 50c violet with an advertising label of the Singer sewing machine is reproduced in Champion's November bulletin and rather enthusiastically welcomed. The 1st, 3rd, 5th, 7th and 9th row of the sheets contain the stamps, the 2nd, 4th, 6th, 8th and 10th row the labels. There is no perforation between stamps and labels, they have to be used as a unit.

No doubt these new combinations will find their way into the catalogues, and variety packet makers won't mind it.

CANADIAN STAMP EXHIBITION.

We are informed by Mr. Edward E. Goodchild, who jointly with Mr. LeHain is in charge of the publicity for the forthcoming Montreal event, that very substantial assistance is being rendered to the members of the St. Lawrence Stamp Collectors Society—under whose auspices the exhibition will be held—by leading Philatelists not only in Canada but also in the States.

If sufficient support is forthcoming and entries warrant same, first, second, and third awards will be made in each entry, comprising cups, gold, silver and bronze medals. A preliminary list of classes will shortly be issued.

SEASONAL INVESTMENTS

The conservative stamp collector is one of the few men who can eat his cake and have it too. He, primarily, spends his money for pleasure, enjoys the study and possession of his philatelic treasures and eventually collects a dividend that should equal the return on any first-class bond.

Perhaps the way to gain most of pleasure and profit is to take a skeleton collection of one country or group of countries, study that specialty and build up the collection piece by piece as opportunity offers. In that way, as knowledge of the specialty increases and one learns to recognize the desirable varieties of shade, paper, perforation or watermark, these are picked up as "sleepers" at the price of ordinary varieties. The following are offered as good investments for anyone needing a good framework for the specialization of any of these countries:

AUSTRIA.—A collection in six old-fashioned loose-leaf volumes. It includes all issues to 1900, with varieties of shade, paper, perforation and cancellation. There are singles, pairs, strips, blox and covers. Hundreds of copies of the first issues of Austria and Lombardy-Venice, including many scarce types, copies printed both sides, watermarked paper, etc. The original owner was forced to part with his stamps during the world war when he had about half completed remounting and writing up the collection. The other half is written up voluminously in pencil. Plenty of interesting work still to do, and something worth showing, while the price is but $600.00.

CANADA.— A superb lot of the issues from 1851 to 1880. Some 40 and odd copies of the 3d showing all listed paper varieties in singles, and most of them in pairs. Nearly as many copies of the 6d, all listed shades and paper varieties, some imprints, good cancellations, covers, etc. Of the 7½d and 10d about a dozen fine copies. The ½d is represented by half a dozen picked copies, including the rare ribbed paper and a superb copy of the perforated variety. The 1859 and 1868 issues show all shades in centered, o. g. mint copies, with a dozen or more picked specimens of each value showing cancellations, paper varieties, etc. Will sell complete with Provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, et al, Canada alone, or any single issue. Entire lot runs about $3,000.00.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—A very nice lot of triangles, with many fine shades, some pairs, blox, etc., with most listed varieties to 1900. All very fine copies except a couple of wood-blocks which add nothing to the price, which will shade under $1,200.00.

HOLLAND.—The first three issues complete mint and o. g., with a few hundred picked used copies, also a few pairs and strips and some covers. Any amount of work to do plating the recuts, classifying paper varieties, cancellations, etc. Price $600.00.

PERU.—A nice lot of the early issues, showing shades, plate varieties, cancellations, etc. There are many fine, picked copies with large margins, also some pairs and strips. Price on application.

These are offered as investment suggestions. We can offer really fine beginnings in several other countries. Give us an idea of what you think might please you and we will try to find it.

If you have anything fine to dispose of send it along. It may be a single cover that is out of place in your album, a duplicate of some rare stamp, or an accumulation of old stamps or correspondence, set your own price on it and send it along.

The Mystery of the Shrunken Pair.—Once upon a time there were a set of twins, black and restless, black because they were 12c 1851's, and restless because they were in contact with a red gridiron, reasons sufficient. This pair had lived to an age of some half dozen decades when Dr. Carroll Chase discovered them, and fetched them home with him, their quite apparent undernourished condition catching the physician's eye at a glance. So they were entered into an album along with some entirely normal pairs, their height 22¾ mm, and their total width from edge to edge 36 mm, being inscribed on their record sheet, so to speak.

And do you know, to this day, that pair has never grown a particle! If you will cut out a bit of paper as above demensions, then apply this alongside a normal pair, or if you do not have one handy, the size is 24¾ mm x 39½ mm (allowing a mm, say, all round each) you will get a clearer idea of how this shrunken pair compares with the normal, and it will surely surprise you.

Of course you understand I am not writing of any counterfeit pair, or a "Falsch" pair, or anything "phoney" at all, these are real little aristocrats, bonafide 12c 1851's, and can be plated as well as any pair could be.

You may watch paper being made, from the gelatinous stage to the time it emerges in a finished state from the big heated cylinders, and so far as I can see this will not help you one little bit in solving this mystery. Of course old time paper was made differently than is now done, yet if shrinkage were common enough to produce this pair, why is it that we do not find many stamps of smaller size than when originally made? Can you solve this mystery?

This question is asked by Mr. B. F. Miller,—"American Bank Note Co. plates (second series) Nos. 320 to 349 both inclusive. Were these 200 subject or 400 subject plates? The other 2c plates of this series (Scott's 219d or 220) were both 200 and 400 subjects." Can you give this information, or an idea where this data may be found?

The First United States Post Card.—Some Forum readers write in about post cards, and I am presuming that our first post card may have some interest to collectors, especially as these "First Trip" affairs are gaining in popularity, no matter what the stamp may be.

This card is printed in a dark red on a buff, or near buff, card. It has a very fine head of Liberty facing left, surrounded by an ellipse composed of lathe work loops containing in the top label "U. S. Postage", and below "One Cent", each letter taking one loop. The face of this card bears three rows of lines for the address, a continuous ornamental border surrounding all, close to the outer edges of the card. This card came to me some long time ago, being in the collection of an old timer, along with covers and such relics as accrue in this game of philately. On the face of the card is a very neatly struck little blue handstamp reading "U. S. Postal Card Agency". This is enclosed in the outer ring measuring 22 mm, while the inner ring measuring 14 mm, contains the date "May 12 1873", the hand stamp being not unlike the ones used by banks at this period.

The reverse has the following neatly penned, "The first postal card contract was awarded to the Morgan Envelope Company of Springfield, Mass. March 28, 1873. The first issue of postal cards began on the 12th day of May 1873. The first perfect sheet of postal cards ever printed, contained thirty-six (36) cards, and was approved by the U. S. P. O. Department April 30 1873. I certify that this postal card was taken from the first sheet approved by the department. Geo. N. Tyner, U. S. Postal Card Agent."

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

If we were to try to find the date of the first U. S. postal card, we would not know which way to turn, so you had best make a mental note of this information, 1873. It is said that the man who first made any postal card is the one whose head now appears on the current stamps of Germany.

Mr. Michael Miller sends in the cover bearing that "10c Stamp" (Baltimore Postmaster, so called) on the cover, mailed from Baltimore to Hillsboro, N. C., April 12 (1848). This was recently sold in an auction, listed as follows, "—the well known fake from the Ferrari Collection on original, the stamp pen-cancelled, the cover with blue Baltimore cancellation and in addition 'Paid 10' also in blue." This item is interesting to me as I had heard that it was made from the "10" cut from a broken bank bill. I have never seen a bill with this form of the "10", and do not believe that this was ever a part of a bill, for it looks complete in itself. It is somewhat reminiscent of the Brazilian "Bulls Eyes" in shape, design and color. It is illustrated in the Waterhouse book on stamps of the U. S. A. under the Baltimore "Postmasters" on page 8, and is probably made and listed from this copy.

Questions.—Mr. W. E. Whitnall asks "Does the 2c 1890 cap on left '2' exist in as near perfect (or distinct) form as those now listed? It has been dropped from the catalogs." Another: "Arrows on the 2c 1890—I do not find so many of the horizontal arrows as the vertical ones. Is this a common experience or just my ill luck?"

"Arrows before 1890.—Can you say whether the arrows in which the center line continues beyond the meeting point of the converging lines is always the work of the American Co.; never the production of the Continental Co.? Can you say whether the American Co. prepared any plates with arrows the three lines of which stopped at one point?" And the letter ends with mention of having found "a 2c 1863 Black Jackson with unmistakable 1861 year date, which goes to prove that the postmark is not always certain proof of the date of use."

KRONER REPLACED BY SHILLING.

The Austrian crown has been officially buried without honors and without mourners. No longer will Austrian housewives' daily budgets be reckoned in hundreds of thousands.

Austria's new money—the shilling—will become the official currency for all government organizations if the finance minister's proposed law is accepted. Even the name of kroner, which is coupled with so many sad memories in Austria, thus has disappeared. The shilling is officially a silver coin worth approximately 15 cents.

Not many of these silver pieces will be circulated, however. They will be represented by a new paper currency, which will gradually replace the present bank notes. The shilling is divided into 100 stuber.

The new metal money, which will be coined in half, one, and two-shilling pieces, can not exceed a total of ten shillings per capita of the population. It contains a mixture of 64 parts silver to 36 parts copper. The shilling will weigh six grams. Later the government plans to coin 25 and 100 shilling gold pieces.

The present bank note circulation, which will eventually be replaced by paper shillings, will be approximately $20 per capita.

THE MAN WITH A HOBBY.

Speaking as an insurance expert to the Columbus, O., Ad Club, Fred M. Withey, Vice-President of the National Surety Company, commended the "nut," the man with a hobby, as an unusually good risk. He's a good moral risk, he explained, because he is too busy with his pet subject to take other people's money.

That is one view. It does less than justice to a large class of persons who, because of their zeal in chosen directions, are often held up to ridicule. To the hard-working business or professional man a fad may be a health-giver as much as golf. It may be an agreeable recreation. It may be a form of study that furnishes the necessary relaxation after tedious hours of office routine. And sometimes it pays handsome dividends.

Perhaps the "nut" searches for first editions, chiefly prized because of certain typographical errors, later corrected. He may have a passion for growing dahlias of rare beauty of form and color. His first interest may be in cicadæ or the social habits of ants. He may be a sharp on old stamps and all the surcharges and printers' mistakes. He may run to local family genealogies, early surveyors' maps or town and country history of certain periods. There are collectors who spend their leisure collecting door knockers, bird cages, fans, pewter porringers, colored glass, hook rugs.

J. E. GUEST, DALLAS, TEXAS

To the hard-headed, practical man of affairs the man with a hobby, the "nut," may appear a freak, an eccentric, a bit unbalanced sometimes; but he has in his make-up something of the true scientist. Turn him round and look him over for what he really is. He is giving up his time to research work, to the pursuit of knowledge to the ultimate limit in a particular field. If a German grammarian to his honor, may devote his life to the scrutiny of corrupt Greek texts and the study of irregularities of syntax in Æschylus and Pindar, or a chemist spend nights and days in the laboratory on the trail of indetectable agents in every-day compounds, why not the humble layman with equal fervor explore the minor realm of Whistler prints Persian tapestries or Italian laces?—N. Y. World.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Verne, Collins & Co., Christ Church, New Zealand, have sent us their illustrated and priced catalog of the stamps of New Zealand and Island Dependencies. The price is 36c and anyone interested in these stamps will be warranted in purchasing a copy of the catalog. Illustrations and a great deal of descriptive matter will be found scattered throughout the book, which consists of 72 pages.

—W. T. Wilson, Birmingham, England, favors us with a very interesting pricelist for December-January. Many novelties and special bargains in old and recent issues are listed.

—We welcome back to our columns F. E. Hook, of Detroit, who has used our paper a great deal in bygone years. His advertisements will be found regularly in the WEEKLY in the future, and we bespeak for him a goodly patronage.

—Fred L. Onken, 630 79th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., sends us his latest pricelist containing a great variety of low-priced packets and sets. It will be sent to anyone on request.

—A neat pocket bulletin has been received from Oscar T. Hartmann, 3118 Vallejo St., Denver, Colo. Mr. Hartmann specializes in foreign revenues and if you are at all interested send for his pricelist.

—The Y. Souren Co., 145 Nassau St., N. Y. City, has issued a specialized wholesale pricelist on the stamps of Soviet Russia. It is a handsome list of 28 pages and prices these stamps in both used and unused condition. It will be sent free to dealers who are regularly established in business.

—The Garfield Perry Stamp Club at the annual meeting December 26th elected the following officers for 1925: W. H. Barnum, Pres.; Alvin Good, Vice Pres.; A. S. Hill, Treas.; P. A. Finlayson, Sec.; R. Molitor, Librarian; W. Wulffenstein, Custodian of Club Collection. The members meet at 324 Caxton Building, Huron Road, every Friday evening. Visitors are always welcome.

—At the last meeting of the Springfield Stamp Club the following officers were elected for 1925: Henry C. Hyde, pres.; H. P. Atherton, vice pres.; Henry M. Wickman, sec., and Geo. W. Angers treas. February of this year sees the annual banquet which is to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the founding of this Club. It now has about 30 active members, and half as many non-residents.

—In a recent number of the WEEKLY appeared an advertisement over the name of the Lafayette Stamp Co., of Michigan, located at Detroit, Mich. In this connection we desire to say that this is not the Lafayette Stamp Co. which has in the past used our columns quite regularly and which is now located at San Francisco, Calif. Of the latter firm C. M. Young is the proprietor. While the new company may technically be within its rights in assuming the name given, we feel in duty bound to protect our former advertiser and shall in the future accept no advertising from the Detroit firm so long as it carries the present name.

—The New Years' greetings received by the WEEKLY are appreciated and those who remembered us are thanked heartily. Some of the cards were of novel form and that received from Mr. Aug. Dietz, Editor of the Southern Philatelist, Richmond, Va., had a philatelic flavor: "May the New Year fill every blank space in the Album of your Desires!" The letters from foreign countries were well timed to arrive opportunely.

—The annual Christmas meeting of the Philadelphia Stamp Club was held December 30, 1924, at the club-room. The entertainment provided was of a most interesting kind as may be judged when it is said that Mr. Charles J. Phillips of New York, exhibited his United States and that Mr. Phillip H. Ward gave a talk of his experiences at the Waterhouse and Ferrari sales and of his foreign impressions, generally. Mr. Joseph Steinmetz gave one of his famous talks and exhibits.

—We have received the Christmas edition of the Newfoundland Weekly, of Boston, an ably edited newspaper, having as associate editor, Mr. Archibald G. Gibb, formerly of St. John's, Newfoundland, who has contributed philatelic matter to our columns.

—An inquiry has been received asking for some explanation as to "cotton stamps," which we are told are not to be confused with the U. S. Cotton Tax Stamps but are something in the nature of payment for cotton that was confiscated by the north from southern planters during the war.

—From our foreign contemporaries, we learn of the death of Louis Hanciau, the venerable and erudite Belgian philatelist whose writings are to be classed as among the real contributions to the literature of philately. It is remarked that for seventy years he followed philately and truly he was one of the pioneers of our pursuit. The death, due to the results of an accident, took place at the age of eighty-eight.

—Mr. Henry C. Needham, New York, has sent a clipping from the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, of January 4, 1925, headed "Collectors Seek Tax Stamps of Civil War Period," that is most readable and timely as anticipating what seems to be a revival of interest in the private proprietary stamps of the Civil War days. We will reprint the article.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Recently, we had an opportunity to make a hurried trip south to the Gulf of Mexico, stopping en route at a few of the cities that are distinctive in a philatelic sense, through their interesting cancellations in the case of Canton, Mississippi, and the provisional envelopes in the case of Lexington, Mississippi. We were on the wing but had the privilege of a few moments' conversation with some of the old inhabitants who remembered, according to their statements, the provisional envelopes that we described. However, when it came to any presumptuous thoughts of finding tangible evidences of the activities of the postmasters of those times, they were instantly dismissed, as it is one thing to hear about specimens of the kind and another thing to see them. If any Confederates are to be found in these late days, they are apt to be the result of a still hunt, but our conviction is that very few of the Confederate locals remain to be uncovered. We believe that here and there in the south, the various historical societies that properly attend to preserving memorials of the days of the Confederacy will give greater attention to the stamp issues regular and local. Surely, there is every reason to say that no memento can reflect the spirit of another age more definitely than stamps used on envelopes of that period.

WHY YOU SHOULD SUBSCRIBE

No one who uses the Catalogue should be without the "Journal"—for it is the Catalogue supplement, listing new issues until the next Catalogue appears.

No one who wants to keep in touch with philately should fail to read it. For its articles are authoritative, interestingly handled,— the work of recognized experts.

No one who likes bargains should miss an issue. For, monthly, we make offers — exclusively in the "Journal" which the shrewd collector is always waiting to profit from.

If you fall into any one of the above classifications the dollar that a year's subscription to "Scott's Monthly Journal" will cost you will be one of the most profitable and satisfactory investments you ever made. L76

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN COMPANY
33 WEST 44TH ST. NEW YORK CITY

Last month, the case against Henry Flachskam of St. Louis, who for many years has been associated with the stamp trade in this country, was finally reached on the docket, and the trial was held in federal Judge Davis' court with assistant district attorney Harlan as prosecutor. The charge was based on the possession of $8,734, in stolen postage stamps, on November 17, 1923, which according to allegation, Flachskam is said to have known were abstracted by a post-office clerk in Washington who had charge of the destruction of defective and surplus stamps. From the testimony it appeared that Flachskam dealt with Davis who formerly was a clerk in Washington at a salary of $150 a month, in an individual sense, after a few small transactions through the company of which Flachskam was secretary and general manager. The defense of Flachskam was that he did not know that Davis was a post-office employee but that he thought that he was a stamp collector; and some of the money returned by Flachskam was in the form of "rare stamps." The unused stamps, perfect and otherwise, were sold to Flachskam at a large discount from face, and Flachskam was enabled to resell the stamps at a much smaller discount to an advantage that the prosecution represented as having a monetary return in 1922 and 1923, at between $25,000 and $35,000. Flachskam was found guilty by a jury in ten minutes and was sentenced by Judge Davis later for knowingly possessing property purloined from the government, under the federal penal statutes providing a maximum punishment of $5,000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both. We do not have the particulars of the terms of the sentence which our correspondents refer to as being severe without going into details. Henry Flachskam, who is described as being sixty-seven years of age, has had a philatelic career extending over many years. He has been connected with certain stamp companies for many decades and has probably sold, in the aggregate, stamps amounting to a huge sum. Mr. Flachskam has been in trouble before, and in imposing sentence it is likely that the judge was influenced by the records of the past. We understand that he was merely employed by the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., and that already persons interested have taken steps to replace him in the organization, and that it is probable that the slate will be wiped clean so far as Flachskam's connection with the company is concerned. It is unfortunate that short-cuts are sometimes attempted by those who are financially interested in stamps, when travel along the main road, while slower, is the only kind that will ensure permanent satisfaction and ease of mind.

When the great commercial house of A. T. Stewart of New York was in its ascendancy in the '60's, Dr. George J. Heath of Munroe, Michigan, wrote to Mr. Stewart enclosing a small remittance, asking for stamps from foreign countries that might be received on the mail matter of the firm. Dr. Heath was favored with a personal note from the famous merchant prince who returned the money, at the same time enclosing an assortment of French and English stamps on the envelopes. It is interesting to note that the envelopes themselves were sent and it is one of the first instances on record where stamps were not removed from the envelopes before transmission through the mails to a collector. Further, the kindliness of Mr. Stewart is a little human angle that is worth a word of approval.

In our issue of December 22, 1924, the inquiry touching upon the importation of foreign stamps attracted the attention of Mr. Herbert E. Kleist, Chicago, who has the kindness to give specific information as tabulated in the following statement:

"1. Title II, Free List, Schedule 15, of the Tariff Act of 1922 provides that the following shall be exempt from duty: 'Par. 1671. Stamps: Foreign postage or revenue stamps cancelled or uncancelled, and foreign government stamped post-cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon.'

2. Title I, Dutiable List, Schedule 13, provides for the assessment of duty on albums, as follows: 'Par. 1311. Photograph, autograph, scrap, post-card and postage-stamp albums, and albums for phonograph records, wholly or partly manufactured, 30 per centum ad valorem.'

These provisions are given verbatim from the Tariff Act and are applicable regardless of the value of the consignment.

3. Registration has no bearing on the matter one way or another. In fact, no manipulation of any kind can legally change the force or effect of the provisions quoted.

4. The value of the consignment affects the transaction in this manner: the Tariff Act provides that for shipments valued at more than one hundred dollars ($100) a regular entry, that is, clearance papers, must be passed through the Custom House, which usually requires the services of a customs broker at an expense of about five dollars ($5) for each consignment. As foreign postage stamps are free, such consignments, however, through oversight, etc., may frequently be released without the formality of a customs entry.

5. If a collection is mounted in an album, an invoice should be enclosed showing the value of the album and the value of the stamps separately. Duty should be assessed on the value of the album only at 30%, and the stamps passed free of duty. Probably, however duty would be assessed on both.

6. Furthermore, Par. 1514 of the Free List provides for the exemption from duty, under certain conditions, of articles (including of course albums) made in the U. S. A. and imported by the person who exported them.

For a definite ruling on point five you should communicate with Hon. Mackenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of Customs, Washington, D. C., as Customs officials here are in doubt as to the correct application of the law in this case."

By this time the twenty-eighth annual dinner given by the Collectors Club of New York City will have passed into the records. Mr. Charles M. Ams, the chairman of the dinner committee, has sent the members a letter in which he gives an enticing foretaste of the pleasures in store; and when we submit the following as among those in the list of speakers, we are certain that the occasion proved to be one of the most important and enjoyable of recent years: Hon. W. Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster General; Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, President International Stamp Exhibition, New York, 1926; Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer,

We have had advices from unimpeachable authority to the effect that bogus cancellations are making their appearance on some of the early issues of the U. S. A specific instance is cited by one of the experts in the following words: "I just recently secured two of the 5c 1847 with the Boston paid cancellation in black, which was first used in Boston in 1852. I also have a pair of the 10c 1857, Type V, with the Boston paid differently cancelled in blue." One of the first authorities on these two stamps, after a careful examination of them, decides that they are counterfeits and quite properly says that the stamp world should be told about them.

A BOOST FOR THE 10,000 MARK.

Under date of January 4, R. L. Hustis of Milwaukee, Wis., sent us no fewer than five subscriptions for 1925, and one of these is for two years. These new subscribers are all members of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society and Mr. Hustis' name will certainly be found upon a subsequent subscription roll of honor. These subscriptions are sent in response to our appeal for co-operation in reaching the 10,000 mark and we appreciate very much the assistance he has rendered.

MORE CLUTTER 102 MINT VARS. DANZIG $1.02
Owing to constant demand we have made these up again. Every lot sold this month will be guaranteed to catalog $6.00 or more and to contain a fine copy of the 5000Mk SILVER. No dealer abroad or at home has offered a packet equal to the MORE CLUTTER. If you have less than 75 varieties of Danzig, the chances are that you will find nearly 50 new varieties in this "M. C."

MUCH MORE CLUTTER 65 BLOCKS OF 4 MINT DANZIG $2.04
Why, Man Alive, 22 of these 65 blocks catalog $10.64. Does that seem like a lot of common junk? That's an average of 52c per BLOCK. And we haven't padded the packet with a superabundance of Dues and Officials. It is a well balanced lot and one you'll find pleasing to the eye and a good investment.

MARK CLIMAX 122 BLOCKS OF 4 MINT GERMANY $2.04
A wonderful collection of the GERMAN REPUBLIC is here offered. To buy the blocks one at a time would cost you a lot of good money. Remember, here are 122 Blocks—including the Castle and Cathedral—and nothing but GERMAN REP.

THE MURAL COVERING 122 BLOCKS OF 4 ALL THE WORLD $2.04
Come on, Boys, and make us work! The first 100 is gone and we are making more up. Your order is next in line and we will fill it the day we get it. Lots of Jazzy "Wall Paper" to brighten up your little HOME.

THE MAGYAR CROWD 112 BLOCKS OF 4 MINT HUNGARY $2.04
What a "Crowd" of orders we have been getting. Well, Gents, we have the goods and we fill the same. Complete sets—The Bolsheviki-Prisoners.

THE MIDWINTER CANTALOUPE $1.02
It begins to look as tho we might exhaust our resources for this "M. C." before Feb. 1. Order yours AT ONCE. 300 "slices" (varieties) "Home Grown".

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

STAMP FORAGING IN THE SOUTH.

By AUGUSTUS DAVISON.

In a hunt of some weeks in a prosperous and progressive Dixie state the writer learned a lot about stamps and people, especially when the two subjects are taken together. What folks of ordinary intelligence do not know about stamp collecting would make several interesting books.

"What do you want with them?" "Just any old stamps?" "Are Confederate stamps any good?" (How can a rabid accumulator control himself under that last question?)

Well, the writer learned two things absolutely: The "finds" are not all through, and yet they are hard to make. The "killings" will be very few and far between from now on. Keeping everlastingly at it brought some success. Perhaps $300 worth wholesale were found in the largest towns of four or five counties.

My first serious lesson was, "Do It Now!" In April an old unoccupied mansion attracted my gaze as it solemnly stood amid the shadows of great trees one moonlight night. My fancy had a fine time for awhile as the happy days of years gone were pictured and then, "There must be some old stamps in that attic or cellar!" Something kept me from following the hunch. Would have been a hundred dollars better off today if I had. For in June my work as newspaper correspondent taking me back to the old town I determined to get a look into the old mansion.

The first interview with the proprietor yielded twenty dollars worth, a 10c '47 off cover being the chief piece. He had just sold a few other to——, a pair of '47 10c on cover and a few Confederates, and had got $48 for them. "I would have given you $75, Mr. H." "I have since sent some more from which I have not yet heard." "You will get about $35 for them. When the check comes tell them you can get sixty-five or seventy, and send check back". Sure enough check for $32 came. It went back but stamps did not return, but a new check for $65 and the explanation that the stamps could not be found high or low, mislaid, etc. They have not yet been found, or at least returned. The writer, this poor luck notwithstanding, has no serious kick, for this introduction ended in a friendly co-operation that brought from Mr. H. and his friends my three hundred dollar business.

A lady, scion of fine old stock, felt she had some locals. Tearing my way to the home and hiring a locksmith to open the conventional old hairtrunk revealed no locals, though first and last we found forty or fifty dollars' worth of salable stuff. We also found where the locals had gone. In an old envelope dating back to 1887 were circulars, a letter, and two bills of stamps received. The invoice totalled $9.75. Some of the items received and paid for in this sum were two of these locals, at one dollar each, now worth $60, one or two TEN Conf., and two 10c roses at twenty cents each, and so on. The invoice makes interesting reading one will sigh a bit over.

"Bonfires"? One would think there must be something of extraordinary spectacular value in old letters ablaze to hear folks talk of the fires they have had with them. Buying $60 worth of a lady, among the lot three or four '57 30c, the gentleman of the house remarked: "Those are the remnant, her side of the house, but mine she wanted burned some time ago and there was a bushel. They came from three generations and had plenty of Confederates." What a comfort to a forager a highminded and liberal dealer can be.

United States.

The 10c Black, Issue of 1847.

A further block of four of the 10c 1847 has been noted, making four blocks in all that are known to date in either unused or used condition. The block which recently came to light is a block of four with excellent margins and with pen cancellation. The cancellation, however, is in light violet crosses, one cross being on each stamp and the block is more beautiful in appearance than an offhand description would lead one to believe. This block changed hands at a price in excess of the figure for which the block of eight of the 5c was purchased by the writer at the recent Waterhouse sale.

The finest block of this stamp known to philately is a horizontal mint block of six in the Gibson collection. This was acquired some years back at an auction sale of the Philadelphia Stamp Company, and if my memory serves me correctly it was originally found in Washington by the Rives family and from them passed to the Scott people. The block is in wonderful condition and looks as fresh as though it had just been cut from the sheet.

There is an unused block of four in the Hind collection and this came from the well-known Duveen holdings. This was originally in the possession of Mr. Gibson, who disposed of it several years back at the time when he acquired the block of six. There is a used block of four, somewhat damaged and cut into, in the collection of Judge Emerson, and this was acquired at the Eagle sale a couple of years back. These four blocks are all that I know to exist of this stamp, although Mr. Hugh M. Clark has told me recently that he had heard of a further used block in the collection of a New York philatelist, although he had never seen the block in question.

This stamp is becoming more popular every day for it is now possible to plate the variety and a number of our foremost collectors are getting together a reconstructed sheet. Data regarding this plating is available to subscribers of the "Collectors Club Philatelist" published by the Collectors Club of New York.

1924, 5c Rotary Print, Perforated 10.

In this column we recently mentioned that the 5c blue printed from the rotary press on unwatermarked paper, perforated 10, was being distributed during the holidays in a precanceled condition. The stamp was recently placed on sale in Philadelphia and while at this writing is not available in unused condition, I have been informed by the Department that it will be on sale at the end of January, so that by the time these notes appear in print, it will no doubt be ready for distribution.

Speaking of the rotary prints brings to mind the fact that several sheets of the 2c stamp were found during the Christmas rush in the Philadelphia stock, without gum. Although the stocks of most of the larger offices are no doubt watched most carefully, I have not learned of any new errors of varieties that have appeared. Of course these stamps without gum had no special value to philatelists and were returned to Washington for redemption.

BRITISH BECHUANALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 2d from Die 2, perforated margin, old watermark, G. V. R. cipher.

CEYLON.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the 12c scarlet on white script watermarked paper. This is a new value and they are printed in sheets of 240 (4 panes of 60).

CHILE.—We are informed that the Pan-American Conference commemoratives, which were withdrawn on July 1st, have been demonetized. The ordinary 8, 14 and 60 centavos stamps have also been withdrawn, but these will shortly reappear as Postage Due provisionals, overprinted "CORRESPONDENCIA MULTADA."

Incidentally we learn that the Postage Dues chronicled in our July 19th issue have all turned up with inverted centres [this is no joke]; three sheets of each value have suspiciously appeared thus.

A new regular adhesive of the denomination of 10 pesos is expected at an early date; it will be printed in orange and will have the portrait of President Errazuriz Echaurren.—Stamp Collecting.

Early Classic United States

One of the well-known collectors from the middle west recently expressed surprise that I carried such a large stock of early United States. He was under the impression that my activities were devoted almost entirely to our 20th Century issues, of which I have one of the most important stocks in existence. My recent trip abroad has resulted in my adding very materially to my already large holdings, and I now solicit want lists of all adhesive issues.

A few of the choice things now on hand:

5c—A horizontal block of six unused
A magnificent pair on cover
Numerous singles with varying cancellations
10c—A perfection pair on cover with boardwalk margins
A number of singles, superb, on cover
Many off cover—plated
1851 ISSUE
1c—Several strips of three
3c—Used block of eight, etc.
5c—Unused single—several used
10c—A superb pair, one recut at top
12c—Magnificent strip of three
1861-66 ISSUE
Numerous singles, blocks and some fine covers
15c—Lincoln—six copies on one cover
1867 ISSUE
Used block of 90c grilled — wonderful condition
1869-1880 ISSUE
Practically everything in singles — many blocks and some few covers
1880-1900 ISSUE
A really superb lot, including most everything in blocks
1901 TO DATE

All of the normal varieties, almost without exception in perfection mint blocks—a 24c airplane invert, a 5c error imperforated, a block of the 1923, 2c and 10c and Harding part perforated.

Also, a nice lot of Departments, including some blocks, but none of the rare ones at present.

WANT TO BUY

Always in the market to buy anything fine in the way of United States. Especially want fine 10c 1847, mint blocks from 1847 to 1880—4c and 8c, 1908 on blue paper, in blocks, rare Department blocks, rare early covers. Money to any amount available. Best of commercial, bank and philatelic reference. What have you to offer?

STANLEY GIBBONS LTD

DEPT. 20, 391 STRAND, LONDON, ENG.

COOK ISLANDS.—Our Palmerston Noth (N. Z.) correspondent, Mr. Charles Ingram, sends us the appended cutting from the Auckland Star, of October 17th.

"Certain postage stamps are to be withdrawn from sale at the end of the present year unless stocks have been exhausted in the meantime. They are:—Aitutaki, Penrhyn—All New Zealand overprinted stamps exeept the 2½d denomination. Niue, Rarotonga.—All overprinted, except 2½d, and 2sh and upwards. Cook Islands—Old issue (Torea and Queen Makea Takau)."—Stamp Collecting.

Mr. R. Roberts also sends us the latest value to appear in the Exhibition stamp. It is the 75c and is ultramarine.

FRANCE.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 15c stamp of the Pasteur type in green. The color is similar to the previous 10c.

GERMANY.—The Economist Stamp Co. send for note the new 1 mark pictorial stamp of the current series. Its color is green and in the centre is a view of the Rhine River with a castle at the left.

HEDJAZ.—Our Cairo correspondent, Mr. Charles Julien Hunt, informs us of a 10 piastre value issued some time ago to replace the 10 piastres on 5 piastres. It is printed in two colours, the design being slightly different from the current issue; the centre is smaller and seems to be printed after the frame, which is violet, as is the 1½ piastre. The centre design is of a deep thick brown.

Very few of these stamps have been seen so far, he adds, and now that communications with Hedjaz are cut we have no news of the philatelic activities of this country. Ibn Soued's great wish is to wipe out the Hachemite family, which means, we suppose, a new issue of postage stamps.—Stamp Collecting.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends for chronicle the following new colors in the current type: 10c olive brown, 15c pale green, 50c rose and 75c blue.

PALESTINE.—In a letter dated December 17th last Mr. R. Roberts informs us that the first local issue of postage due stamps printed at Jerusalem were of the following values; 1m bistre, 2m emerald, 4m carmine, 8m mauve and 13m blue. The side margins of the sheets are perforated through all round, both top, bottom and all sides. Perf. 11. The writer also encloses copies of the 1924. new type, postage due series, which are surface printed in London on script watermarked paper with white perforated gutter between, the size of one stamp lengthwise, which is bisected by a line perforation 14, for the convenience of tearing the panes in half, the sheets being perforated by a comb machine P. 14. The bottom margin of the lower pane is imperforate. The values and shades are: 1m brown, 2m pale yellow, 4m light green, 8m red, 13m dark blue and 5p purple.

PERU.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to a new set of stamps bearing the portrait of Bolivar and above the frame the figures "1824 1924" with the word "Ayacucho" between. The values we have received are the 2c olive, 4c green, 5c grey, 10c red, 20c ultramarine, 50c violet, 1s brown and 2s blue. The 2c, 20c, 50c, 1s and 2s are of one design and the other three values are each slightly different.

TRINIDAD.—From Mr. R. Roberts we have received the 6d rose and green on emerald, script watermark.

A COMMEMORATIVE PLANNED.

A subscriber has sent us a clipping from the Senate Congressional Record dealing with a proposed postage stamp in commemoration of the Norwegian cruiser "Restaurationen" which will prove of interest to our readers:

The joint resolution (S. J. Res. 133) authorizing and requesting the Postmaster-General to design and issue a special postage stamp to commemorate the arrival in New York on October 9, 1825, of the sloop Restaurationen, bearing the first shipload of immigrants to the United States from Norway, and in recognition of the Norse-American centennial celebration in 1925, was considered as in Committee of the Whole and was read as follows:

Resolved, etc., That the Postmaster-General is authorized, and he is hereby requested, to design and issue a special postage stamp of the denomination of 2 cents in commemoration of the arrival in New York, on October 9, 1825, of the sloop Restaurationen, bearing the first shipload of immigrants to the United States from Norway, and in recognition of the Norse-American centennial celebration in June, 1925.

The joint resolution was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads reported an amendment to the preamble, to strike out "Minneapolis, Minn.," and insert "the Minnesota State Fair Grounds," so as to make the preamble read:

Whereas, the sloop Restaurationen, the "Mayflower" of the Norsemen, on July 4, 1825, sailed out of Stavanger Harbor, Norway, with 52 emigrants on board; and

Whereas, this vessel, after a perilous and romantic voyage through the British Channel and by the way of the island of Madeira, reached the port of New York on October 9, 1825; and

Whereas, there are now approximately 2,000,000 descendants of the Norsemen in the United States, who have been an important factor in developing large sections of our country and in otherwise contributing to the moral and material welfare of our Nation; and

Whereas, the coming of the sloop Restaurationen with her human cargo to our shores is to be commemorated by a centennial celebration at the Minnesota State Fair Grounds, in June, 1925, which centennial is also to be observed by descendants of the Norsemen throughout the United States: Therefore be it

The amendment to the preamble was agreed to.

The preamble as amended was agreed to.

PHILADELPHIA BUSY.

The Christmas meeting of the Philadelphia Stamp Club held in the Grand Fraternity Building, Tuesday evening, December 30th, was one of the greatest successes in the history of the Club. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the largest audience attended this meeting to hear the interesting discussion of Mr. Phillips of New York, and Messrs. Ward and Steinmetz of Philadelphia.

The specialized collection of U. S. Department stamps, including cancellations and minor varieties, was an eye-opener to many of the visitors from out of town, as well as from our own locality. Mr. Phillips had five volumes, which were exhibited on five different tables in charge of five members of the Phila. Stamp Club, and he went from one table to the other, making explanations of the various varieties of interest.

Mr. Ward exhibited some of the purchases he made at the great Waterhouse Sale in London, and the Ferrari Sale in Paris. The principal attraction in Mr. Ward's exhibit was the block of eight 5c of 1847 cancelled, the only and largest known block there is. This block was sold for $3,500 and Mr. Ward purchased it for a Philadelphia client. Mr. Ward further exhibited his wonderful collection of Presidential U. S. Franks, practically complete.

Mr. Steinmetz realized that the exhibitions would take up considerable time and did not bring any stamps with him, but he gave us a splendid 30 minute talk on stamps from an investment point of view, and also told us many things in regard to the Air Mail Service.

The little pocket folder to hold stamps with the compliments of the season of the Phila. Stamp Club was greatly appreciated. The meeting resulted in 12 new applications for membership to the Club, and as many more promises. It was generally conceded that this was one of the most successful meetings that the Club has ever held.—M. APPLEBAUM.

STAMPS A MYSTERY.

ROME.—Threatening letters, bearing mysterious red stamps, have been received through the mails by several of Rome's wealthiest men. The stamps bear a picture of a stooped old man with a dagger in his hand. The letters all tell the rich men of their approaching "doom."—Mil. Journal, Jan. 3, 1925.

We alwaze thot most stamp dealers wuz tuff burds, but theze guys ar pullin a nu wun. We beleave this isshu iz "unoffishul". But not beein a rich Roman we aint saw enny yet. Thay aint even bin menshund in yur "Chronic Nu Isshus". (P. S. Its Rome, It. not N. Y., iz ment.)

THE STORY ABOUT BOYLE.

By C. E. R.

There was a collector named Boyle,
Who mounted his stamps with much toil;
When the hinges would squeak,
Not a word would he speak—
He would merely apply castor oil.

Now Boyle was a real collector,
A specialist I hear,
Who sought a cancellation date
For each month of the year;
And when he finished that one year
His work had just begun,
And now he's hunting every date
Clear back to '41.

UPTOWN STAMP CO. HAS A REBATE

In January, 1924, the Uptown Stamp Co., of New York City, contracted for 3,000 lines of advertising space to be used during the year at 16c per line. So well satisfied were they with the results of their advertising that instead of using 3,000 lines they used 4,607. We have rerated the firm's advertising upon the basis of the space used, and as a result the firm received a New Year's rebate of $92.14 towards their advertising account for 1925.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Albert S. Faught, Philadelphia, Pa.
Louis Strauss, New York City.
Carl H. Hackert, New York City.
E. J. Crawford, Fresno, Calif.
James J. London, Prescott, Ariz.

Our Honor Club began the New Year in a very auspicious manner, for on January 2, we received no fewer than three applications for membership and all three remittances are herewith gratefully acknowledged. They came from Albert Smith Faught, of the firm of Walnut, Sutton & Faught attorneys at Law, Otis Bldg., Philadelphai, Pa.; Louis Strauss, 20 Broad St., N. Y. City, and Carl H. Hackert, 332 E. 87 St., N. Y. City. Mr. Faught asks us to reprint an article on "The Swastika" which appeared in our publication several years ago and we shall try to comply with the request. He specializes in metered mail.

Two persons are happy in the application of E. J. Crawford for membership in the Honor Club. Mr. Crawford is happy in the fact that he received a "five spot" for Christmas, and decided that the best use he could make of it was to apply it to a five years' subscription to the WEEKLY. The managing editor is happy in that this decision was arrived at. We may add that Mr. Crawford is the assistant general superintendent of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, Fresno, Calif.

James J. London of Prescott, Arizona, also decided that he could make a good Christmas present to himself by joining the Honor Club, and the result is a remittance of $5 for five years' renewal.

NASSAU STAMP CO.

A PHILATELIC U. S. COAT OF ARMS.

(Through the kindness of Wm. W. T. Squire, director of the Junior Achievement Foundation of New Britain, Conn., we have been favored with the following clipping from the New Britain Daily Herald. The article was written by Kermet E. Parker, M. H. C. While philatelists will appreciate this artistic effort they will not appreciate the wastage of so many good postage stamps.—W. O. W.)

Five thousand postage stamps and 28 months of his time were used by Stephen Khanzadian of 131 Hartford Avenue in the manufacture of a unique and elaborate United States coat of arms, the design of which is composed entirely of varicolored postal labels from all over the world. Other designs, such as flags and maps, have been made out of postage stamps, but few if any of them are so intricate or perfectly put together, all the details of Mr. Khanzadian's design being meticulously worked out with infinite care.

This piece of work, which is on a backing of white silk, shows the American eagle, with wings spread, perched above the national shield. At the top is the lettering, "United States of America," carefully worked out amid intricate scroll work. The design is completed by fanciful sprays of leaves and by the designer's name and the date in the lower right corner.

The blue field of the shield is composed of French 15 centimes stamps of the "Peace and Commerce" type used during the '90's, the 13 stars being carefully cut out of this so that the white silk shows through. The stripes contain various red stamps from the United States and many other countries. The eagle, which is made up of labels from such far-flung nations as Bulgaria, Chile, and Zanzibar, has a small red eye and blue lids. The best work, however, is in the borders and floral ornamentation. Here, literally hundreds of pieces an eighth of an inch in size were fitted together to form beadwork and other complicated decorative forms, all being cut and glued so well that there is not a single misfit in the whole work, which has been placed under glass and framed.

The interest in this piece attaches to its novelty, for the stamps themselves, mostly of little value originally, have been so mutilated that they are now worthless as individual specimens. Mr. Khanzadian has a separate collection, mounted on cards, which contains stamps of a much better class, including rare old Western Australians and many scarce surcharged stamps issued in the Near East during and after the war. Peculiar interest attaches to a pair of British one shilling stamps, bearing King Edward VII's portrait, plainly cancelled, "Buckingham Palace."

Mr. Khanzadian is seeking to exhibit this frame at the convention of some philatelic society in the hope of bringing it to the attention of the stamp-collecting public.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

THE WASHINGTON PHILATELIC SOCIETY IS PLANNING TO OPEN A CLUB ROOM.

(We are indebted to James F. Duhamel for the news matter contained in this article. It consists of a remarkably fine editorial from the Washington "Star" appreciative of the work the Washington Philatelic Society is doing, and a news clipping that will prove of interest to our readers. We shall be pleased to give wide publicity to the activities of this enterprising society and especially the stamp exhibition to be held the week of January 26th. It is possible that there may be a radio broadcast and radio enthusiasts will do well to be on the look-out.—W. O. W.)

The Philatelic Society.

The Washington Philatelic Society has announced that it will have a clubhouse, or, more properly, a clubroom, down town, "where the members may meet to talk over stamp collection, and exchange stamps and hold auctions." A stamp exhibition will be held by the society in the Washington Public Library during the week beginning January 26.

Many people will feel a thrill of joy that the Washington Philatelic Society is prosperous and growing. Philatelists are those who love postage stamps. The work of collecting, identifying and classifying stamps has come to the degree of a science and the collectors have reached the place of scientists. Tens of thousands of us might have been scientists in this sphere of learning, having had the youth and enthusiasm, but somehow the enthusiasm waned and other things called from the happy and absorbing work of hunting, trading and pasting postage stamps.

Not long ago these gray scientists were as most other boys and girls. They were not philatelists, but plain and busy stamp collectors. Some of them were called pests by staid and pompous people who had outgrown youth. When it was learned in the neighborhood that some one had received a letter from a relative abroad the house of the neighbor was besieged to get the stamp. Most likely it had already been promised. Bitter disappointment, but not discouragement! Knowing that a friend in the neighborhood had a relative in Italy or Russia, the postman or the clerk in the substation was waited on, interviewed and cross-examined and a watch kept on the neighbor that no canceled postage stamp might escape.

Offices were visited and requests were made that permission be granted to search the waste baskets. If the office boy was also a collector, and no doubt he was, business arrangements were entered into for trading duplicates. Bold boys would invade the government departments and interview the chief clerks and other clerks and anybody suspected of having canceled postage stamps. The special postage stamps used by each department were prizes.

Hustling boys would write letters, good, bad and indifferent, to foreign ministers and consuls throughout the United States and to American Ministers and consuls throughout the world. The subject of each letter was canceled foreign postage stamps. The clerk in the drug store was cultivated, and "proprietary" stamps—those which were on every bottle of cough syrup, box of pills, hair-grower, youth-restorer, etc.—were sought. If he were a good clerk every box and bottle in the shop would be bereft of its proprietary stamp.

Even in those remote times there were postage stamp authorities, stamp books and a few stamp dealers. Few boys could afford regular stamp albums. Most boys got almanacs at the drug store and pasted their stamps by country and set, so far as they could classify them. The window of the stamp dealer's shop was as alluring as one in which a stem-winder, nickel watch or a breech-loading shot gun was displayed. What important purchases, deals and trades were made with the stamp dealers! The cross-word puzzle was a mild distemper in comparison with stamp collecting.

Some of the boys remained constant to their hobby and now they are wearing spectacles and can deliver lectures and write books about stamps. Honor to these veterans and may they increase in number and may they gather rare specimens for many, many years to come!

Collectors to Have Clubhouse.

Washington's stamp collectors are to have a home of their own.

Encouraged by recent additions to its membership and anticipating increasing local interest in stamp collecting, the Washington Philatelic Society is planning to open a clubroom at 1338 G street, where the members may meet to talk over stamp collection, exchange stamps and hold auctions. Sufficient furniture has been collected to furnish the room for the regular meetings of the society, and the society will move soon into its new quarters.

A stamp exhibition will be held by the society in the Public Library during the week of January 26. The reception committee in charge of the exhibition will include the entire membership of the society.

Arrangements have been made with the library management to inclose the exhibits, appropriately labeled, in cases in which they can be readily inspected. Short talks will be given each night by members of the society.

During the coming season the society will begin a campaign of education to the general collector in pointing out frauds that are being foisted on the tyro and the detection of counterfeits by collectors. The society will hold a special meeting Monday night in the new clubroom, when steps will be taken to put the room in shape for permanent occupancy.

The following committees have been appointed for the exhibition: Arrangements, P. S. Warren, M. G. Skinner, J. F. Du Hamel, H. H. Marsh, E. I. Crum, R. T. Hungerford and C. H. Vaughn; publicity, J. F. Du Hamel, N. H. Sanborn, W. F. McKenney, F. S. Gichener, G. A. Martin, Max Sanborn and W. I. Plant; exhibits, W. Sahm, J. D. K. Smoot, W. H. Collins, A. N. Candell, J. C. Wilson, W. H. Boatwright, V. Wiergang and J. T. Clemens.

President William A. Johnson is Chairman of the Reception Committee.

PACKETS OF EARLY U. S.

These are "educator" packets made up for the many collectors who are not sure where to find album spaces for the early issues of United States postage stamps. All are clean, sound stamps, good condition.

Packet "A" contains 30 varieties U. S. postage stamps including all issues from 1851 to 1887, each one dated for you, price $2.00

Packet "B" contains 20 varieties of hard-to-place Bank Note issues of 1870 to 1887, every stamp identified for you, price $1.00

Four hard ones, 50c: the 4c Green, 4c Carmine, 5c Brown and 5c Blue U. S. stamps of the 1880's. All sound copies.

We solicit want lists of seasoned 19th Century issues of United States or Foreign stamps and will gladly send approval selections to general collector or specialist against dealer references.

We buy and exchange stamps; the collector's duplicates, the dealers' "Hard to move" items, old correspondence, or accumulations. [tf

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties. Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Some old postmarks have been called to my attention, and you may take an interest in these. A friend dropped in to see me tother day, and in the course of converse philatelic, made mention of the town of "Sacarappa, Maine". Funny name—say it out loud once! Sounds like the combination of a Spanish ejaculation, and the exhaust of a single cylinder motor. Looked for this town in the Postal Guide, and it isn't there. So dug out my old 1826 First Postal Guide and find it to have been a flourishing P. O. at that time, doing a $26.67 postal business, this being far in excess of many a (now) larger town. They used an "X" on their 3c '69's which is a pretty cancellation. Many towns used this "X" at later date than the '47's, why, I don't know. Another oddly named town is "Rising Sun, Wis". Have a cover from there to Prairie du Chien posted with a strip of three 3c '61's, a 10c '61 and a Black Jack, the stamps being covered by a hand made device containing the open letters "R H", as well made as tho of recent manufacture, presenting a beautifully clearly postmarked cover of legal size.

Another odd town is "Grasshopper Falls" with a pair of Black Jacks, a 3c and 5c '61. Then on the common 10c engraved Confederate is a town, "Little Rockfish, N. C." not in the P. O. Guide today. Collecting Town Postmarks is an interesting relief from intensive study and plating, and one has a lot of fun with these odd postmarks.

The past week has seen no answers to Queries, tho two new queries have arrived.

Mr. E. Tudor Gross asks, "What is the largest used block of the 1c 1861 issue you have seen?" Mentions having a block of (5x3) fifteen on the cover! Even a block of four of that stamp in used condition is quite rare as used blocks of '61's run.

Mr. Elmer F. Bodurtha asks "About the colored lines that come between the panes of stamps, why are some of them perforated?" He mentions particularly the 1c 1857. You have probably noted 3c 1857's with just the vertical line and a cut edge frequently, and very rarely a stamp showing the vertical perforations. I have seen many perforated vertically, yet never paid any attention to the "why" of this unusual variety. What might be the answer?

To continue the sending of Mr. C. H. Stiles, the stamp that interests me is a 2c 1883 red brown with the inscription reading down across the whole stamp, "Held for Postage" in capital letters. The top word is curved, and in big letters. What catches my eye is the fact that the top left corner is gone, and the Postmaster probably held that it had been used. While these "Held for Postage" markings are sometimes found, I have never seen one used in a similar circumstance, as they are usually so stamped for insufficient postage.

He sends a very cleanly made shield on a 3c 1861. It falls directly on the stamp, and has four vertical bars in the shield, the top portion being composed of stars cut into the wood, and showing in colorless spots. Very pretty shield indeed. But the cancellation that would be of most interest to all is a very fine skull and bones. This is a much larger device than any I have ever seen. It falls on a 2c 1883 on a piece of cover, the postmark showing only a part of the town, possibly "Stoneham, Mass." from the "———EHAM" showing, and addressed to Boston. This skull is a beauty—well, a well made one I should say. It has clear eyes, a small nose, and a neat lower makillary which rests on the crossed bones, same being a well turned pair, and the effect of this black obliteration on the stamp is distinctive enough.

3c green re-engraved. Mr. G. H. Kennedy has shown me an unmistakable shift on a well centered copy. The top label shows shift in these letters, ... U, the period (which looks like a half moon), and the POST and G. It shows best in the U and the T and period. Also slightly in the bottom label, and is so clear that it is unmistakable.

An American Print shows a very bad gash eclipsing the whole top of the T of THREE, and is readily seen without a glass. This is a plate variety, as Mr. Kennedy has another of this stamp. Both the above are clearly printed copies. He has some others that are shifts; but they are of the less distinct type, more as blurs, yet three copies of one variety prove it to be a shift.

Mr. E. A. Young has called my attention to a real plate variety on the 1c 1861 stamp. This is a good sized dot in color near the top of the left stem of the "U" at the bottom left of this stamp. This dot is a good sized dot, and comes right near the top of the white vertical bar, or upright. He has sent a cover with horizontal strip of three, each of which has this dot. Mr. Young compares it with the "dot in S" on the 5c '47 stamp, and it is quite a similar affair. They are not uncommon, and you should find some easily.

Hope that some of the past queries may receive answers in the near future, as we now have many unanswered.

HISTORY FROM POSTAGE STAMPS.

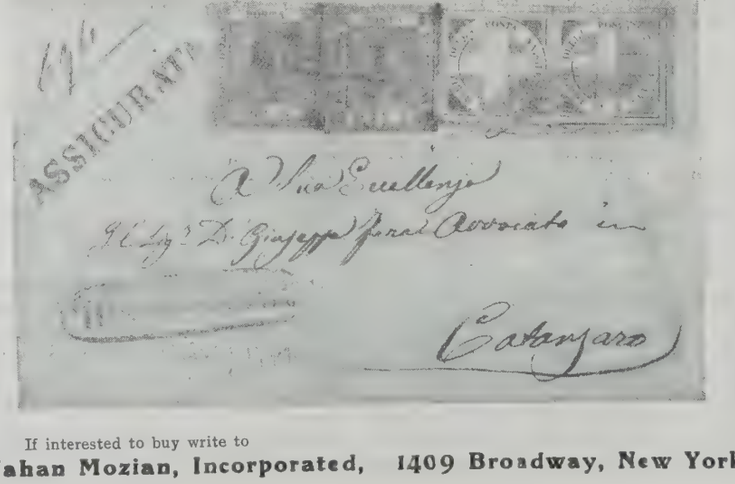
By CHARLES G. WILSON.

One of the most interesting series of stamps issued by the United States is the Trans-Mississippi Issue of 1898 in commemoration of the settlement of the West. To the stamp collector and the student of history they serve alike to keep fresh in memory America's great epic, the conquest of her western empire. The 8c stamp of that issue depicts soldiers guarding a train.

The era of Western railway construction began in the year 1861, the year Fort Sumter fell and the Northern and Southern States arrayed themselves to battle for four long years of civil war. At that time all the territory west of the 100th meridian was practically bare of white settlements with the exception of Denver and Salt Lake City. Over this unknown hinterland roamed herds of bison and warring Indian tribes, while scattered here and there were a few daring nomad ranchers. Intrepid souls returned from trips of exploration with glowing accounts of fertile land, timber, and gold. About 1860 the floods of emigrants began to pour out on the old overland trails of the Forty-Niners. In the first half of the decade of the Sixties it is said that from 4,000 to 10,000 wagons were daily moving over the trails save in the dead of Winter. President Lincoln and other men prominent in national and financial affairs saw the necessity of a railroad for the development of the West. So, in the year 1861, the Union Pacific Railway, assisted by the Government, began to push out iron feelers from Omaha. Despite the Civil War work on the railroad was not allowed to lapse.

The close of the war found great hordes of emigrants going out on the trails, the Santa Fe Trail, the Overland Trail, and the Oregon Trail to Oregon and California. The irresistible floods of humanity were awe-inspiring. They were the hosts of a nation on the march. Emigration was greatly stimulated by the war. The soldiers, after four long years of campaigning, found it hard to go back to the humdrum ways of peace so they loaded their wives and children and household goods into the Conestoga wagons and marched into the setting sun in search of adventure, fortune, excitement. They found it all, with death thrown into the bargain for many.

The Indians did not take kindly to this invasion of their land. For centuries the country had been theirs to roam and hunt over at will. The Forty-Niners had surprised and angered them, but this new invasion of the "pale face" was intolerable. In it the old chiefs read the end of their free life; the buffalo gone and the prairie mutilated by the plow. The whites must be stopped. The Indians went on the warpath.



The Kansas Pacific was now building over the Kansas Trail to Denver. Every inch of rail laid was furiously resisted by the Cheyennes under their chieftains, Roman Nose and Black Kettle. They swept across western Kansas like a devastating cyclone leaving murder and glowing embers in their path. Entire building gangs were wiped out. The situation was most serious. Road-builders and emigrants alike clamored to the Government for protection. General Sheridan, of Winchester fame, was sent to take the field in person with, as usual, an entirely inadequate force at his disposal. So began a long and arduous war, of raid and counter raid, of rides in zero weather, of battle against well-armed organized savages of high intelligence but fiendish cruelty. And too often death by torture was the reward of the soldier.

The Union Pacific reached Wyoming in 1867. The war-trails resounded immediately to the thudding hoofs of the braves as they rode to give battle to the invaders. The Government rushed out troops to protect the builders. It was the beginning of a war that flamed as stubbornly as a forest fire for they were fighting patriots, men fighting for their homeland. The Sioux and their allies, the Cheyennes, led by Red Cloud, Rain-in-the-Face, Sitting Bull and American Horse, fought bravely and well. They trapped Custer, the beau sabreur, and all his men in the Big Horn Campaign, and slaughtered them to the last man. To the Indians it was a losing fight for they had not the man-power to win.

The continent was spanned in when parties working on the Union cific from the West and East m Promontory Point, Utah.

In 1876 the fighting power of th dians was forever broken and they swept by the Army into reservation aside for them.

THE NEW YORK BANQUET.

(Phila. Ledger Bureau, N. Y. C., Jan. 12).

Some seventy years ago an imaginative French school teacher, whose name has long since been forgotten, urged his none-too-eager pupils to collect the postage stamps of foreign nations and paste them into their atlases and geographies. Interest in that particular branch of learning began to pick up at once and, incidentally, the first formal classification of stamps in collections was begun.

A hundred men will gather round a banquet table at the Hotel Astor on Wednesday night. Thev are, with very few exceptions, millionaires. Some of them have paid well into the thousands for a single stamp; as high as $30,000, for instance. Some have chased around the curves of this suspended sphere for one or a dozen stamps. They are members of the Collectors Club of New York.

At the table will be Alfred L. Lichtenstein, millionaire dye magnate; Theodore E. Steinway, wealthy piano man; J. Philip Benkard, a Wall Street broker; Charles M. Ams; Rear Admiral Frederick Harris, of the Brooklyn Navy Yard; John T. Coit, the New Jersey banker; Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, dean of the department of mathematics of the Brooklyn Institute of Technology.

Others will come from afield. Irving H. Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster-General, and whose wife is an ardent stamp collector, will come from Washington. J. A. Calder, of Ottawa, a Canadian Senator, will be present, and so will Dr. L. L. Reford, of Montreal. And former Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey.

Among the events of the evening will be the presentation of the club's first philatelic medal. It will go to Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, for "the most outstanding philatelic achievement of the year," his work in connection with the stamps of Victoria, Australia.

But this is just the annual banquet, a mere trifle in the activities of New York's philatelists. Every week they meet in their clubrooms at 120 West 49th Street, a fine old brownstone-front house, the lovely approach to which has been covered by an unbecoming modern entrance to an Italian restaurant.

There the millionaires gather regularly not to talk of stocks and bonds, but to chuckle and possibly haggle over watermarks, perforations, dotted backgrounds, wavy lines, boardwalk margins and the countless things which make certain stamps more than mere marks of postal taxation. The surrounding walls are lined with books, the finest philatelic library to be found anywhere in the world.

Part of the time, too, is devoted to planning the International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in October, 1926, but for which an entire floor in Grand Central Palace already has been engaged, along with scores of men to guard the exhibits, which will include the rarest of stamps, the value of which will run into the millions.

Incidentally, at the present moment, an American is bidding for the philatelic honors of the world, formerly held by Count Ferrary, who died leaving a superb collection to the Berlin Postal Museum. But he died in Paris during the war and the French Government seized the collection. It is now being sold and the money applied to reparations. Arthur Hind, of Utica, N. Y., who has made a fortune in thread, is buying many of these stamps and numerous other rare ones. He is building up a stupendous collection.

PARIS EXHIBITION.

From April 30th to May 10th an International Stamp Exhibition will be held in Paris at the Marsan Pavillion at the Palace of the Tuilleries. The management has sent us a list of the various classes in which entries may be made and all readers of the WEEKLY who are interested in obtaining particulars may address M. Jurion, 2 Alle de Chalets, Villemomble, France. Plans for this exhibition are being made upon a large scale and the WEEKLY is very desirous that American collectors shall show their interest by entering in the various divisions and by attending the exhibition itself.

TWIN CITY PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

The twelfth annual meeting and banquet of the Twin City Philatelic Society, (Minneapolis - St. Paul) was held on Saturday evening, January 10th. After a successful banquet, the business meeting was called. Five new members were admitted. Excellent work among Boy Scouts and other organizations was reported. The Crapser Membership Prize for 1924 was awarded to Mr. Edw. S. Stebbins.

Officers elected for 1925 were: President, L. R. Sours; Vice-President, E. J. Gifford; Sec'y-Treas., E. M. Oleson; Board of Directors, Members At Large: O. J. Olson, Edw. S. Stebbins, Philip Little, Jr.

Mr. Little's specialized collection of U. S. Revenues, and Dr. Hyde's specialized collection of the 3c 1861 U. S. were exhibited. A pleasing spirit of enthusiasm and good fellowship filled the entire evening.—E. M. OLESON, Sec'y.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Syracuse Stamp Club of Syracuse, N. Y., is now staging its annual exhibit at the Carnegie Library thru the month of January. The Exhibition is in charge of A. A. Leve of the club.

—Dr. W. I. Mitchell of Paonia, Colo., has purchased Mr. Siegfried Schachne's entire collection and stock of envelopes. It is the largest by far in existence and Dr. Mitchell opens up this week in the WEEKLY a series of advertisements which indicate that he has the stock in shape to do business. We bespeak for him the consideration of all envelope collectors.

—We shall shortly publish the index for 1924 and sometime in February several bound volumes for 1924 will be available. Interested parties should take this matter up with the Beverly office.

—William Van of Winnipeg suffered from a severe fire December 19 when his entire stock of holiday goods was destroyed. Considerable damage was done to his stamp and album stock but the most valuable part of the same was in a large fireproof box and undamaged. Mr. Van's loss was partially covered by insurance and he is now getting his store in shape again.

—Two interesting catalogs are at hand from the Y. Souren Co. The firm has issued a specialized catalog of the stamps of Soviet Russia with description of all known varieties. The book is priced at 20c. Quotations are made upon the stamps both used and unused. Jan. 31st and Feb. 4th the eleventh and twelfth public auction sales will be held. A particularly good lot of specialized Spain is listed and a fine selection of early issues of other countries is noted. There is an insert to the catalog of 14 pages, picturing sheets, blocks, entires and single stamp rarities that the sale offers. It will be a philatelic treat for any auction buyer to procure one of these catalogs.

—We are indebted to A. C. Hettler for two courtesies. He has shown us a 2p Fiji, 1878, imperf. pair. It is No. 42a and is imperforate horizontally. The stamp was listed in the catalog upon the strength of the specimen submitted. Mr. Hettler also sends us a copy of the Glasgow Courier dated Jan. 16, 1800. It is of course quite interesting to even the casual reader, but to stamp collectors especially for the reason that it bears in the upper righthand corner a frank, "three half pence".

—A Michigan subscriber informs us that Hon. W. Frank James of Hancock, representative from the 12th Mich. District, is a stamp collector. He was returned to Congress in the last election by a two to one vote over his opponent.

—The Chicago Philatelic Society has decided to hold its annual banquet February 19th, in their club room at the Hotel Morrison. For years these banquets have been the outstanding feature in the philatelic realm and this year gives promise of eclipsing them all. They have been held regularly ever since its organization in 1886. The committee in charge are Henry Ades Fowler, chairman, Chas. F. Mann and James A. Zalud, the same personnel as last year.

CHICAGO PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

At the first meeting in the New Year of the Chicago Philatelic Society the newly elected officers were installed, the one absentee being L. Josephson, Director. The appointive officers were filled as follows: Henry Ades Fowler, Publicity Mgr.; James W. Rowell, Auction Mgr.; A. F. Boehm, Sales Mgr.; L. Josephson, Counterfeit Detector; E. H. S. Martin, Attorney; Richard McP. Cabeen, Librarian.

The regular committees were filled as follows: (The first designated person being the Chairman): Reception—H. A. Fowler, F. M. Isensee, and J. W. Andrews. Membership—G. W. Hoogenboom, C. Schlesinger and G. C. Abbott. Obituary— C. W. Balke, C. Schlieckert and H. A. Opalla. Entertainment—B. L. Voorhees, M. Golding and E. L. Stuart.

The foregoing bespeak an active year in Chicago Philatelic circles. The recruiting committee, of which Charles Esterly Severn is chairman, should accomplish much during its term as philately is quite active in this locality. The meetings are well attended and local collectors and those visiting in the city are cordially invited to attend. The club room is in the Hotel Morrison and the meeting nights are the first and third Thursdays of the month.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME.

Almost the first legislator that the Managing Editor met with on assuming his legislative duties January 8th, was a philatelist, Dr. Chas. E. Abbott of Andover, Mass., who has had about eight years in the House. As we gripped hands, he said: "Well, this is interesting, I am number 1 on a roll call and you are number 240." When the first roll had been called who should take pains to hunt me up but another philatelist, Arthur Harrison Hall of Cambridge. Then I chatted with my next door neighbor and found that he, too, had a collection. Truly, the legislative woods seem full of philatelists.

HARDING PRECANCELS

A friend of ours made a business trip last fall. The other day he came to me and said, "George, I picked up a bunch of Harding precancels on my trip last year and if you can sell them I will make you a low price on the lot." That is the reason for the stamps in this advertisement and the cut prices at which they are offered. Previously we had acquired a few of each of the items and had asked higher prices for them. Now we have arranged to get the lot of each of these stamps that our friend had and we tell you that in no case was there over 100 copies. In some cases much less. We didn't get the full 100 in any case, so what we have won't last long, but the man wants the cash and we want to move the stamps for him, so in order to help us flop this deal we want precancel fans to read this offer and buy 50 of these sets at once. As soon as we have sold 50 of any of the items offered, these prices are cancelled. We don't know of any dealer who has a supply of any of these items and if you want them you probably will never see them for less than the prices given here. This offer will not appear again.

Remember, only 50 sets of the above to be sold. Buy any single ones or take 'em all.

PLATE NUMBER COLLECTION—A remarkable collection of nearly 350 different Plate number blox of six of Harding Precancels. Probably largest lot in existence and a prize for someone. Price on request.

PLAIN UNUSED HARDINGS

Imperf., plain block four, the four arrow blox of four, the four plate number blox of six, the center line block of four, and a vertical and horizontal line block of four, with four corner blox of four, the skeleton of a sheet of 400, a fine lot in perfect mint condition only $5.00

HARDING ERROR We have acquired a sheet of 100 copies of the perf. 11 in which the left vertical row of perfs. runs through the back of the "2" at left, an error of manufacture which should have never left the department. As long as these last, singles, pairs, blox at 25c per stamp. Plate block of six $3.50

BILLS PAYABLE WHEN PRESENTED.

Most of our advertisers comply with our rule "payment on presentation of bill" but there are a few who do not understand the terms under which advertising is accepted. The rule in question will be rigidly enforced during the coming season and it must be understood that under no circumstances will we continue the advertising of patrons whose remittances reach us later than the 18th of the month. In other words, the first issue of the following month will not contain the advertising of those in arrears.

EDITORIAL.

Readers of the papers are aware of the fact that a request has been made that a commemorative issue of postage stamps be made to celebrate the centennial in 1925, of the landing of the first Norwegian immigrants in this country. Influential organizations of Americans of Norwegian descent have petitioned the postmaster-general bringing to bear arguments in support of the proposal to celebrate the voyage of the "Restaurationen" which sailed from Norway, July 4, 1825, with fifty-two emigrants that debarked at New York October 9, 1825. The WEEKLY has been requested to espouse the cause of the stamps, and while we are aware that memorial stamps of this kind have a distinctive advertising advantage, yet the question of the issue of them is one upon which our readers are greatly divided, we have reason to know by the recent discussion of such issues in our columns. Consequently, we shall take no action in the manner indicated but shall rest the case of the stamps with our readers.

Through the kindness we have received from Mr. Adolph Sontag of Chicago a copy of the fifty cent purple current issue of Italy with the advertising tab attached. After scanning the stamp, it becomes easy to understand how much opposition has been engendered by the action of Italy in loaning the stamps to such palpable publicity purposes. From the New York Times we learn that Italians of all classes, even the Fascisti, are loud in their demands that this prostitution of the stamps be discontinued. It is doubtful if the money that is derived through the sale of the added space on the stamps will salve the feelings of those who do not concern themselves with the needs of the country for added revenue, and it is likely that the practice will not be of long duration. We read that many large advertisers have bought space purely on the business aspect of the concession, and that a number of American firms have succeeded in securing place on the stamps. A copy before us has a large letter "s" in red, and between the double lines of the letter, the name in Italian "Machine Singer Peroucire", (Singer Sewing Machine) appears. The advertising space on these stamps is not rendered attractive by the business legends, it is safe to say, and the artistic sensibilities of the Italians must receive a severe jolt when they attend to their correspondence; and we predict a short and exciting life for these advertising stamps.

In one of the "columns" that are now so popular in the newspapers, we find a bit of poetry entitled, "My Collection". In the Chicago Post the versifier says that he has heard of folks collecting the strangest sort of things, and that while some save bits of China or shabby antique chairs, "there are quite a number choose postage stamps for theirs". We are satisfied that the author gives an important place to stamps in the list of hobbies, and that he admits that there are a good number of stamp collectors, which shows that he keeps up with the times. It may be added that he thinks he has something new in saving "up each minute and smile I get from you".

The Cincinnati newspapers have been giving a good bit of space to a case in the courts based on a case that was instituted by Mr. J. Weiss a stamp dealer of that city against Mr. H. Roberts, a dealer of London, England. It seems that alleged slander and defamation of character were the basis for the suit by Mr. Weiss. It was admitted that Mr. Weiss has in his possession "about 50,000 canceled stamps" that had been consigned to him by Mr. Roberts. The stamps that were the subject of the cause were valued at $260.13, and at the first trial a verdict of $300 against Mr. Roberts was awarded. On a second trial, granted because of the plea of the attorney representing Mr. Roberts that he had not received notice of the trial, and consequently could not represent his client, the verdict rendered was $2,677 for Mr. Weiss and $100 for his attorneys; and also the 50,000 stamps that Mr. Roberts had sent were given to Mr. Weiss. We notice that Mr. A. D. Fennel was one of Mr. Weiss' legal representatives.

It has been called to the attention of the publishers of the WEEKLY that a number of persons are using the name of this publication as a reference in public and private when seeking to establish trade relations with others. It is the rule of the WEEKLY to never grant the use of its name in this connection, and it is well for persons who may have occasion to be interested in this statement to be guided accordingly. The philatelic adventurer or worse will always be with us, and it is advisable that at least we clip his wings as much as possible, if we cannot give him his quietus altogether.

The Associated Press had a most interesting story regarding the evident misuse of authority by someone aware of the desirability of old stamps. The story was released in the newspapers having the A. P. reports on January 8, 1925. The despatch from Austin, Texas, says that a protest was filed by the Austin Stamp Collectors Club, C. H. Machke, president, in view of the discovery that a few days before, according to another despatch, many stamps had been abstracted from documents among the archives of the office of the secretary of state. It is alleged that the "vandalism" was perpetrated some years ago, and it is surmised that the pilferer was actuated by sordid rather than philatelic motives. The Rev. J. S. Dallman, a member of the Austin society said that some time ago a Confederate stamp of Halletsville, Texas, "the only one in the world, valued by collectors at from $10,000 to $15,000" was taken from a document and sold in New York for $500. It is reported that the secretary of state of Texas is making an investigation of the irregularity and that a cry has arisen for adequate guard for documents that may have a value in a historic or other sense. In sending the clipping from the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, Mr. C. D. Reimers, our old friend once of Chicago, is on familiar ground, for this paper at one time was Mr. Reimers'.

We have received a few communications treating wholly of subjects of interest to members of the American Philatelic Society, dealing with problems arising in the conduct of affairs of that organization. It evidently is the wish of

No one who uses the Catalogue should be without the "Journal"—for it is the Catalogue supplement, listing new issues until the next Catalogue appears.

No one who wants to keep in touch with philately should fail to read it. For its articles are authoritative, interestingly handled,—the work of recognized experts.

No one who likes bargains should miss an issue. For, monthly, we make offers—exclusively in the "Journal" which the shrewd collector is always waiting to profit from.

If you fall into any one of the above classifications the dollar that a year's subscription to "Scott's Monthly Journal" will cost you will be one of the most profitable and satisfactory investments you ever made.

our correspondents that the letters be published, but we feel that it is not within our province to enter into questions that basically concern only the members in a controversial sense. As has been said on another occasion, when the questions involved have a general or public appeal, we do not have this disinclination, because matters of publicity and similar questions are of wide interest and application. For purely society discussion, the able journal of the A. P. S. is the recognized vehicle for expression.

In the New York Times of a few weeks ago there was a very readable account of recent and coming auction sales of stamps in New York City. In speaking of a three-cent post-office department envelope 1873 on white paper, in a recent Bartels' Sale, the remark is made that it is the second one of its kind in existence, the other copy being in the National Museum at Washington, having been secured from the Joseph Rich collection for $200. We well know that this envelope is of great rarity, and its appearance on the surface brings to mind that at one time it was the ambition of the stamp crooks of the shrewdest class to manufacture the white paper by bleaching the common lemon paper. We believe that a few of the older collectors will have recollections of the case involving a suit for recovery of a sum modest enough in comparison with stamp prices nowadays that had been paid to a notorious manipulator of thirty years ago for a "white paper" variety. The trouble was that while the paper was "white" when the buyer got the stamp, it was not long before it changed its color to a nondescript hue; and moreover, it became mottled in appearance. The chemist had rather overdone the thing, and the same "white paper" today would not fool a real collector who has an eye peeled for impositions of this kind when there is room for doubt.

We have been favored by the receipt of a letter from a famous writer who asks that his name be not used, not because he is reluctant to identify himself with philately, but because of a reason sufficient in itself that we shall hasten to share with readers. He says, "My recollection is that your voice crying in the wilderness, as it now proves to be, was the only one raised in favor of the lion on the Wembley stamps. You quoted Ruskin to say how difficult it was to depict the face of a lion, and very amiably you descant on the appearance of these beasts on the stamps. I do not know whether it is because the imp of perversity is a constant associate of me or not, but I align myself under your banner. The Englishmen who delight in poking fun at the lions should be in a better business. What do they expect for their money? If they want to see the real lions, let them go to their zoos. But if they want to see what artists fancy, let them behold the stamps. The trouble is that someone starts a joke at the expense of, in this case a well known citizen of the animal kingdom, and the result is that it becomes fashionable to follow the lead to the extent of much overdoing it. While we may be the only members of our society for the Suppression of Ridicule Aimed at Defenceless Lions, we can exult in the thought that if we are few, we are select. You are an Androcles whom the lions will not forget."

An Auction Experiment

Catalogues ready soon and free for a card, our February sale will have an auction catalogue arranged in a different way than other catalogs with a view to reducing cost of printing and expense of sale. At same time we will offer a few hundred lots of single stamps catalogued as low as $1.00 each in single lots so that you can buy the ONE stamp you may need without buying several. Our new arrangement of catalog permits the inclusion of low priced lots.

A nice lot of wholesale lots for small dealers, small lots that you can afford to buy.

United States.

Norse-American Centennial Stamps.

Under date of January 12th, the Postmaster-General approved sketches submitted by the Bureau for the 2c and 5c stamps to be issued possibly on April 1st in commemoration of the arrival of the first shipload of Norwegian citizens, which reached New York on October 9, 1825.

The stamps will be the size of the current air mail stamps—will be printed in sheets of one hundred and will be in two colors. The central designs will be in black and the borders will be colored. The 2c stamp which will be red and black shows the sloop "Restaurationen," the sketch being taken from an illustration in one of the Lutheran German publications. Across the top of the stamp we find the two words, "Norse-American", directly under this within curved lines the word, "Centennial" and at either end of this word the dates 1825 and 1925. In the lower corners we find figures "2" within circles and between the figures in three lines "United States Postage Two Cents". On the two sides of the border we have a queer looking animal with a sort of shield below.

The 5c stamp will be printed in blue and black and the wording and lettering will correspond with that of the 2c but the sides of the border are made up of shields showing the Norwegian flag on the left and the American flag on the right.

It was originally the intention of the department to print these stamps in one color but when the designer made up the sketch, which consisted of a small photograph of the central design with painted colored border, the combination appeared so attractive that the Postmaster-General suggested the two colors be carried through, and as a result, we will no doubt have two of the most beautiful stamps ever turned out by this government, providing the finished products are equal to sketches.

The stamps will be placed on sale in other cities, as well as Washington, on the first day, and advice as to these several cities will be given in this column as soon as the information is available. It may be of interest to our readers to know that the artist designing these stamps is Mr. Christy of the Bureau.

Bureau Activities.

Since my last visit to the Bureau, there has been a change in directors, and Mr. A. H. Hall, formerly Chief of the Planning Division of the Bureau of Efficiency, and one who helped with the re-organization of the Bureau, has recently been appointed Director. Mr. Dawson, one of the former engravers, has now been made Chief of the Engraving Division.

In perfecting the rotary stamps so that the finished product will lie flat, the bureau has been experimenting, and in this work has found it advisable to use on the rotary press the thinner paper which has been used on the flat plates for some time. There is no doubt but that this thinner paper will be somewhat different from the heavier paper being used on the coils and the other rotary stamps heretofore, but it is doubtful if the difference can be sufficiently distinguished to warrant the new varieties being designated as a distinct variety. All of the 5c rotaries which have recently been coming out in a precanceled condition are on the new thin paper.

The department is now precanceling the rotary stamps in large quantities for many cities and any town ordering 250,000 stamps in coils or ordering a million 1c or a half million 2c in sheet form may have them precanceled at Washington. Smaller quantities at the present time are being overprinted locally.

The department expects to have ready for precanceling the new rotary 4c, 6c and 10c within the next several weeks, and these, of course, will be perf. 10. Instead of placing the 5c rotary on sale at the Agency the latter part of January as was at first expected, it has now been decided to place the new 4c, 5c, 6c and 10c rotary unprecanceled on sale at the Agency along with the new Norse-American stamps around April 1st. An exact date will be given later.

Stamped Envelopes, 1925 Contract.

The envelope manufacturers will within the next few days start the first runs of the 1925 watermarked paper for the envelopes being made under the new contract, which runs for the next four years. It is not expected that there will be any other changes other than watermark immediately, although a linen back envelope is still being considered and it is quite possible that towards the middle or the end of the year new designs for the envelopes will be given attention.

$50,000 Purchase Lozier Collection
I have had the pleasure of purchasing upward of $50,000 worth of choice blocks and singles in mint condition from the famous Lozier collection gotten together by Mr. J. T. Lozier who was the purchaser of many of the choice things that have come upon the American market in the last ten or fifteen years.
Among some of the choice pieces purchased by myself are as follows:
5c Mint block of six.
1857
The entire issue in blocks including a plate block of twelve of the 24c, a block of six of the 30c and a block of four of the 90c.
1861
Mint blocks of the 10c, 12c, 30c and 90c.
1867
Mint blocks of the 3c—13x16, the 2c—12x14 and numerous blocks of the 11x13 and 9x13, including a unique block of 12 of the 30c.
1869
In the Bank Note issues I note offhand a block of four of the 7c grill, blocks of the National 7c, 10c, 12c, together with what I believe to be the only block of four of the 24c in the light shade. This came from the Worthington sale and was at the time the variety in the light shade supposed to have been the Continental print.
As I am buying and selling fine things daily, those who are in the market for choice items in the way of United States issues should communicate with me and keep me informed as to their requirements. Those having choice things to sell will realize that I am always in the market to buy anything really fine such as covers, blocks, singles, oddities and the like, at substantial prices.
I also carry on hand a very substantial stock of all issues of the United States, especially those dating from 1890 on.

353 Strand, ALAN RICHARD London, W. C. 2, Eng

AUSTRIA.—Stamps with values expressed in kronen are to be withdrawn this month and replaced by a set in the new currency which it is hoped will be stable. The unit of value is the "schilling" which will be the equivalent of 10,000 kronen and is sub-divided into 100 "stüber." Probably the stuber and schilling will be approximately equal to the pfennig and reichsmark of the present German currency.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

ASCENSION.—On certain values in the second printing of the latest issue of these stamps a rather pronounced flaw exists on the lower left corner stamp. This flaw consists of a cleft in the top of the rock in the background. We have this variety on the following values, ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 8d, 1sh and 2sh, some of which are corner pairs with plate numbers and others in corner blocks of four. The same variety occurs on some of the St. Helena stamps, of which we have the following values, ½d 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d and 4d.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

BELGIAN CONGO.—We are informed that the colour of the current 50c adhesive is about to be changed from grey-blue to chocolate, and that of the 75c from orange-red to blue.—Stamp Collecting.

CANADA.—Thinner paper introduced. Following, or perhaps co-incident with, the experimental introduction of thinner paper for British stamps, copies of Canadian stamps have arrived on a thinner texture. Probably because the stamps are engraved, printings on the new paper have a markedly different appearance, being deeper in tone. Messrs. Whitfield King have shown us copies of all the following, except the 2c which they report having seen: Postage, 2c green and 5c violet. Postage Due, 1c violet, 2c violet and 5c violet.—Philatelic Magazine.

DENMARK.—Some useful information concerning the mysterious "Gebyr" provisional (the 10 öre green overprinted with that word) has been sent us by M. Theodore Champion, who states that the provisional in question was issued in April, 1925, for use on registered letters posted at the Central Station, Copenhagen, between 9 and 11 p. m., at an extra fee of 10 öre inland and 20 öre abroad. The word in question signifies that special charge.—Stamp Collecting.

FRENCH COLONIES.—There will shortly be issued, probably some time in February, provisional stamps of 25c, 65c and 85c for all the French Colonies, sixty varieties in all, of a total face value of frs. 40.80c. Further details are not yet available.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 9d sage green, on the new watermarked paper.

ITALY.—Advertisements. The avidity of the Italian postal administration to secure revenue has led them to let spaces on their sheets of stamps for advertisement purposes in a novel manner. Advertisement designs in the form of stamps are placed between the rows and are designedly issued imperf. between, so that, taking the line of least resistance, the user will, more likely than not, affix both to the letter. Confusion is avoided by printing the advertisements in a different colour to the actual stamps.

JAPAN.—5 yen and 10 yen, new design. Our Japanese contemporary, the Yuraku, considers that the above will soon appear in a new design, recess-printed, as the plates used until last year were destroyed at the time of the earthquake. The size is to remain unaltered.—Philatelic Magazine.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that of the Child Welfare stamps they are available for postage and the extra 2c on each stamp is allocated to the Child Welfare Charity.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us a copy of the 1sh stamp in a pale orange red, a new shade, and also advises that it is reported to be a scarce item.

PERU.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the 5c stamp of the 1917-18 issue which has appeared bearing the surcharge "Quatro Centavos 1924" in three lines in red.

SEYCHELLES.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of the 25c black and red on yellow, script watermarked paper.

UBANGI.—The Economist Stamp Co. send for chronicle a copy of the 1fr green and dull blue, of the Middle Congo issue, overprinted "Afrique Equatoriale Francaise" in three lines in blue and beneath "Oubangui Chari" in two lines in red.

URUGUAY.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 1 peso value of the new map type issue in blue with an overprint of the letter "C" in red just beneath the word "Bolivia". Also the 2 peso of the same design in a rose red shade.

Third Sale
Will Take Place On February 19 and 20, 1925
At BOSTON, MASS.

This sale will contain some 2000 lots, every one of which is in fine condition or better. Among them can be mentioned

UNITED STATES—100 lots including PAIRS and singles of the 1847 5c and 10c ON COVER, an extremely fine 5c 1851 ON COVER, a superb NEW YORK ON COVER, 1857, 10c, type I, used BLOCK OF FOUR; 1862, 24c mint BLOCK OF FOUR, etc., etc. Also 40 lots of Proofs.

FOREIGN 19TH—800 lots largely mint Br. Colonials. Every item very fine to superb. While this section contains no great rarities it is very strong in the scarcer stamps listing from $5 to $25. Among the better may be mentioned a superb Brunswick No. 1, a nice line of early Canada, Cape Triangle, a superb Sweden No. 5, etc., etc.

FOREIGN 20TH—A nice line of these and while not so complete as the British Colonials which follow, contains many scarce stamps such as high value Argentine, Luxemburg 10 francs green, high value Siam, etc.

BR. COLONIAL 20TH—Practically complete as far as the scarcer stamps are concerned. Really an unusual line containing such rarities as Cayman surcharges, all the rare Malta, all the rare scripts.

THIS SALE WILL BE SHOWN IN NEW YORK ON FEBRUARY 14 FROM 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. AT THE OFFICE OF MR. PERCY G. DOANE, IN THE TRIBUNE BLDG.

Catalogues free for the asking. If you are not on our mailing list, get there now or we will both lose.

CIVIL WAR PROPRIETARIES.

Harold D. Watson, a well-known attorney of Manhattan, discussing the collection of stamps yesterday, harked back to the Civil War days and the match and medicine stamps as a means of revenue to the Government. He said:

"In the days of the Civil War a tax of one cent per hundred was laid on matches and one cent on every quarter dollar of the purchase price of patent medicines. The payment of this tax was to be evidenced by affixing a stamp of the proper denomination to the containers of the product in such a manner that the stamp would be destroyed when the package was opened. In this connection the United States Government graciously granted the privilege to the manufacturer to have printed a stamp of his own design and many of the taxpayers availed themselves of the opportunity, and this accounts for the variety of shapes and the quaintness of the design of the stamps and they are splendid examples of the engraver's art. I can state without fear of contradiction that no series of stamps issued by any country can compare with them in design or workmanship.

"These gentlemen were, it appears in many cases, vain of their personal appearance as they were particular in a majority of designs to include their portraits on the stamps. These were the days when it was fashionable to wear whiskers and it is believed that every variety of hirsute appendage known to man is included in the portrait gallery shown on these stamps. Mr. Underwood, a match dealer, attains the chief distinction for originality, in my opinion. And owing to the fact that the law before mentioned was quite generally observed, the condition of the used stamps, especially those used on medicines, is very bad.

"Much notoriety has been given to an early postage stamp of British Guiana because of the fact that it is the only example of that variety known, and brought $32,000 at public auction. The collectors of the stamps under discussion have read the numerous articles about this emission of British Guiana with some degree of amusement, as there are many match and medicine stamps of which only one copy is known, and there were several issued by J. C. Ayer & Co. for use on the boxes of pills and the medicine put up under their name, no copy of which has ever come to light, though it is known from the records that several thousand of each were issued.

"The top price reached at auction for a match or medicine stamp was $300, and this for a unique variety and in spite of this fact if a millionaire should now commence to collect these stamps and hope to amass anything like a complete collection, he would soon retire from the field heartbroken, as the specimens are very closely held and we know of some that no amount of money in reason could tempt from the collections of the present holders. He would have to wait for them to die before realizing his ambition and he would have a long wait, as stamp collectors are very tenacious of life, rendered so by their reluctance to leave their treasures.

"The late Clarence H. Eagle of New York possessed the finest collection of these stamps ever achieved. This collection has now been disbursed and it is doubtful if ever again such a fine collection of these most rare and interesting stamps will be gathered together."—Brooklyn Eagle.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY HONOR ROLL.

This list is taking so much space that we can print it only when we have additions. Judge Tom C. Whitmore of Atlantic, Iowa, sends in a subscription for the Carnegie Free Library of that city. He believes that the WEEKLY will be the means of arousing public interest in our clean and educational hobby of stamp collecting. Who of our subscribers will compel us to again publish this list, which is now assuming splendid proportions?

BUYING

Boston is a good market for choice items. We get good prices for the best! Nearly every dealer, and many collectors, have some few choice items which they would sell if they felt sure they would get a fair price. I handle choice items worth $25.00 to $500.00 for a small percentage of profit—send me anything you will sell, put your price on it and I'll return it or buy it promptly.

U. S. Covers, Pairs, Used Blocks, Superb Singles

but please remember I do not want third grade stuff at top grade price!

TRUTH NEGLECTED.

Philately gets more and more publicity of one kind or another. Even the Dearborn Independent, Henry Ford's "Chronicler of the Neglected Truth," in the issue of Jan. 10, 1925, has the following:

"The first issue of postage stamps in the United States was in 1849, the year of the great rush to the California goldfields."

I be'ieve that the Truth had been Neglected a little too much in this instance.

What philatelist, who ever enjoyed (?) one of Henry's "cans," will be forgiving enough to help out the "Neglected Truth" in this or other stamp information that may find a place in the Independent?

"M. T." DOME.

SPEEDY MAIL TRANSIT TO CHINA.

By Rev. W. A. SEAGER.

In your issue of the WEEKLY for Nov. 24th, which reached me today, is an item with regard to a letter which went from Tokyo, Japan, to Mr. Steinmetz of Philadelphia via U. S. airmail in the "remarkable" time of 26 days. Your issue of Nov. 24th reached Nanking, China, on Dec. 16th, and Nanking is a full five days beyond Tokyo on the very fastest possible steamer and train schedule.

Of course mail between the Orient and the United States will be held up to await steamer sailings, but the average time for mail between New York and Nanking is about 24 days, and this is for ordinary mail. In almost every mail there are one or two letters that come through in 22 days. The best record so far was made with a registered letter that went from New York to Chicago by air, and from there to Vancouver by rail, making the transcontinental trip in about four days, just catching a Canadian Pacific steamer which reached Shanghai in 14 days. The letter came from Shanghai (200 miles) by rail and reached Nanking on the morning of the 19th day. Had that same letter been sent to Tokyo it would have arrived on the 14th day!

Mail matter sent from China and timed to make the boats for Seattle or Vancouver will make New York in about the same time as matter sent via San Francisco and the air service, because the boats to the more southern port lose a day at Honolulu and owing to the greater distance covered on the southern route take three days longer from their last Japan port to the U. S.

A great improvement in the mail service between the U. S. and the Orient has taken place during the past three years. Faster steamers on a more frequent schedule make this possible, and the establishment of the "ship post-offices" for sorting mail while at sea facilitates the handling of this mail at the ports. If a branch air mail line is ever established to Seattle our mail could reach us from New York in 17 days if sent via Canadian Pacific (Vancouver) or regularly in 19 days by the Admiral Line ships from Seattle.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

STAMP VANDALISM.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 8. — A protest against clipping of stamps from public documents at the Texas capitol is to be lodged by the Austin Stamp Collectors Club, according to C. H. Machke, president. The Associated Press, Tuesday, carried an exclusive announcement that many stamps had been removed from state papers in vaults of the secretary of state's office.

This act, which was described by professional stamp collectors as the vandalism of some one not considered a professional, was done some years ago, in the belief of Rev. J. S. Dallman of Austin, member of the collectors club. He said he had not visited the vaults in years but had been informed many stamps had been removed years ago by an employee in the building.

The discovery made in the secretary's office, has brought to light the theft of another valuable stamp in the land office, which occurred some time ago, according to the Rev. Mr. Dallman. A Confederate stamp, the only one in the world, valued by collectors at from $10,000 to $15,000, was removed from a land document and sold in New York for $500. It was a stamp issued by a postmaster at Halletsville, Texas, during the civil war, when the Confederate states west of the Mississippi river had been cut off from communication with the Confederate government.

Secretary of State Hutchins is making an investigation of the stamp removals called to his attention by the Associated Press, while a demand has risen from many quarters for the best possible protection for valuable public documents.—Press Clipping.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

L. K. Pratt, St. Paul, Minn.
C. C. Tucker, M. D., Greencastle, Ind.
W. E. Stahlnecker, Williamsport, Pa.

Our first application this week comes from L. K. Pratt, 179 S. Fairview Ave., St. Paul, Minn. We welcome Mr. Pratt to membership in our Honor Club and thank him for his remittance of $5. In all his dealings with the WEEKLY he is now entitled to the use of the honorary degree M. H. C. and we sincerely trust that all members of the club dealing in any way with our publication will make use of the mystic letters.

We are also indebted to Cassell C. Tucker, M. D., of Greencastle, Ind., for $5 for five years' renewal which makes him a member of our Honor Club.

Not content with making application for membership in the club, W. E. Stahlnecker, Williamsport, Pa., also sends in a new yearly subscription for a local collector. This is real boosting towards our ten thousand mark.

We cannot close our department copy without mentioning the fact that Ziegler Sargent comes near qualifying for membership in the Honor Club. He sends in a check for $4 for a four years' renewal and accompanies this with a new yearly subscription from New Haven, where he resides. We feel like writing these lines of appreciation of Mr. Sargent's interest in the WEEKLY.

A DISMAL FAILURE.

By W. GARDNER.

In 1897, Guatemala, the largest and most populous of the independent republics of Central America, thought that its trade would be greatly increased by holding an exhibition in the Capital. Great preparations were made, and much money was spent on the various buildings, and by advertising the event in all the American States. The scheme was one which had been thought out by Reyna Barrios, the President of Guatemala.

Guatemala, by the way, is an Indian word which means "rotten tree."

Nothwithstanding all these preparations, the exhibition was a dismal failure. To boom the event, a commemorative set of fourteen stamps was prepared, and a decree of December 31, 1896, stated that they would be placed on sale on New Year's Day, 1897. The stamps of the previous issue were called in and demonetised as from January 4th, in order that the new stamps should be used. The stamps were in use just a year, and when on January 1, 1898, they were in their turn demonetised, a considerable stock was still in hand at the Post Office, which clearly shows they were not liked.

The stamps were large oblong ones, printed in black on surface coloured paper, the 12c being printed on paper coloured all through. The American Bank Note Company of New York were the printers, and their imprint was placed at the foot of each design. The stamps look like lithographs taken by transfers from an engraved die.

The centre of the stamp design contains two oval vignettes. The one on the right shows a portrait of President Reyna Barrios, nephew of Rufino Barrios. He was in the Presidential chair from 1892 to 1898, and the exhibition was his idea. As his term of office was expiring, he made a law by which he thought he might be re-elected President. This made him very unpopular, and a revolution broke out, during which he was assassinated on February 8, 1898.

In the oval on the left is the national bird of Guatemala, the quetzal. This bird is sometimes called "the bird of freedom," as it dies almost immediately when captured. It has two extremely long tail feathers, three feet long, and for this reason is sometimes called the Long-tailed Trogon. It lives in the forests of Guatemala, where the highest trees are. Its colours—scarlet, blue, and peacock-green—are so gorgeous that it is said to be the grandest bid in the New World. The feathers were used to make the State robes of the Indian princes at the time of the Spanish Conquest. It is a fruit-eater, and leads a retired life in the depth of the forest. When on the wing its tail flies like a streamer. In the design on the earlier stamps the bird is perched on an Ionic column in order to display its tail properly, and even then not succeeding in showing it to the best advantage.

Between these two views is placed a flaming torch, over which is the year 1897. On curved bands above and below we find "Correos Nacionales—de la R. de Guatemala — Exposicion Centro Americana." In the four corners, in uncoloured numerals, are figures of value and between them at the top is Union Postal Universal. To the left of the quetzal is a steamship and to the right of the portrait is a railway train—to show, I suppose, the best means of reaching the exhibition.

The designers of the stamp evidently thought they would give plenty for money, for in the corners against the numerals we find the arms of the other four Central American States. Perhaps this was done because they had sent exhibits on a large scale. In the upper left are the Arms of Salvador, in the upper right the Arms of Honduras, in the lower left the Arms of Nicaragua, and in the lower right the Arms of Costa Rica.

These are very small, and what with the highly coloured paper and the method of printing, are nearly indistinguishable. After the stamps had been demonetised in 1898, a great many were overprinted for telegraphic purposes, but as this seemed a slow process of using them up, an Official Notice of April 25, 1898, asked for offers for all that were left. All the 75c and 150c had been used or sold, and of the other values some remainders were very small. On July 31, 1898, an offer of £800 was accepted, an amount, it is said, which did not cover the cost of making the plates and printing the stamps.

After the stamps had been demonetised, the old stamps were again circulated, and it was then found that the stock of 1c stamps was nearly exhausted. It is the custom in this country to send New Year's cards to all friends, and, as the postage on these is 1c, a considerable quantity of stamps of this denomination is needed to meet this need, 200,000 of the 12c and a considerable quantity of the 2c. Exhibition stamps were overprinted and converted into 1c stamps. The authorities had overlooked one thing, and that was that these could be used on foreign correspondence. To prevent this, the 1c stamp was overprinted "Servicio Interno" and these were placed on sale as soon as the two former stamps were exhausted.—Postage Stamp.

RANDOM NOTES ON STAMPS OF CHINA.

By E. G. YOUNG (Peking).

The stamps of China should prove to be a most interesting field to the "mild" variety of specialist, but recent observations seem to show that they make a very slight impression on the American collector and dealer alike, for blanks are many and stocks are small, and the rarity of China offers in the advertising columns of the WEEKLY is further evidence of this lack of interest. All of the conditions which usually make for a country's popularity with collectors seem to be present; the stamps are attractive for the most part; a good representation can be secured for small outlay; there are few rarities and no great rarities to stagger the collector of small means; forgeries are few and not difficult to detect; there is very little of the speculative or unnecessary, and the few commemorative issues (except the two of 1912) are short sets of low face value.

A collection of stamps from a certain geographical district is always of interest as showing the way different political systems and peoples rub elbows and live neighbors in (more or less) harmony. In this way a collection of China in a larger sense can be made, embracing:—

1.—The stamps of the Chinese government.

2.—Those of the various treaty ports—looked far down upon in these days—but I should certainly like to buy a few off of the penny approval sheets which they decorated in the days when I started to collect! Many of those stamps have as good a case in their favor as our American postmaster-provisionals.

3.—The stamps of the various foreign post-offices in China; the issues of seven nations are represented: the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Japan and Italy. With these should be included stamps of the United States, France, Japan and Great Britain (Hongkong) used in China, but only distinguishable by postmark.

4.—The issues of non-Chinese postal administrations functioning within the geographical boundaries of China. These are as follows:

Shanghai Municipality: Issued stamps from 1865 till 1897—these are "hard pulling", and especially in the first issue the path of the unwary collector is beset with forgeries.

Kiaotchou: Used Hohenzollern type German Colonials from 1900 till 1914, and Japanese offices in China 1914-23.

Macao: a deluge of Portuguese Colonials of all types from the Crown on, surcharges, commems., bisects, "'nevery-thing".

Hongkong: a nice line of B. C.'s, attractive both to the lover of the old ones and of "modern mints".

Kwang-Chow-Wan: this is a French leasehold on the south coast and to all intents and purposes a French Colony. The stamps used are the same as for the other Sub-offices of the Indo China Postal Administration, though the administration of the place is French entirely. This place of course continues to use French stamps, though the other "Sub-offices" are closed. (In this connection it is well to explain that there were two kinds of French offices in China: the Consular Post Offices in Shanghai, Peking, Tientsin, Hankow and Canton, using French stamps with slightly altered designs or overprints, and the Indo China Sub-offices, using overprinted Indo China stamps.)

Weihaiwei: British leasehold, using regular "British Offices" stamps, only distinguishable by postmarks (Weihaiwei, Fort Edward, Liu Kung Tao). (The stamps are still in use.)

Kuantung Peninsula: Japanese leasehold, using regular Japanese stamps, only distinguishable to one who can read the character. The principal offices are Dairen (Dalny) and Ryojun (Port Arthur).

The question of foreign stamps used in China deserves further mention. The most interesting of these to us are the United States stamps used in North China during the Boxer Insurrection (1900), and those used in the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai, where regular postage stamps were used through the whole life of the agency, including the time during which the overprinted set was on sale. French stamps of the Peace and Commerce type were used in Shanghai in considerable numbers, probably applied to the letters on incoming French ships, and accepted by the consular post-office. The 50c is the value usually seen. The numeral cancellation 5103 was used in this post-office on earlier issues — apparently very scarce. Hongkong stamps are known canceled Shanghai (S1 on early issues, about as frequent as the Hongkong B62); also Canton (C1), Foochow (F1), Ningpo, Hoihao, Kiungchow (a rare one), Tientsin (scarce), Amoy, Hankow, Chefoo and Swatow.

Returning to the subject of the stamps of China proper a few notes on the subject may make your collection more interesting.

The first issue comes in three printings, merely mentioned by inference by Scott but fully separated by Gibbons. Of these the wide margin printing is the most desirable. The first two printings were in sheets of 25, but for the final printing the poorest or most worn cliches were removed and the twenty remaining were probably rearranged so that they bear no relation to the arrangement of the earlier printings. Complete sheets of at least the three and five candareen values exist, which would settle plating difficulties. The one candareen value and doubtless

These United States stamps, Scott's Nos. 33, 43 and 44, are undoubtedly the most popular stamps in the world. They are subject to a very high degree of specialization, due to the many plate varieties that can be found and an abundance of interesting cancellations.

I have a large stock both on and off cover, which I have been accumulating for years. An expert has been working on it for a considerable time and is not yet through. It is being thoroughly specialized and each stamp written up according to Dr. Chase's famous articles.

the values of the earlier printings could be plated as many minor variations exist. There are a very few forgeries of the first issue, neglecting the crude Japanese imitations which would never deceive anyone who had seen an original.

The second issue was much better made; smaller size, engraved in place of typographed. These stamps can also be plated by one of the most interesting devices that has come to my knowledge; no stamp in the pane is set exactly square, and any pair can be located as to position, though there are only one or two of them so badly out of square with the perforations that the place of a single stamp can be determined. There are dangerous forgeries of this set, as well as the cruder imitations. The best of the forgeries is the "laughing dragon": the expression on the face of the original is very fierce, but on the forgery genial and pleasant. The lines of the cancelling chop are somewhat thin. as well. The second issue is printed in two panes of 20, 4x5, side by side, with a spacer about 3 mm wide between the panes.

The first use of Customs stamps was to prepay letters sent by the public through the courier service of the Imperial Customs Service, during the period of the freezing of the Peiho River, giving water access to Tientsin and Peking. Consequently, only four cancellations are possible, all of course in native characters surrounded by a zoned oval: Peking, Tientsin, Nanking and Shanghai. The freeze period is usually about seventy days; as soon as the river was free, the coast steamers resumed their services and mail was sent through the foreign post-offices. During the life of the second issue the service was much extended: I have seen and own several stamps bearing FRENCH P. O. in Shanghai cancellations (dated in September and October, long before the freeze!) also other Customs cancellations as far afield as Seoul, Korea. Covers of either first or second issue are real prizes.

The third or "Empress Dowager Issue" is much more extensive. There is an interesting story current relative to the design of this issue. The work was done by a Mr. Villard of the Customs Service, and the gentleman was sent shortly afterward on an interior mission from which he never returned. The story is that his non-return was specially arranged, due to the fact that he had presumed to use the Imperial color of purple on one of his designs. The thing that makes this part difficult of belief is that the much more imperial color of yellow was used in two of the stamps as issued, and a close approach on another.

The occasion for the set of surcharges issued in 1897 was the taking over of the customs post by the newly organized Imperial Postoffice. Scott mentions that the large numeral surcharges appear in two spacings, but does not separate them in the catalog. The 8 on 6 and 30 on 24 in the narrow spacing are exceedingly rare stamps, the latter perhaps the rarest of all Chinese stamps. The three-cent stamp used for surcharging, inscribed "revenue" was merely an essay, or perhaps since great numbers of them existed it is better to say an unissued variety. The five dollars on three cents I think can safely be said to be unknown postally used, though a few are known on "remittance certificates"—money orders. Canceled to order copies are known; I have seen one cover used a year or two later than the issue where to insure cancellation of the $5 stamp, it was completely surrounded by two cent stamps, and it was canceled all right, and passed through the mail.

The "Imperial Chinese Post" issue is commonly spoken of as "the Japanese Plates". The stamps were unsatisfactory and short lived. There is no possible question about the color of the fifty cent error. You will know it when you see it, and if you question your copy, it is not the error! Recent adjustments in value ratios have placed the figures for this set in about the right relation, though the two-dollar stamp is rarer than the five in either condition.

The "Chinese Imperial Post" stamps are too familiar to require much notice. At the beginning the domestic letter rate was two cents but about 1907 this was increased to three; a new value was issued, and the two, four and ten values were changed to Postal Union Colors, green, red and blue, though the first two do not perform the corresponding services,—they merely correspond in value. The "Typhoon Provisional" is the most interesting thing in the series. The story of the shipload of one-cent stamps that did not arrive at Foochow on time is familiar. This overprinted bisect is the most attractive of all Chinese stamps to the faker. When you have seen the work of a Chinese wood carver you readily can understand that the duplication of either the POSTAGE 1 CENT PAID or the cancelling chop would be a simple matter—too close to admit of detection. But "first aid" in the detection of this counterfeit is furnished by the fact that the genuine bisect used the scarlet stamp, while the fakers have utilized the later and deeper shades. There are of course

JUST OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Sometimes when we run through out stock boxes we happen across odds and ends we are a little surprised to find resting in the vault. Here are a few that might rest more comfortably in other surroundings:

NEW YORK Postmasters which will appeal to those who like postmarked copies of these stamps. Two fine copies on one cover, each stamp with the light red grid cancellation, the curved red PAID and both stamps tied to the cover with the dated town postmark. The whole collection for $150.00

1851, 10c, 35b recut at bottom, four good margins, lightly cancelled with blue bars, very fine $65.00

Ditto, a nice copy, three good margins, red town cancellation $35.00

Another but unused, almost full gum, a nice fresh looking copy though a trifle close at bottom, catalog $200.00, net $50.00

1857, 10c, Type I, 49a, a pair in deep blue green shade with complete scrolls ...$30.00

1870, fine full o. g. block of four of the 15c Grill which shows quite clearly on the face of all four stamps. The block is quite well centered, catalogs $200.00 ....net $130.00

Cape of Good Hope: A block of four of the 1sh dark green, first issue. The block is full o. g. and fine margins all round, fine and fresh $100.00

Plenty of other interesting things in stock from fancy cancellations on the 2c red brown up to moderate rarities. Free to look at if you are on our mailing list.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Am starting this number with what pleases me the most of anything that has happened since my arrival in this Filatelic Forum. Guess what? Mr. P. M. Elsden writes me that upon reading the Jan. 12th Forum, he went straightway to his 12c Nationals, and picked out the variety mentioned. That sure is gratifying, for it shows that one can make out what these minor varieties are from written descriptions.

Tracings are being made of a few of the most interesting obliterations that are received, and when a few more pretty ones arrive, these will be shown in the Forum. Have you any good clearly shown skulls, bees, pumpkin heads, in fact, any little "whimsicalities" that would lend themselves to being illustrated? If so, let them come, and they will be carefully handled and returned in course of time—for it takes time to make drawings of these little affairs.

There are a number of pretty items to be mentioned this week. Do you know the Utica, N. Y., pmk. in an ellipse? It comes in blue on '47's and in black on '51's. Mr. Elsden has favored me with this same pmk. in red on a "Prestamp" (before stamps) cover, the letter being written in Feb., 1840. It is very handsome in red.

The entertainment this week is from the collection of Mr. Earle A. Young, his 1c '61 with "Dot in S" being noted last week. (Since then several have been found.)

In order of seniority among these covers we have a prestamp cover pmkd. "Phila Aug 10" (1835), and mailed to "New Lancaster, State of Ohio, America". This letter is headed "Darnakelly June 17 1835" (somewhere across the pond). On the face of the cover is a generous rectangle with clipped corners, enclosing a full rigged sailing vessel, pennons fluttering, and an ocean made up of a heavy line—horizon—and some lines below (deep sea). All is calm with about a ten knot breeze blowing off the starboard bow. "27" appears in mss. The pmks. are in red, rather, were in red, and are now mellowed down into a fine philatelic bit of antiquity. The ship pmk. may have been applied enroute, as they had plenty of time to do it—June 17th to Aug. 10th—just time for a pleasant ocean voyage!

"Stockbridge Nov 7 1797" in black is the next cover, surely an early year date in any pmk. It went to New Haven for "12½" in mss. in top corner at right. It is interesting to note that many towns omitted the use of the state entirely in those days. An "Intemperance is the Bane of Society" cover in fine condition is next, pmkd. New Britain, Ct. The serpent is a lively critter emerging full length from what looks like a half sized glass. He is spouting forked lightning, and making a very hideous face over it. The inscriptions read in part (this is on the Bane side) on a placard,—"Drunk for a Penny, Dead Drunk for Two", while on the other end of the cover above what looks like a semi-portable radio we see a placard "Saving Bank". This type of envelope was "Published and sold by Geo. D. Jewett, Hartford, Ct.", and is also stamped (Copyright assured according to Act of Congress). Here is another printed cover, . . It is a 1c '61 Patriotic cover—"To be had by addressing 'Am. Peace Society' at Boston or Chicago. Sent by mail for 15cts. a package, or 50cts. a hundred. Do good by using them." On this is pictured scenes typifying Peace, with quotations from Isaiah.

On 3c '61's are a number of cancellations from Danbury, Ct.—the home of the Danbury Hat. First is what looks like a "Brownie" wearing one of those old time flowing knitted cornucopia affairs, called a toboggan cap., Then some that might be called "sketches", meaning just preliminary drawings or designs and not exactly clear (for a good sketch always leaves a lot to the beholder's imagination), one looking as tho it had a face under the hat. Then comes the finished product, the true Danbury hat on the 3c greens. The hat shows in colorless form, being cut from the cork, and comes in two or three styles plug, high hat, and a tile that fairly glistens, it is so sharply defined.

An 1882 1c, and a 2c vermilion show smack across each the year 1883, neatly made figures with Holyoke, Mass., their residence (mine too). Mr. Young ends his galaxy of oddities with a finely cut Liberty Bell in blue from Concord, N. H., on a 3c American. It is dated in open figures "76" and pmkd. Aug. 26. This group of covers is surely most fascinating.

Next week is coming another interesting lot from "Way down in Alabam".

As the Queries outnumber the Answers this week you will perhaps do best by noting the last four letters of this number, and having noted them, take immediate action!

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

FREDERICK W. ALLEN, Editor,
312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

After a period of inactivity we again resume the duties of editing this department and hope to be on the job for the balance of the season. This week we shall briefly survey a few topics of general interest.

The Precancel Catalog.—At last we have it. A catalogue, readily intelligible and of comprehensive scope. The book has been reviewed weeks ago, so we shall not attempt to fully describe it here. For us, it is sufficient to note that the listing and pricing is the cumulative result of the efforts of a group of men who form the backbone of the precancel hobby. The Universal Type System riginated by Bushnell has been thoroughly revised into a flexible scheme for description. The word "Type" has been changed to "Style" which is decidedly more appropriate. The many illustrations throughout the book tend to acquaint one with the variation to be found in pre-cancellations and make the book invaluable to all who profess a fondness for postal markings on adhesives. The "Precancel Stamp Catalog" sells for $3.10 cloth bound and $2.10 paper bound. Orders will be filled through this department if any readers desire copies.

Counterfeit Pre-cancellations.—There has been no little discussion of fraudulent issues in the columns of a contemporary publication. The evil of fake precancels is one which until recently, had not seriously asserted itself, but with the "Harding boom" came the temptation of imitating, on a wholesale scale, precancellations. Several parties yielded under the influence of the vision of easy money and produced typeset imitations of quite a number of genuine Harding precancels. We have in our reference collection counterfeits from Albert Lea, Minn., Athol, Mass., (2 types of printings and 1 handstamping), Concordia, Kans., Farmingham, Mass., Gastonia, N. C., Goshen, Ind., (genuine Goshens are very scarce and worth over a dollar each, so any offered at ten to fifty cents may be regarded with suspicion), Elkhart, Ind., (U-10), Greenville, Texas, Fremont, Nebr., Mason City, Iowa, and Waco, Texas. If one compares closely the type on the regular issues with the "Hardings" offered, he will not be fooled. Harding precancels should be bought only from reliable and recognized dealers who guarantee them to be genuine. The Philadelphia Harding spelled "PIHLADELPHIA" and precancelled in the U-3 type, is an outright fake as there is not a known error of this sort on the regular issues.

However we desire to strongly impress upon the reader that the number of fake precancels is so small that no collector should let this be a deterrent to his forming a precancel collection. We face, with equilibrium, the same danger in a far greater degree in the regular field of postage stamps; surely we should not adopt the narrow-minded attitude and brand precancels unsafe for investment or collection because of the scattered existence of spurious items.

Second Aeroplane Issue.—The new series of Aeroplane stamps are not being precanceled to any extent. Just three varieties are the sum total to our knowledge. An 8c Ruskin, Fla., partly paid the carriage of a grape fruit generously sent to us by our good friend, Mr. O. S. Billings. Aberdeen, S. Dak., handstamped some "sixteens" in a new type of two lines of lower case letters without bars. A copy came to our attention through the courtesy of John Fox of Minneapolis. Upon several boxes of films the New Albany, Ind., post-office used precanceled "twenty fours", reading down in the U-53 type. Mr. S. Hyman of Chicago salvaged two copies, one of which graciously found its way to us.

New Series Notes.—The 1923 series makes a variegated display as a precancel collection and we especially recommend the collection of all denominations precanceled by electroplates or typeset forms. These printed cancelations are more popular, more attractive, more desirable than the handstampings. The 14 and 30 cent values seem to hold a special appeal for some philatelists, but in our opinion the entire series should be collected if a really attractive showing is the object.

The 12 cent Cleveland is gradually becoming more plentiful. It was the last of the set, with the exception of the two high values, to attain general circulation. None of the latter stamps have been precanceled. No doubt there are quan-

A PLEA FOR THE MAJORITY.

By H. M. RICHARDSON.

As Josh Billings remarked about the weather, "There's been a lot said about the gradual disappearance of the general collector, but mighty little done." I am a general collector myself. I started collecting thirty-three years ago, and have been pretty faithful. I collected all issues of all countries until the post-war period, and then, like thousands of others, found that the new issues were coming in too fast. I tried, first, confining my collecting to certain groups of countries, then to individual countries, and of a few countries have a beautiful non-specialized collection, but I am not satisfied. I am a collector, not a philatelist, so specializing does not appeal to me. Neither do the various side lines of philately, such as precancels, cancellations, postmarks, etc., and I hate to pass up any postage stamp that I do not have, even though it comes from one of the countries I have quit collecting. Also, I confess to a weakness for Seebecks, Liberia, Nyassa, North Borneo and such-like stamps, also stamps from out-of-the-way places, as Zanzibar, Siam, etc. In other words, I am still a "kid" collector, and I believe that I am only one of many, who, though they have long ceased to be "kids" in years, still enjoy the same kind of collecting they did when they were boys. And my reasons for not caring for the more advanced forms of collecting are not financial, because I have a great many stamps in my collection that cost me, net, over $5.00 each.

Just recently I have, to a certain extent, solved my problem, and my interest in my collection has received new life. I am again collecting all countries, but I collect only major varieties. And "major varieties" has a different meaning to me than that given in the catalog. Varieties of design, color, and size are what I call major varieties. Varieties of perforation, watermark and paper I pay no attention to, whatever. My only objection to this form of collecting is the fact that I have to use blank albums, as there are no American printed albums containing spaces for all the major varieties (according to my definition) that do not also contain spaces for an infinite number of varieties of paper, perforation and watermark. That means blank spaces for me, and like all other collectors I hate blank spaces in my album like nature abhors a vacuum. And a real, breed-in-the-wool general collector of the old school misses half the pleasure of collecting if he can't use a printed album.

I noticed that in Scott's catalog the section on United States tends to become more and more a specialized catalog. A collector today to collect U. S. according to the catalog doesn't miss much of being a specialist. In my own collection I lump all the different bank-note printings together, and pay no attention to secret marks, or any other difference in design, except where the difference is great enough to be detected with the naked eye. Magnifying glasses, perforation gauges and watermark detectors are, to my notion, tools of the specialist. I have no quarrel with the specialists. A man has a right to collect what he pleases. I do. But I believe my kind constitutes an enormous majority of all collectors, and I don't think we receive, either from the catalog makers or publishers, the attention our numbers and buying power entitle us to.

I am a regular subscriber to half a dozen stamp papers and magazines, and about once in a blue moon do I find something (outside of the advertising columns) that is of interest to me. And because there are so many like me the stamp magazines have a very limited circulation. I note where the principal stamp paper of the Western Hemisphere is conducting an intensive campaign to bring its subscription list up to ten thousand. It is one of the best stamp papers ever published, but it could easily bring the number of its subscribers up to, not ten thousand, but a hundred thousand, if it would publish more matter of interest to collectors like me. And it need not neglect the specialist, either. Many general collectors gradually drift into specializing, some giving up everything else, but many retaining and building up their general collections, while specializing in a single country, or, a single stamp, as a side line. More power to their elbows, say I, but don't force those of us who do not want to do that to fall in line, or be forced to quit collecting because of the multiplicity of "catalog" major varieties and the scarcity of literature of interest to us.

Another thing that is hurting the general collector is the practice many stamp firms are falling into of buying their packets in Europe already made up. Almost invariably these packets are made up according to Y. & T. catalog, and as a consequence contain many varieties that are not recognized in this country. They also usually contain varieties not recognized in any country! Not necessarily counterfeits of fakes, either. Only recently I bought a 4,000 variety packet, and from a reputable firm, in which I found two complete sets of Austria 1908 issue, one set with varnish lines across the face. And part of another set on chalky paper. Of this one set I received forty-one stamps, though Scott only lists seventeen varieties. In Hungary, of Type A9 and Type A13 there were eighty-five copies with various hand-stamped surcharges—big block P, big block T, both surcharges in smaller type surrounded by a circle, and others—which are not listed anywhere that I can find. Still they went to make up the 4,000 "varieties." As a matter of fact, out of the packet I got 3,206 varieties listed by Scott, including minor varieties, such as inverted surcharges. When a general collector finds such conditions existing it rankles, more or less.

Now, I've said a lot, let's see if anything can be done.

First, I would suggest that the stamp papers try and get a good article of interest to the type of collector I represent for each issue of their papers. It might not be easy, and such articles might come in slowly at first, because the men capable of writing them do not, as a rule, have the time to spend on their hobby that the specialist has, but I believe the movement would gather volume like a snowball.

Next, let one of the album publishers feel out their trade as to the demand for a real general collector's album, and if it is great enough, publish one. I mean an illustrated album with spaces for all varieties of size, design and color except the extreme rarities, and nothing else. And leave out revenues, envelopes, official seals, etc. Include only adhesive postage stamps, including newspaper, official, postage due, special delivery, and registration stamps, but eliminating charity stamps, tax stamps, and other stamps of that character, unless they had franking power. I believe there would be a big demand for such an album. And I would suggest that all of the issues of each country, from the first to the latest, be kept together, and not have the nineteenth century in one place and the twentieth century in another.

Doubtless there are many other ways by which the interest of the old style general collector could be kept up, but I believe these two things—more articles in the stamp papers that he can read with interest, and an album that won't, by its very size, discourage him, and still will contain spaces for all the stamps he considers major varieties—will give general collecting among those of mature age an enormous impetus, and help us all out, dealers and collectors alike.

ROCHESTER PHILATELIC CLUB.

A number of people interested in stamp collecting met at the Commercial Studio Thursday evening, Jan. 7, to organize the Rochester, N. Y., Philatelic Club. At the meeting more than a thousand dollars worth of rare stamps were exhibited.

James L. Matheson was elected president; Fred Witzke, vice president; William H. Lemm, secretary-treasurer; and Homer Tubbs, librarian.

Meetings of the society are to be held every second and fourth Thursday evening in the club rooms, 107½ South Broadway.

Dr. Don Preston Peters of Lynchburg, Va., gave a talk on stamp collecting in general and especially of the Confederate state stamps, both local and general issues.

Members will be glad to have anyone interested in this hobby join the club by leaving their names with the officers.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ANTIGUA, 1921-1923

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The Royal Arms and Presidency Seal design, introduced in July, 1903, for Antigua's Postage and Revenue stamps (except 5s) had a life of almost 18 years. At first, printings were on Crown CC watermarked paper, and some values exist with both the ordinary and chalk surfacing. Subsequent to 1908, the stamps appeared with multiple Crown and Roman CA watermark.

When King George V ascended the throne in 1910, it was expected that if the Seal design continued in use for Antiguan stamps, the inscription around the edge of the seal, "Edwardus VII D. G. Britt. Omn. Rex F. D. Ind. Imp.—Sigil. Inss. Antiguae et Barbudae" would be changed to "Georgius V." etc., etc., but no change was made, and the stamps continued to be printed from the original frame and vignette plates. The 5s in green and violet, with the head of King George substituted for the deceased sovereign, appeared in August, 1913.

In 1917, it was rumored that consideration was being given to a new design which would embody the King's head along with the Seal of the Presidency. With the war on, and the congestion of work in De La Rue's printing establishment, the change was deferred until happier times returned.

A 1½d orange, printed in orange, and overprinted in black WAR STAMP, was issued in May, 1918, combining the letter rate of 1d and the ½d war tax. A new frame or duty plate was manufactured, but the vignette or Seal was impressed from plate 1 made up in 1903. This stamp was not legalised until the following year, by an Order in Council of February 21, 1919, published in the Leeward Islands Gazette of February 27, 1919.

On August 25, 1920, an official at St. John's wrote: "The matter of a new issue of stamps for Antigua is still under consideration. It is not likely that the issue will contain a 10s stamp, nor that the present 5s will be superceded." In their Bulletin of July-September, 1920, the Crown Agents advised that it was proposed to issue all values excepting the 5s in "an entirely new design," and further details were given in the Bulletin of October-December, 1920,

"The new issue of ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s and 2s6d Postage & Revenue stamps to be produced by the surface process is expected to reach the Colony at the end of March. The stamps are of the usual small postage size, and the design consists of the King's head on the left in an oval frame, with a shield below on the right containing a vignette of a device on the Public Seal of Antigua, surmounted by a small tablet containing the value. The name 'Antigua' appears at the bottom of the stamps."

The formal Order in Council, made June 29, 1921, and published in the Leeward Islands Gazette of July 7th, authorized the use of these stamps "on and after the first day of July, 1921," on which date they were actually issued.

"At an Extraordinary Meeting of the Executive Council of the Leeward Islands held at Government House, Antigua, on Wednesday, the 29th June, 1921.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

Whereas, it is enacted by section 3 of the Leeward Islands General Stamp Act, 1890, as amended by the Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1902, that there shall be a uniform stamp or stamps for use throughout the Colony whereby all Postage Rates and Stamp Duties may be respectively denoted or expressed, and such stamp shall be adhesive or embossed or impressed, or otherwise as the Governor shall by Order-in-Council from time to time direct. Provided, that the Governor may from time to time by Order-in-Council direct that a special stamp or stamps may be used in each or any Presidency concurrently with such uniform stamp or stamps as aforesaid:

And whereas, it is further enacted by Section 4 of the Leeward Islands General Stamp Act, 1890, that the Governor shall from time to time by Order-in-Council fix the design or designs and the mode in which each design shall be used and the several values of the stamp or stamps to be used in accordance with the said Act;

And whereas, it is desirable that there should be a special stamp of the designs and denominations set out herein, for use in the Presidency of Antigua concurrently with the Stamps of the Colony;

Now, therefore, the Governor-in-Council doth hereby order and direct as follows:—

On and after the first day of July 1921, special stamps may be used in the Presidency of Antigua concurrently with the uniform stamps now in use throughout the Colony of the Leeward Islands.

The several values of the said special stamps shall be ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s and 2s6d.

The design of the said special stamps for the Presidency of Antigua shall be in two medallions, one containing the Head of His Majesty, the King, and the other containing the device taken from the Arms on the Public Seal of the said Presidency.

Made by the Governor-in-Council this 29th day of June, 1921.

E. D'A. TIBBITS,
Clerk of the Council."

The King's head and Seal type adapted from the design used for the 3d, 4d and 6d values of Barbados' series, issued in July-August, 1912, though much of its original effectiveness has been lost by crowding the seal portion into a small circle shield. In the conventional size, the design has been used by British Guiana (1913), Montserrat (1916), Antigua (1921), and British Virgin Islands (1922).

In the upper left corner is the head of King George V within a pearl oval, surmounted by a Crown, and in the lower right corner, a shield bearing a representation of the Presidency Seal —i. e., a mountainous landscape with sea in the foreground. In the upper right corner is a rectangular shaped opening (curved at top and bottom), in which the value is impressed (from duty plates), in colorless figures and letters. "Postage — & Revenue" in small colored caps, appears at the left, under the King's portrait, and across the bottom in colorless caps, "ANTIGUA."

The stamps were designed, engraved and typographically printed at the operations by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London, in sheets of 120 stamps (6 panes of 60). A double marginal line surrounds each pane, and extends across the narrow gutter separating them, at the top and bottom. The inner line is in the color of the key-plate impression, and the outer in that of the value tablet. The head plate number 1 appears four times on the sheet, over the 2nd and 5th stamps of the left and right panes, respec-

Central American Olympic Games

Held at San Jose, Costa Rica, in December required (of course!) a stamp issue commemorative of the event. A set of three values was issued by Costa Rica under official decree. The work was done locally, and will afford collectors a good laugh. Subjects are as follows: 5c green—The Discus Thrower (Big Munns?); 10c red—Greek Urn (Kreske flower pot); 20c blue—Parthenon (one guess!).

30,000 sets were issued, half of this number being imperforate. Each stamp was sold at an advance of 10c over face, this premium going to help defray the expenses of the games committee.

Altho we sent cables to three correspondents for these stamps, we were able to secure only a small supply—and that at an advanced price. While 100 sets last:—

White script CA watermarked paper was first used for the 1d and 2½d of Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series, issued November 11, 1920, and the white paper stamps of Antigua's 1921 series, were so watermarked. The other values bore the Roman CA watermark, i. e., 3d (on yellow), 1s (on green), and 2s and 2s6d (on blue). Chalk surfaced paper was used for 3d and above, and the stamps were comb perforated 14.

1,933 sheets of the 1d carmine red (231,960 stamps), and 91 sheets of the ½d ultramarine (10,920 stamps) were sent out to the island, in addition to those sold by the Crown Agents in London. The 2½d ultramarine exhausted in March, 1924.

The 5s stamp continued in the 1903 same design, with the head of King George V within an oval.

July 1, 1921. King George V and Presidency Seal. Postage & Revenue. Engraved and typographically printed by De La Rue & Co., Ltd. London. Watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA (3d, 1s, 2s and 2s6d), and script CA. Plate 1 (headplate). Comb perforated 14.

STEAMBOAT CANCELLATIONS.

By HERBERT S. ACKERMAN.

I note with interest the article in January 5th number by Edward S. Knapp. As to the "Steamboat Cancellations," I have two covers that may be of sufficient interest to recite, viz.:

One is without date impressed on a Nesbit 3c envelope, on the inside, bearing the imprint of "Pat. Nov. 20, 1855" the back bottom flap is a semi-circle. The cancellation is as follows, stamped in blue in an ornamental single line frame the following inscription: "New Orleans, Alexandria, — Natchitockes & Grand xxxx,—Weekly Packet—St. Nicholas—J. C. Dowty, Master—Leaves New Orleans — Every Saturday at 5 PM". Printed at the end of the envelope is "If not delivered within 10 days, to be returned to." The letter is addressed to "Joseph Hoy Esq., New Orleans, La."

The other is dated and impressed on a Nesbit 3c envelope, the envelope being of a different knife from the one above in that the imprint is not there and the back bottom flap is pointed. The cancellation is in blue ink and is as follows: "Saturday Grand xxxx — Weekly Packet — Leaves—Jul 2 70—#B. L. Hodge No. 2# —John Hienn—Commander." Two ornaments, before and after the name of steamer. The frame line to the impression is an oval. At the end of the envelope is the return request as above. The writing on the envelope is as follows: "Order for Freight Steamer B. L. Hodge" and addressed to "Joseph Hoy & Co., New Orleans, La."

The town of Grand xxxx is poorly impressed and the last part I cannot make out.

HADLEY TAKES 5,000 LINES.

Frank E. Hadley of Detroit, Mich., has signed a contract for 5,000 lines of space to be used during the next year. His first advertisement appears in this number and takes the form of an auction sale. Without a doubt several of these sales will be included in the life of his contract and buyers at auctions are urged to give Mr. Hadley's offerings careful perusal.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—If you know a shut-in who would like to look over an accumulation of back numbers of the WEEKLY have him write to F. B. Pond, 4220 McCulloch St., Duluth, Minn. The application must be a personal one.

—We are advised of the death of Dr. E. Clark Tracy of White Plains, N. Y., a longtime subscriber to the WEEKLY. Mrs. Tracy in cancelling his subscription writes that Dr. Tracy "not only thoroughly enjoyed the publication, but considered it the best one published".

—We have received from the Max F. Bier Co. their new 1925 price list. It shows about seven hundred different sets as well as a large number of desirable single stamps, including many British Colonials, also packets. It will be sent free on request. Address 1496 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

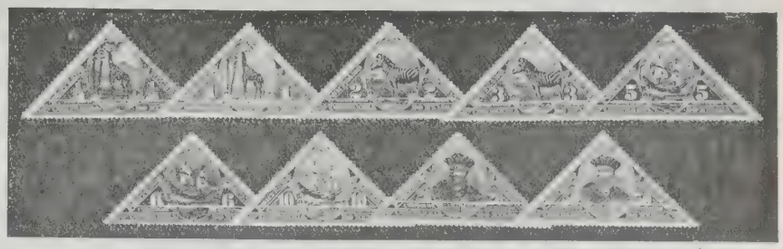
—Fernald Hutchins of the Boston Philatelic Society suffered severely from a fire at his apartment in Boston a few weeks ago. There was heavy damage from fire, water, smoke and chemicals but he managed to save the valuable portion of his collection. His probable stamp loss will be about $200.

—Edw. S. Knapp, 158 E. 64 St., N. Y. City, would like the address of Lawrence W. Gibson, whose name appeared in a copy of the WEEKLY some months ago in Mr. Ward's column. Mr. Knapp will greatly appreciate the information desired.

—I am enclosing an envelope from Colombia and call your attention to the postmark reading: "Insurance Office and Representations Guillermo Escobar Bogota, Colombia." You may find it opportune to mention the Colombia Postal Administration's apparent commercialization of their postmark. I think you have already noticed the report of Mussolini's administration's tagging an extra piece, unperforated, to the actual stamp, said piece carrying the Singer Sewing Machine Co.'s advertisement.—FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph. D.

—With reference to your paragraph in December 22, issue regarding Zeppelin postcards, an article recently appeared in an English paper making the same suggestion, i.e., that mail not bearing certain postmarks was not actually carried by the ZR3 Airship. After the appearance of this article numerous letters were printed from contributors in England and on the Continent proving without doubt that letters and postcards bearing the violet oval cachet were really carried, since the German postal authorities returned mail and refunded postage on all matter that could not be carried.—FRANCIS J. FIELD.

—We are indebted to several subscribers for contributions to the "gum" situation. "Gum vs. No Gum" has been a very debatable proposition during all the life of the WEEKLY and it is hardly profitable for us to open our columns for an extended discussion of the question. We must acknowledge the receipt of a letter from Gustav Larson of Worcester, Mass., who champions in an energetic manner the "no gum" end of the argument. After all, it is a matter of personal preference and collectors will do about as they please.



—At the annual meeting and banquet of the San Diego (Calif.) Stamp Club held at the Maryland Hotel, San Diego, December 15, 1924, thirty-five members and friends were in attendance, including five members of the Collectors Club of Los Angeles. At this meeting the following officers were elected to serve for 1925: P. A. Coppard, president; C. Lee Tubbs, vice-president; Vincent Percival, secretary - treasurer; A. G. Galloway, sales manager; Fred W. Reif, auction manager. President Coppard and Vice-Pres. Tubbs having been elected for the third consecutive time.

—G. W. Deering submits for our chronicle the current 50c Italy with a Singer Sewing Machine advertisement attached to the stamp. This proposition comes as near to postal poverty as anything ever issued in stamp form.

GREEK PHILOLOGY.

We have received a lengthy communication from Dr. St. J. Macrymichalos of Piraeus, Greece, in which he dissents very strongly from the position taken by Mr. Rich in the issue of our paper dated Aug. 18. It is our opinion that we shall do well not to prolong the discussion between our Greek philatelist and Mr. Rich. We do feel that in justice to Dr. Macrymichalos we should give him the benefit of his statement that the exact equivalent of his name is not "Big Mike" but simply "Long Michael," and he sharply adds "This shows once more Mr. Rich's insufficient knowledge of the Greek language and philology." Our friend contends that his name is a compound word made up from "makros" (long) and "Michael" (under its Greek termination form and not in the sense of Mike). Finis.

EDITORIAL.

An article "With Pencil, Brush and Chisel" in the Saturday Evening Post, by Emil Fuchs, designer of the bust of the King Edward stamps is a most important contribution to philatelic history. This authoritative account is an intimate disclosure of the circumstances attending the creation of the stamps in question which met with a reception lacking in cordiality by the Britons, to put it mildly. Mr. Fuchs is essentially candid in his recountal and depends upon the records to establish his position. He submits two letters from Thos. de La Rue and Co., Ltd., London, the famous stamp engraving house. We dare not infringe upon the copyright by any extensive quotations from the article which would be a most readable one for a philatelic paper. The progress of the origin and production of the stamps is well told, and it is shown that it was the wish of King Edward that Mr. Fuchs be entrusted with the task of replacing a design that the stamp printing firm had already prepared from a photograph of His Majesty. The king, undoubtedly impressed by the excellence of a modeling of his head that Mr. Fuchs had made for a medallion, indicated his wish that Fuchs execute the stamp designs. In moving to merit the confidence that King Edward evidently had in him Fuchs was beset with many difficulties. Not an engraver himself, he worked with an expert loaned to him by de La Rue and Co., and reconciling his genius to the unfamiliar work, Fuchs persevered, animated by the thought of preserving the likeness of the royal subject. The development of the stamp was recorded by frequent printings, and it was evident that the King himself took a great interest in the new issue. Just before the die was completed the King asked for a sight of the stamps, and the bust having been finished, Mr. Fuchs and his associate were able to submit a printing of it to him. King Edward found no fault with the bust, and in due course of time the stamps were issued with the results that collectors know. It was evident that the hostility to the new issue was to the fact that Mr. Fuchs was an Austrian, and the question of how it chanced that Fuchs had been selected without giving any consideration to British artists or designers was made the subject of parliamentary inquiry but the matter seems to have been dropped when it was said that the king himself was responsible for the selection. Mr. Fuchs took the adverse criticism philosophically and frankly admits that stamp designing is a specialistic field that it is very hard for the artist or sculptor to cultivate. He did not understand the technic of the work of stamp making, and the circumscribed area of the stamp with its flat surface gave him a new world to try to conquer. With some satisfaction we may believe Mr. Fuchs refers to the fact that the King George stamps for which he was in no wise responsible met with more objections on the part of the public than did his stamps. We gather that Mr. Fuchs is interested in stamps in a collecting sense, because he speaks of putting the impressions of the engraving of the stamp stage by stage in his album, to which he says he soon added the designs bearing the King's approval. The article is illustrated by a fine enlargement of the bust of King Edward from an etching by Mr. Fuchs, after his drawing from life of the King's head for the new stamps. The article under notice is the fifth of a series that Mr. Fuchs, now a resident of this country, has prepared for the Post.

The Post article that we have just noticed is a significant one for the reason that the importance attaching to the issue of new stamps is graphically portrayed. It gives an idea of the many considerations that enter into the making of a stamp, on artistic, political and practical grounds. The story combines many features that are not apparent on the surface, so far as the public is concerned, and is truly a revelation of the potential influence of the postage stamp. An article of this kind will have a salutary effect on readers in this country, to whom the stamp particularly, as an object of collection, is not the factor of importance that it is in Europe where one who is interested in philately is accepted as the devotee of a rational pursuit, rather than as a mild curiosity, as he is regarded in many parts of this country.

We have had a number of letters as a consequence of our report of the verdict against Mr. Flachskamm of St. Louis, and we are informed by Mr. Fred A. Jekel of that city that Mr. Flachskamm will take an appeal from the decision, and he promises us any further news of the action.

Philatelists find that their hobby is an aid for them in their running to cover some of the terms that the makers of cross-word puzzles delight in. Through their study of stamps they have the edge on the benighted non-philatelist when it comes to identifying some of the uncommon birds and beasts, not to mention the fauna that have appeared on stamp issues. "The Venezuelan Gold Coin" or "Persian Monetary Unit" play right into the collector's mitt; and it really is surprising in how many instances philately fits in with the work of the puzzle enthusiast. Of course, the "emu" is now so common that it has been relieved of much of its fascination, but when it comes to "kiwi" and birds of that feather, not to mention the reptiles, monkeys and other odd animals, the stamp collector may assume an air of superiority.

The new issues that are coming in great numbers present a remarkable range for additions to the album. Of the printing of stamps, there is no end, and the ordinary postal requirements of the nations now ensure a great variety of novelties each year and the issues that have a sentimental side as well as a postalic reason for existence come in prodigal numbers at times. With commemorative, celebration and just ordinary new issues, we have our hands full, and the swelling tide of new things makes it easier each year to gather a great number of varieties at small expense. More forcefully at present than ever before the truth of the paraphrase brought hom that the world is the stamp collector's oyster. The knowledge of history, political changes and current events that may be gained through the study of the newcomers is surprisingly embracive.

We are sure that as a writer in the Indianapolis Star says, the American is sadly in need of a plaything or two, and commenting on "The Book of Hobbies," she says that we should emulate the example of the foreigner who "takes his business lightly and his hobby seriously," and we verily believe that stamp collecting is the ideal pursuit to take the mind away from one's self and from one's business.

From Mr. James R. Bailey of Gastonia, North Carolina, we have received a copy of the Washington Philatelist dated March, 1895, which contains a picture of Mr. Ferrari, whose collection is being disposed of in the great sale at Paris. In the biography of Ferrari, accompanied by a cut of the gentleman, it is said that a stenographer and three secretaries are employed wholly with correspondence and the details in mounting and arranging the collection; and a point is made of the fact that the new issues from every country of the world are received as soon as possible. Nowadays, the collector who has the new issue service at his disposal is not out of the ordinary. Speaking of Washington, the seat of publication of the stamp paper from which we have quoted, reminds us that the Washington Philatelic Society is planning for an exhibit at the public library in that city. Committees have been appointed, according to the newspapers, and we quote: "Exhibits from the collections of many senators, representatives and other public officials fro Washington and other cities will placed in glass cases and members of t society will tell of them to visitors The officers of the Carnegie Public L brary have donated the use of the ha on the second floor for the laudab purpose, and it is said that the exhibit will be planned so that there will be duplication of countries.

From Mr. Adolf Sonntag, Chicag we have received a cover sent fro Montevideo, Uruguay, the stamps which are cancelled in postmark forr "Posted on the High Seas, S. S. Weste World" with the outline of an anch below. This neat postmark is the fi of the kind that we have seen.

From Mr. Douglas P. Ball we ha received a set of the Costa Rica Olyn pian Games stamps as follows: green, discus thrower; 10c red, Greci urn; and the 20c blue, the Parthen The stamps are lithographed, and must admit that the interest of Co Rica is not wholly sentimental in t instance, as a charge of 10c over face made for the stamps, with the idea applying it on the expenses of the co mittee on the games. It seems a cry from Costa Rica to Greece, but be ing in mind that Costa Rica is one the most progressive countries of Cent America, we can only say that it is n to be considered the most enterpriz philatelically. As for the stamps, th artistic merits do not remind us of glory that was Greece, and they are o to the suspicion that they were desig at some way-station where the ar was marooned between trains.

By chance, we have seen a cover t certainly is full of human interest, amo those in the possession of Fred J. I Witt, secretary of the Chicago Philat Society. It is a letter that was sent 1919 to Private Fred J. DeWitt, U.

Marine, 18th Company, 5th Reg., via New York, American Expeditionary Force. The letter was returned much the worse for wear to the sender, Mr. DeWitt's mother, literally covered with postal inscriptions stamped and written; and closed with an officially sealed label. Among the notices impressed on the envelope are "Cannot be Found" and under the stamp is the portentous inscription in red ink: "Deceased, American Expeditionary Force, Verified," with the signature of a second lieutenant of the U. S. M. C. The letter was received by Mrs. DeWitt, who became a gold star mother in consequence; and it was not until a month afterwards that her grief was turned to joy by the receipt of a few lines from Mr. DeWitt who though officially dead and so inscribed on the rolls, was able, with the guiding hand of the nurse, to affix his signature to a letter that he dictated to her. For hours Mr. DeWitt lay on the field, seemingly dead, and it was reported in consequence that he had died. He was badly shattered, having so many wounds that it was scarcely possible to count them, but after trembling on the brink of the precipice of death for several weeks, he finally won; and after a protracted hospital siege, he was ordered home. We believe that Mr. DeWitt is the only philatelist who carried a catalogue with him to France, and when he feels in a meditative mood, he goes to one of the Y. M. C. A. branches on the north side and reads his name in bronze, which heads the list of those who fell for their country and then he heads for the south side where also he sees on the tablet, in the steel companies where Mr. DeWitt was employed when he enlisted, his name among those who sacrificed their lives on the altar of patriotism. Thus was a good philatelist spared for service in our little world.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

ADDRESS OF P. M. WOLSIEFFER.

On January 14th the annual dinner of the Collectors Club was held in New York City. Among the guests of the evening was P. M. Wolsieffer, president of the American Philatelic Society. His remarks will be of interest to our wide circle of readers and particularly those who are members of the A. P. S.:—

"As president of the American Philatelic Society you will no doubt expect me to say something about our premier National organization of stamp collectors and dealers of the United States, the largest in the world. I shall not detain you long with an account of its early struggles and history, which is familiar to most of you.

On Sept. 14, 1886, the organization meeting was held here in this city, and you elected as your first president, one of the greatest philatelists of his time, Mr. John K. Tiffany, of St. Louis, and continued him in office for ten years. It was during this period that the foundation for a permanent National organization was laid and to Mr. Tiffany much of the credit is due that the Society came thru that first ten years of uncertainty as strong and as able as it did.

Many members evidently do not read the by-laws of our Society as is evinced by the frequent requests for information about our Stock Fund and other funds, and why we do not spend it for publishing a catalog, hand books, publicity, etc. In all cases I am obliged to make the same answer and inform them that under our by-laws it cannot legally be done.

Our Stock Fund must be kept inviolate and only the interest can be used. The same with the Life Membership Fund and Insurance Fund, the interest only being available for general expenses and the issuing of our Official Journal, The American Philatelist.

It was President Tiffany's idea that a Permanent Fund should be created from the $1.00 paid in by each member when he joined as an initiation fee. After the Society was incorporated, this $1.00 was stated to be for a share of stock. President Tiffany had in mind that with a large Permanent Fund earning a substantial income much good could be accomplished in the future, but if we spend the principal our influence and finances would be greatly diminished.

At the present time the income is not large enough for the Society to engage in any big undertaking or campaign of money spending. Our Official Journal, under its present able editor is one of the features we must continue, and we should not overlook the fact that the expenses in all departments grow with the growth of membership.

I consider myself very fortunate in participating in this the 28th Annual Dinner of the Collectors Club. When I said fortunate, I might have said lucky. Do you believe in 'Lady Luck,' or, in lucky numbers? I note that my membership card is No. 13, and I am told there are many people who for superstitious reasons would shun that number. I consider myself lucky that I have No. 13 for it means that I have been a member of the Collectors Club for many years.

Speaking of thirteen reminds me of the fact that there is no 13 cent stamp in our present issue of stamps and I wonder why. This value was included in the 1902, 1908 and 1917 issues. It was reported that the 13c stamp was not popular or often called for on account of the superstition regarding number 13. This I could hardly credit and I wrote to the Post Office Department the latter part of 1917 urging it be reissued because of its usefulness for registered letters, the postage at that time being 3 cents.

Even now with the combination of Parcel Post, Insurance, etc., it would still be a very handy value for use and prevent combinations of two or more stamps to make up that amount.

If, as suggested, superstition has anything to do with its unpopularity, I would call attention to the fact that our good old Uncle Samuel began business with 13 Original Colonies and surely no one will accuse him of having been unlucky.

If I were Uncle Sam I would make the 13c stamp one of the most popular stamps of a series by issuing it in the National colors of red, white and blue, and with the design of our sacred Liberty Bell. I am very sure that Patriotism can and will overcome superstition.

We collectors and dealers should be very grateful to the Government for what they are doing for us and our favorite pursuit. Establishing the Stamp Agency at Washington for our special benefit deserves the thanks of every collector.

On the other hand, the Government can depend on every one of us to act in the capacity of a detective and to report any counterfeit that may be put into circulation. This has been proven several times. One case I well remember was in 1894 when the 2 cent stamp was counterfeited by a photographic-zinc etching process.

I was then located in Chicago where this counterfeit originated. A Mr. Lefever, one of the local collectors and a prominent member of the Chicago Philatelic Society, came into my office at that time and showed me some peculiar looking 2c stamps and said, 'P. M., what do you think of them?' I said without hesitation, 'They are counterfeits, where did you get them?'

He then told me several shipments were received from a Canadian mail order concern and were offered at a discount below their face value. He took them over to the Post Office, reported it to the Secret Service, and they at once seized them.

Capt. Stuart, in charge of Secret Service of the Chicago office, called me over to explain to him the details of why they were bad. I at once took a perforation gauge out of my pocket and began to measure the perforations. He said, 'What is that you are doing,' and I informed him. He then said, 'Good Lord, my assistant was trying to measure them with a foot rule.' I then said, 'Captain, you need a Philatelist in this office.'"

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville 44, Mass.

Did You See My Adv.?

Did you see my advertisement last week? Full details regarding my purchase of stamps to the value of $50,000.00 from the famous Lozier collection—the choicest lot of United States in mint condition that has reached the market since the Worthington Sale. Issues from 1847 to 1888 in singles and mint blocks—practically everything.

Bought upward of $10,000 worth of stamps from the Waterhouse Sale—many more in London and on the Continent. Consequently, I am in a better position than ever to supply the unusual. Send me your want list and I will keep it before me until all of your wants are filled. Especially large stock of the issues from 1894 to date in stock in mint blocks and singles—also most of the coils.

In order to better serve my numerous clients, I am always in the market to buy fine items and collections of United States at substantial prices. At present, I especially desire—

1847—5c—Fine pairs, strips and blocks, on or off cover, used or unused.
1847—10c—Fine singles or better, off or on cover. Have several clients plating this stamp and especially anxious even for singles.
1851—Fine mint blocks of all denominations—the larger the better.
1857—Blocks of the 10c to 90c inclusive.
1861—August issue, singles of the 1c, 12c, 30c.
1867—Block of the 12c, 11x13, 5c and 90c 9x13.
1869—Blocks of 6c, 10c, 15c Type I, 24c, 30c, 90c.
1870—Grills. Blocks of all above 6c.
1870—No grill, Blocks of 24c, 30c, 90c.
1875—Special prints, hard and soft paper.
1893—Mint 4c Columbian error, singles and block.
1894-95—Blocks of $2 and $5.
1902-3—1c, 2c, 5c Coils in strips.
1908—10c Coil in mint pairs or better.
1908—Blue paper, blocks of 4c and 8c.

Also, any other fine early unused block, single or cover, or scarce late item. If you have only a single item desired, please send it along, priced. Best of commercial, bank or philatelic reference furnished on request.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

1916-17, 1c Rotary Redrawn variety.

I have recently been assorting a considerable number of coil stamps, and while going over some of the 1c green, sidewise coil of the 1916-17 issue, perforated 10 vertically, Scott's No. 490, I noticed on certain stamps to the right of line pairs, that there were dark spots. In handlng these hurriedly I was under the impression that they were simply ink marks, but when I found the variety repeated, I put it under the glass and noticed one of the most interesting oddities that have turned up in our late stamps. In the hardening process, there evidently appeared a surface crack, a portion of which may still be seen, and in order to overcome this defect a graver was used to strengthen the lines and eliminate the crack. As a result, Washington's eyebrow is entirely redrawn with heavy horizontal lines, and we find further marks of the graver tending to eliminate the crack which starts at the upper part of the "P" of "Postage" down through the right foot of the same letter through the horizontal lined background, across the white oval, down to the right of Washington's eye.

I do not recall but one other such variety on any of the Bureau products.

The stamp is, of course, from the edge of the plate as it is the one immediately to the right of the coil line. Had it not been for its nearness to the line, probably the variety would never have been saved. Fortunately twelve were found and unless similar copies are turned up, these are likely to be all.

Sesqui-Centennial Issue.

The proper Philadelphia Committee having the matter in charge, is in communication with Washington regarding the stamps to be issued for the Sesqui-Centennial to be held in Philadelphia in 1926. No suggestions have as yet come from Philadelphia since the committee has been re-organized, but it seems suggestions are coming from the other parts of the country, and these include the recommendation that Nathan Hale appear upon one of the stamps. Such a design would hardly be appropriate for if we want to show the heroes of the time, there are many others who are more entitled to consideration than Hale.

Independence Hall should certainly be one of the subjects, "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence" another, and possibly the "Liberty Bell" is worthy of consideration. It is thought at this time that there will possibly be four or five denominations. We should have at least this number, if not more, when it is remembered that we are celebrating an event of such importance.

If we use Turnbull's famous painting of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence as a model, difficulties will arise on account of the large amount of subject matter to be placed in such a small space. It is true that this was illustrated on the 24c stamp of 1869, but it must be remembered that this stamp in those days was turned out by the hundreds, whereas today, they are turned out by the millions and the fine lines which would be necessary would soon wear.

There is in one of the Boston public buildings a more recent painting of the Signing, which I understand is more accurate and I am informed that the painter went to great trouble in his research in order to make the picture as near correct historically as possible.

Mr. Warren Irving Glover, the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, is a direct descendant of Thomas Lynch, one of the famous signers, and we hope that when these stamps are first placed on sale, supposedly in Philadelphia, that he will arrange to have a special temporary post-office located in Independence Hall, where we can mail out our early covers and have them postmarked with a special cancellation.

1925 Envelopes.

Mr. H. Clay Reed has written to ask if we would care to chronicle envelopes with the new watermarks as fast as they are issued, providing the information is furnished us by our readers. We are always pleased to be informed of any new envelope found, either in the case of the new varieties or of the older issues. As a rule, however, we like to see a copy of the variety to be chronicled for at times the finder of a new variety is not always sufficiently familiar with die watermark and size to give us the exact information that we desire. As the envelopes with the new watermark begin to make their appearance, we trust our readers will advise us as to anything new found. Such information cannot be obtained through Washington, for they have no way of furnishing us with the data regarding dies, which we recognize philatelicly, but which mean nothing to the envelope manufacturers.

By the way, it may be interesting to envelope collectors to know that the Philatelic Agency contemplates stocking the current envelopes of all sizes on blue and white for the benefit of collectors and dealers.

New Revenues.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Company have shown me a copy of the current 1 rose Documentary surcharged horizontally in two lines in black—"FUTURE DELIVERY". The type is similar to that used on the other lower denominations of the series but the two words are much closer together. As to whether this new spacing of overprint will appear on the other denominations, I cannot at this time say.

Mr. W. C. Black has kindly submitted for inspection a pair of the $1.00 Stock Transfer printed while a portion of the sheet was bent over, resulting in one stamp having the overprint on the back and the other on the front.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. copy of 24c stamp in the design of the 1923 issue without the period after the value.

STANLEY GIBBONS LTD

OUR large and rapidly growing volume of business with collectors in America is due, first to our possession of an unrivalled stock, second to our willingness to send any portion of that stock on approval to any part of the world, whether the purchases contemplated are large or small, thirdly to our knowledge of the needs of the American market, fourthly to our prompt, courteous and efficient service, and lastly, but by no means least, to the value of MEKEEL'S as an introduction to the collectors whom we wish to serve.

A line from you stating your philatelic interests, with usual references, will receive attention by return mail. Our only address is BULGARIA.—Provisionals. The provisional issue, of which we chronicled the 1 leva on 5st on Dec. 13, consists of three values, the other two being: 3 leva (in red) on 75 stotinki and 6 leva (in black) on 1 leva red.—Philatelic Magazine.

CEYLON.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 12c carmine on script watermark paper.

DANZIG.—Three new pictorials are to hand, comprising the following:—Engraved and printed in recess (centres in black), Wmk. Honeycomb, Perf. 14: 3 gulden blue and black, view of Zoppot (a popular seaside resort); 5 gulden lake and black, Church of St. Mary; 10 gulden brown and black, Town Hall, Langemarkt. Messrs. Denton Hepworth and Whitfield King & Co. show us examples.—Stamp Collecting.

EGYPT.—Mr. M. H. Abela tells us that the new issue which is under consideration will be printed by the photogravure process. One design will be used for the series, consisting of a portrait of H.M. King Fuad, with arabesque or ancient Egyptian decoration, with inscription "Egypt Postage" in Arabic, and value in Arabic words and Arabic and Latin figures. The same correspondent points out slight differences in the shades of the low values of the current series, not, however, sufficiently distinct to be describable in print.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

ESTHONIA.—Two values in a new pictorial type are to hand from Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. Transverse oblong in format, they have a view of the National Theatre, flanked by foliage and inscriptions "EESTI POST" (in curved band at top) and "KOLMKUMMEND MARKA" (two lines, curved at foot). Pictorial, Center in black, Perf. 13½: 30 marka purple and black, 70 marka carmine and black.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALY—Continuing last week's item: Maison Filatelia and Mr. P. J. Strookman (Turin) kindly send us examples. Our chronicle now stands: On 50 centisimi, violet:—Macchine Singer (red), Campadine de Montel (blue), Grafofono Columbia (red), Lubrificanti Reinach (blue).

St. Francis stamps. Despite the recently proclaimed ordinance against unnecessary stamp issues, Italy continues to bring out new stamps. In addition to the "Holy Year" stamps, there is the prospect of a series commemorating the seventh centenary of the death of St. Francis of Assisi, which falls in 1926. —Philatelic Magazine.

JAPAN.—It seems to be certain, says our Tokyo contemporary, The Yuraku, that 5 yen and 10 yen stamps will soon appear in a new design. This confirms the report that the plates for these high value stamps, which were in use until 1923, were destroyed at the time of the great earthquake disaster. We are informed, too, that the size is to remain unaltered, which is somewhat to be regretted, as it seems more appropriate to have a larger size for high value stamps in order to get a more elaborate and more effective design than those for the lower denominations. Both new stamps will be recess-printed.—Stamp Collecting.

PERU.—New 4 Centavos. Mr. Manuel Buenano (Huancayo) informs us that the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs has authorised the issue of 500,000 stamps of 4 centavos in the design of the current 5 centavos stamp.—Philatelic Magazine.

PORTUGAL.—To commemorate the fourth centenary of the death of Vasco da Gama, which occurred on December 24, 1524, the following stamps are to be surcharged, all of one value, 2 escudos:—Portugal, on 5 and 10 reis, Nos. 150 and 151. Azores, on 10, 100 and 150 reis, Nos. 85, 89 and 90. Maderia, on 10 reis, No. 36. Numbers are those of our 1925 catalogue.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

ST. LUCIA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us a new color for the 2½d stamp of this colony. The shade is now orange.

SIAM.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 3s in the type of the 1920 design in a red lilac shade.

TOGO.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. have sent us for chronicle the new series of stamps recently placed on sale in this colony. The values are from 1c to 5fr and are of three different designs, the six low values, 1c to 15c, showing a view of a cocoanut plantation, 20c to 85c a cocoa tree, and the 1fr to 5frs picturing natives climbing oil palms.

TRANS-JORDANIA.—Our agent informs us that a committee has been formed to examine all stamps before they are put on sale to the public, and to destroy all errors and varieties. In our consignment of the latest issue there is however one error in the ¼ piastre, the date printed being 1302 instead of 1342, this being No. 14 in the sheet.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

H. B. Furnside, Schenectady, N. Y.
Philip Little, Jr., Minneapolis, Minn.
James M. Henry, Bronxville, N. Y.
O. S. Hart, Akron, Ohio.
C. Lee Tubbs, San Diego, Calif.
Henry B. Evans, Chicago, Ill.

We begin our list of applications for membership in the Honor Club this week by mentioning a check for $5 from H. B. Furnside of Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. Furnside is chairman of the Sewer and Water Commission for District No. 1, Niskayuna, N. Y., and his name will be familiar to many of our readers because of his longtime interest in philately.

Under date of January 13 we received two applications for membership in our Honor Club. One comes from James M. Henry, 481 Rossmore Ave., Bronxville, N. Y., and the other from Philip Little, Jr., of 2319 First Ave. S., Minneapolis, Minn. Both these subscribers send us best wishes with their remittances for five year renewals.

In a bright and gossipy letter O. S. Hart of Akron, Ohio, encloses a check for $5 for membership in the Honor Club, "fearing that in my near old age I might lack the necessary dollar per". Mr. Hart writes us how he bought his first 5c New York for 75c, the largest sum he had ever expended for a stamp up to that time. About forty years ago he bought from E. B. Sterling a set of the dollar values State at a trifle over face and only ten years ago he sold a block of four 90c 1869 for $212. Among some old letters found in a suburb of Cleveland thirty-five years ago was a fine copy of the 10c 1847 which still graces his collection. Mr. Hart drops into poetry which we are disposed to quote:—

An old stamp collector named Cox,
Always saved his U. S. in blocks.
As time has gone by U. S. blocks have gone high
So he was a foxy old fox.

Notwithstanding the fact that C. Lee Tubbs of San Diego, Calif., is entitled to receive the WEEKLY as a member of the firm of Coppard & Tubbs, he sends in his application for membership in the Honor Club with his remittance of $5. His firm has made application for a first page square and they have been entered in line for promotion. Mr. Tubbs writes:—"Our business locally has exceeded our expectations." Congratulations.

Henry B. Evans, attorney-at-law, Chicago, Ill., "presumes to send us $6 for a six years renewal of subscription and expresses the hope that he is not shut out from the Five Year Club simply because he has overshot that mark". By no manner of means, Mr. Evans. Indeed we think it wise to create a new office in the Honor Club and make you a sergeant-at-arms. As we remember the Republican National Convention there was a large array of these officials, so we shall have room for further applications of your kind. Seriously, Mr. Evans declares that he gets "more solid, pleasureable enjoyment out of MEKEEL'S than any other magazine in print.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Guatemala.—Mr. H. de Solis gives the following numbers printed of the recent provisionals and the new Perkins Bacon printing of the current types:—1p on 1.50p, 400,000; 1p 25c on $5, 300,000, of which 200,000 were further surcharged with bars, to make the 1p on $5.

Italy.—A new form of postal publicity has been adopted by this country, consisting of stamps to which advertisers' announcements, in a different colour, are annexed, the permanence of the advertisement being assured by the fact that there is no perforation between it and the stamp. We have so far seen advertisements of the Columbia Graphophone, Singer Sewing Machine, and Reinach Lubricants.

Mr. M. H. Abela states that special stamps will be issued in celebration of the Papal Holy Year, the values being 20, 30, 50 and 60c, and 1 and 5 lire, with designs depicting the four great churches of Rome, and the scenes of the opening and closing of the Jubilee door.

Portugal.—The new "Camoens" series is quite an interesting one. Nothing could be more unlike our modern idea of a poet than this one-eyed, armour-plated adventurer, who is shown on some stamps fighting against the Moors, while on others he is swimming for his life, holding the MS. of his masterpiece, the Lusiad, above his head, to protect it from the waves. No doubt a series commemorating so famous a son of Portugal is justified, but it should not have been "sold out" within a few days (or was it hours?) of issue, if its real object was to do him honour, while we think thirty-one different values is rather lavish measure for a single set. Even Columbus didn't get as much as that for discovering America.

Mozambique Co.—Mr. Bicknell Smith very kindly sends us a cutting which states that, owing to a temporary shortage of stamps, the P.O. at Beira has adopted the use of hand-stamped franks. The one shown us by our correspondent consists of the words, "CORREIO" (at top), "Pago" (centre), and value written in red ink (at foot), in a circle, all in red. Mr. L. H. Rivers kindly confirms, and states that collectors only escaped a flood of provisionals because there was literally nothing left on hand which could be overprinted!

Sweden.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross shows us a pair of the current 15 öre, portrait, with guide-line between, as in the stamps of the United States. We believe these guide lines may be found in all values issued imperf. by perf.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

PRICE LIST, No. 3

While most of the prices in our List No. 2 still hold good, there are a few changes which are recorded here. The majority of the items offered below were crowded out of our previous list, and we offer them now at the prices indicated. * Means unused. All stamps sold by us are in good to fine condition, and are returnable for any reason whatsoever. 5% discount on orders of $10.00 or over; 10% on $50.00 or over.

20th Century Malta

REVISED PRICES.

The demand for 20th Century Malta from our Price List No. 2 has been very great, and it has depleted our stock of these popular stamps to such an extent that we are compelled to revise our prices in accordance with the changes noted in Scott's Bulletin for December. Our new prices are:

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

tities of the bi-colored "Franklins" that must be used up before our new stamps can make their precanceled debut.

$2. Franklin Bi-colored.—The precanceled varieties are not so many. A short summary of them might be set forth as follows:

The Endicott-Johnson Shoe Co. of Endicott, N. Y., has perhaps affixed a greater number of precanceled red and black stamps to their parcel post matter, than any other firm in the country. Consequently this item is fairly plentiful. Those from Rochester, N. Y., take second place in the ascending scale of value, although they may be purchased in quantity at approximately the same rate as the Endicotts. The Corona Typewriter Co. of Groton, N. Y., has also found need for this denomination. The Grotons are occasionally met with but are not plentiful. Chicago precanceled several sheets of the $2.00 stamps with the U-1 electro, but has since exclusively employed the U-11 plate. The U-1 variety is a real rarity. The only copy we have seen rests in the collection of Mr. Howard S. Wheeler of Boston. The value of the U-11 precancel will depend upon the period of time elapsing before the issue becomes obsolete. It will be scarce, but in our opinion hardly rare. Another rarity is the Burlington, N. J. None appear to be on the market and a single copy is all that we have ever chanced upon. The past quarter of the year brought out Louisville, Ky., and Columbia, Mo. Both are items of pronounced value and will continue to be such.

We have exclusively confined our discussion in the above paragraph to the carmine red and black stamp. The orange and black is practically unknown precanceled. Techny, Ill., used a few on bags of Misson Mixture and there is a reported variety from New York. This latter we cannot authentically list, not having viewed a specimen, but if in existence are splendid property.

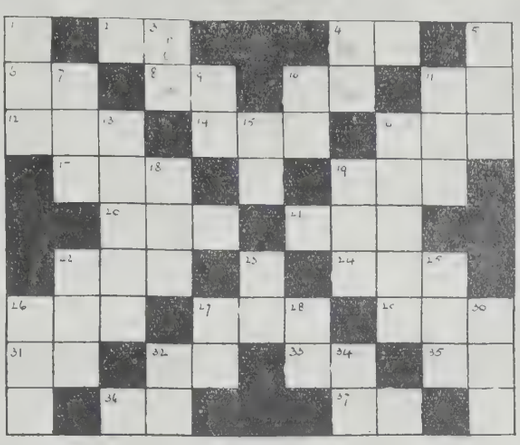
$5. Franklin, Green and Black.—Techny, Ill., and Eagle Pass, Texas, retain the distinction of being the only post-offices to have precanceled this adhesive. These varieties are strictly legitimate and catalogued 7.50 and 5.00 respectively.

Conclusion.—We solicit correspondence relating to the nature of the department. It will be edited to suit the demands of its readers. What shall be the character of the discourse? Notes at random or more technical discussion? Your views and suggestions shall be given careful consideration. Drop us a line.

NEW ISSUES FOR NEW ZEALAND.

By courtesy WILCOX, SMITH & Co.

You have always treated us in such a fair and square manner, we beg to offer you the following exclusive New Zealand news, which you may take as absolutely correct:—



(1.) The new higher values 2sh to 5sh ordinary postage, are to be of the same size as the current Niue, Penrhyn, etc., stamps and pictorial designs are being prepared.

(2.) The new 6sh upwards are under way, and the N. Z. Coat of Arms will take the place of the Queen's Head.

(3.) The new design 1d map will be issued probably in February.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

"We are indebted to Bertram W. H. Poole for the above cross-word puzzle and he very kindly offers prizes in connection with correct solutions. For the three best solutions he will give albums advertised in our paper a few weeks ago, and to every other competitor sending a correct solution he will send a set of revenue leaves. Bear in mind that all replies or correspondence in connection with this cross-word puzzle should be addressed to B. W. H. Poole, 620 Washington Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif., and not to any office of the WEEKLY. The answers to this puzzle will be published four weeks hence and entries should be filed not later than three weeks subsequent to the date of this issue."

Horizontal.

2—The initials of the designer of the 1895 postage due stamps of Belgium.
4—A watermark in some of the stamps of a black republic.
6—An overprint found on certain S. Australian stamps. Also forms the meat of the missive in letters written by the fair sex.
8—Curiously enough, if "is" were added to these letters the whole word would mean advice.
10—An overprint hailing from the land of our shoe-shiners. Also tells the time the festive milkman rattles the cans.
11—The name indicated by these letters was usually followed by "& Ireland."
12—If these letters are reversed they will be found on most of the official mail in the lands of King George.
14—A favorite color in the philatelic world.
16—These letters represent the name of a Society known to all of us.
17—A coin of Asia; also a favorite dish with most Americans.
19—If the last letter were an A the abbreviation would be that of a well-known costal State.
20—A system of African railways perforated stamps with these letters for a time.
21—Found overprinted on stamps for use in a French colony; also a "gift" accredited to talkative people.
22—Between the first two letters place an "O" and after the last one say thank you (abbreviated) and the capital of a well-known American republic will be shown.
24—When original is always desirable.
26—Part of a surcharge on some stamps from the Isle of Voodoo; also used in connection with and advanced view of a certain Hollywood product.
27—Everyone knows these initials.
29—An Argentine overprint; also a useful kitchen weapon, and if the letters are reversed they represent a popular lady's dog.
31—The initials of a well-known Australian province.
32—An Australian overprint of some scarcity; also perforated through stamps intended for official use by a country in North Africa; and again the initials of a well-known stamp concern.
33—An Australian overprint (what would our puzzle be without these); also a title formally applied to most of the male sex.
35—These letters mean Adviso de recepcion we are told.
36—Found in minute letters on certain Belgian stamps to indicate the name of the artist responsible for the designs.
37—Again we have to look up an Australian overprint for our clue. Also the initials of a well-known New York dealer; and reversed they refer to a department of learning that once used specially overprinted stamps in England.

Vertical.

1—The initials of a well-known English society.
3—Another Australian overprint; also the feminine for a much used little word in French; and finally they are the initials of our home city.
4—A Mexican watermark. Put a vowel between the letters and it would be a male sheep.
5—Found on an early Danish stamp
7—These letters appear on a local stamp of Colombia.
9—These letters represent a rare variety of an early British stamp.
10—The initials of the engraver of certain Belgian stamps; also now.
11—Without it we would never get our mail.
13—Every stamp collector uses them in the plural.
15—A watermark in certain stamps from the land of the Hellenes.
16—One or more is owned by every collector.
18—If there were another letter similar to the first before the last, the word would mean Aegean. Sounds difficult but it is quite simple, especially as it is what most of us own.
19—Were another letter included it would represent something flown on high-days and holidays. As it is our English cousins smoke 'em.
22—An overprint found on a Chinese stamp though it is not mentioned in the Scottalogue. However, add a Y and it becomes the song of a useful quadruped.
23—We seem to have used this combination already, so to make it more confusing will say mix in two letters and it becomes a well-known Mexican coin.
25—An extinct bird that once inhabited a well-known island in the Indian Ocean.
26—Here only another vowel is needed to make a value much used on South American stamps.
27—The only inscription on certain stamps made on a typewriter.
28—Another repeater. Find the reference to the morning milk.
30—A Latin word on certain stamps of the country which is reputed to have no navy.
32—The only inscription on a first issue of German stamps.
34—A value shown on some stamps of the Far East. Add the letters ST and it will represent what everyone will be glad to do after wrestling with this puzzle.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH EXHIBITIONS?

By FRANCIS P. RENAULT, F. R. P. S. L.

Perhaps it is a good opportunity after all the exhibitions held this year in Brussels, the Hague and Christiania, and last year in London, Vienna and Brünn, and before the next one to be held in Paris next spring, to point out some dangers of these events, dangers which may threaten the popularity of Philately. These exhibitions may be held in Great Britain, in Austria or in France—everywhere too little is done in favour of juniors and non-specialists; too much is done to dishearten them.

As to the first point, nearly all the available space in an exhibition is taken by famous collections of specialists, displaying the result of very scientific researches, while little place is given to exhibits constructed on simple lines. Juniors and non-specialists find therefore little to their own taste. They are delighted to see some rarities but they do not enjoy the sight of complete sheets of rarities, distinction of printings, retouches, etc., in yards upon yards of frames. On the other hand, their interest in rarities is limited, as between this kind of collection and their own there is an abyss, and they do not see in all these exhibits anything to be found in their own, anything to be a link between them and specialised and advanced collections.

Moreover, very few exhibits are devoted to general study, to history and geography, or to the pleasant side of the hobby: collection of pictorial stamps, of famous men, of characteristic reproductions of countries, etc. Generally this kind of exhibit is neglected or relegated to a secluded corner, though it is a real attraction to beginners and advanced collectors, not to speak of the few Philistines who may be tempted to enter the sacred premises of a Philatelic Exhibition.

The second point is no less important. Too large displays of rarities which are never to be acquired by the majority of the visitors, which leave to them the bitter taste of eternal blank spaces in their albums, can only discourage the majority of philatelists. Specialized collections are of little interest to them and cannot be considered as a means to convey to them the learning of Philately: simplified collections with all the legitimate varieties are far more useful. Does it not require some fanaticism to admire a careful study of all the flaws, minute defects or traces of wear detected on a single stamp or even the stamps of an issue? Is it not the same with the reconstruction of plates or sheets? Is it not monotonous to contemplate sheet after sheet of similar stamps?

On the other hand is it not deceptive to view many hundreds, perhaps thousands, of one or two classic stamps which are now exceedingly scarce owing to the stocking of enthusiastic platers or students of these stamps? Visitors who have seen many exhibitions know perfectly well the phenomenon of artificial and involuntary—scarcity as is the ca for the first issues of France, Belgiu Holland, Norway, the Penny Black Great Britain, etc. Philatelic exhit tions seem to have been created not on for the display of rarities and specializ rarities, but also for the exclusive plea ure of specialists and ultra-specialis Non-specialists, either beginners or a vanced collectors, have little to lear and they usually make a disheartenii pilgrimage when visiting an exhibitio if they are immediately converted to t sacred specialism.

Though myself a specialist, I thi these few ideas must be expressed, as seems that all the exhibitions—intern tional or not—held since the war ha done very little for the propagation philatelic ideals. It is to be hoped th with the experience of the past, fort coming exhibitions will do more in th direction for the great mass of collecto —Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

RANDOM NOTES ON CHINA.

tests in the chop and overprint, but these are difficult unless genuine and questionable are side by side for comparison.

The Republic surcharges (Scott 99 to 148) are principally difficult on account of the Foochow and Nanking varieties: here is another fakers' paradise. But the counterfeiter has been too enthusiastic in his work, and as a consequence all values from ½ cent to $5 are available with both the "Neutrality" (horizontal) and "Cruciform" surcharges, also various fancy products, such as sideways and inverted! Various descriptions of the differences between the genuine and faked overprints have been published, and for every article written on the subject there has been a new crop of fakes with errors corrected. The authorities on Chinese stamps frankly state that they have additional tests they do not care to divulge. Always be suspicious of a stamp with the following features:

1.—A cancellation too obviously "made to order" showing proper places and dates (Foochow for the horizontal, and Wuchang and Hankow for the cross)—Shanghai, Nanking, Shasi, Kingchow, very few of these were actually canceled to order.

2.—A cancellation so blurred and indistinct that nothing at all can be obtained from it—Chinese cancellations are usually pretty easy to read.

3.—A cancellation which seems to have heavy spotty splotches, which if checked with descriptions will be found to cover vital test points of the surcharge! (Never accept a stamp with the bottom horns of the third horizontal character covered.)

4.—An overprint applied either so lightly or so heavily as to make study of the details of the characters difficult.

At the time the order for the overprinting of the imperial stamps was given, it was so ambiguous that many postmasters understood themselves to be instructed to overprint their own stamps, and some did it. A later order clarified the situation and disclaimed all postmasters' overprintings. (This accounts for the dropping of Scott's Nos. 111-118, by the way.) Dozens of varieties of these local surcharges are seen in Chinese dealers' stocks, and plenty of them where the overprint was clearly applied to a used stamp!

Of the general issues, aside from fakes of inverts, doubles, etc., the only forgeries I know of are on the dollar values of the Shanghai overprint. This fake is an "easy one": the tail of the top character should point to the left top horn of the second character (vide catalog) but in the forgeries, it points between the horns.

Of the 1912 commemoratives about the only comment needed is that all values of the Sun Yat Sen set (Revolution) are rarer than corresponding values of the Yuan Shih Kai set (Republic) and the $2 Sun stamp is the rarest by far of the whole lot either used or unused.

Of the Junk-Reaper-Gateway set current since 1913 there are now three types of most values, which may be called London, Peking, and Re-engraved. The latter is really a misnomer, and the type now current is the original die rather than a re-engraving, as stated by Mr. S. R. Sheldon in WEEKLY No. 1772, p. 665. It would not be possible by any recutting process to obtain the present types from those preceding; the die is substantially different, and the new types are on a par in merit with the work of the Bureau of ten years ago, rather than that of today—see Type A32! There have been forgeries of this set, but only for the "benefit" of the post-office. Counterfeits of the 50c value were used in considerable quantities, commonly used to "dilute" bunches of genuine stamps on large parcels. A complete die for a counterfeit dollar stamp was found not long since in Shanghai, but there is question if this was ever used. The ten-cent stamp was out of print or at least "off of the counter" from 1918 to 1921, on account of the reported presence of counterfeits.

The 1909 Temple set was not issued to commemorate the end of the first year of Hsuan Tung, but the beginning of his

WE ARE KEEPING OF THE SAME

The Finest Collection Existing in the World

The said ESSAYS, which I could acquire only by chance, belonged to Mr. Moens, the oldest stamp dealer of the world, who no doubt may be considered as the symbole of the philately.

There are many ESSAYS which are lacking in the biggest specialised collections, some items are quite unique. Many in different colours and designs which are unknown since they were not adopted at the time. There are essays in lithography, engraving, typography, copper-print, embossed — printing, etc., misprints in most interesting executions. Further, the early stamps of the Deputy Chamber and the Senate, things of Andalusia, etc.

The Colonies are also represented profusely. — The forgeries are especially interesting, more particularly those of the classical issues which were made with a view only to do prejudice to the Postal administration. There are many used items, some were produced in a very sly way. In most cases the Postal administration did not notice the forgeries.

As we have stated already, the collection contains many unique pieces of which there exist but one or two copies altogether. Remarkable among the unknown proofs are the marvelous designs and colours, the fiscal, police and commercial stamps in all possible colours, including essays of the latter. The collection is of the highest interest and of an inestimable value. It contains, moreover, scarce telegraph stamps, as well as essays of the same Brief. You are offered here a unique collection really fit for purposes, containing hundreds and hundreds of different kinds. A specialist in Spanish stamps cannot do without such a collection; he must have it.

I am ready to send the collection out for examination upon request against postage should it not be possible to come to business.

Perhaps it would be possible for me to retail in the case of a considerable purchase.

SPECIALISTS, don't miss this opportunity which will not occur again by asking us at once for particulars.

reign. It appears that a good many folks of small means went speculation-crazy when this issue came out, thinking it a great investment. As a result, all of the values can be purchased in sheets, mint or canceled to order, for less than face value. The 1919 set shows the faces of three men—the President at that time (Hsu Shih Chang) (center), Mr. Yeh Kung Cho (Minister of Communications) (left) and General Chin Yun Peng, Premier. Before the recent political turnover, all of these men were either in exile or disgrace!

The Constitution commemoratives of 1923 were issued October 11th. This Constitution was a long time in preparation, and it is evident that the stamps were prepared for issue as least as early as the change in postal rates—ten months previous, otherwise the four cent value would not have been included. This set is surely the most inartistic that the Chinese Bureau of Engraving and Printing has produced.

The 2c surcharge of 1923 has a strange history. Early in that year, it was announced that China would take advantage of the approval of the U. P. U. for a raise in postal rates, and accordingly, the domestic letter rate was raised from 3 to 4 cents, and as it was anticipated that under the new tariff there would be very little use of the 3c stamp a huge stock of them was surcharged down to two cents. After being in effect about fifteen days the rates were reduced to the former figures, resulting in little use for the surcharges—they were on sale for nearly two years.

The Air-mail stamps are an emission of most peculiar character. The airplanes which carry the mail are not operated by the postal service at all, but by a separate bureau, and to this bureau the government has in effect relinquished its mail carrying monopoly. All money received from the sale of the air stamps goes to this bureau; to reimburse the postal service for delivering the mail to the flying field, etc., regular postage rates are charged in addition to the air rates. Incidentally, I might say that it has not proved possible to interest the post-office department in clear cancellations or special markings—I have one or two letters for example showing time of arrival earlier than time of departure!—and as there is no commercial utility to the service as conducted at present, the planes are not burdened with much mail.

The Sinkiang stamps are necessary on account of the depreciation of currency in that province to prevent speculation in stamps that would net the person buying in Sinkiang and selling in China nearly 100%. There are two quite distinct types of the surcharge, the first or Shanghai surcharge having the top character shifted sufficiently toward the left to be very noticeable. The second surcharge is not as heavily impressed, the characters are more open, the cross lines in the bottom character do not touch the side lines. The fifteen cent in the second surcharge (brown) is a very rare stamp, the change having been made coincidentally with the dropping of that value. For official use these stamps are punched with four characters in a square. There being two types of surcharge, and four arrangements of punching, it is theoretically possible at least to make up eight different sets of officials! (The punching is found normal, reversed, inverted, inverted and reversed.)

Two very interesting sets of essays of Chinese stamps exist. The first of these has a frame similar to that of the 1912 commemoratives, the central space being occupied by an outline map of China; the inscription reads "MEMORIAL OF THE CHINESE REPUBLIC"—! ! ! I have recently been offered at very high prices thinned, perforated and canceled values of this set, which actually never went beyond the die proof stage. This set I believe was mentioned in Mr. C. A. Howes' excellent serial on China, appearing in the Weekly some years since. The other set no one outside of China seems to have heard of: when Yuan Shih Kai tried to crown himself in 1916, a partial set of stamps was ordered of most pleasing design bearing pictures of historic buildings around Peking. These are horizontal rectangles, somewhat smaller than the 1912 commemoratives. The values which "got out" are the 5c, 10c and 50c, in scarlet, blue, and green respectively. Most of them are overprinted with the Sinkiang characters vertically and SPECIMEN horizontally.

A "SURE THING" FOR A LONG PULL.

The term "long pull" in investment circles is relative. Some traders consider six months a great length of time to hold any one security. In the present active market there are many who look upon six weeks as sufficient time for a particular stock to reveal its worth. There is one investment that is a "sure thing," but it is doubtful if there is anyone in Wall Street with the patience to hold on until it shows a good profit. The investment is postage stamps.

An 80-year-old pioneer settler of Michigan has recently sold at auction a block of four of the five-cent browns, which cost him originally 30 cents. A philatelist at the sale paid $490 for them. At the same sale a block of four 90-cent issue, of the same year, was sold for $510. These stamps dated back to 1857. Four 10-cent stamps of a later variety brought $36.50, and an unused pair of the 24-cent type sold for $33.50. These stamps were pasted in old books. Had the original gum been retained they would have brought considerably higher prices.—Wall St. Journal.

NASSAU STAMP CO.
116 Nassau St. New York, N. Y.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

The Shilling stamp was issued on Dec. 10th, 1920, printed from an engraved plate of 60 subjects, i. e., 12x5, in one sheet on white paper watermarked old type CA multiple upright, perforated 14 single line. This get-up of the sheet is somewhat unusual, as instead of being as nearly square as possible, it is really a narrow rectangle in shape. The format is upright rectangular, and the size is about that of the 2½d. The vignette depicts the statue of the late Queen Victoria which was erected at the southern entrance of what was the Parade Gardens in Kingston, and is intended to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of that Monarch, celebrated in 1897. It is a replica of a statue erected in the hall of the Colonial Office at Singapore, by Edward Geflowski, exhibitor at the Royal Academy from 1867-1872, in commemoration of the Jubilee of 1887. A plaster cast may be seen in the Imperial Institute, London.

In 1914, on the occasion of a visit to the island of Her Highness, Princess Marie Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, a granddaughter of the late Queen, and at the request of the Municipality of Kingston, Her Highness on Feb. 4th performed the ceremony, in the shadow of the Queen's statue, of re-naming the Gardens Victoria Park.

The statue is not at all imposing, for as may be gathered from the foregoing, it was intended for an interior position. In addition, it is mounted on a base which was originally erected for the statue of Sir Charles Metcalfe, a figure at least three or four times the size of this, and the statue thereby loses much of its beauty, dwarfed as it is by the base.

The central portion of the design of the stamp consists of the statue described with a background of foliage from the trees in the park, and is printed in orange. The frame is printed in a deeper shade of orange, in which there is a suggestion of red, and shows at the top the word "Jamaica" in heavy white letters of block type on a lined ground; the corners are marked by a curved line within which the lines are deeply shaded. Immediately below, in smaller white letters, are the words "Postage Revenue." At the sides are panels showing fully grown and bearing cocoanut palms. At the bottom corners are white shields on which are coloured ovals and on these the value 1s is shown in heavy white characters. Between are the words "Queen Victoria of Jamaica Lady Supreme" in two lines, the first line being made up of title and name in larger type than the rest.

The stamp appeared at the Cross Roads P. O. on the new paper on November 4, 1921, but there is no official record of the change of paper; the official record deals only with its first appearance on the old paper, and is taken from the Gazette of Dec. 9, 1920:

"Stamp Office, Kingston
6th Decr. 1920

The following is a description of a 1sh adhesive stamp to be used for postage and revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation on Friday, 10th December, 1920.

The design of the stamp is denoted by a Statue of Queen Victoria.

At the top of the design is printed
Jamaica
Postage Revenue

The denomination 1sh is shown on an oval in each corner at the bottom. Between the denominations are the words:
Queen Victoria of Jamaica Lady Supreme.

On each side of the design is a cocoanut palm.

The colour of the stamp is orange.

C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The Two Shilling stamp was issued on December 10, 1920, printed from an engraved plate of 60 subjects, i.e., 12x5, in one sheet on white paper watermarked old type CA multiple upright, perforated 14 single line. The design is treated in upright rectangular style, and the central portion, printed in blue, portrays the monument erected at Spanish Town, to Admiral Lord George Brydges Rodney, in commemoration of his decisive and memorable victory over the French fleet under De Grasse, on April 12, 1782. The fight and victory did not take place in Jamaican waters, but the Admiral was then Commander-in-Chief on the Jamaica Station, with his headquarters at Port Royal. In the early days of that month and year the inhabitants of Jamaica were greatly disturbed by the fear of a French invasion, the militia was called up, and defensive works were built. It is interesting to note that a special War Tax, not payable in postage stamps, was levied to pay for the cost of defence; and after weeks of doubt, suspense and fear, a letter written by the Admiral on April 14th, at a point between Guadeloupe and Montserrat, was received on the 25th, announcing his victory of the 12th. The joyful news was substantially confirmed four days later, when the Admiral and his fleet arrived, bringing with them nine enemy ships as prizes, among them the famous "Ville de Paris." In February, 1783, the House of Assembly wrote its London agent, Stephen Fuller, commissioning him to obtain approved designs and order the preparation of an elegant statue of Lord Rodney with a handsome pedestal. The matter was referred to the Royal Academy, and the Council invited designs from Bacon, Carlini, Nollekens, Tyler and Wilton. Only Bacon

These United States stamps, Scott's Nos. 33, 43 and 44, are undoubtedly the most popular stamps in the world. They are subject to a very high degree of specialization, due to the many plate varieties that can be found and an abundance of interesting cancellations.

I have a large stock both on and off cover, which I have been accumulating for years. An expert has been working on it for a considerable time and is not yet through. It is being thoroughly specialized and each stamp written up according to Dr. Chase's famous articles.

and Wilton replied, and the work was entrusted to Bacon. The House had voted £1,000.0.0. for the purpose, but the actual cost when landed in Jamaica was £5200.0.0. When it arrived in 1790, there was some controversy relative to its proper location, Kingston or Spanish Town, but the House by a majority of one, decided for Spanish Town, and voted a further £3000.0.0. for a "proper building" to house the statue. The "Proper Building" required by the House took the form of a low roofed temple of Venus, which almost completely hides the statute, as it is difficult to get any other view but one close up. Over the front arch is the Rodney arms in high relief, and from both sides a covered colonnade extends in crescent form with public offices at both horns. The statue itself is modelled after that of Augustus Caesar in the Capitol at Rome, in other words a famed and hardy British sailor is made to look like an ancient Roman; clad in a short sleeved tunic, with a paludamentum or cloak thrown over his right arm, he wears no greaves, but sandals adorn his feet, and from the torques or necklace is suspended a Medusa's head. He holds a sword hilt in his left hand which rests on a Roman shield, and his outstretched right arm grasps a baton in the hand. The front panel of the pedestal is appropriately inscribed in Latin to him in memory of his victory "on the day before the ides of April, 1782", and records the memorial as erected by the people of Jamaica. The panel at the back shows a bas-relief of the seafight, presenting stern views of the "Barfleur" and "Ville de Paris". The side panels, also in bas-relief, show on one an allegory of Britannia protecting Jamaica, her shield bears the arms of the colony and she has her foot on a crocodile, the French flag appears at the right; on the other panel is a representation of Britannia in her chariot, her foot on the French flag which is held by a seaman, and on her shield is the head of King George III. On either side of the base as spoils of war, are two handsome brass cannon, "Le Modeste" and "Le Precipice", both founded at Douay in 1748.

Cecil's "Life of Bacon" mentions this monument as one of his principal works, and its execution no doubt led to commissions for others which may be seen in the Cathedral. The total cost of statue, site, buildings and colonnade was £21,000.0.0. sterling.

The frame of the stamp is printed in brown; at the top centre on an irregular rectangle is the word "Jamaica" in white sans-serif capitals, at both sides are shaded shields with deeply coloured ovals on which the value 2s appears in white characters. The left side panel shows a vessel under sail and a row boat, with the sunlight shining on the water, below are two small white Ensigns crossed over a narrow panel on which is the word "Postage" in small coloured letters, and below this a shield with value as above. On the right panel is a landseascape, apparently the complement of the seascape on the left, showing a cliff and cocoanut palm, beneath which are small crossed white Ensigns over a narrow panel with the Word "Revenue" in small coloured letters, with a shield below showing the value as at left; between are the words "Rodney Memorial" in small white letters, and below this another panel showing the entrance by sea to a harbour or bay. The stamp on the new paper appeared at the Cross Roads P. O., on February 6, 1922, but the official record deals with it when issued first only, and is taken from the Gazette of December 9, 1920:—

"Stamp Office, KINGSTON,
6th December, 1920.

The following is a description of a 2sh adhesive stamp to be used for postage and revenue purposes. This stamp will be put into circulation on Friday, 10th December, 1920. The design of the stamp is represented by the Rodney Memorial. The denomination 2sh is shown in an oval on a shield at each of four corners.

At the top, between the denomination is printed

and at the bottom above the denomination are the words

Postage Revenue
Rodney Memorial

On the left of the design is a view of a full rigged ship at sea, and to the right a cocoanut palm, with a view of the sea.

The border of the stamp is brown and the centre blue.

C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

No seaman wrote that description of the ship.

The Three Shilling stamp was issued on December 10, 1920, printed from an engraved plate of 30 subjects, i.e., 6x5, in one sheet on white paper watermarked old type CA multiple upright, perforated 14 comb. The design is treated in upright rectangular style, the format is the same as the preceding values. The vignette depicts the statue of Sir Charles

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Dates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

During the past week a couple of unusual postmarks have come thro, both on 90c stamps of the Bank Note issues. The first was pmkd. "Nagasaki, Japan" with date of month (no year) in a single line circle in black. You may add this to your list which probably has now "Hiogo" on the '61's and '69's, and the Yokohamas. I have seen no other Japanese towns. Have you? The other is a 10c re-entraved canceled "San Juan 3 Ago 89 Ptorico". This is quite new to me. I have seen no mail from Porto Rico with this on any U. S. stamps, so presume it was mailed on a boat to Porto, and received this mark on arrival. Why do folks remove things like this from the covers? If they would only save one say, as a sample, well, that would help quite a lot.

A letter from Mr. C. K. B. Nevin says that he has just seen the "Shrunken Pair" of 12c 1851's, and that in his collection is a 30c 1879, measuring 19mm (minus) by 3⅓ mm, while the normal is 20x25 plus). Like others who have seen this pair, he makes no comment on how this happened. What is the answer?

This week we have with us the little lot of oddities from the collection of Mr. E. S. Nelson. Perhaps some of the Forum readers have met Mr. Nelson. I had that pleasure in Washington at the A.P.S. convention, 1923. If you once meet him, you'll go out for the "big stuff". He has done more "excavating" than any man I have ever met, and he has found more covers of value than I ever hope to see. I'm going to try to get him to write up a few of his more interesting "finds" some day, and then you'll have some sure nuf reading matter. While Confederate stamps and covers have a bewitching fascination for him, he does not allow the more unusual combinations of other covers to "get by" as you will witness from his latest enclosures, list here appended:

First, a Confederate cover: Handstamped all in black, "Tuscaloosa, Ala., Jun 14". This you will see is a Confederate provisional in the true sense of the word. In the top right, as "properly placed" for the provisional (see eminent authorities) appears "PAID" and by another handstamp "10", all as they should be. The letter is directed to Mobile, Ala. Referring to the Catalog we find the "Tuscaloosa 5's" listed, which were found by Mr. Nelson, and given a place in the Catalog. This however, is the only "10" he has ever found. On the face of the cover is the "University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa return".

Supplementing this, tho it probably precedes it by some months, is a cover with two fine 3c 1857's each black gridded, the postmark in black being "Athens, Ga." Where the "return" generally is placed, we read in big caps "A SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY", under it is a little bar, and below "Free Trade With the World!" This is the first of this inscription that has ever come to my attention, and it is a very handsome cover. Mr. Nelson says that he found but four of these, so they must be very uncommon. Next and the prettiest of the lot, is a circular printed on the thin blue paper from Mobile, Market Report, dated May 21, 1859. The prepayment is by an uncancelled 1c '57 Type V in nice condition; but the way it went is the interesting part of the cover, for at the left, enclosed in an ellipse made up of little 3 leaf clovers, we have "Regular Wednesday and Saturday Packet ADVANCE Capt. S. W. Abels. For Demopolis, Bladon, And (at bottom in the curve) Cullum's Springs". This is addressed to Demopolis, and is a marvel for neatness, all in blue, the packet cancel, stamp and cover. The packet cancellations are seldom found on penny stuff like circulars.

A "Nesbit" has this rare R. R. smack over the stamp—"SOUTH. SIDE R. R. VA. FEB 17". This is so distinct that one does not have to wonder what each word may be, it went from somewhere on the South Side R. R. to Havanna, Ala. On a 3c 1861 cover across the stamp is "STEAMBOAT" in large black caps, and for fear that some collector might have trouble reading it, the P.M. kindly hit it twice.

This went to "Near Elyton", Ala. The type is unusual, and does not look at all like the commoner types of these cancellations, such as we see on Mississippi steamer mail. A note on reverse says it went to Tuscaloosa by steamboat, thence to Elyton via stage.

An old 1846 prestamp cover is pmkd. in red "Mobile Ala Jan 10" with a double lined circle in red "Way 11". These "Way 11's" are very much out of the ordinary. 1, 5 and 6 we see on covers much more frequently. On 3c green stamped envelopes are some R. Rs., "Demop. & Mobile, Agt.", and another has "Atla. & Mob. R.P.O. Sep 23 1883 Day". There is a pitiful bit of a cover with a strip of three shilling Gt. Britains, No. 48, and three Peru, No. 11, every stamp receiving the English cancellation of what appears to be "C38", Callao. The reason I said "pitiful" above is that this cover came to the U. S. A., and it must have had some U. S. postage on it to get in unless "Due". I really believe that it had a strip of three 10c 1869's, as I once had the same Peruvian, English and U. S. A. combination, tho each stamp a single. What a cover that would have been! Then there are Philippine covers with those early U. S. triangle stamps, and the 1902 overprinted stamps, all pretty covers, 3c, 4c, 5c, 13c, etc. One cover bears a 3c vermilion used back in 1905. There is a very fine and rare cover from China. This is a 2c green stamped envelope of 1887, with a 4c Buffalo Trans-Mississippi in addition, postmarked from "Mil. P Sta No 1, Tientsin: China Nov 7 1900". The letter has to do with postal matters about return of an undelivered letter.

You know that pretty "A9" type Brazil—the big black stamp—one of these and the same issue 100 reis green are used together on a letter addressed to Demopolis, the Para pmk. being so far away that the P.M. had to hit them in N. Y. with his red "New York Paid All" mark. Pretty? Yes! Black and red are a dandy philatelic combination.

On a two-cent brown stamped envelope is this large magenta cancellation, "Regular Weekly Packet (then a picture of the steamer) New Steamer, Lotus No. 2, Rate as low as any other boat". This is a clean cut cancellation, and gives one implicit confidence in sending their mail via Lotus No. 2.

This completes the broadcast for this week, please stand by one week!

TYPEWRITTEN ADVERTISING COPY.

A METHOD BY WHICH IT IS POSSIBLE TO PRACTICE ECONOMY IN ADVERTISING.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

Most publications refuse to accept any responsibility for mistakes in advertisements unless copy is typewritten. All publications request typed copy, and a few advertisers prepare copy in that way. But most persons who use the typewriter have not discovered that the typewriter may be used as an exact measure of the amount of space an ad will occupy, no matter what size type is to be used.

This is the explanation: Typewriter type, lines unspaced, runs six lines to the inch. This corresponds to 12-point type. If an advertisement is to be set in type such as is used in ads in M. W. S. N., one inch of solid typing will be equal to half-an-inch of printing, as ads in this journal are set in six-point type, which is half as high as that used on typewriters. In other words, it requires two inches of typing to equal one inch of six-point printing. The same rule of proportion holds good with other type sizes: that is, if 8-point type is used, nine lines of typewriting, or one and one-half inches, will be necessary to equal one inch of printing in 8-point type, the proportion being 12:8=1½:1. This is because type spacing is based on a point system, 72 points being equal to one inch height, which shows why typewriter type is 12-point.

Thus far we have considered height of column only, and not its width. It should be apparent, however, that a similar rule should exist, and that a column of typewritten manuscript four inches wide, let us say, will produce a printed column only half as wide if 6-point type is used. This is the actual fact. Width, however, is measured in ems, six of these units being equal to one inch. The capital M of a certain type face (pica) is taken as the standard of height and width, and is called an em. The space occupied is equal to an em quad, i.e., a "square em," spoken of merely as one em.

Consequently a line of typewritten copy four inches long is 12-points x 24 ems, and when printed in the style of type used in M. W. S. N. ads, will occupy a space of 6-points x 12 ems. So far, so good: but M. W. S. N. uses 13 em slugs, which are a little more than two inches long. Therefore, when preparing ad copy for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, set your typewriter to type a line 4 4/10 inches long, and this will give you almost exactly the length of line which will go on a 13 em slug of 6-point. Similarly, you may reckon twelve of such lines to be equal to a column inch, and if your ms. is prepared on this basis, you will not be disappointed with the omission of many items from your ad if it is to occupy a certain space, nor with a bill for extra space because your lines are too long.

Someone is going to notice that 4 4/10 inches is a bit more than equivalent to 13 ems of 6-point type, but this is easily explained. All typewriter type are on one width of body, so that an "i" for instance, occupies as much space as a "W". This does not hold good with printer's type, as the different characters all occupy different widths, and as "W" is the widest and "i" the narrowest, we are certainly going to have a number of characters in each line on narrow type bodies. Thus we are able to allow ourselves a little margin in the length of typewritten lines, and still be within bounds.

If larger type are to be used for headings, it is necessary only for the advertiser to specify the height of this material, and subtract from the total height of column he wishes to use; for instance, we wish to use six inches of space, single column, with quarter-inch (18-point) type for head, and sixth-inch type (12-point) for the address in two lines.

Six inches of spaces means
72 x 6=432 points.
432 – 18 (the head)=414.
414 – 24 (the address)=390 left for display.
390 ÷ 6=65, the number of lines which may be used for tabulation, display, etc.

Another example: 2½ inches of space, ¼ inch head, ⅓ inch allowed for the address:—
2½ inches=180 points.
¼ inch=18 points.
⅓ inch=24 points.
24 + 18=42 points.
180 – 42=138 points available.
138 ÷ 6=23 lines possible.

Again: 3¾ inches space, two lines head, each 1/6; same for address:—
3¾ inches=270 points.
1/6 x 4=2/3=48 points.
222 ÷ 6=37 lines available.

Occasionally advertisements are set double-column, and in that case the typewritten lines should be 8 8/10 long, but in general the machine should be set to stop at 44. It is not to be expected that one will become expert immediately in em-spacing manuscript for ads, but a little practice will enable anyone who can handle a typewriter to produce em-spaced ms. which will be a never-ending delight to the linotyper, and a source of deep satisfaction to the advertiser himself.

NEW EUROPE PROPAGANDA

Being firmly convinced that the stamps of the so-called New European countries present a very desirable collecting field, we have decided to endeavor to persuade collectors—who may be still hesitating—to take up this very interesting branch of philately. To this end, we have assembled a collection of stamps which we named

"N. E. P." PACKET

It contains stamps from practically every one of the countries commonly designated as "Neurope", as follows:

AUSTRIA (Rep.), BOSNIA, CENTRAL LITHUANIA, CZECHO-SLOVAKIA, DANZIG, ESTHONIA, FIUME, GERMANY, HUNGARY, JUGO-SLAVIA, LATVIA, MEMEL, POLAND, SAAR, SOVIET RUSSIA and UPPER SILESIA.

IF YOU HAVE NOT YET STARTED COLLECTING THESE COUNTRIES, OR IF your collection of them is negligible or if you want to give a worth-while gift to a beginner—thereby showing him a comparatively inexpensive and much-promising branch of philately, send us your order for one of our "N. E. P." packets or for as many as you think you can profitably use.

EACH PACKET CONTAINS 325 different stamps and is guaranteed to catalogue OVER $13.00. PRICE $2.25 per packet.

AUSTRALIAN JOURNALS REPORT NEW ISSUE IN PREPARATION.
NEED WE SAY MORE?

LARGE STOCK OF RECENT BRITISH, MINT, ON HAND. WHAT DO YOU NEED?
METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 7 West 42nd St., New York City.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Geo. S. Hoffman, 334 S. Albany St., Huntington Park, Calif., will be glad to hear from any local collectors who would like to form a stamp club.

—Mr. L. T. Brodstone, Superior, Nebraska, publisher of the Philatelic West was in Chicago recently on his return from abroad, where, particularly in London, he spent some time in the out-of-the-way philatelic haunts.

—The syndicated article, "Foreign Postal Orders," by Frederic J. Haskin, is an interesting account of the operations of our bureau in its relation with those of the host of outside offices.

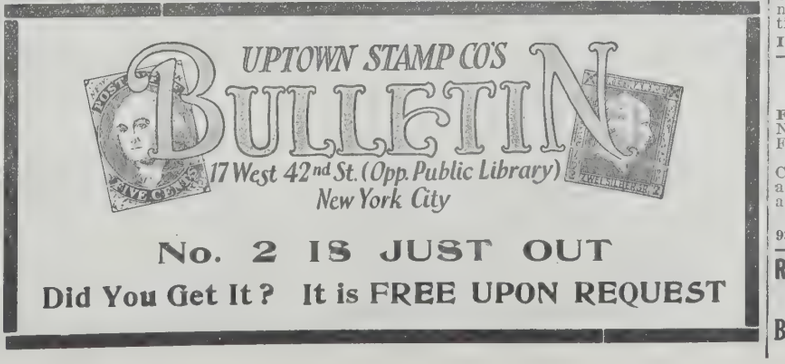
—The Metropolitan Stamp Co., 7 W. 42 St., N. Y. City, is sending out a fine pricelist of special sets of stamps. A wide range of countries is covered. The book runs to 52 pages and will be sent upon application.

—Carl S. Davis of Kansas City, Mo., when writing us of his brother's recent visit to New York City, also calls our attention to the fact that the Kansas City Star Magazine of Jan. 25, contained two features of more than passing interest to local philatelists. Mr. Davis sends us a copy of the magazine in question and in it is found a very interesting write-up of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson who are interested in antiques, and the Wilkinson Antique Shop has stored in it much of interest to antique collectors. Another feature is a full length picture of Allen Logan, former president of the Board of Trade, who is listed as one of the "Busy Folk of Kansas City." Mr. Logan is well known to a wide circle of collectors and is an old member of the A. P. S.

—The San Antonio (Tex.) Express of Jan. 21, 1925, contained ten pages given over to the exploitation of the Heusinger Hardware Co. of that city. It is a most remarkable tribute to the firm and its business, and philatelists generally, will congratulate Edward W. Heusinger, president and treasurer of the company, upon the business success achieved. The firm has just moved into new quarters and the first page of the "Heusinger Hardware Co. Section" is devoted to a picture of the firm's new building. Mr. Heusinger is an oldtime stamp collector and has been very active in the Texas Philatelic Society. His name has frequently been seen in the WEEKLY in connection with the philatelic activities of his section of the country. Sincere congratulations, Mr. Heusinger.

—"By the way, I note you signed your cross-word puzzles Will O. W., and a somewhat ancient date. Is it possible you were one of the old coterie of puzzleists in the day of Arty Fishel and others of the old Eastern Puzzlers League, who frequently appeared in the old Golden Days and other papers of that date? I was beginning to butt in at a later date under the name of S. P. Ice and then the puzzlers faded out of the picture."—M. H. GANSER. It is possible, Mr. Ganser, and I attended a convention at Jersey City in the early eighties. The Golden Days puzzle department was my ne plus ultra.—WILL. O. W.

—We thank the readers who have sent us copies of the newspapers containing the article on the recent Collectors Club dinner, headed: "America is Giving King George Race for Philatelic Honors of the World."



—According to Carl S. Davis, recent week end visitors, in Kansas City, Mo., were Will R. King, A. P. S. member and City Treas. of Grand Island, Nebraska, in Kansas City in connection with the sale of bonds relating to his city government, also L. T. Brodstone of Superior, Nebr., publisher of the Philatelic West, who was enroute to his home after an extensive trip to London, England, where he visited his sister.

—Mr. W. G. Morris, Wenatchee, Wash., sends a copy of The Dearborn Independent, in which David Stewart starts one of his post-war stories of Germany with the paragraph:

"In November, 1922, a small boy of St. Joachimstal, a German town of Northern Czecho-Slovakia, was intrusted with four letters destined for America. Czechish stamps were attached to them; but these he steamed off, and sold for their face value, 10 crowns (30 cents). Then he disappeared, and for two days nothing was heard of him. Anxious parents and wondering officials traced his path over the German border, and he was found in Oberwiesenthal, Saxony, sleeping off the effects of the one mad debauch of a youthful lifetime. In Germany he had sold the 10 crowns for 3,000 marks, of which only 60 had been required to forward the letters, postpaid and registered, to the United States. With the balance, he had taken a room at a good hotel and proceeded to "go the route." Nor were his funds by any means exhausted, when he was interrupted and taken home."

PRECANCEL STAMP SOCIETY.

I noted with interest the suggestion of Mr. N. R. Hoover, New Rochelle, N. Y., in the January 5, 1925, issue, that somebody ought to start a Precancel Stamp Society. For the information of Mr. Hoover, may I not suggest that he refer to page 517, September 29, 1924, issue of the WEEKLY? He will see a picture of a group of philatelists who belong to the Precancel Stamp Society. In the group he will find Dr. H. A. Davis, 3421 "A" Colfax, Denver, Colorado, secretary of the American Philatelic Society. I am certain that if Mr. Hoover gets in touch with Dr. Davis, he will be glad to take up any question pertaining to the activities of the Precancel Society.—ERWIN S. DE KOHLER, Santa Rosa, California.

For MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.

By Harry E. Huber.

In "The Month's Best Editorial", reprinted from the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain (September, 1924), on page 16 of M. W. S. N., No. 1778 (Jan. 5, 1925), comment is made on certain remarks of the Commissioner of the Cayman Islands, H. H. Hutchings (not H. H. Cummings), relative to the large postage stamp stock on hand. The original article was by the writer (published in the Philatelic Magazine, Aug. 9, 1924) and the pertinent paragraph to which the P. J. of G. B. makes reference is as follows:—

"In addressing the Justices and Vestry of the Cayman Islands, at George Town, Grand Cayman, on Sept. 17, 1919, assembled for the purpose of voting estimates for the ensuing year, the Commissioner, H. H. Hutchings, formerly Asst. Commr. at Grand Turk, announced that since assuming the government (on June 5, 1919), he had looked over the stock of postage stamps in the Treasury vaults, and found that it inventoried approximately £16,000. The wisdom of such a large stock he doubted "when one-fifth would be ample, and much more likely, by regular small replenishings, involving minor varieties, to influence sales in the early future, and thus render this source of revenue somewhat more dependable. With such an immense stock on hand, it is difficult to offer anything new or attractive, for it is only new issues or varieties that command any considerable sale."

The stamps referred to were in the main of the King George series (D. L. R., 1888 keyplate type), with approximately £735 of King Edward, P. & R. stamps, later sold at face to an English dealer.

When at Grand Turk Mr. Hutchings had several times acted as Colonial Postmaster, in the absence of that official (L. Lea Smith) from the Dependency, and he therefore knew the demand made upon stamp stock by collectors and dealers. He knew further that large stocks not only were unnecessary, but undesirable as well. Due to climatic conditions in the tropics, stamp stock often sticks together, or is attacked by fungus, and after two years, the adhesive qualities of gum are non-existent.

That "someone had blundered" in ordering the King George stamps (DLR-1888) is evidenced by the large remainders of plate 1 stamps (sent out between 1912 and 1914) that were sent to Kingston, Jamaica, in August, 1922.

½d,	25,080	52. 5.0
1d,	33,780	140.15.0
4d,	5,280	88. 0.0
6d,	12,000	300. 0.0
2s,	27,300	2,730. 0.0

Of the ¼d, 300,000 (£312.10.0) were burned in the furnaces of the General Penitentiary, Kingston, Jamaica, along with 2d and London overprinted ½d green, and 1½, on 2½d blue and orange war stamps, plate 5—a total of 672,000 stamps, valued at £2,537.10.0. The other stamps listed above (with 2d, 2½d, 1s and 10s and some 1½, on 2½d London wars, from plate 5) were sent to the Crown Agents in London to be sold—the lot comprising 197,580 stamps, £8,207.7.6.

In ordering supplies of the new line engraved series, the Commissioner was not unmindful of these facts, and only the ¼d, ½d and 1½d were received at Grand Cayman in excess of 100,000 each, and of the other values, excepting the 1d, 2d and 2½d, less than 35,000 of each. There were of course large quantities (not included in these figures) of all denominations sold by the Crown Agents in London. Only the 3d and 5s have so far required reprinting.

Another official statement of considerable interest (found in the December 27, 1924, issue of Stamp Collecting) was made by the Postal Commissioners of Mauritius in their Report of 1902—

"In connection with the issue of new stamps. . . . it is necessary to say a few words on the subject of stamp collectors and sales to stamp merchants. It is generally treated as a sort of bugbear, and often stands in the way of the introduction of useful stamps. It seems expedient to put the subject on a proper footing.

The purchase of stamps by collectors is a fact which has to be reckoned with.

It is far from prejudicial to the reve and is therefore not to be regre though it imposes the necessity for ficers in charge of stocks of stamp watching 'the ecoulement'.

Stamps should never be issued for mere purpose of attracting collectors on the other hand, when a new st has to be issued, it is quite legitimate pense (considering its outlay) to into account the probable sale to collec An extra supply in the first inde all that is necessary.

The same principles apply to surch ing stamps, which is only to be reso to in case of utility; the important q tion in such cases being whether the s of the stamp to be surcharged is l enough to meet the demands from sources. These principles find their rant in the Secretary of State's dispat on the subject; and in the Crown Ag letter of December 12, 1894, they say reference to the cost of the new die 't is very little doubt that demands of st collectors would soon recoup the Gov ment the cost of the outlay'."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The San Francisco Bulletin, of Jan. 16, had a lengthy notice of the Seebohm auction sale held Jan. 27. It emphasized the attractiveness and value of the Mulready envelope, a copy of which was included in the sale. This was Mr. Seebohm's twenty-second auction sale and the catalog value of its contents was in excess of $15,000.

—From Mr. William F. Price, Newport, Rhode Island, we have a clipping from the New York Herald-Tribune that will be read with "mixed feelings," to say the least:

"Christmas Seals and Philately. To the New York Herald-Tribune: The beautiful custom of issuing Christmas seals at this season of the year needs no commendation from me. Its purpose is noble and its appeal touches the nation. There is one phase of the custom, however, which has escaped public notice—namely, the value of the Christmas seals to stamp collectors. Already some of the earliest issues are almost unobtainable. The series comprises some of the most beautiful stamps ever designed. Philatelists appear not to have realized the rarity which already attaches to the series, and which will attach to it to greater degree as the years go on. Alonzo P. Walton, Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1924."

—In the Sydney, New South Wales, Philatelic Club's quarterly competition, "A Page from My Album," one of the contestants, a philatelic partizan of Samoa, certainly shows that he is not lacking in imagination. He sings: "Those palm trees! What visions they call up to one who has lived in the islands! The league-long rollers thundering on the snowy coral beaches; the dark-skinned natives with fuzzy heads and lithe, stalwart forms reeking of rancid cocoanut oil; the beautiful dusky maidens, their matchless figures unspoilt by civilization's fetters, raven hair, melting languorous eyes, mouths like half-opened pomegrante buds and hearts bursting with love—that you find in magazine stories and see on American films, but never—ah! never—in real life."

—The next great event in international philately is the exhibition to be held in Paris, April 30th to May 10, 1925, of which A. Coyette, Paris, is president and M. Jurion, secretary. Mr. Eugene Klein of Philadelphia, is the American representative of the exhibition and from him we have received a copy of the following letter showing that the occasion will be under distinguished patronage: "We are happy to inform you that the President of the Republic by a letter dated the 30th of December, 1924, tells our President that desiring to show the interest which he has for the International Philatelic Exposition in Paris, in 1925, he authorizes us to place it under his patronage. We convey to the President of the Republic, the hearty thanks of our Organization Committee for this mark of his high favor, which will help much towards the success of our Exposition."

—In the Emporia Daily Gazette of January 16, 1925, under "Home Folks' Hobbies," a readable account is given of the philatelic activities of Mr. W. H. Kerr of that city, librarian of the Kellogg Library. We read: "Mr. Kerr is mainly interested in that aspect of philately which illustrates the postal history of the United States and specializes in the collection of envelopes bearing disused cancellation marks." A "Sweet Caporal" cigarette card with a reproduction of a foreign stamp on the back started Mr. Kerr on his collecting career.

—Mr. Olaf J. Olsen, St. Paul, Minn., was in Chicago recently and reported that philatelic conditions were good in the northwest.

—A newspaper clipping announces that Mr. Flachskam, St. Louis, was taken to Leavenworth by the federal authorities to begin his sentence; and a correspondent says that he will not appeal the case!

FIUME, The Ancient!

Fiume, centuries old, was at one time the most powerful Dukedom of Europe. Her history reads like a fantastic romance—in which love and hatred, jealousy, treachery, and fierce battle scenes played a dominant part. For many years past a downtrodden, neglected, almost forgotten principality, Fiume emerged from the Great War with shackles cast away and became once again—a free country! This autonomous condition lasted for six short years only, for early in 1924 she was again subjected to outside domination, this time being annexed to that all-powerful nation of southern Europe—Italy.

As an independent, self-governing state, Fiume is no more; but her postal issues will stand forever as a striking symbol and monument of her latest and probably last stand for freedom.

The stamps of Fiume are therefore intensely interesting from an historical standpoint and every thoughtful, studious collector will want at least a fair representation of them. As a co-operative measure, we have obtained and now offer at absolute cost:

50 Different Postage Stamps of Fiume

Representative of practically all issues including occupation, charity, newspapers (triangle stamps), dues, D'Annunzio, etc., etc.

JUST COMMON COURTESY.

Whenever we write a letter asking for information we make it a practice to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for reply. It is simply a common everyday courtesy that should not be neglected. Why should we expect anyone to trouble themselves with a request we have made upon them when we do not even pay the postage upon the reply? The ethics of correspondence require that this little detail be given proper consideration.

EDITORIAL.

A Washington correspondent sends particulars of the exhibit of the philatelic society there, as sponsor, which we learn continued for a week, beginning January 26th, at the public library. Among the exhibits were one of the post-office department, as prepared for the London exhibition of 1923, and those of Congressman Ackerman and several other members of the house, not to mention the frames of stamps provided by the local collectors. The interest shown in the exhibit was marked and that its effect was beneficial may be taken for granted.

The dinner at the Collectors Club, New York, did not pass unnoticed in the newspapers and we were impressed by the story that appeared in the Philadelphia Ledger in the issue of January 13th. The New York letter of that date was wholly given over to an account of the dinner of the following day and philatelic personals and information suggested by it. Mr. H. L. Lindquist was interviewed at length and he knew just what words would catch the reportorial ear; and the result was a great feat of publicity for the New York institution and collecting in a general sense, as well.

We read that the envelope manufacturers and printers are making efforts to intensify the fight that they have been waging for years against the practice of the government in selling the return request envelopes at a price lawer than that representing the envelopes and printing if purchased in the regular channels. It is pointed out by those who give attention to the subject that the custom of so many years' standing should not be disturbed as the government buys the envelopes from the manufacturer, after all; and that the department may well furnish the printing at a low rate because of the greater facility of handling the stamped envelope in the mails. Postal cards, too, were objected to at first because they were sold at a cent but when private mailing cards were authorized, the cause of criticism was removed.

HANDSTAMPS AND FRANKS

USED IN THE

UNITED STATES

The Dominion of Canada and Foreign Countries

By Dr. Victor M. Berthold

We are pleased to be able to offer to the readers of Scott's Monthly Journal, a comprehensive and authoritative article upon the above subject, so important to philately and yet so little known.

Dr. Berthold has treated this subject in a most thorough and interesting fashion. Thanks to the great efforts he has made in this too long neglected branch of philately, there will exist, when the last installment of this article appears, a standard work upon Wells Fargo & Co. Franks which will make it possible for anyone to take up this fascinating branch of philately; which, in our opinion, will accord these Franks the same importance generally conceded to U. S. Locals.

The introductory installment appeared in our January Journal. The main part of the article will start in the February number and will continue for about six months. We have increased the printing order for our February Monthly Journal, but cannot guarantee to have a copy for you unless you notify us at once that you wish a copy reserved.

The simplest way to assure yourself of receiving this series complete from February, is to send $1.00 for a year's subscription.

Scott Stamp & Coin Co.

33 West 44th Street NEW YORK CITY

The January number is sold out, but numerous requests for copies are arriving daily. If sufficient requests are received we will consider reprinting this entire article in pamphlet form. Kindly advise us in case you are interested.

We can get along without the five-cent segar that Marshall named as a crying need of the times and eke, without suspenders which Coolidge advised as a precautionary measure, but it is a howling shame that there is no cheap stamp album that will bridge the chasm between the rudimentary affairs that are given away almost and the relatively expensive album that the beginner cannot quite reach in price. A compromise measure is needed and the publisher should be satisfied with the smallest margin of profit for the good of all of us.

A wealthy collector pays a fabulous price for a coveted specimen or gives a small fortune for a stamp of excessive rarity and the ecstatic editors of the stamp papers raise their voices in a song of praise for all the things of philately, both large and small. A member of royalty is described as a philatelist or some famous personage is associated with stamps and the aforesaid editors bubble over with glee, judging from the verbal back-slappings that follow. The biggest collection, the rarest stamp, the highest price, the greatest sale and so on are the game that catches the scent and then holds the thrilled attention of editors, if the resulting stir means anything. The superlatives that the editors have been showering on readers, in consequence of the ascension of philately to a seat, or at least, a foot-stool, near the throne of established pursuits, are beginning to pall on some of the readers, who as plain folks are ready to speak out in meeting. We have had several letters on the subject and now Mr. Willis H. Kerr, Emporia, Kansas, has written protesting about so much "millionaire" publicity in the newspapers, as "it presents things falsely." The idea has been conveyed to us that it would be just as well not to bear too heavily on the "exaggerated" side of the subject, in order that the average collector may feel that his interests are on the surface. We suppose that the pendulum has swung too far but it is to be argued that the stamp papers realizing that the "big" stories have a value because of their unusual quality consider them readable material and submerge any personal convictions that may run counter to that finding. As news they are not to be ignored but we suppose that the question of elaborating upon them is open to debate.

We understand from an account of the recent dinner at the Collectors Club, New York, that Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack spoke of the advisability of enlisting the interest and support of the working collector in the forthcoming international exhibition, by means of adjusted regulations that would encourage his endeavors and lead him to participate actively in the exhibition. The note is one that is sounded properly and will do much to make the occasion one in which he will have an interest that is not only a detached one. There is little "caste" distinction in stamp collecting and it should be the aim of all to scotch any tendency to unduly emphasize "bigness" in a personal or other sense. It would be rank injustice to discriminate consciously between the every-day and the holiday collector, as it were, because the ordinary collector is the bulwark of p lately. Pursuing his stamps in a s tematic, if modest way, he is entitled the acclaim of all, as he does his sh to give philately a sound basis. In aggregate, he has made philately wha is and it would be an act of folly to g him reason to think that he is an unc sidered trifle in the philatelic scheme things. When the stamp papers ref the philatelic references in the larger side newspapers, they are following logical course and we think that everyday collector recognizes the de of the stamp journals to tell of progress that philately is making in newspapers, on whom the "big" ap in collecting, or anything else, is not by any means.

The newspaper publicity that st collecting is receiving is called by enthusiastic worker in the cause as most the salvation of the pursuit." W once the subject of stamps enters the of the managing editor of the dail is reasonable to suppose that the sut has the entree into the columns. I and there the newspapers have st departments that must accomplish m practical good for us. A good start been made and as time goes on and number of collectors multiplies, be things will develop. To go to Swe for instance, we find that the Sve Dagbladet, the important Stockhom d regularly devotes a column to "Frin Spalten," well illustrated, in which p atelic news is intelligently prese Here, the collector finds pabulum th food for him but it is probable that way was paved for this stamp colum philatelic bits in which the news ele was paramount. Later, philately bec established in it. A similar sequence apply to the papers here and colle should be alert to use their influence the home editors in behalf of collec The number of newspaper clippings are being received has never before so great as at present and while this licity is not regulated in the sense that it is philatelic, according to the canons of those well-versed on stamps, 'it is helpful, indeed. We do not expect the newspapers to saturate the non-philatelic public with philately but they are likely to give all the outsiders a collecting tinge. The question of the stamp papers in following the lead of the newspapers in mirroring the "big story" matter of the daily press is an open one and may be discussed from both sides and probably the best solution of it would be a compromise.

COSTA RICA-CANAL ZONE AIR MAIL.

Two interesting air-mail cancellations have been submitted by Emil J. Rall of Ancon, Canal Zone. Both are first trippers, the one from Canal Zone to Costa Rica and the other from Costa Rica to Canal Zone. The envelopes bear distinctive air-mail cancellations showing time of departure and also markings showing time of arrival at San Jose and Cristobal. The date of the first trip from Cristobal was Jan. 2 and from San Jose, Jan. 4. Our thanks are extended Mr. Rall for his courtesy. A correspondent kindly sends us the following from the Panama Star-Herald of Jan. 1:—

"The first dispatch of mail by airplane from the Isthmus of Panama to another Central American country will be made from the Cristobal post office Friday morning when a pouch of mail will be sent to San Jose, Costa Rica.

A special postmarking stamp has been made and will show that the mail went forward by the first airplane mail dispatch ever made to Costa Rica. This will be an opportunity for stamp friends to get some special covers. It is also interesting to note that the planes under the command of Major Bradley will cover the first leg of the proposed airplane mail route between Panama and New Orleans concerning which Engineer Joseph Magee and Inspector Vincent Burke of the Air Mail Service of the United States recently visited the Isthmus."

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

CANADIAN IMPERFS. AND WAR TAX.

By EDWARD E. GOODCHILD.

Two points of considerable interest to students and collectors of Canadian postage stamps have recently been cleared up as to leave no doubt as to the true values of the issues involved.

More with the hope that these details will receive the full attention of the authors at present engaged, both in the U. S. A. and Gt. Britain, on the rewriting of the Canadian issues we give further publicity to facts as they have already appeared in Butler's Canadian Year Book and Messrs. Stanley Gibbons monthly Magazine of December last.

Butler gives on page 45 extracts from a letter written by Dr. L. L. Redford, read at the recent Winnipeg Stamp Exhibition, which in part reads:—"The first imperforates were given to Mr. Lachlan Gibb of Montreal, as a compliment by the Post Office Authorities in Ottawa in recognition of his services to the department. He was allowed to use them as "Franks" but got only one sheet of each denomination.

Dr. Redford then proceeds to state that such issues were not placed on sale at any Post Office as stated in Howes' and that Mr. Gibb did not challenge such having disposed of several such imperfs. to his friends and did not desire to influence their value.

In concluding Dr. Redford's letter reads, "I have all values in blocks of four in my collection, also used copies on and off covers. I don't think anything of them, however, as this letter tells you.

Herein we have an example of the true collectors' spirit. Dr. Redford, a gentleman, with an unblemished record ranking among, if not the foremost collector in Canada, finds pleasure in what his specimens truly represent, and not what the speculator would have him believe.

We on our part find much satisfaction in having this point cleared up, having within the past few months in a previous issue of MEKEEL'S most emphatically stated that the only imperfs. up to that date officially issued were those of the King Edward issue. In doing so we had in mind the Ter-Centenary issue which were being unloaded upon fellow collectors, being in possession of facts as to the source from whence they came, and will continue to come from whilst collectors pay seventy-five dollars for sets which are perhaps not worth as many cents. The speculator in question is neither a dealer or collector residing in the City of Montreal.

The second issue upon which much controversy has arisen is that of the first issue of Canadian War Issues. Again we take pride in the fact that another contention of ours is at last upheld. Gibbons in their December issue says:—

"We have received a letter from the officer in charge of the Postage Stamp Division, Ottawa, which clears up the question of the Canadian stamps with the "WAR TAX" overprint (5c, 20c and 50c). The letter encloses a copy of an official circular dated April 16, 1915, which states that "Postage stamps upon which the words 'War Tax' have been printed may be accepted for prepayment of postage," but we are now informed that this word "printed" should have been "engraved," thus drawing the distinction between the ordinary War Tax stamps and the stamps overprinted "WAR TAX" which latter were only intended for Inland Revenue use.

The mistake and consequent misapprehension on the part of philatelists was thus evidently caused by the careless wording of the circular quoted, and it is probable that some Canadian postmasters also misunderstood the circular, or rather understood it as it was written, and allowed the stamps overprinted 'WAR TAX' to pre-pay postage. A corrected circular was not sent out until 30th December, 1915, and the fact that it was so sent is practical proof that the postmasters had been misunderstanding the previous circular, and passing the overprinted stamps on correspondence."

Mint Block of 27
U. S. 6c 1879, No. 186. This block is 9 stamps wide by three deep, has full sheet margin at bottom with imprint of Continental Bank Note Co. and plate No. 21. The arrow shows at right. Stamps are in beautiful condition, nicely centered. The right block of nine has been severed from the left block of 18 and the owner in joining the two pieces with hinges has slightly soiled the joined edges of the two blocks. Other than this the piece is a gem. Price on application.

Did You See My Adv.?

Did you see my advertisement last week? Full details regarding my purchase of stamps to the value of $50,000.00 from the famous Lozier collection—the choicest lot of United States in mint condition that has reached the market since the Worthington Sale. Issues from 1847 to 1888 in singles and mint blocks—practically everything.

Bought upward of $10,000 worth of stamps from the Waterhouse Sale—many more in London and on the Continent. Consequently, I am in a better position than ever to supply the unusual. Send me your want list and I will keep it before me until all of your wants are filled. Especially large stock of the issues from 1894 to date in stock in mint blocks and singles—also most of the coils.

In order to better serve my numerous clients, I am always in the market to buy fine items and collections of United States at substantial prices. At present, I especially desire—

1847—5c—Fine pairs, strips and blocks, on or off cover, used or unused.
1847—10c—Fine singles or better, off or on cover. Have several clients plating this stamp and especially anxious even for singles.
1851—Fine mint blocks of all denominations—the larger the better.
1857—Blocks of the 10c to 90c inclusive.
1861—August issue, singles of the 1c, 12c, 30c.
1867—Block of the 12c, 11x13, 5c and 90c 9x13.
1869—Blocks of 6c, 10c, 15c Type I, 24c, 30c, 90c.
1870—Grills, Blocks of all above 6c.
1870—No grill, Blocks of 24c, 30c, 90c.
1875—Special prints, hard and soft paper.
1893—Mint 4c Columbian error, singles and block.
1894-95—Blocks of $2 and $5.
1902-3—1c, 2c, 5c Coils in strips.
1908—10c Coil in mint pairs or better.
1908—Blue paper, blocks of 4c and 8c.

Also, any other fine early unused block, single or cover, or scarce late item. If you have only a single item desired, please send it along, priced. Best of commercial, bank or philatelic reference furnished on request.

United States.

The B. K. Miller Collection Acquired By the New York Public Library.

Our readers will be interested to learn that the well known collection of United States issues gotten together by Mr. B. K. Miller, of Milwaukee, has been acquired by the 42nd and 5th Avenue Branch of the New York Public Library, and will be placed on exhibition in this prominent location just as soon as the collection can be properly framed.

Those who have been familiar with Mr. Miller's philatelic activities are aware of the fact that his collection possibly covers a larger scope than any other collection of United States issues, for he not only goes in for single specimens and blocks but in addition collects all cancellations, covers—has plated the early issues, and in the case of the late issues has been a seeker after the straight edge and arrow blocks, which when fitted together make miniature sheets.

The collection contains practically every main variety listed in the Scott catalog, and this includes a complete set of the postage special prints of which less than one-half dozen sets are known. These stamps have always been difficult to obtain and it is fortunate that a set will now be available to the students for comparison. In the case of the 1847 issues, Mr. Miller has the reconstructed sheet of two hundred of the 10c value with the exception of several positions. He has most of the 1c 1851 sheets reconstructed, and I believe has eight out of the eleven of the 3c.

The library will no doubt have to give serious consideration to the housing and exhibition of such a collection, and there is little doubt in my mind but what the services of some philatelist will have to be obtained if it is the intentions of adding to this collection and keeping it in a condition where it is presentable to the general public as well as to the student. Such a magnificent collection as this upon exhibition will no doubt catch the eye of the casual passerby, and will result in untold good to philately in general.

Mr. Miller expended in excess of $100,000 on this wonderful lot and he is certainly to be commended for the good work he is doing in the advancement of philately.

The Carroll Chase Collection.

Our readers will learn with a great deal of interest that the balance of the well known collection of our early issues gotten together by Dr. Carroll Chase, which have not been sold privately in the past, will be offered this Spring and Fall, at auction, by the well known Boston dealer, Mr. Daniel F. Kelleher.

The sale, which will no doubt take several sessions, will include the 1c, 5c, 12c, 24c, 30c and 90c of the 1851-57 issues. The 3c and 10c were previously sold at private sale, the 10c having been acquired by one of our best known middle western collectors.

The magnitude of this collection will be appreciated when I inform you that the 1c stamps alone were valued at $35,000 and that the other denominations added about $25,000 more. As this is possibly the finest collection in existence of its kind, the prices which the minor varieties will realize will be awaited with a great amount of interest.

5c 1857 Red Brown.

In this column, several weeks back, we gave a list of some of the earliest known cancellations upon our first issues. Mr. V. W. Haney has just shown me a copy of the 5c 1857 in red brown, canceled December 7, 1857, which is an earlier date than the one mentioned at the time.

1861-1881 Issues Part Perforated.

There is hardly a week passes that an inquiry does not reach me from one of our readers stating that he has a certain stamp generally the 3c 1861 or the 3c green, which is imperforated vertically. Many of the stamps which are called to my attention are those not listed in the catalog. For the benefit of our readers interested in such varieties, it will be well to know that the stamps issued by this Government during the years 1861-1881 may be found with such large margins that many of the perforated copies can readily be trimmed to make the part perf. and the imperf. varieties. Students of our issues today require pairs or better in the case of these issues in order to prove the variety in question.

Current Rotary Press Issues.

Mention has been made in this column several times of the fact that the department is experimenting with the stamps from the rotary press in order that they might be delivered to the post-office in a condition wherein the sheets will lie flat and will not curl as was the case in the first emissions. It will be recalled that a number of months back, the Bureau started to feed the gum in such a way that these sheets had vertical lines through the gum gave the stamp the appearance of a vertical laid paper. This practice seems to have been discontinued, for Mr. W. I. Kelsey has just shown me copies of the 2c, wherein the gum is now being broken horizontally. There appears to be a roller of some type, which imprints a horizontal colorless line across the face of the stamp, which breaks the gum.

Canal Zone Air Mail.

Mr. R. S. Carter writes me that he is indebted to Mr. George Tristan for a cover dated January 4, 1925 bearing Costa Rican stamps to the value of 15 centimos — the stamps being canceled within a circle about 1¼" in diameter, reading: "Correo Aereo—Costa Rica—Canal Zone". The receiving stamp on the cover is about 1½" in diameter and within we find "Costa Rica — Canal Zone—Cristobal C. Z." and also "Air Mail First Trip, Jan. 4, 1925, 2.30 P. M. Received." Each of these covers bear a serial number and it seems that the air plane carried mail both to and from the Canal Zone.

BARBADOS.—The new series, for revenue as well as postal purposes, foreshadowed in Stamp Collecting for September 13th, is now being printed on Script wmk. paper from the engraved plate. The stamps are in the Colonial Badge type of 1921 with the addition of the words "POSTAGE AND REVENUE," the colours being as before.—Stamp Collecting.

BRAZIL.—Our Rio de Janeiro correspondent, Mr. R. E. Gee, writes: "I notice in your issue of November 15th a correspondent informed you that the watermark of Brazilian stamps has recently changed from the old word watermark, 'CASA DA MOEDA,' to a five-pointed star over the letter 'A.'

"Nearly a year ago the watermark of these stamps was changed, the words 'CASA DA MOEDA' being much smaller in rows and each row interlaced with five small pointed stars. I have seen all values up to the 500 reis with this new watermark.

"I cannot help thinking that your informant is mistaking this watermark with the one he notifies you, which is quite easily understood, as he in all probability saw a stamp (one only) and did not compare it with others. As there is one letter and part of a star on each stamp, or vice versa, and four letters 'A' per row, there are naturally more with 'A' than CYPRUS.—Stamps of the series 1921-23 were withdrawn from circulation on August 1, 1924, and the remainders officially destroyed.—West End Philatelist.

LATVIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski sends us a clipping that translated reads as follows: "The Postal Department have decided to increase the postal rates about the first of February, but not later than the first of April. The increased rates will be for inland mail, 15 santimi instead of the present rate of 10 sant.; foreign mail 25 sant. instead of 10 sant. In accordance a new stamp will be required to accommodate the increased rate and the government printing works have been given an order for six million 5 sant. stamps.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us for chronicle the four new colors, noted in issue No. 1776, with the surcharge "Official" in black in the current type.

The respective contributions should have been as follows:—2c Postage + 2c Charity=4c; 7½c Postage + 3½c Charity=11c; 10c Postage + 2c Charity=12c.

PORTUGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 32c green in the current design as having been issued.

VENEZUELA.—This Republic, like Peru, commemorating the epoch-making Battle of Ayacucho by the help of the postage stamp and the philatelist. A decree signed on November 19th authorized the issue of a 25c stamp to commemorate that struggle (the battle we mean!). A quarter of a million of these have been printed in blue, the central feature being portraits of Generals Simon Bolivar and Sucre. DON'T REPRODUCE U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS IN ADVERTISING.

(Clipping from Warner Bates.)

Considering the drastic prohibitions and heavy penalties, it is astonishing that the laws governing the reproduction of postage stamps are not better and more generally understood. Ignorance of the subject is widespread, even among postal employees. About six weeks before the new Air Mail Service was inaugurated, the writer was assured by an employee of the philatelic bureau of the Washington City Post Office that it was entirely legal to reproduce the series of special Air Mail stamps for illustrative purposes, provided the stamps were arranged or grouped in such a way as to prevent the photographing of any single stamp in its entirety. This was undoubtedly the erroneous information given out at many post-offices throughout the country, since the Air Mail stamps have been repeatedly and extensively reproduced, a fact that is causing the postal and secret service authorities no end of trouble.

Despite any statement to the contrary and from whatever source, advertisers should remember that the law explicitly prohibits the reproduction by every method of unused or cancelled postage stamps, or any portion thereof, or anything that simulates them.

Paragraph 147 of the United States Criminal Code plainly defines postage stamps as securities of the Government. Paragraph 150 of the code then states, in regard to all Government securities, that whoever shall print, photograph, or in any other manner make or execute, or cause to be so reproduced, or aid in the reproduction of, any obligation or security of the Government, or any part thereof, shall be liable to a fine of not more than $5,000, or imprisonment for a term not to exceed fifteen years, or both. The code also provides similar penalties for those who import such reproductions, and whoever shall have or retain them in his control or possession.

This may seem to be altogether unwarranted or even ridiculous, to the advertiser who has nothing farther removed from his thought than criminal intent, and who has merely illustrated a package of his goods "stamped and ready for mailing" in his advertisement, or who has inadvertently reproduced a stamp in one or more of his illustrations. However, when several officials of both the Post Office Department and the Secret Service Division of the Treasury Department were interviewed, they offered an entirely reasonable explanation of the law and the Government's policy regarding the subject.

SECOND OFFENCES RARE.

While ignorance of the law is no defense at court, the records of all such cases show that there is no unreasonable tendency on the part of the Treasury Department to prosecute those who ignorantly and with innocent motives violate the Criminal Code in respect to the reproduction of stamps, when such violations do not result in loss to the Government. Prosecutions are, in every instance, handled by United States District Attorneys, who are generally satisfied to warn first-offending advertisers and publishers with a statement of the paragraphs of the Criminal Code mentioned, and second offences are exceedingly rare.

The necessity of preventing all reproductions of stamps was emphasized for two principal reasons. In the first place, if stamps and simulations of stamps were widely photographed for advertising and publishing purposes, and the violations were winked at by the authorities, the enforcement of the law would soon be weakened and successful prosecutions of counterfeiters would be made more difficult. Secondly, counterfeiters of stamps would be much more difficult to detect and to trace.

It is undoubtedly due to the sweeping prohibitions of the law that counterfeiting of stamps in this country is negligible and less frequent than in any other of the principal countries. The great rapidity with which the mails must be handled makes the detection of counterfeit stamps difficult, and considerable loss to the Government is saved only by the most drastic of preventive measures.

Until recently the photographing of foreign stamps was also prohibited in this country; but for many years stamp collectors and others have petitioned Congress for a measure that would allow them to illustrate all stamps in their albums and literature, and on March 3 of last year a bill was passed which modifies the penal laws, or rather specifies that the laws do not prohibit the reproduction of foreign postage stamps in black and white from plates so defaced as to indicate that the illustrations are not adapted or intended for use as stamps. This act mentions the sections of the code which apply, and continues:

"Nothing in said sections shall be construed to forbid or prevent similar illustrations, in black and white only, in philatelic or historical articles, books, journals, albums, or the circulars of legitimate publishers or dealers in such stamps, books, journals, albums or circulars, of such portion of the borders of a stamp of the United States as may be necessary to show minor differences in the stamp so illustrated, but all such illustrations shall be at least four times as large as the portion of the original United States stamp so illustrated."

Although Congress, with this amendment, gave stamp dealers the privilege of reproducing foreign stamps in black and white from altered plates, it did not even give them the right to reproduce anything but that portion of United States stamp borders necessary to illustrate changes, and then on a four-time scale and only in their own publications.

The Government authorities insist that the laws be applied alike to everyone in the country, and that it is just as necessary to prevent counterfeiting, to enforce the prohibition against the photographing and reproducing of stamps for any purpose whatever, as it is to enforce the laws against the photographing of money, bonds, or any other Government security.

Therefore, it is obviously dangerous to use stamps for illustrative purposes. While it is possible that the thoughtless advertiser or publisher doing so may escape detection, it is highly probable that he will attract the attention of a district attorney, and it is possible that he may be required to defend himself in a Federal Court under a criminal indictment. In a case of the kind, not only the advertiser or publisher, but his printer, engraver and everyone who has assisted in the reproduction are liable, and, under the law, the making of every plate, with each duplicate and every print made from them, may be considered as a separate offense.—Printers' Ink.

Play Safe in Stamp Investments
the same as tho buying stocks or bonds.

I did that when I purchased between $40,000 and $50,000 worth of following:—U. S. postage, including unusual pieces in pairs, strips, blocks and covers. Same applies to my Confederate States and to my large holdings in British North America pieces. If you are looking for unusual items in any of above lines, this is the place to come. I have sold single buyers thousands of dollars' worth. I have the goods in my line and I think that 90% of the readers of this paper agree that old issues of U. S. A., C. S. A. and B. N. A. are the goods that mean real investment.

INSECTS' SENSE OF TASTE.

By H. A. ALLARD, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

My son Howard, who has become an enthusiastic stamp collector, recently brought to my attention a 2-cent carmine postage stamp, 1903 issue, mutilated in a most remarkable manner. This stamp, which he found attached to an envelope in an attic at Oxford, Mass., had been eaten completely away in certain areas, presumably by tiny ants. Such nice powers of discrimination were shown that only the white or slightly dyed portions were usually attacked with the nicest precision. The accompanying photograph, showing the mutilated stamp and an untouched stamp for comparison against a black background and enlarged about three and one-half diameters, indicates the areas attacked and eaten away. It will be noted that the white border has been practically removed around the entire stamp, the insect following with the greatest nicety the dark red border, invading this only where the lighter wreath around the figure 2 has cut this border. A considerable portion of the wreath of olive leaves has been cut away around the left-hand figure 2, while only a slight indentation has been cut into the wreath of oak leaves surrounding the right-hand figure 2. The ball of the left-hand figure 2 has been cut away, and a hand lens shows that the body of the figure has also been scraped very thin. This is shown by the whiter appearance of this portion of the figure. The right-hand figure 2 has been attacked in the same manner, the ball being eaten away, much of the body completely removed as well as a small portion of the tail. To the left of this figure 2, the wreath of oak leaves has been entirely removed, the surrounding dark red areas being avoided. Above this figure 2 the greater portion of the vertical stripes has been removed to the very edge of the vertical, deep red border throughout and along the horizontal line separating the stripes from the deeper red background containing the stars. It will be noted that a portion here has been completely removed, while the remaining portion of the stripes along this horizontal line has been scraped very thin. A small hole has been eaten through the body of the tiny 5 in cents. The lighter portions of the head of Washington have been largely eaten away, the darker areas surrounding the eyes and nose being left. Portions of the letter S and A in States have been removed, as well as in the letter M in America.

Wherever the stamp has been eaten it is evident that the white or more lightly dyed portions have been attacked in preference to the deeply dyed areas. So indiscriminatingly has the work been done that the white or lighter areas have often been removed along definite lines of separation between the two areas. Since only the stamp itself was attacked, while the paper of the envelope upon which it was stuck was not eaten, it would appear that some substance in the adhesive used upon stamps was attractive to the insects doing the work. It is apparent that a nice sense of discrimination has guided the insect in its selection of the least dyed or undyed portions. In truth, a child could hardly have scraped away with greater precision these areas which the insect, doubtless an ant, has removed by depending, in all probability, upon some highly developed sense of taste or actual sense.—Nature Magazine.

Metcalf, which stands at the foot of King Street, Kingston, and the stamp tells us that he was Governor of Jamaica, 1839-1842. He was an Anglo-Indian, born at Calcutta in 1785, was educated at Eton, and at the early age of 15 entered the East Indian Service, at 19 he was earning £1000.0.0. per annum. He served in many important positions in India, and in 1832 succeeded to the baronetcy bestowed on his father, but in 1836 earned for himself by his distinguished services, the Grand Cross of the Bath, and for about a year was provisional Governor General of India. After a short period of rest in England, he was appointed Governor of Jamaica, and took up his duties. His mission appears to have been to reconcile the conflicting interests which had arisen and were rife between the Government, the recently freed slaves, and the planter-land-owners; there was also trouble between the local and Home Governments. His task was a difficult one, but he soon earned the reputation of being firm and just, as he did not hesitate to controvert the views of the Secretary of State, when he believed and knew them to be wrong. His success in gaining the confidence and esteem of the entire population, black and white alike, is demonstrated by the monument to his memory. In November, 1841, believing his mission to be accomplished, he resigned his post, and sailed for England on May 21, 1842, amid scenes of the deepest sorrow and regret, so greatly had he endeared himself to all. Speaking of his Jamaica country home, he said, "If climate were everything, I should prefer living on this spot to any other that I know in the world". On his departure from Jamaica, the Assembly voted £3000 for a statue to his memory. It was prepared by Edward Hodges Baily, R. A., by whom there is also a bust of Lord Metcalf, in the Metcalf Hall at Calcutta. On arrival, the statue was erected at Spanish Town, the original intention being to provide it with a temple and colonnade similar to that of the Rodney Memorial, but funds were not available, and subsequently it was brought to Kingston and erected at the southern entrance to the Victoria Park, on the base now occupied by the statue of Queen Victoria, as seen on the 1sh stamp. In 1898 it was removed to the present site, but the double pedestal creates such great height, that the details are almost illegible to one standing on the ground. He is represented bareheaded, wearing the insignia of the Bath. The front of the upper pedestal is appropriately inscribed to his memory and honour, on the West face are the Arms of Jamaica, on the East, those of Metcalf; on the back is an emblematic design of the figures of Justice and Mercy on either side of an altar on which an anchor rests. On the power pedestal, is a tablet which records the exact latitude and longitude, and the mean difference in time West of Greenwich. So heavy is both statue and base, that it remained undisturbed in the great earthquake of Jan. 14, 1907, when all others were either thrown down or slewed round on their bases.

The central portion of the design depicts the described statue, printed in violet, set in a frame of orange. At the top left and right are the words "Postage Revenue" in small white letters, below is "Jamaica" in heavy white block type set in a curve, on both sides of which is the value 3s in colour on white squares set in shaded frames, these are supported by columns which form the sides of the frame, and on both side panels are grown palm trees. These columns rest on squares at the lower corners, which show the value as above, and between are the words and figures "Sir Charles Metcalf, Governor of Jamaica, 1839-1842", in three lines in small white characters.

The stamp was issued on the new paper at the G. P. O., on August 23, 1921, without official recognition of the change. The record when first issued appeared in the Gazette of December 9, 1920, as follows:

"Stamp Office, KINGSTON,
6th Decr., 1920.

The following is a description of a 3sh stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation on Friday, 10th December, 1920.

The design of the stamp is represented by a statue of Sir Charles Metcalf, a Governor of Jamaica.

At the top of the design, above the denomination, are the words

Postage Revenue
Jamaica

Jamaica being printed between the denomination. At the bottom of the design, and between the denomination, are the words and figures:

Sir Charles Metcalf
Governor of Jamaica
1839-1842

To the left of the design are two palms, as also at the right. The border of the Stamp is Orange and the centre Purple.

C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Great Britain.—Mr. W. R. Van der Kiste points out that earliest supplies of the 3d and 4d with the new wmk. were used in Ireland by the Irish Customs.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. Wm. Poppleton kindly shows us the 1½d, green, with no bar in fraction at right.

Canada.—An official letter from the authorities at Ottawa states that the thin paper varieties recently noted were the result of an experiment which the printers were authorised to make, in order to ascertain whether stamps on the thinner paper would prove more adhesive than the ordinary stamps, against which complaints had been made on this score. The 2c and 5c postage stamps and the 1c 2c and 5c Postage Dues, have been printed on this experimental paper. Copies of the 5c, and of the Dues, show a rather deeper shade of colour than that of the stamps on the thicker paper.

Mr. J. Almar points out that an impression current in certain quarters that Canadian postage stamps are now used for Revenue purposes, is incorrect. Pen and pencil cancellations come from small rural offices, while rubber handstamped cancellations are usually found to be the "Registered" rubber stamp of various types, used on bulky letters or packets on which it is difficult to use the ordinary steel handstamp.

Cyprus.—Latest arrivals of the current ¾pi show the head-plate printed in a rather deeper shade of green.

India.—Bundi.—A reader kindly gives his experience of methods in this State, which proves that our remarks in the new Catalogue regarding "errors" of overprint are more than justified. As an ordinary traveller, with no "pull" whatever, our reader went to the P.O., and found that the official in charge had a hand die, with which he overprinted the ordinary stamps with the "Service" overprint in English or Hindi, as required. He thus supplied our reader's requirements, and the latter adds that no doubt he could have had his overprints double or inverted, if his tastes had run in that direction.

Charkari.—Messrs. Jno. Godinho and P. N. De Souza correct the information given in October regarding the 1 pice, violet, there listed. This stamp was issued about 1919 and has been obsolete since 1922. It was printed in sheets of 64, on smooth or rough wove paper, with or without seal embossed in the upper corner.

Jamaica.—The Child Welfare stamps have again been put on sale, as from November 1st, and will be withdrawn on January 31st. There is no difference either in the stamps or in the conditions of sale. Mr. L. Whiteley kindly sends us the news, which will not be welcome to those who have paid comparatively high prices for the stamps, under the impression that they had been permanently withdrawn.

Malta.—Mr. M. H. Abela shows us slight shades of the ¼d (pale brown), and the 3d (pale ultramarine). Mr. R. Forbes-Bentley states that the 1½d, with Plate No. 2, was on sale on the 22nd November.

New Zealand.—Mr. F. M. Corkill kindly sends us a cutting from the Dominon, stating that the following stamps were to be withdrawn from sale at the end of 1924:—

Aitutaki and Penrhyn Is. All N. Z. stamps overprinted, except 2½d.
Niue and Rarotonga. All overprinted stamps except 2½d and stamps from 2s upwards.
Cook Is. Old issue (Bird and Queen).
Samoa. Victory issue and all overprinted stamps except 2s and upwards.

Straits Settlements.—A reader kindly sends us the 5c, Script, Die I, in a pale dull orange shade.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Belgium.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross shows us a bilingual cancellation which recommends the use of the air mails to London and Paris.

Bolivia.—Mr. W. F. Palmer kindly informs us that a bill has been put before the Bolivian Congress authorising the issue of a new series of stamps commemorating Bolivian independence, and illustrating historical scenes. The issue is expected early in 1925.

Brazil.—Dr. Mario De Sanctis shows

U. S. 1851, the 12c black imperforate.
I still have some copies of this stamp in stock at $3.50 each; condition average. Am always willing to submit 2 or more copies to responsible parties, from which one copy can be selected—if you like you may enclose your want list in U. S.
U. S. Would you like a nice copy of No. 47? While I deal in rare stamps, mostly, I can also send you low and medium priced ones, if requested.

us an interesting curiosity in the shape of a pair from a sheet of the 200 reis, rose, "Aviacao," with misplaced perforation, the stamps being neatly bisected horizontally.

Denmark.—One can only regret the blot placed on Denmark's philatelic scutcheon by the issue of the new postal commemoratives listed this month. There could be no objection to the issue of such a series, but the adoption of a freak arrangement of the sheets, which show not only the portraits of the two monarchs, on adjacent stamps, but show each of them facing in either direction, lends colour to the suspicion that the authorities have an eye to the philatelic possibilities of such an issue. Three stamps would have sufficed to celebrate the anniversary, but here we have twelve varieties, and a fanciful arrangement which can only have been meant to attract the eye of stamp collectors. We hope our friends in Denmark will lose no time in pointing out to the authorities that such an issue is hardly worthy of a great nation.

France.—The Helio. Vaugirard, the firm which has done such attractive work in printing the air stamps and current postage stamps of Morocco, has issued a Ronsard label which throws the deficiencies of the issued Ronsard stamp into marked relief. The portrait and frame are beautifully designed, and we hope the hint that France might entrust future commemorative issues to this firm will not be lost.

Germany.—Mr. Arthur Cook states that he has an envelope in his possession which easily beats the record set up by that of Mr. G. S. Wilkins, described in the Dec. M. J. It bears stamps of the face value of 364,000,000,000 marks over 60,000,000,000 marks more than the total German war debt! As we go to press, Dr. Brownlie beats this with a 400-milliard cover.

New Issue. 6c and 2.50p, 500,000 each; 25c, 1,500,000; 50c and 1p,300,000,000 each; 1.50p (as illustrated), 1,000,000; 2p, 200,000; $3 and 15p, 150,000 each.

Holland.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross states that he has the new 12½c, portrait type, perf. 12½ instead of 12. Presumably we are to have another flood of perf. varieties in the new issue.

Messrs. Ary Krul and P. Gordon Wimberley state that this year's Charity series will consist of three values, 2, 7½ and 10c, to be sold at 4, 11 and 12½c, respectively. They are to be on sale from December 18th to January 15th. Designer, George Rueter. Mr. Wimberley also states that the 10c (Queen's portrait) is to be withdrawn and replaced by a similar stamp printed in orange, the rose colour of the stamp, as originally issued, being found to be too much like that of the 12½c.

Minor varieties of the new 2½c have also been noted, consisting in a white line joining the top of the large "2" to the fraction, a similar line joining the bottom of the "2" to the fraction, and a line joining the "2" to the bird.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

E. H. Russell, Wilbur, Ore.
R. W. Billings, Windom, Minn.
Fred Zeiser, Shamokin, Pa.
H. B. Seagrave, Pontiac, Mich.

Our first entry this week upon the Honor List is E. H. Russell, clerk of the School Board of Wilbur, Oregon. Mr. Russell is an old subscriber, having been upon our mailing list since 1892, and during the years our paper has followed him from Chicago to North Carolina, thence to Colorado and now to Oregon. Thanks, Mr. Russell.

We thank R. W. Billings of Windom, Minn., for his application for membership in the Honor Club. A check for $5 reaches us for a five-year renewal to our "good paper" as he calls it. Mr. Billings also adds:—"It has more to do with keeping up my interest in stamps than my collection itself". This is a worthy tribute to the WEEKLY and we believe it to be a sincere one.

We are pleased to enter as a member of our Honor Club Fred Zeiser, 212 E. Cameron St., Shamokin, Pa. Mr. Zeiser is health officer of the city under the direction of the Board of Health.

Our old friend H. B. Seagrave of Pontiac, Mich., has concluded to enter our Honor Club. Mr. Seagrave's name is a familiar one to many of our readers by virtue of his longtime connection with philately.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

AT THE POST OFFICE.

(From Brownstown Correspondent)

Brownstown citizens were given quite a thrill on Wednesday evening of last week when a peculiar looking person entered the local post-office and calling himself W. F. Taylor, asked for a package. On being told he had no package, he insisted that there was, saying he had mailed it 15 years ago and that perhaps it came under the name of Ulysses S. Grant, as that also was his name. The postmaster firmly told him of his mistake, and as he left the office, he muttered, "This post-office will be blowed up tonight." This convinced all of his lunacy and Jack Foster was called and took him in custody, and the sheriff at Vandalia was called. He was taken to Vandalia and his trial was held the next morning. There he was adjudged insane and sent to the asylum at Anna. He knew nothing of his past, saying he was 48 years old and had walked 752 miles in ten days. He said his mother's name was Taylor and her father Zachary Taylor. His father was Ulysses S. Grant, and his grandfather, King George of England. He was really a pitiful person very healthful looking and not so very old, but of no mind whatever.—Vandalia Ill., Union.

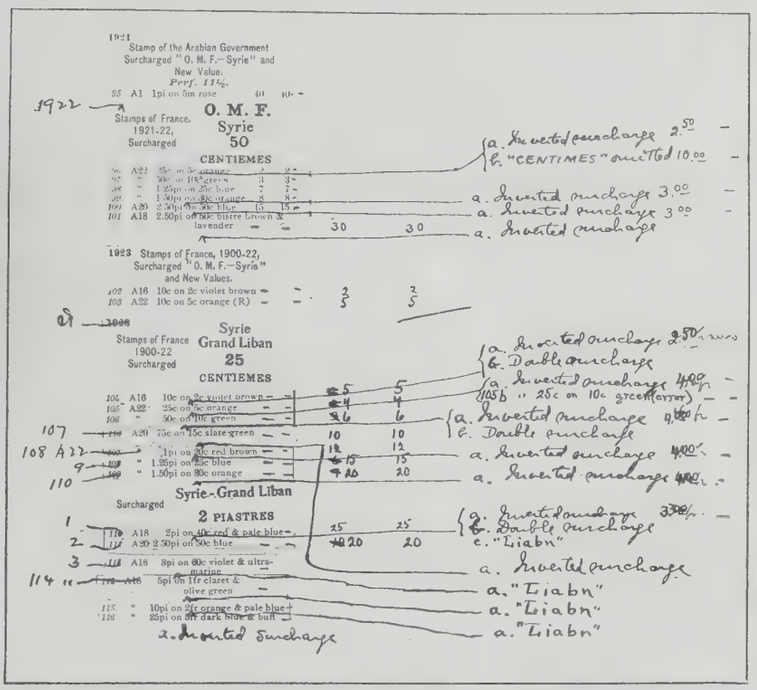
HOW THE SCOTT STANDARD CATALOG IS PRICED.



Based Upon An Interview With Hugh Clark.

By H. L. LINDQUIST.

Since the beginning of stamp collecting the catalogs devoted to the hobby have been subjected to criticism, much of which has been justified and has served a useful purpose in correcting errors both of judgment and of practice. Much of the criticism, however, is actuated by other than constructive motives and not a little is based on misinformation or no information.

The subject of Catalog Prices is one which touches every collector as his purchases are largely based upon them and his investment depends upon their stability. Practically every publisher of a catalog adopts a method of his own to arrive at the correct prices and many collectors have an idea that they could vastly improve upon these methods. Charles J. Phillips, formerly the head of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., of London, tells me that his firm base their prices upon the sales from their stock books. If a stamp has sold well, the price goes up; if it has not sold the price goes down. Operating as they do with a tremendous stock of nearly every stamp this method can be employed with some degree of success but it is far from scientific and could not be followed by any other firm operating under different conditions.

Senf & Co., with characteristic German thoroughness, worked out a tremendously elaborate system. Large ledgers were used, with sufficient columns to permit one for every catalog published. Then opposite a description of each stamp they would list the quotations of every catalog published and base their own quotation on the average of them all. Moens based prices on cost and doubled the total of actual cost plus expenses. For instance, if a stamp cost 1 franc, they would add about 10 centimes for expenses and then double that total to arrive at the catalog quotation of 2 francs, 20 centimes.

Gibbons U. S. Library

is a series of five handbooks on U. S. stamps. They tell of Fakes, Forgeries, what to avoid and what to buy and are invaluable to a collector of U. S. stamps. A postal card will bring you full particulars. [tf

1925 PRICE-LIST

The 1925 edition of my long established price-list of United States stamps entitled "Stamps of United States and Colonies" is still available to the several thousand readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, who have not applied for it.

It gives prices for both "good" and "fine" copies of most issues and serves as an excellent check-list for pocket use.

Mailed free upon request.

No unsolicited approvals, no follow-up letters, no "come-back" of any kind is coupled with the receipt of a request for this list. I take the chance that the list itself will merit an order—and I win nine times out of ten. [80&2

These methods are all interesting but as most of our readers base their transactions on the Scott quotations, an explanation of their system will undoubtedly be of interest.

At the outset it will be well to discover just what the Standard Catalog purports to be. Originally it was started merely as a price list of an individual concern and fundamentally it is still the priced catalog of the Scott Co. But it has developed far beyond this and the publishers recognize their obligation to the collecting fraternity as the trustees of a utility important to the welfare of the hobby. The first principle of the publishers is to reflect, as accurately as possible, the true market value of the stamps. Get that basic principle firmly in mind: The prices are not based on what the Scott Co. thinks the stamps SHOULD bring but upon what they ACTUALLY do bring. The prices are the result of sales and not the cause for prices to be obtained. To use Hugh Clark's own words, "The Catalog is intended to be a 'Philatelic Ticker Tape' reflecting changes in prices just as the regular ticker tapes reflect the market fluctuations of stocks and bonds and other commodities. But where the regular ticker records change daily and hourly, sometimes 'minutely' and is concerned with but a few hundred items, the catalog must quote prices that will stand for a year on approximately 70,000 items representing 140,000 separate quotations. That some of these prices will be inaccurate and fluctuate sharply is inevitable, but if these inaccuraces are kept as low as 10% I will consider that we are rendering a remarkable service." That represents a possible 14,000 errors and who has ever found a fraction of that number.

The actual system employed by the Scott Co. will be of interest to those not familiar with the routine of editing and pricing a work of this kind.

First the catalog is cut up into sections and pasted upon large sheets of white paper. These sheets are then taken by John N. Luff, expert of the firm, who enters upon them any editorial corrections or additions in red ink. If he has any suggestions to make in connection with the prices he adds these in pencil and attaches to the sheet a statement of his reasons for the suggested price changes backed by whatever other supporting data he may have. These sheets are then turned over to Hugh Clark for price revision. During the year he has accumulated folders containing every scrap of information that has appeared that would touch upon price changes. This includes letters from correspondents, clippings from philatelic magazines and catalogs, quotations from wholesale stamp dealers, auction reports—nothing is overlooked that will assist in forming a correct conclusion of the present selling prices.

This mass of material is sorted by countries and by issues and every stamp price is carefully scanned. On stamps that have not been questioned in any way, the price is allowed to stand. Where a question has been raised other data is sought. If possible the quantity issued is ascertained, then the cost of the item to the firm, leading specialists are requested to submit their ideas and the opinions of other qualified experts are invited.

These several sources usually produce the desired information but no change is made unless at least two unbiased supporting opinions are received to justify it. When all other data fails the last resort is to base the price on the cost of stock on hand. In no case is reference made to the quantity of stock on hand. Many critics have advanced the supposition that a price was either raised because the Scott Co. had a large stock that they wished to unload at a profit, or was permitted to remain at a figure below its true value so that the company could pick them up at a low price. Such reports are absolutely without foundation and are usually based upon reports of such practices which are reported to have been practiced by certain European publishers. Certain specific instances of such cases could be cited but we cannot digress for this at the present time.

To show how this system works in actual practice let us assume that a recent issue of Cyprus has been frequently quoted at a substantial reduction from the catalog price. If this should be on an important item an immediate investigation would be made and mention inserted in the Monthly Journal. If on an ordinary stamp a note would simply be be filed in the proper folder to come up when this particular stamp was under consideration. When it did come up reference would be made to the other standard catalogs to see what quotations they make. The wholesale quotations of the leading English firms would be consulted. The ideal arrangement is when a catalog quotation and at least two wholesale quotations can be located to confirm the price. If two catalogs differ radically on a 19th century issue, the

AIR MAIL MARKINGS.

Jos. A. Steinmetz sends us a copy of the Postal Bulletin for Jan. 22, dealing with certain markings suggested for use on air-mail envelopes. The notice previously given in the WEEKLY to the effect that air-mail envelopes could have red and blue horizontal bars is supplemented by a further suggestion.

The Department advises that it will be helpful to the postal service if two blue lines are placed horizontally across the envelopes approximately one-quarter inch apart, the upper line to be not less than one and one-eighth inches below the top of the envelope, and in such case the words "Via Air Mail" should be plainly and boldly written, handstamped or printed, preferably between the two lines. The notice goes on to say that similar lines may be placed vertically across the envelope not less than three and one-half inches from the right end. The markings may be done with an ordinary blue pencil or printed in blue ink.

POLAR FLIGHT HAS AN "ANGEL".

Unnamed American Gives $100,000 to Roald Amundsen.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. — Capt. Roald Amundsen, veteran Arctic explorer and discoverer of the South Pole, today announced $100,000 of the $125,000 necessary to finance his long delayed flight to the North Pole this summer had been contributed by "an American." He declined to divulge his name. The remaining $25,000 will be obtained through the Flying Society of Norway, he said.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Postage Stamp Used for Revenue—Rev. H. J. Koester has a document with strip of four 10c '61's and a 12c '61 canceled in mss. with the full name across face of the four stamps—"Thomas Black." You will note that this is the first mention of the 12c used for revenue. We now have a record of all values except the 1c, 15c and 90c. Who can name one more of these three values of this series? The 2c and 10c appear most frequently—3c seldom.

Mr. W. Farrar asks can you see the secret mark on the 2c vermilions of 1875? I tried to but it is like the 2c brown Continental, my old eyes are too dim I reckon, for I have never yet seen that secret mark at all. Can you?

Mr. S. C. Rogers has shown me a cancellation on a 3c American Print bearing the word "CORRECT" as the major word in the cancellation—"Bulter, Ala. Jul 8 1880 Correct John R Addison, P.M." John did a good job with that postmark; but I can't find any "Bulter" in the State, tho Butler is listed.

A combination of 1c Type II '51, and two 1c '57 Type IIa frank a cover from Lawrence Ms to Salem Ms. As the two perforate stamps are in the dark shade, the three stamps appear identical in color, and it takes two looks to find the "Imperf" which is between the two Perforates.

Mr. August Bode has sent in a very fine 5c impressed Revenue stamp bearing head of Lincoln in orange on a note issued by the Wheeling Savings Institution, also a bank check dated 10th Jan., 1875, in red orange with 2c head of Franklin as on the 1c 1870 stamp issue, this being from New Orleans, La. They are both very pretty and interesting.

A cover has been sent me with "Hempstead Branch Feb 6, N. Y." in black on a 3c '51. The sender asks, "Is this a Rail Road cancellation, or just a Jitney Stop"? Who is acquainted with this cancellation?

When I began writing for the Forum it was my intention to get some "system" into Early U. S. Postage stamps. Have you noticed any? Neither have I. The answers arrive too slowly, or not at all is the answer.

One number of the Forum mentioned how many forms of collecting there were, big figures. In each of these diversified and specialized forms of collecting, mention was not made of the sub-groups tangential to each main group. You've perhaps had this experience happen to you—write for a selection of stamps, pick out all that you know you need, and then when you have time to study them, wish you could have that same selection back with all the stamps on it that you had returned—why? The reason being that you have learned something new to look for, and you would like to get, "just a few more" before this variety is broadcast by some philatelic journal. Collectors seem to have an idea that when this little peewee variety is disclosed to collectors that they will never get any more, or that they will have to pay a high price for them. Well, what of it? If they are good, they are surely worth money. Also the fact that a new variety is exploited does not force dealers to add to their prices, probably a full half of them will never notice the article, and of the half who do see it, they will merely tack on a small increase.

Here are three items that come under above classification, all interesting enough to be recognized and elevated slightly in values in "Scott Specialized".

First, 3c '51 (meaning imperforates, '51 to '57) the various printings showing "gash over button". These neat bits of collectability are supposed to have been caused by a bit of foreign substance (metal) fastening itself by accident to the transfer roll. These little "Gashes" vary in size from that of a bit of thread curving slightly across the top of button, to a big heavily colored gash. These occurred mostly in the top row stamps on both panes of several plates, being found in Orange Browns and in the Clarets—in all shades.

Third, 3c 1857 Type II (same stamp). This variety is identical in position with the above, and is best described to my mind as the "retouched broken transfer" (roll). These stamps showing "repair work" on the plate are most interesting. A large number exist, and perhaps twenty varieties may be readily found that are

"Specialist Sales"
This term was coined by me, and is to be associated exclusively with my sales, which are carefully built up of selected items from various consignors. I do not take ordinary collections and sell them at auction, but I can recommend a half dozen fine and reliable men who specialize in that work. I am only interested in selling out-of-the-way items, such as my March 21 and 25 sale contains. U. S. gems from the Rehse collection, the Waterhouse Sale, and other U. S. consignments. The foreign is as juicy as the Confederates. Write now for your catalogue.

SOUTH SEAS and the ORIENT
Situated here in San Francisco I have unusual opportunities for picking up these desirable stamps. Specialists will find it worth while to send in their Want Lists, while the general collector may have a selection upon approval for the asking—and references. My recent ads will give a good idea of what I have in stock at present. Practically all of the varieties of Brit. Sol. Is., Cook Is., Fiji, Gilbert and Ellice, New Hebrides, Papua, Samoa and Tonga can be supplied at fair prices.

easily seen with a glass. One group (probably retouched by the same man) shows a little vertical line just inside the left frame line, thereby lessening the area he had to "pickle" (this is an architectural term, no, I should have said draftsman's term, as they have some wonderfully meaningless words to those outside the clan) and pickle in their jargon means "filling in", or graying the surface, which is just what this repair is intended to do—harmonize the open spot with the surroundings. The rest are just pickled at random.

The price of these is only a small amount above normal, and they may still be picked up by those who are after such varieties, all of which shows that new varieties of small nature interest the collector, yet do not elevate things beyond their reach. So if you have any new varieties to tell your neighbor, why not do it now? The Query is contained in the fore part of this number.

PHILATELIC HALL OF FAME.

HERMAN TOASPERN
(Toasty)

TOASPERN, HERMAN, born March 13, 189? in either of two towns in Virginia. Owing to the intense rivalry between Norfolk and Richmond, it has become a great subject of debate between the two cities. The Richmond people claim he was born in Norfolk and the Norfolk folk say he was born in Richmond. After graduating from grammar school, he threw himself (1908) into Commercial High School, and was thrown out (1911). There was some dispute as we understand it between the school authorities and our hero. It seems schools according to the old-fashioned idea were places of study, and while Toasty excelled as a football, track, basketball, tennis, debating and public speaking star, besides giving some time to professional roller skating and roller polo, he was only 40% proficient in algebra, and 11% in languages. After spending the summer of 1911 in cogitation as to his life work, and entertaining the females of Greater New York (mostly vocally) he entered the stamp business with the J. M. Bartels Co., leaving that concern in 1915. While not employed with stamps directly until 1922, he was always a familiar figure at the affairs of the Collectors Club. In 1923 he conceived the idea of abandoning auction sales and holding Specialist Sales, beliving Barnum was right.

The most striking characteristic, which he holds in common with Doc. Chittenden, is his extreme reticence and his earnest desire to avoid the lime light. At the meetings of the Hot Stove League, philately's most exclusive and most talked of Night Club in New York, he is ever the silent listener. He speaks fourteen languages fluently, or rather fluently enough, being able to say, "How much?" and immediately afterwards, "Too much!"

He is an earnest follower of the old school of collecting, sniffing at the "fly speck" varieties, and the "Ink-blotches" as he contemptuously calls cancellations. Half a stamp is enough and his price is in proportion, that is half catalog. Three quarters of a stamp, three-quarters catalog, ad infinitum.

He was the first member of the Collectors Club to get into the Great War, and was twice wounded, once by a tricky swivel chair, and another time by a rusty pen nib.

Since 1922 he has been actively engaged in the stamp trade, and in philatelic writing, having found two papers that would give him space if he bought advertising. Some of his better known philatelic effusions are, "Twentieth Century Papal States", "The Postage Stamps of the Confederate States Prior to and After the Civil War", and his magnus opium, "Varieties of the 7c Justice".

He is unmarried, a Mugwump, and his clubs are the Hot Stove, Collectors, Automat and the Toreodors. He has never been convicted of a felony and is not an anarchist by trade.

J. BRACE CHITTENDEN
(Doc)

CHITTENDEN, J.*BRACE. Lawyer, mathematician, born Milford, Conn., May 13, 18??. Graduated Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute 1884; Worcester Polytechnic Institute, B. S., C. E., 1888; B. S., M. E., 1888; Harvard, A. B., 1889; A. M., 1896; Kirkland Fellow, 1891, Parker Fellow, 1892; Harvard, A. M., Ph. D., Konigsberg, 1892. Instructor in pure and applied mathematics. Admitted to the bar, 1900.† Author, "Functions of Lamé", A translation of the Clebsch-Lindemann Geometry," and articles in the American Encyclopedia.

The above information quoted verbatum, is taken in part from the yearly best seller, "Who's Who in New York", regarding the doughty and genial Secretary, Librarian, and Official Welcomer of the Collectors Club. We, speaking as the author, hiding behind the Editorial "we", must immediately explain the asterisks and other cabalistic signs noted above.

*The Doc has been hiding this one since the Centennial Exhibition, at which time he was able to speak. In confidence the name is "Jonathan", but the Collectors Club hold he is no Jonah, but instead a lucky charm.
 Add "Good Fellow, 1925".
† Privilege withdrawn, 1918, by Volstead Act, so Doc substituted a five-letter word meaning "A kick in the pants".

Our good philosopher Harry M. Konwiser said he knew the worthy doctor was a Harvard man, for one can always tell a Harvard man, but of course one cannot tell him much. The Doc has a splendid mathematical mind, accurate with close attention to details, and a firm believer in the motto, "A place for everything", the only thing stumping him being to find the place.

The Doctor is one of the men who put the old respirator and applied the oxygen to the Collectors Club when it was dying of neglect. With his taciturn manner, and his usual quiet and unassuming way, he brought it back to life. The Doc is an excellent correspondent, never taking over four months to answer a personal letter.

The Doc is a Unitarian, but does not speak it, and a Republican, but does not vote it, and a member of many Clubs. He is an ardent prohibitionist. We have often heard him say, "Down with liquor" following it with a terse, "Here's How!" Libraries are his forte. When he assumed control of the C. C. Library it was very difficult to find anything one wanted. Now with the aid of his new arrangement, and a tricky new card index, it's impossible. The Doc, one day finding himself placed in the embarrassing position of having a man come in to call on him in the Club rooms he did not wish to see said hoarsely to his Secretary, "Where will I hide". To which the young man yelled, "Hide in the card index, nobody's ever been able to find other fellow talk and eating only to the extent of mathematically figured calories. Most lofty ambition, to be elected a member of the Hot Stove League, from which he has been barred until he will agree to be inoculated with permanent tetanus germs.

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 7 West 42nd St., New York City.

WHAT SHALL WE COLLECT?

By JOHN N. LUFF.

The day has passed when a man could call himself a philatelist when he had filled many of the spaces in a printed album or, expanding into blank albums, had added some shades, blocks, cancellations, etc. Today the collector who hopes to interest us, must not only have things to show us, but things to tell us. He must bring the results of study and the stamps to illustrate it. There may yet be a few bold spirits who attempt general collecting. For such an undertaking they must have both courage and wealth. But most of us have realized that if we hope to collect successfully and in a way to interest ourselves and others, we must confine our endeavors to restricted fields. A few undertake a group of countries, most collectors take only one country, and some limit their efforts to one issue. There are also collectors of special subjects, as air post stamps, war issues, and such.

When a collector has passed the point of gathering every stamp that comes his way and when he has decided that he must select some object and devote his energies exclusively to it, he faces the problem of selection. Where shall the average collector who can afford to spend a moderate amount place his choice? He is first confronted by two great groups, old issues and new or, in a general way, the stamps of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Most people who wish to gather stamps of historical interest and for purposes of study, turn instinctively to the older issues. What chance has one in that field today? It must be admitted that the stamps of the old issues have been so much studied and written about that opportunity for research and new discoveries has greatly diminished. The old things have become scarce and expensive as compared with modern issues. Old stamps probably suffer more than most old things from wear and tear. Students have gathered and removed from the market great quantities of the issues they are investigating. Wealthy collectors seem always ready to pay high prices for scarce and desirable stamps and collectors of moderate means cannot compete with them. All these things make the nineteenth century a difficult field for the average stamp collector.

What then of the twentieth century? Its stamps are more plentiful—some call them super-abundant—and quantity may often be had for a small amount of money. Do they offer a field for study? Occasionally, but usually among surcharged stamps; and many people dislike surcharges. In the early days of philately surcharged stamps were seldom issued and, therefore, were welcomed by collectors. There was a legitimate reason for them. They usually indicated a shortage that had to be met by a makeshift. Frequently such issues were made in remote countries and the supply was exhausted before the issue became known to collectors. Hence, they were regarded as desirable. But things are different now. Shortages can be foreseen and should be prevented by advance orders for regular stock. Today, provisional issues frequently indicate that a government is hard up and desires to fill an empty treasury or that officials are inefficient and have neglected to make adequate provision for the future needs of the post-office. Sometimes one surcharged issue follows another until collectors are wearied and disgusted. Not infrequently we hear of the scarcer stamps of a provisional issue being bought up by officials and post-office employees with a view to resale at a profit. This is not conducting the post-office as an agency for the service of the people but as a scheme to make money for insiders.

The stamps of the twentieth century have been subject to spasms of popularity. At first, they were favored because the dividing line of the centuries seemed to mark a suitable place to drop the difficult old issues and take up the new ones with their possibilities. But there was little difficulty in gathering the new stamps and a lack of interest in them after they had been acquired. Then came war issues, armistice and reconstruction issues, etc. None of them seemed to hold the interest of collectors. Something is lacking. What is it? One trouble seems to be that usually very little effort is needed to secure the stamps. An order is placed with a dealer for all new issues. There are periodical deliveries, the stamps are placed in albums, and then there is nothing to do but wait for the next lot. No study to learn what exists, no pleasure of the hunt for missing stamps, no glow at finding them. It is as tame as taking in the milk and the morning newspaper that have been left at the door.

Speculation has done much to injure the stamps of the twentieth century; not alone speculation by governments and officials but by collectors themselves. It is unfortunate that too many seem more interested in what a stamp is worth in the market than in what they may learn from it. Their attention is directed to the price columns in the catalog and not to the stamps. They apparently do not know or care anything about the history of an issue, the details of manufacture, the variations that may be found in the designs, and similar things that interest the student. The speculator knows little or nothing beyond the cost of a stamp and the amount he hopes to get when he sells it. He is encouraged by reports of sudden advances in value of a few things and, hoping for the same result with many more, he rushes to buy everything at its first appearance. Occasionally he has a bit of luck, but in seeking it he usually loads his collection with worthless and trashy issues, made to sell to such eager buyers as himself and resulting in eventual losses. If he would read a few good stamp journals he would find facts about many modern issues that should teach him to let them alone. Of course, collectors have themselves to blame when they do not give careful consideration to stamps before they invest in them. So long as they rush blindly to purchase everything that is offered, they must expect to get "stung" occasionally. It is not necessary to have everything and completeness is not essential to an interesting and informative collection. Why do collectors make a fetish of completeness and follow blindly what they conceive to be its dictates? There has not been any legislation that requires a stamp collection to be complete. The man who elects to collect the stamps of a certain period or group often fails to acquire all of them. Then why should he not begin with the intention to collect certain things and reject others? By doing this he will be able to gather things worth while and avoid those of less merit.

The prime object of stamps should be to pay postage, not to make money for impecunious governments or speculating officials. When collectors realize this and decide to buy legitimate issues and refuse those made for gain, it may improve philatelic conditions. When we learn to collect stamps issued because they are needed to pay postage and pass by most of the commemorative, exhibition, charity and other advertising and money-seeking issues, we will improve our collections and spare our purses. And it is possible that failure to make large sales may discourage a few countries from making unnecessary issues. But, says someone, why should stamp collectors find fault if a government makes frequent changes in its stamps and multiplies varieties? The stamps are for the use of the people of the country and are not the affair of collectors in other lands. This statement might be acceptable if it were always true. But we not infrequently have evidence that stamp issues are not made to meet postal needs but because it is known that collectors will buy them in large quantities and thus bring much money into the cash box. We do not protest against legitimate issues but merely against those that are palpably money-making schemes.

In the end we get back to the question: What shall we collect? The answer seems to be: Collect anything that pleases you and that you can afford. Remember that one of the principal reasons for collecting is to give yourself pleasure. Collect carefully, study your stamps seriously, and if you learn something, write it down and give it to the editor of a philatelic journal. Thus you will add the goodwill of one man to the benefits you should have derived from your stamps.

SAVING STAMP STICKERS.

By HARRY M. KONWISER, F. H. S. L.

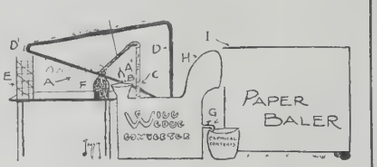
Housewives and housemaids will soon be compelled to omit their ranting remarks re those sticky bits of paper that are developed around the house when stamp-albuming is at its work.

The drear cry in the dark, in Philately, for lo, these many years, has been not the defects in the annual price-list of the original Scott's successors, but the tiny stickers, mounts, pasters, hinges or whate'er you call them.

Anyway, howl no more, dear ladies. The worst is past. The future shines brightly before you. The lips of unremembered blame, the questioners of the belated hours; the women folks, yes, they need cavil no more. The epic of the pieces of stickers never having been writ, needs no Dryden or Milton now.

Long desire has tasted the fruits of accomplishment, as the finished writers might put it. But—

The word-saving ideal of stampdom, the idea of saving the stickers, is due to the undoubted genius of one William Wedge, an inventive sort of cuss, who for years has made his vocal habitat with the writer, but this parasite has at last tasted of the fruit that only the genius folks eat and now has builded a philatelic pyre and the flames have reached the skies and only pleasant thoughts are to be wept.



Anyway, the invention not only saves the stickers but puts them in a baler, after properly separating the chemical contents matter. Roughly, here is the operation:

Assuming the stamp-sticking is being done on a table, you first place a sheet of cardboard (prepared by the terrific brain of W. Wedge) on the table. This is where you do your stuff, as Friend Toasty would say. As you discard the tiny pieces of paper they do not fall on the floor. They remain on the paper, which is a sort of paper magnet. (Wedge calls this sheet the Clew-Ark. Says the word is from the Gaelic, meaning One-Way, like stamp dealers' thoughts.)

But this is not all. Merely saving the stamp stickers from falling on the carpet or rug is not all. The inventor, having put his practical mind to work—a rare thought with William—wanted to prove he was quite sane, so he invented an apparatus, to direct the small discarded stamp sticker to drop (oh, quite wonderfully automatic) into a hopper, where the gum is first extracted and fed into a handy non-breakable bottle. A further evolutionary process saves the watermark, seen in some of these stickers; a third saves the chemical contents matter that went into paper-making, and the very last process saves the remaining paper, feeding it into a baler of 200 pound solidity. Of course the glaze cover will also be saved and sold.

Could anything be more stupendous? Has anything more wonderful been done for Philately since the boy dealers of other days acquired their Divine Right to everything in sight?

The amount of money to be saved is staggering. The total amount of harsh words that will never be uttered is beyond continents.

KEY TO WILL WEDGE STICKER SAVER.

Presenting the entire outfit as it looks from the exterior. We do not wish at this time to show the mechanism, except to prospective investors.

The object at extreme left is an ordinary table or desk.

A—Oscillating "paper magnet".
A—Hinge withdrawn from magnet by converter suction intake.
B—Opening for converter suction intake.
C—Siphon for drawing off original gum.
D—Conveyor belt for watermarks.
D—Conveyor belt discharge point.
E—Reinforced steel watermark container.
F—Special O. G. container of flint glass.
G—Fawcett.
H—Converter discharger and blower.
I—Glass paper baler (200 lb. capacity).

Note:—Container for chemical contents of paper should be of pottery.
Patent may be applied for.
Original process claimed.

[Note:—Post-office Mauritius and all imperforate issues before 1850, with full margins, unused with gum will be accepted at face value in subscribing for stock in our concern.]

Of course Will Wedge has applied for patents, and has secured sixteen direct patents. There is a hitch on one, the idea of saving watermarks, exclusively. (The Government officials seem to believe that because these patents apply to stamps and because the said Gov. issues stamps with watermarks, there may be an infringement on the Gov. rights on stamps.)

Naturally an idea of this sort, startling, of course; wonder stunt of Philately, will revolutionize the hobby. No present dealer in stickers need fear the loss of business because the Will Wedge Stamp Sticker Saver will be leased out to any and every responsible dealer applying for membership. These dealers will cooperate and after the first fifteen licenses are granted by Will Wedge, the fifteen license holders, will have the right to reject or accept any further members to their group. Of course the license holders will pay a certain sum per annum to Will Wedge. I asked him to make this sum at least ten thousand per year but Wedge drew my attention to the fact he was dealing with big stamp dealers, not regular business men, so he made the sum five hundred dollars per membership. So Wedge is assured an income of seventy-five hundred dollars per year.

Of course the general philatelic public must be let in on this wonderful thing—not only as sticker-buyers-who-save-their stickers, but as investors. So a plan has been evolved to sell a part of the authorized stock of the proposed Will Wedge Save-the-Stamp-Stickers Corporation, and at the present moment the writer has been asked to serve as President of the Corporation. The other officers are all members of the Hot Stove League. Shares of stock, you see, therefore, will be well-protected and will sell at One Dollar the share, till next March when the price will advance. Just eight thousand shares will be sold and these will go only to real philatelists, who are expected to stay dumb after acquiring ownership, just as you do when joining most stamp associations.

Remember: a wonderful invention, already marketed, already earning money and just eighty thousand shares to be sold and best of all a Board of Officers consisting of the entire membership of the Hot Stove League.

THE 1926 INTERNATIONAL STAMP EXPOSITION

And The Opportunity It Offers To Advertise Philately.

By H. L. LINDQUIST.

The International Stamp Exposition which will be held at the Grand Central Palace in New York City, October, 1926, will unquestionably be the greatest event of its kind in the history of Philately. At its head is Charles Lathrop Pack, the recognized leader in American philately, and serving with him are practically all of the outstanding collectors and dealers in this country. It is doubtful if any other enterprise could muster such an impressive board of distinguished business and professional men.

The Exposition of itself will do much to stimulate interest in collecting as it will cause many of our advanced collectors to groom their collections for exhibition with renewed interest and attract the attention of untold thousands of non-collectors to a hobby that appeals to such a noteworthy group of people.

But the Big Opportunity which this Exposition presents is that of organizing and promoting an International Publicity Campaign on a scale never before possible. The details of organizing and financing such a campaign could well be undertaken by the promoters of the Exposition and enable them to sponsor the most constructive piece of work ever attempted in this field.

The most practicable way to organize for such a campaign would be on the basis of a "News Syndicate" with a Central Office in charge of a competent manager which would act as a Clearing House for all matter to be used.

This Syndicate would departmentize its activities into several divisions such as: Tmely News Releases, Daily Short Stories, Feature Stories, Special Stories, Radio Releases and School and Club Talks.

Each of these divisions is designed to reach a different class of publication. The Timely News Releases based upon such outstanding events as the Ferrary Sales would no doubt be acceptable to agencies, such as the Associated Press and the various local City Press Associations, and in this way secure a wide distribution with comparatively little effort.

The Daily Short Stories would be intended for the daily newspapers, particularly in the smaller towns, and would be supplied without charge to all who would use them. These could be sent out monthly or semi-monthly with daily release dates attached.

The Feature Stories would be intended primarily for the Sunday Newspaper Magazine Supplements and should be well illustrated. These should be written by experienced writers and could possibly be sold at space rates.

The Special Stories would be written on order for the more important weekly and monthly magazines. To put these over would require literary talent of a high order but if based on the important personalities connected with the hobby several such stories might be placed.

The Radio Releases would be designed to reach the hundreds of small stations throughout the country. The wonderful success made by Mr. E. B. Power with the larger stations should offer an entering wedge with these smaller stations and the idea would be to supply prepared talks for a local philatelist to deliver over his local station. Arrangements to offer packets of stamps and albums at a nominal charge could be made.

The School and Club Activities would be in the nature of booklets showing how to organize local groups and consist of prepared talks to be delivered by a local philatelist willing to undertake the work.

There are other divisions that would develop with the progress of the work but it can be seen that those suggested would cover about every form of publicity suitable for the purpose.

The biggest problem would be to secure sufficient material for all of these releases but I am convinced that this could be done by proper organization. It would be manifestly impossible to finance a staff at the Central Office capable of turning this out themselves and it is the thought therefore to have none of it done at the headquarters unless it be an occasional Timely News Release. The main office, possibly consisting of a manager and two stenographers, would be charged with the responsibility of securing the necessary material, with editing it, putting it in proper form for release and in establishing the necessary channels for its release.

To secure 300 Short Stories as a basis for a daily release I suggest that 100 writers be approached with the request to each write three such stories. Then pass these on to the editors of the various philatelic magazines for editing before finally passing to the Syndicate for release. It would require considerable correspondence to accomplish this but I am convinced that it would be possible to secure such a volume of material in a comparatively short time.

Feature Stories and News Releases could be written by trained newspaper men who would require compensation for their efforts, but a large share of this compensation would be secured direct from the publications which used them.

Special Articles would require "Names" as well as writing ability but here again the stories would be salable and as they would be built around personalities, the financing would not be as great a problem as the placing.

A fund of $10,000 would be sufficient to organize such an undertaking and finance it for one year, as outlined. The direct results in increased sales by the dealers could conceivably be sufficient to justify its existence on this basis alone—but the indirect results would be even further reaching. Such a campaign, properly undertaken, might easily mark the high spot in philately so that in future years all philatelic events would be referred to as "Before" or "After" the New York Exposition.

Whether such an elaborate campaign is undertaken or not the 1926 Exposition will be of such importance that every philatelist should become a member of the "Association for Stamp Exhibitions, Inc." which has it in charge. The dues are but $2.00 per year and your check for $4.00 sent to the treasurer, Theodore E. Steinway, 109 East 14th St., New York City, will enroll you for 1925-1926 and carry your membership over the Exposition period.

EDITORIAL.

My Idea of the Ideal Weekly.

Being editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY for a single issue has its drawbacks as well as its advantages, for it is inadvisable to even attempt to incorporate many of the ideas we have in mind. However, we can make a start by telling you what we would like to do and then doing as much of this as is possible.

In the first place we would like to make some sweeping typographical changes in an effort to "brighten up" the paper. On the first page for instance we would have an artist work out a heading that would retain the style that is now so universally known but which would be more artistic and unified; we would box each advertisement separately, and start off the leading article with a snappy heading, the first few lines in 10 point type, double column. This is designed to get you to start reading the article before you realize it.

Throughout the paper we would continue to box the individual ads and arrange them in balanced columns. The headings for the articles would be in a bolder type but varied in size to indicate the relative importance of the various articles and departments. We would use illustrations very liberally and set aside an occasional full page to picture philatelists and events that are in the news columns on the order of the successful news sheets in the daily field.

Editorial Changes.

Editorially we would departmentize the paper so that every branch of collecting would receive its proper share of attention and MEKEEL'S WEEKLY would become a veritable storehouse of contemporary history.

Feature articles on particular countries would be regular features but the endeavor would be to make them suggestive as to method as well as informative on particular stamps and issues. It would record the methods of collecting in our day and age.

But I would leave the "heavy" articles to the monthlies and quarterlies and confine my efforts largely to articles of a timely interest.

The New Issue Chronicle would be strengthened to the nth degree. Possibly little could be added to Philip Ward's splendid work on U. S., but among the foreign stamps I would see to it that the "quantities issued" of every stamp that came out were regularly published. Many of the older publications owe their entire claim to survive to this important feature.

The collector of Precancels, Air Mails, Postal Permits, Side Lines, etc., would be given recognition through a regular department published once or twice a month as required to keep pace with it. Coming auctions would be heralded; past auctions reviewed not alone for prices but as an indication of the trend of the times.

Philatelic literature would be reviewed in such a manner that our readers could secure the important details of the articles from the review itself.

Above all we would endeavor to record passing events as thoroughly and accurately as Pepy's Diary. Every important find, every exhibit, every annual meeting or election, every discussion brought up in any of our contemporaries would be fully recorded. Prominent philatelists would be pictured. In fact, if it "happened" it would be in MEKEEL'S. We would endeavor to make all of this matter "readable" by presenting some of it in lighter vein but it would be dependable and a safe guide for students to follow.

How To Do It.

Possibly the above sounds like a program too ambitious to be carried out completely but it is more a matter of planning and organizing than of space and effort. In this issue I have tried to secure material that would illustrate what I have in mind. Ricketts Reviews really tell what the articles in the various papers contain; the Ferrary Sales, the most important in the history of philately, are covered fully by Toaspern; the agitation which Gossip has been waging against the Scott Catalog has created sufficient interest to justify the presentation of the views of the leading agitators, Percy McGraw Mann and Chas. S. Thompson, and besides this I have tried to tell the other side of the story; "The Philatelic Lobby" supplies a place to briefly mention every event of philatelic importance. The other articles will speak for themselves and illustrate only partially how I would endeavor to carry out the plans outlined.

"The Collectors Club Philatelist."

As editor of The Collectors Club Philatelist I cannot overlook this opportunity of securing some free advertising for it. As most of our readers know, this magazine is published quarterly in the months of January, April, July and October by the Collectors Club of New York City. It is edited from a totally different point of view than that outlined for a weekly. The principal object is to publish articles of permanent value and of an authoritative nature, but which are written in a non-technical and readable style. In addition to this it naturally reflects the progress of the Collectors Club, which every advanced collector should join.

The January, 1925, issue contains some matter of especial value and interest. There is an article illustrated with two supplements on the plating of the U. S. 10c, 1847, by Elliott Perry, unquestionably one of the best articles on United States stamps that has ever appeared; Toaspern records some new discoveries in the Bank Note Issues of Nova Scotia; Harry M. Konwiser presents a valuable article on Danish Cancellations illustrated with nearly 100 designs; Roy C. Frank has an article on, "Early Bar Precancels" which is also fully illustrated with the different types. These are only a few high spots among other valuable articles which space does not permit us to even mention. Back numbers of this publication bring a premium so we advise you to get on the subscription list while this issue is still available. The subscription price is $2.00 per year. Sample copies are 50c.

BERMUDA NOTES

By BENEDICT PRIETH.

The 3 pence denomination, Bermuda printed in blue, has just been put on sale in this colony, superseding the 3 pence violet on yellow (Scott's No. 45). The list of current (Ship Type) stamps on script watermark paper therefore stands as follows:—

2 pence grey.
2½ " olive green.
3 " blue.
4 " red on yellow.
6 " claret.

No change of watermark in the farthing stamp is likely to occur for some time to come. The 1 shilling stamp will probably be superseded at an early date by a printing in orange brown.

WELLS, FARGO & CO.
HANDSTAMPS AND FRANKS
USED IN THE
UNITED STATES
The Dominion of Canada and Foreign Countries
By Dr. Victor M. Berthold

We are pleased to be able to offer to the readers of Scott's Monthly Journal, a comprehensive and authoritative article upon the above subject, so important to philately and yet so little known.

Dr. Berthold has treated this subject in a most thorough and interesting fashion. Thanks to the great efforts he has made in this too long neglected branch of philately, there will exist, when the last installment of this article appears, a standard work upon Wells Fargo & Co. Franks which will make it possible for anyone to take up this fascinating branch of philately; which, in our opinion, will accord these Franks the same importance generally conceded to U. S. Locals.

The introductory installment appeared in our January Journal. The main part of the article will start in the February number and will continue for about six months. We have increased the printing order for our February Monthly Journal, but cannot guarantee to have a copy for you unless you notify us at once that you wish a copy reserved.

The simplest way to assure yourself of receiving this series complete from February, is to send $1.00 for a year's subscription.

Scott Stamp & Coin Co.
33 West 44th Street NEW YORK CITY

The January number is sold out, but numerous requests for copies are arriving daily. If sufficient requests are received we will consider reprinting this entire article in pamphlet form. Kindly advise us in case you are interested. [81

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP — JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM.

By PERCY MCG. MANN.

Several articles re the inconsistencies of the Standard Postage Stamp Catalog have appeared from time to time in philatelic periodicals under my name. Space will not permit at this time a complete recapitulation of the faults which have been found with the Catalog. Suffice to state, preparatorily, that the remarks have never been made by me with the intention of "running down" the Catalog. In every instance where I have criticized, actual inconsistencies have been pointed out. These inconsistencies have been shown to those who could probably effect a change, thus bettering the lists, but there are so many changes that should be made that almost an entire re-writing of the Catalog would be necessary to make it "up to snuff."

On several occasions when the defects in the Catalog have been pointed out the publishers thereof have either made corrections or have added notes in an attempt to improve their product. The larger the Catalog grows the greater the apparent inconsistencies. It would take some time and effort on the part of an otherwise unemployed philatelic expert to write a new catalog or compile a complete list of the inconsistencies in the present one.

When asked, as I have been in this instance, to write an article of "Constructive Criticism," I can only think of the one word which covers the whole subject of the Standard Postage Stamp Catalog. The word has been used many times already. Inconsistencies.

My almost continuous work of arranging and mounting collections has brought every number and sub-number of all the countries before me many times. Under the conditions, the mistakes and errors and inconsistent lists are presented to my gaze every day. On the other side, and I speak frankly and thankfully, I would have had a most difficult time in the arranging and mounting of collections without the Catalog before me.

The greatest error of all is not entirely the fault of the publishers. This blame can be laid to the hands of the earlier collectors, but this has been continued and is made more of today than ever. It is the question of the watermarks!

In watermarks we have something we cannot see unless we go to work and damage our stamps by turning them up to look under them. This procedure breaks the perforation frames of the stamps. Even then we have difficulty in distinguishing the watermarks. We proceed to immerse them in carbona or benzine, which also tends to ruin their condition.

Watermarks play a too important part in our stamps. Long lists of identically the same stamps but with a differing—sometimes minutely differing—watermark take up too much space. Particularly is this true with the British Colonial lists; but old as well as new Great Britain are going to clutter the lists of the future unless a halt is called and the publishers decide to correct them. By this it is not meant to ignore the watermarks altogether, but, as previously stated, they play a too important part, which should be curtailed.

The time has arrived when there are enough stamps to collect without searching for watermarks. At best the varying watermarks are not even paper varieties, although rightfully included with a consideration of the paper when studying stamps. Taking the current stamps of Great Britain in the Catalog we are now confronted with a repetition in the greater part of the 1912-13 series. At first: "Wmkd. Crown and G. R." (Inconsistency: the watermark is crown and script GvR repeated in vertical rows.) Further on we see: "Wmkd. Crown and G. R. Multiple." (Inconsistency: the word "repeated" should have been used in the first description of the watermark as well as the "multiple" in the second.)

Great Britain No. 182 and No. 184 "Unwatermarked": an inconsistency. These two stamps come from edges of the sheet which happened to be unwatermarked. Nowhere else in the Catalog are such variations noted, to my knowledge, or if noted they are not listed. A columnar inch of space is thus utilized unnecessarily.

Coming to the current issue of Great Britain we find: "Wmkd. Crown and Block G V R Multiple." In the watermark the "v" is smaller than the "G" and "R". (Inconsistency: why the "V" in this instance if not in the preceding instances?)

Fortunately for this article but unfortunately for catalogers, the watermark in the paper of the current stamps of Great Britain has been changed again, and we will probably now see something like this in the next Catalog: "Wmkd. Crown and Block G V R Multiple Closer Together."

There are probably over three thousand lines in the Catalog given over to the description of watermarks. One of the sensible innovations that could be accomplished in rewriting would be the contraction of the importance of the watermark. At best, as said before, but worth repeating, why collect something that when a collection is displayed only tends to tire the sight in looking at the same thing over and over again and not being able to see what one is looking at without turning over a stamp, thus causing damaged edges?

The watermarks in their variations could be a or b varieties, but I suggest leaving them out altogether as separate lists, because with the exception of the stamps of Great Britain and its Colonies, watermarks do not play a very important part, and even then they play too important a part in the make-up of the Catalog.

Permit me to quote from a letter written to John N. Luff, back in 1918: "It would give many of us great pleasure to see a simplified catalog. None are perfect, but the best for the specialist has been Kohl's, which, with the aid given by Senf's, Gibbons', Yvert & Tellier's and Scott's, is most agreeable to me in my line of studies. And look at the size of it! The trouble is: catalog publishers endeavor to cater to both the embryonic and specializing collectors and in this endeavor they fail—the specialistic matter confuses the beginner and at the same time is too incomplete to satisfy the specialist. The catalog does not tally up with the album and this adds to the confusion."

Still quoting: "As the American specialist has no American catalog which comes up to his requirements he uses his influence to have his pet specialities included in the Standard—Scott's, and in this way, from year to year, specialities

UNITED STATES COIL STAMPS

Did you ever realize that the coil stamps are just as much a regular emission as those issued in sheet form and that the fact now being appreciated has resulted in an unusual demand for these varieties. The stock of no dealer is large because when most of them were current, few were interested in them. They are given main numbers in the catalogue and there is a space for them in the album. In other words, a good demand with a small supply—What's the answer—prices are bound to advance. I recommend fine coil pairs or strips as an investment. At present, I can offer in single copies:

	Cat.	Net
1908—Sidewise coil, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (348-351)	$1.60	$1.25
1908—Sidewise, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (352-355)	1.60	1.25
1910—Sidewise Perf. 12, 1c, 2c (385-386)	.55	.45
1910—Endwise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c (390-391)	.23	.20
1910—Sidewise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (392-96)	.86	.65
1912—Endwise & Sidewise 1c & 2c (410-413)	.40	.30
1914—Both ways 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (441-447)	2.36	1.75
1915—Same rotary (448-458)	1.06	1.00
1915—2c Imperf. rotary (459)	9.00	7.50
1916—Both ways 1c-10c (486-497)	.85	.60
1917—Endwise 1c, 2c; Sideways 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c	..	.35
One each of the above 52 varieties	..	15.00

Those buying the entire 52 varieties will receive 3 other die coil varieties not included in above list. Can furnish pairs and strips of four at the same rate. Line and joint varieties will be furnished without extra charge when in stock. Can also furnish many of the other coils, but have too few to list. In the market to buy all of the 1902 to 1910 varieties, No. 445, No. 449 Dies I and II, No. 453 Die II, Nos. 456 to 459, No. 491 Die II and anything else nice in coils. Have a good stock of paste up strips with plate numbers for those interested.

If you have omitted coils from your collection, now is the time to get them. A place in Scott's album for every one of the above listed stamps.

Can also furnish all of the booklet panes, as well as most regular varieties in blocks and singles from 1890 to date. And a good stock of earlier issues, too. May I have your U. S. want list and please do not forget that little reference if unknown to me—bank reference preferred.

"Sepcimen" Department Errors.

Considerable interest has been taken in recent months in the Department stamps overprinted "Specimen", for it is realized that these were issued along with the special prints and are to be considered in the same category in every way. It seems that in the printing of these stamps a very odd error occurred in some of the first sheets, wherein the overprint is spelled "Sepcimen". This mistake must have been caught at an early period for we find but few of the varieties with this error of surcharge. Scott's specialized catalog lists thirty, which were known at the time the publication went to press and this includes six Agriculture, one Interior, three Justice, four Navy, two Post Office, six State and eight War. Since that time three new varieties have been discovered, namely, the 3c Jüstice, the 1c Navy on hard paper and the 10c Post Office. It is odd in this array, which includes thirty-three in all, that there are none known of the Treasury and Executive Department.

I believe the above list to be complete insofar as our present knowledge is concerned but if our readers have any other varieties, I sincerely trust that I might be informed.

Air Mail Stamps.

During a recent visit to Washington, I made further inquiries regarding the proposed air mail stamps of larger size and find that the department has temporarily postponed consideration of such an emission. In the Postal Bulletin of January 22nd, however, the department calls the attention of the users of the air mail service to the fact that it is advisable to especially mark the envelope in order to attract the attention of the postal clerk. Back in November they recommended red, white and blue envelopes but have no doubt realized that this is not always possible for the casual user and have, therefore, suggested two horizontal lines in blue across the envelope with the words "Via Air Mail" between the lines, spaced about one and one-eighth inches apart, in addition to two similar lines vertically. The English have been using the single blue lines both ways for a number of years to indicate a registered letter. The department suggests that care be exercised to see that the blue pencil or printed lines are uniformly placed and that they do not cover the address or return card.

Sesqui-Centennial Emission.

Under date of February 3rd the Mayor of Philadelphia announced the appointment of Colonel David C. Collier of San Diego, Calif., as Director General of the proposed Sesqui-Centennial Exposition to be held in Philadelphia during 1926. It is understood that Colonel Collier, who also managed and directed the Panama-Pacific Exposition, will be prepared by March 15th to lay before the people of Philadelphia a definite plan for a dignified and adequate celebration of the 150th Anniversary of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence.

There has been considerable delay and agitation due to the fact that influential leaders of Philadelphia have had decided opinions as to what the celebration should be, but it is now hoped that with the new appointment, events leading to the celebration will begin to take definite shape.

Under the circumstances it will not be surprising to learn in short order that the new director is in communication with Washington relative to the Sesqui-Centennial issue of postage stamps, which we discussed in this column in our issue of February 2nd.

1c Green 1922 Oddity.

Mr. Gilbert M. Burr has sent me a block of stamps from the northwest pane of sheet No. 15050 of the current 1c green, wherein the engraver in marking the plate with the vertical and horizontal guide lines permitted the graver to slip on the horizontal line with the result that we get a short line running about half the distance under the hundredth stamp in the pane. This variety is constant so that the printing is not due simply to foreign matter upon the plate.

ALGERIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 65c rose, Sower type, stamp of France with the surcharge "Algerie" in blue.

-One of our stamp collecting col- gues in the Massachusetts Legislature, resentative Albert H. Hall, has shown us a booklet containing a history of the don publishing house of Simpkins. e of the pages of illustrations shows elopes strangely addressed in other ntries but which reached their desti- on. One of these started from Phila- lphia addressed to Simpkin Marshall & 31 Beekman St., New York, and was addressed by the N. Y. post-office to don. The cover bears our familiar nt green stamp, and a London post- k dated 1881. The Philadelphia post- k does not bear a year date. Evi- ently the firm of Simpkins has treas- red this cover for more than forty years an example of their world-wide re- n.—W. O. W.

REVIEW OF PHILATELIC PUBLICATIONS.

By WILLIAM R. RICKETTS, F. R. P. S. L.

STANLEY GIBBONS MONTHLY JOURNAL. Edited by L. W. Fulcher, B.Sc., F. R. P. S. and Stanley Phillips. New Series, Vol. II, No. 2 (Old Series, Vol. XXIV). November, 1924:

First Issue of Sierra Leone and Its Post Office. By the Rev. C. S. Morton, M. A. (The beginning of a series.) It begins with a "Foreword" concerning an article Le Timbre-Poste by Monsieur Paul Tripet, in which he tried to prove that the 6d imperforate was the first stamp and not an essay or proof. Three letters are quoted which prove that they first appeared in 1859 and not in 1860. The First Sixpenny Stamp, under this head is given a series of letters, concerning compulsory prepayment of postage between this Colony and the Mother Country, between the Governor, Stephen Hill and Lord Stanley and others. This having been agreed to on Oct. 12, 1858, the contract was awarded to Messrs. De La Rue and the first stamps left England, June 24, 1859, and were put on sale about September 21, 1869.

Stamps of Portuguese India—First Issue. By J. N. Marsden. (This is an "addendum to Harrison & Napier's 'Portuguese India' published in 1893.) He shows that a complete collection Portuguese India must contain ½a, 1a, 2a and 4a, possibly other values, of the 1865 Issue of India. Single copies can be distinguished by the postmark, generally an oval of fourteen horizontal lines with any figure from 1 to 5 in centre. Then follows four schedules of domestic and foreign postal rates and decrees. He points out that there are no varieties of type but speaks of the relative position of the separate figures, especially the 10 and 20 reis and also the reason for the thin and thick paper varieties.

First Type of Greece. By Brig.-General W. Dickson. A discussion on the difference between the Paris and Athens prints listed under eight heads, A to H. He takes exception to Gibbons catalogue list and gives his reasons why.

International Philatelic Exhibition at the Hague (6th to 17th September, 1924). By Francis P. Renault, F.R.P.S.L. The most notable stamps shown: Holland, 1852, 15c orange, quarter sheets; Error, 35c of the Jubilee Series, imperforate horizontally, 2½c green surcharged 3c (error due to the fact that among the post cards surcharged 3c a private post card with this stamp received the surcharge); De Ruyter stamps with false surcharge 50c and 1 gulden. China: errors, vertical pairs imperforate between, 1897 issue: ½c on 3c and 10c on 12c; 1899-02 issue: 1c, 2c, 5c, 16c, also 1 and 2c with the Republican overprint of Shanghai. Collection of Forgeries of Portugal and Colonies of Mr. George, of Lisbon, showing rare varieties with inverted overprint, in wrong colors, etc. A special set of stamps was issued for this exhibition: 10c green, 15c gray-green, 35c orange.

Correspondence. Turkish Provisionals G. A. Higlett. The "Bisected" Issues of 1887-1888: 10p on half of 20p (1884) 20p on half of 1 pias (1884), 1 piastre on half of 2 pias (84), 1 piastre on half of 2 pias (1886), 2 pias on half of 5 pias (86), also 2 in red on 5 pias blue-green (86) these were never issued officially; "Bagdad Provisionals of 1890-1892: Prepared and issued at Bagdad only, and not at Constantinople.

Correspondence. Argentine "Rivadavias". Emilio Diena points out that in Mr. F. J. Peplow's article in the October number on, "The Plates of the Rivadavia Stamps of the Argentine Republic" the plates of these stamps prepared for recess printing by electrolytic process, was not the first instance such a process was used, but that six plates out of thirteen used in printing the Sicilian stamps were also prepared by this process.

AMERICAN PHILATELIST. Official Journal of the American Philatelic Society. Edited by Mr. Adolph D. Fennel, 807 Second National Bank Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio. Published by and in the Interest of the American Philatelic Society. Vol. XXXVIII, No. 2 and No. 3. November and December, 1924:

"Res Adjudicata". By John A. Klemann. (This has to do with the Grinnell vs. Klemann controversy, concerning the "Hawaiian Islands, Missionary Stamps".) Mr. George H. Grinnell is still trying to prove that his "Missionary Stamps" are originals and not forgeries, through newspaper and Philatelic journals. He pins his faith on an affidavit of the Rev. Oliver P. Emerson, of Boston, Mass., in which he says that the handwriting found on the back of a pair of the 2 cent very closely resembles my mother's and may be hers; the writing on the back of a piece of paper bearing the 5 cent: very closely resembles my father's handwriting, in other words the Rev. Mr. Emerson is not sure of anything, and so lets himself out. Mr. Klemann goes on to show that these so called "Missionary Stamps" are rank forgeries, and at the end adds: the paper on which they were printed was made by a process not "known" or "invented" prior to 1870. This article is very valuable to collectors of Hawaiian Islands, not only on account of disposing of this controversey, but also for the illustrations of letters and ornaments (enlarged) of the originals and forgeries. This article should be in large letters in all indexes or bibliographies of Hawaiian Stamps.

3c Stamp of the United States 1851-1857 Issue. By Dr. Carroll Chase. (Continuation of an article on this stamp that has been appearing in this journal for some time.) In the November No., pp. 74 to 76: Original Plate Proofs, this is an Addenda to "Mason's List" published in 1911;—Specimen Copies, these have never been listed;—Special Printings, there is a chance that these may exist.—December No., pp. 133 to 137: Rates, Domestic and Foreign, shows how these stamps were used;—Bisected Stamps, quite a list of these with illustrations.

Afghanistan. By Col. H. Appleton. (A continued article.) This instalment deals with the Issue of 1295 (1878), Scott's Nos. 79 to 103. Same as the previous issue (1877) in design with the exception of the inner ring around the tiger head. He speaks of the plates (with 2 illustrations), Retouch of Plate B, and Forgeries. A new plate was found necessary in this year (1878) and is known as the "skeleton" Shahi issue of 1295 (ii), the design being simplified, then follows a description and also the Forgeries are listed. Part IX. The Stamps of the Amir Abdur Bahman Period 1880-1908. The Circular Series, Scott's Nos. 109 to 176. The description includes: Design, Printing, Papers, Colors, Cancellations, Used stamps, General Notes on the Stamps, Detailed Notes on the Papers. Die II One Abass of 1889-90, Description-Forgeries.

15c 1869 Invert on Cover Discovered. Eric King. Found by Mr. King in Sweden last summer. This is certainly a great find and as it is the only known one of the three errors of this issue, is certainly a very unique and valuable. It is described: "The cover bears a 3c, a 10c and a 15c, 1869, the latter being the inverted centre variety. The error is somewhat off centre but the color is fresh and bright. The 10c is well "tied on" by a cancellation consisting of thick rectangular bars arranged in the shape of a square while the 3c and 15c are just barely tied to the cover. The necessary postmarks showing the cover went through Germany are on both sides of the envelope. It is addressed to a merchant in Carlscrona, Sweden, and was mailed to him in April, 1870, found a couple of years ago among his correspondence." See Nov. No., p. 106.

LONDON PHILATELIST. Edited by Mr. Thomas William Hall and Published by The Royal Philatelic Society, London, 11 Chandos St., Cavendish Square, London, W.C. 1. Vol. XXXIII, No. 395, November, 1924:

A Study of the Early Postal Issues of Mauritius. By the Rev. C. S. Morton, M. A. This is a continued article, this instalment takes up the study of, "The Stamps Lithographed by Mr. Dardenne 1859", (1d red and 2d blue). This was a temporary issue printed locally, pending a supply of stamps from England. Items of interest: plate probably contained 48 stamps; margins between stamps very wide; numbers issued: 25,000 1d and 50,000 2d; issued Dec., 1859 and in use not later than April, 1860.

A True Account of the Discoveries at the Record Office. By Louis E. Bradbury, F.R.P.S.L. Continuation of an article begun in September No. and has to do with the ascertaining to what extent the introduction of Penny Postage in Great Britain in 1840 has been followed by a reduction of inland postage etc., in Foreign Countries. This instalment is about "South Australia" and answers a list of questions, printed in the first instalment.

The Norway International Stamp Exhibition, 1924. By Our Special Correspondent. Begun in the October No. Mr. A. J. Warren's collection of Holland and Colonies. Rare item reconstructed sheet of the first printing 1852-4 Holland without the error on 20th stamp, unknown variety, from the Ferrary collection. Herr Abr. Odfjell's wonderfully fine collection of Norway—Items: 4 skill 1863-6 whole sheet (unique); 1 skill 1872-5 whole sheet.—Other collections shown, Col. G. S. F. Napier: Greece; Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein's Cape of Good Hope, probably finest collection in the world of these stamps.

THE PROGRESS OF AERO-PHILATELY.

By GEORGE W. ANGERS.

Aero-philately, probably the newest of all phases of stamp collecting, has had in the last decade an advance that is truly phenomenal. Nor is this to be wondered at when one considers the appeal of this fascinating hobby—an appeal more strong because the carrier itself is hardly beyond its experimental stage and the flight of an airplane excites a great human interest aside from the fact of mail carrying. Moreover, the comparison of time consumed in mail delivery by the established methods, and the airmail time for the same distance, creates an interest that fascinates all who follow this newest method of postal transportation.

However, aside from these features, aero-philately is a sound investment. This is due to the fact that, especially in its earlier stages, but very few covers were carried on a flight and with the nominal loss of such pieces, an extremely small number have come down to the present day philatelists, making such, as have been preserved, most valuable.

Airmail in its infancy was merely an added attraction to the flight of airplanes at carnivals and fairs and the distances were short. In most cases where such flights were undertaken, special cancellations were arranged which proved the authenticity of the covers and enhanced their value. In the U. S. alone, approximately 76 flights of this type occurred between 1912 and 1916 for distances of from one to seventy miles.

That the value of aero-philately was quickly recognized is evidenced by the fact that in 1913 there was formed in this country a society of aero-philatelists having a membership of 30, many of whom secured collections of these pioneer covers which now are of great value.

In contrast to the early flights are the performances of recent date with which all are familiar. Since the first transcontinental airmail trip of July 1, 1924, this service has become a regular part of the U. S. postal service, transporting mail 3,300 miles in little over a day's time. Other interesting flights are, the one from Amsterdam to Batavia, Dutch East Indies, recently completed and the trip of the ZR-3 from Freidrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., U S. A., which took but 81 hours.

With the use of the air for mail carrying, increasing so rapidly, the growth of interest in Aero-philately has followed apace. The result has been the organization in England, Germany and Belgium of Societies for Aero-philatelists and more are being started.

In this country the Aero-philatelic Society of America, organized in 1923, had already 100 members and has as an honorary member, Gen. Mason Patrick, Chief of the U. S. Army Air Service. The officers are: Pres., Joseph A. Steinmetz; 1st Vice Pres., Harry A. Truby; 2nd Vice Pres., Rev. Thatcher C. Kimball; Sec., Treas. and Editor, George W. Angers; Sales Manager, William E. Beam; English Rep., William E. Hughes; French Rep., Dr. Louis Morel.

Each month the society publishes a Newsletter to circulate among its members the latest news in the philately of the air and all items which may be of particular interest to the members. The Newsletter is now publishing in serial form a History of U. S. Pioneer mail flights, which should be a distinct addition to the archives of philatelic literature.

The aims of the society are to promote interest in this branch of philately and to support the government in the expansion of the Air Mail Service.

and varieties have been included to such an extent that they threaten to crowd out legitimate collectible specimens. For instance: Foreign envelopes and postal cards, legitimate postal issues gave way for the minor varieties like U. S. 1873-79, while revenues were retained, although they are not postal issues.

"It ends by making the Standard Catalog not a catalog but a list of the dealers' specialities and from year to year revolves itself into and is modelled for whatever the Scott Co. deals in and is not exactly representative of what exists.

"I understand thoroughly that if the Catalog didn't bring in a certain amount of business, it could not be published at the reasonable price at which we have it.

"It will continue to remain as it is, a semi-specialistic catalog, and collectors will, as they have before, become used to the dropping of this and the inclusion of that—and the growling of the few old-timers will be drowned by the demands of the newcomers. Still, they will be guided by the other half dozen different catalogs.

"My own personal reflections are not in an advisory mood, as my methods are perhaps revolutionary to those of the Catalog publishers. But what I would like to see would be a Standard American Catalog, complete for the specialist and abridged for the beginner, i. e., two separate and distinct works. It would cost considerable to produce the specialized edition, but the publisher would finally be rewarded, while the simplified work would more than pay for itself. The simplified could be published each year, while the specialized could be published as an edition became exhausted. It would mean the separation of stocks, but that would be better in the long run. It would be easier to handle the simplified stock, and those who cater to the beginner (or the collector along simplified lines) would not need to worry whether he sold a scarce variety—an 'a' variety—because his simplified catalog would be his only guide. While as a guide for the specialist-dealer, a catalog for him would help him to sell his stock. Each class of dealer and collector would be satisfied. As it is, the Standard Catalog does not represent any single country for the collector to use satisfactorily as a guide."

The last sentence should be underscored! Following these remarks to John N. Luff, I pointed out to him some of the inconsistencies, quoting various issues of stamps of many countries. Finally I told him: "There is no end to the faults to be found in the Catalog as it now stands. A simplified catalog with an album matching it would be the biggest money getter in stampdom and the Scott Co. would do well in publishing it."

Mr. Luff's reply was quite satisfactory to me. I would like to quote parts of his letters to me, but I cannot do that without his permission and this I wouldn't be able to secure in time for publication in this article.

It will be seen that my criticisms have been constructive. I only look forward for the best interests for philately. It is not desirable to tear down what we have, because we seriously need what we have. Therefore, we can only continue to pick out the faults of the Catalog, until the time comes when the publishers decide to reconstruct their work to conform to the exigencies of modern collecting.

When this time comes perhaps the publishers will give us a note after No. 12 of Great Britain on page 552 to enable us to tell what a re-engraved 1d stamp is.

Perhaps when that time comes, when the stamps of a new country appear, they will be listed under the proper name of the country. For instance: Lebanon, page 770. According to the stamps themselves the name of the country is Great Lebanon.

The stamps of Great Lebanon are a continuation of the stamps of Syria and Syria-Great Lebanon. Here we have a hyphenated country, like St. Kitts-Nevis, Schleswig-Holstein, Trinidad & Tobago—in the Catalog, the stamps of St. Kitts have been taken away from St. Christopher and those of Trinidad have been taken away from Tobago, but the one of Syria-Great Lebanon have not been taken away from the Syria mother.

On page 517 we have "French Soudan—note the French spelling of Suda But on page 1301 we have the Engli "Sudan," although the word was spell "Soudan" on the 1897 issues.

While the Catalog has not reached th yet, I have seen the stamps of the ne titular country Ruanda (formerly part German East Africa) offered as stam of Ruanda Urundi, when the two wor represent the same name in two la guages. We hope the Catalog does n fall for that.

In the naming of countries Switzerla has struck the right gate; due to thr national languages, they have selected ancient tongue in which to name th country Helvetia. The catalogers cou very well follow this selection.

Reverting to Great Britain we find N 90, No. 91 and No. 92, full numbers bluish paper, with a varieties on wh paper, while No. 96, No. 108 and No. 1 full numbers are on white paper, with varieties on bluish paper. But, turn France, 1853-60, No. 15 and No. 16 a each full numbers, two different pape And incidentally the same on lilac pap is not listed at all, even as an a varie Take numbers 13 and 49 for the sa stamp on two different papers. Why a they a varieties in some countries a full numbers in others?

Back once more to Great Britain have the re-engraved No. 12 and No. 1 penny stamps as full numbers, while mention whatever is made of the engraved United States No. 499.

The inconsistencies shown here a only a few that could be enumerated— fact, I have given these here in additi to my articles in other periodicals a they are inconsistencies that have been pointed out before by me, and I ha not seen mention of them by others. T list can be continued indefinitely, b space forbids.

In conclusion, at this writing, I c only state that the Standard Catal should be gone over country by count and that all inconsistencies should corrected and the Catalog rewritten on new system—a consistent system, eith simplified or specialized, or both.

EXTRACTING THE "LOG" FROM "CATALOG".

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

Throwing the festive Hibernian con-etti is one thing: laying constructive ricks is something entirely different. he writer has been accused of the ormer, but denies the allegation and serts that his efforts have been, and e, of the constructive variety.

Being invited to contribute more of this and of brick, we submit the following chitectural suggestions of the fire-clay ariety. Criticizing various productions a favorite indoor pastime, popular or popular at all seasons, but criticism sed on sound reasons is not destructive, d while necessarily somewhat ill-tasting the person who licks the spoon, it may helpful, and eventually result in im-ovement. This seems to be the condi-on of affairs at the present time: some ople like the catalog and say so, and a w of them have reasons which are not ged by sympathy, prejudice, or self-terest: some people don't like the cata-g, and make their attitude public, and me of them have definite reasons for eir grief. The writer likes the general ake-up of our standard catalog very uch, and he dislikes some of its fea-res just as strongly. As some things ease us, there is no reason for their umeration, but those features which ndpaper our sore fingers should be soothed out if it is possible. It is the sire of the writer to treat the proposi-on in as impersonal a manner as possi-e, expressing the comments and desires others as they have come to him, and pplementing these opinions and obser-tions with his own suggestions where ch may be made.

A common criticism of collectors is at the catalog is too big. It contains 500 duodecimo pages, each of which rries two columns of tabulation in 6-int type, the lines being one and three-arters inches, or ten ems long. It is t feasible to reduce the type face be-w 6-point, as this gives twelve lines to e inch, which is as small as type can and still be easily read. But the riter has shown in a recent article in is journal that it would be possible to int three columns to the page, using em lines, if certain abbreviations are ed. This, however, would require ed-ation and study on the part of col-tors, and anything that requires effort ight defeat its own ends. Eventually e catalogue must be issued in two vol-nes, in fact, it already is, when we con-ler the S. U. S. part of it. If the ecialized portion were incorporated in volume together with foreign countries far as K, we should have the contents lit in two, and the inclusion of the U. S. portion would mollify the imitic collector sufficiently to induce m to buy both volumes without getting attack of apoplexy.

A more serious complaint is that the talog, which is supposed to be a stand-d by which one may work, does not t all stamps which have done postal ty. By this is meant adhesives. e are all aware that revenues, tele-aphs, and other kinds of stamps have en authorized for postal duty in emer-ncies. But these little half-brothers are t cataloged because the publishers do t deal in them. This is no argument, it is apparent to anyone that it is not cessary for a man to deal in anything does not fancy, while his statements, an authority, may bear just as much ight as if he sold everything in the rld. So we should say unhesitatingly at all adhesives stamps which have done stal duty should be included, while ch things as United States revenues d cut-square envelopes should be re-gated to the posterior portion of the ckage where they will not interfere th rapid reference work. Their allo-tion there would prove an added incen-e to some of the "nearer" brethren to y the second volume as well as the st, which ought to be a powerful nuniary argument in favor of such an rangement.

The objection may be made that the ok is already too big, and the inclusion the items mentioned would make it bigger, but this argument is to be met by another objection, which is that the catalog as constituted at present contains a vast number of items which are not postage stamps, because they have never done postal duty. There is always a large amount of interest attached to proofs, essays, mise-en-train, and printers waste; but no matter how earnest a man's intentions may have been, no one would call him a soldier if he had never been able to enlist, nor would he be called a war veteran if he had enlisted but received his discharge before he participated in any hostilities. And so it is with stamps. An article intended for use but never delivered, or prepared for use and never issued for that purpose, is certainly not a postage stamp. The catalog contains too many of these things, and without exception they should be eliminated, whether they may happen to be such things as the U. S. 3c scarlet, or a set of Austrian war-babies. There might have been some shadow of an excuse for these inclusions in the old days when there were comparatively few varieties of stamps, and collectors displayed an undue avidity for anything that even looked like a stamp, but there is no reason for including them now, when Memzig or Danzel or some other one-cylinder establishment can produce fifty or a hundred new postage stamps over night, and another installment the next evening. Most collectors desire completion, and they certainly cannot hope to attain it when a lot of unattainable "prepared for use but never issued" varieties are allowed to clutter up the catalogs and provide empty spaces in albums.

Another complaint often heard, is that regarding numbering. This is a hackneyed subject, as every collector knows that there are all sorts of breaks in the sequences, due sometimes to deletion, but generally to the fact that "spaces" have been left for some infant that was expected, but which the philatelic stork never delivered. A pungent example is that of the British Solomon Islands, numbers 19, 20, 24 and 27. It would be better to "close up" this series, and leave the hiatus between 22 and 28, which begins the next set. But it would be better to alter all the numbers once and for all, and prevent some of our best little timber-tops from sending in want lists for numbers which never existed. Sometimes numbers are reserved for stamps that really appear, but the arrivals are not properly noted and are given other numbers, vide Papua 1916, where we have 61, 64, and 70. The missing numbers appear in 1919 and are numbered 77 instead of 60, 78 instead of 62, 79 instead of 63, and so on, and when we pursue the subject to the end, we discover that number 70 should have been numbered 69. The writer suggests that a thorough re-numbering of all jumbled lists should take place: after all, the catalog is for the convenience of the public which pays for it as well as for the stamps it prices.

Another pertinent complaint is that regarding watermarks. These should be shown as illustrations with the stamps, as it is something more than a nuisance to scramble around looking for them in the back of the book. It might help, also, if all varieties of watermark were illustrated: quite a number are not, and the collector in such cases has to exercise an imagination when he sometimes hasn't much of that commodity to exercise. What would all those fly-speck varieties of Australian watermarks mean unless they were illustrated? Yet there are several Hungarian watermarks that are just as distinct from one another, and none of them are shown. Certainly we should have illustrations of all watermarks, and they should appear under the heading of each country, and not en masse, at the back of the book.

But the feature that seems to give most dissatisfaction is that of prices. It is not to be hoped that even two people will absolutely agree regarding the price of anything, so that it is of course foolish to expect a hundred thousand collectors to agree concerning a hundred thousand varieties of stamps. The catalog is said by its producers to reflect actual market conditions at the time of publication, but this is only partially true, as we have to take into consideration the fact that a very considerable time elapses between compilation, advance sheets, and the actual delivery of the catalog to the public. This period is sufficient to account for the very great discrepancies in value and catalog price which must always exist. The remedy for this, of course, lies in revised monthly lists. We get these in the Monthly Journal, but the revisions are entirely too few to express actual conditions at the present time, and this coupled with the fact that many countries have not been re-priced or re-written for a number of years, creates a feeling of dissatisfaction, if not of actual distrust. This attitude on the part of the public is not confined to America by any means. European journals and collectors are continually expressing the idea that the catalogers haven't got any of the stamps they list at such low prices, and want to buy them, and this contention is borne out by the vast quantities of advertisements appearing in European philatelic journals, where hundreds of stamps are offered at prices which are two or three times those of the catalog. Collectors must buy, and hence we must grant that they lack faith in European catalog quotations, as everyone knows that advertisers will not continue to buy space unless they get results. Over here the case is different. Most collectors believe the catalog, and in addition believe it to a fifty per cent excess, as they expect to get that amount of discount on every thing, even current mint colonials, in spite of the fact that the catalog states clearly that prices on such items are net, and that ten per cent is the discount on other stamps.

The writer is of the opinion that there is no sovereign remedy for the price complaint, but he does think that more vigilance should be exercised and that changes in quotations should be made more frequently and extensively, in accord with foreign values. Americans are more speculators than collectors, and this would stimulate trade, at least. Keeping a sharp eye on European activities means the expenditure of much time, and the ability to read several languages, while close touch with the trade is a prime necessity.

Such a task can hardly be performed by one man, and properly performed it would undoubtedly prove a strenuous job for three or four. But the public pays for the catalog, and it will pay for timely information as well. If the Monthly Journal were to devote six or eight pages per month to price changes, its subscription list would increase greatly and so would trade.

To summarize briefly, the following things should be done: (1) the size of the book should be reduced by condensation; (2) it should be issued in two volumes, one of which should include the S. U. S. portion; (3) all stamps which have done postal duty, including revenues, telegraphs, and Malaya-Borneos should be included; (4) all "stamps" prepared for use but never issued should be deleted; (5) all numbering should be made continuous and sequential for major varieties; (6) all watermarks should be illustrated, and should accompany their own country; (7) price changes should be made (through the M. J.) with sufficient frequency to reflect the actual market; (8) if possible, quotations should be so adjusted as to enable the trade to allow a fifty per cent discount on everything, in order to appease the unthinking public, or at least that portion of it, which imagines that such a discount is possible; or else (9) every page of the catalog should have a statement that prices are net, no discount whatever, and all professional dealers should reach an agreement to maintain these prices.

This looks like an impossible concatenation of requirements, but it wouldn't do any harm to have a try, and eventually, through experimentation, satisfactory results may be obtained. Certainly mere em-

I am pleased to announce the purchase of a magnificent general collection of United States and foreign stamps, 19th Century and 20th Century prior to 1910, cataloging in excess of One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The collection is in exceedingly fine condition, and is very complete. Many rarities are represented, as well as thousands of the lower priced stamps so seldom seen.

Among the United States are such stamps as the Millbury, Brattleboro, Baltimore, 7 St. Louis including the rare 20c, 1851 24c, 30c and 90c imperf, 1861 August 1c and 90c imperf., several special printings, the 1869 15c, 24c, 30c with inverted centers, etc.

Hawaiian Islands include six missionaries.

British Colonies include the rarities of early Ceylon, Mauritius, Newfoundland, New South Wales, Nova Scotia, Cape of Good Hope, etc.

French Colonies include many of the rarest 19th Century surcharges. German States are very complete including the rare Saxony No 1. Switzerland includes the double Geneva. Among the Latin Americans are Argentine 15c No 10 imperf. superb, Peru ½ peso rose, superb, ½ peso buff superb, Costa Rica No. 1 and No. 2, etc.

Collectors interested in these or other rarities may have further details and prices on application. The collection will be broken up, or sold by countries as desired.

pirical methods are not going to bring a solution of the difficulty: sitting still and letting the rest of the world rave by will only result in the future road becoming more difficult. Other people will have pertinent suggestions, other dealers will be able to present helpful criticism, so that an invitation to assist in solving the problem, combined with a little eclecticism and a few careful experiments, ought to solve the problem and reduce the inflammation to a mere healthy glow.

(Editor's Note: There are several points that must be considered in connection with Mr. Thompson's suggestions. Even though it were feasible to reduce the column measure to 7 ems by using abbreviations (which I doubt), much space would be lost by making it necessary to put each cut by itself instead of doubled up as at present. Revenues used for postage were at one time cataloged but were deleted because collectors were not interested. I personally bought many from the Scott Co. at ridiculously low prices because they had no other sale for them. The publishers, I know, desire to represent all known watermarks, and if any of our readers have the ability and inclination to prepare a complete set, they would find a ready customer at a good price for them. The reason that they are grouped as they are instead of being spread throughout the book is that in many cases the same watermark appears on different issues and in the case of British Colonials, on the issues of many countries. It would mean a tremendous repetition of the same design to make the change suggested.—H. L. L.)

A SUMMARY OF THE FERRARY SALES.

By HERMAN TOASPERN, F. H. S. L.

So much has been written about the Ferrary Sales that during my last visit to Paris I had a long talk with M. G. Gilbert about this epoch making auction.

Philipp la Renotiere von Ferrary was an Austrian by birth, lived most of his life in France, and on his death willed his collection to the German Postal Museum in Berlin. This was seized as part of the Reparations and ordered to be sold at public auction. More fiction and romance has been woven around the late Ferrary, than about any other man that ever collected stamps. I have no first hand information regarding the man, but I can refer the interested reader to an article of real merit written by C. J. Phillips in the Collectors Club Philatelist of January, 1923.

In France all goods offered at public auction must be sold at designated places under control of the government. The principal one in Paris is the Hotel Drouot. Contrary to the American idea of the word "hotel", it means actually "house". The city halls are always called "Hotel de Ville". The auctioneers and employees all work under license from the French Government. The Hotel Drouot is a three-story building divided into large, high ceilinged rooms, a room being assigned to each sale. On the ground floor is a department to see that all pieces are delivered to the proper owners. Among the interesting things to be seen are signs forbidding "racoleurs" to solicit in the building under penalty of large fines. A "racoleur" is a man who goes to sales and tells a bidder quietly that he can offer him the same article at a cheaper price, thus discouraging the bidding.

The French Government has more than a fatherly interest in the sales. There is a tax on each class of merchandise, and on postage stamps this amounts to 19¼ percent in addition to the amount at which they were sold.

When the Ferrary collection was seized the Chamber of French Auctioneers was anxious that it be disposed of by the best man available. It was decided that the best qualified man was Mr. Gilbert. The honor to be thus selected is very great, but the commissions are small and it was with some reluctance that Mr. Gilbert decided to accept. He was immediately faced with the gigantic task of straightening out the collection, weeding out great numbers of counterfeits that had no philatelic use, and the method of disposal.

Mr. Gilbert then planned on how to place this vast quantity on the market without disturbing it. Many people feared that the stamps would lower the market prices, especially on rarities. How well Mr. Gilbert did his work may be gleaned from the fact that prices are stronger today than before. Never before had a million dollars worth of stamps been placed on the market at one time.

The plan roughly laid out was as follows: select first the countries liable to bring the highest prices in spite of the depreciation of the franc; second, where several copies of a standard rarity were in the collection, to offer them at different times; third, to protect the dealers as well as collectors and not offer rarities of the medium class singly, if damaged. This, to my mind, was Mr. Gilbert's master stroke. I spoke at length with him on this subject and his answer was substantially as follows: "It was very important to the dealers that rarities when not in good condition should be put in mixed lots. I realized that this sale would create new standards of values. If a thousand dollar stamp fetched fifteen hundred it would move the market upward for fine copies. But if I had put in a thousand dollar stamp slightly thinned, merely saying, 'slightly thin' and the stamp sold for its true value as a damaged specimen for three hundred fifty dollars, it would be a matter of record. Then when some dealer offered a perfect stamp to a customer, or a collector to a dealer, the prospective customer would immediately have said, 'The stamp is not worth $1,000 because the Ferrary copy only brought $350. The catalog is too high'. By this method I protected the dealer, and regardless of what collectors may think or say, the dealer is the life of the business, and the value maker of the business. With no middleman, stamps would be only pretty pieces of paper."

I do not want to dilate too much on Mr. Gilbert's philosophy, but it contains a great thought for those who hastily condemn the better class of stamp dealers. First and last, they are the real makers of value.

Mr. Gilbert then selected the following countries for the first Ferrary Sale which was held June 21, 1921. The offerings were Cape of Good Hope, Ceylon, Two Sicilies, British Guiana, Hawaii, Mauritius, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Roumania, Switzerland and Tuscany varieties were offered.

Some of the high spots of this session were, including the 17½% tax as follows:—Cape of Good Hope, a fine used copy of the 1d blue, woodblock error, $860. A still finer copy of the 4d red woodblock error fetched $1,625. A fine lightly canceled copy of the 4d rose Ceylon, 1857, brought $600. An unused Trinacria brought $600, a pair of the Savory Cross used brought $720. The highest price of the sale was for a pair of 2c black and rose British Guiana of 1850 on entire which brought $20,000. The second highest price was for a 2c blue of Hawaii, 1851-52, the finest known used copy, which brought $15,000. The business ability of Mr. Gilbert and his service to the French Government was never more plainly shown than in his selection of articles for the first sale which would not only bring the wealthiest buyers into competition, but also to make the sale of striking interest.

The second sale placed the lesser pieces of the collections named above upon the market, though Mr. Gilbert was wise enough to realize that not all of the material should be offered at once.

Wonderful Canadians and United States issues featured the Third Sale. Such things as a pair of 12d Canada with o.g., and the unique British Guiana 1c black on carmine of 1856 which fetched the top price of all pieces in the Ferrary Sales, $32,500. This piece has been termed the highest priced stamp the world, but it is not the highest price philatelic item in the world. The fine and most expensive single philatelic ite infinitely more beautiful and interestin is the 1d and 2d Post Office Mauriti which cost the owner considerably mo Arthur Hind is the owner of bo pieces.

U. S. carriers and Confederate loca featured the fourth session. A gre deal of interesting information can gleaned from perusing back numbers MEKEEL'S which quote the prices paid f the most interesting items.

The totals by sales are as follows:—

	Francs	Dollars
1st	1,100,805	$55,040
2nd	2,178,132	108,907
3rd	2,468,985	123,449
4th	1,280,830	64,041
5th	1,356,170	67,809
6th	1,945,215	97,282
7th	1,498,740	74,937
8th	1,588,957	79,447
9th	1,404,585	70,230
10th	1,886,270	94,313
Totals	18,693,329	$934,687

These figures are without the gover ment tax. At first this was 17½% a is now 19¼%. Therefore we must a roughly 1/5 more to the prices abo The dollar quotation in my figures roughly figured at 20 francs to the d lar. The rise and fall of the franc gi this a reasonable quick way of figuri The idea of adding on a tax, instead including it as we include commissi here in America seems a trifle stup It is somewhat like putting money i the left pocket after taking it from right. On this basis the actual amo paid by Ferrary bidders for the stan is the total plus the rough 20% tax, 3,738,665 francs. The sum would t be 22,431,994 francs or roughly $1,1 550.

At the beginning of the Ferrary Sa I wrote an article for the Collectors C Philatelist on "The Benefits of the F rary Sales". At that time there wa feeling that considerable harm was evitable but just the opposite has b true. In it lies a great truth for the collector. Ferrary wanted to perpetu his name, by leaving his collection t museum. The collection in the muse would have been a nine days wonder, then forgotten and rarely used, like Tapling collection. Today the Ferr name is spread to the four corners the earth. Ferrary's name will be on lips of generations to come, because t will have some of his stamps in their lections. The name will be living, n myth, like Tapling's. Museums are keen for stamp collections. Don't le your collection to a museum. Instr its sale after your demise, leave money realized to some worthy cha that means something, schools, orp asylums or hospitals. The good money will do can be estimated, but joy that comes from the possession your treasures cannot.

ANNUAL DINNER, COLLECTORS CLUB, N. Y.

Reported by CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

The twenty-eighth annual dinner of the Collectors Club was held in the Belvidere Room of the Hotel Astor on Wednesday, January 14th, last.

John N. Luff, President of the Club, acted as Toastmaster, and was supported at the Speakers' Table by the Hon. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Charles Lathrop Pack, P. M. Wolsieffer, Senator J. A. Calder of Ottawa, Dr. Lewis L. Reford of Montreal and Harry M. Lydenberg Librarian, New York Public Library.

The main floor of the hall was occupied by eleven circular tables each one seating about ten guests.

Of late years the annual dinners of the Collectors Club have been stag affairs but this year wiser views ruled and many of our ladies graced the occasion by their presence. This turned out such a great success that I trust they will always be with us on future gatherings. Among our guests we had an acceptance from the Hon. W. Irving Glover and Mrs. Glover, but to our great regret Mr. Glover was prevented from attending by important official duty and sent the following telegram:

> "It is with deepest regret that at the last moment I find it impossible to be present at the Collectors Club Banquet. A postal conference between the Governments of the United States and Cuba has been arranged, and the Third Assistant Postmaster-General has been appointed Chairman of the United States Delegation and a Conference of the American Delegation has been called for this afternoon by the Postmaster-General and it is necessary for my attendance. Congratulations to the officers and members of the Collectors Club and know just what you would want me to say in my speech were I able to be present tonight and here it is. The Post Office Department and the Third Assistant Postmaster-General are more than ever in Sympathy with the aims, ambitions and desires of the Philatelists of the United States.
> W. IRVING GLOVER,
> Third Assistant Postmaster-Gen."

Toastmaster Luff in his interesting and witty opening remarks, termed the speakers, his victims, and called upon them in the following order:

Charles Lathrop Pack gave a very interesting address upon the importance of the International Stamp Exhibition of 1926, of which he is the President. Mr. Pack stressed the importance of every member of the Club working with all his might for this exhibition in order to make it the greatest and the most complete that has ever been held. Further he urged the committee to cater to the young collectors and collectors of moderate means, so that we show the world that stamp collecting is by no means the hobby of the rich man only. From this view point he suggested the inclusion of classes for exhibits of special groups of stamps, none of which should cost over one dollar each.

The Hon. J. B. Frelinghuysen made a very witty address which frequently caused rounds of laughter and applause. He stated that he had found stamp collecting a perfect relaxation from the stress of political work when he was in the Senate. In the evenings he worked so late at his stamps that the call from an inner room of, "Joe, when are you coming to bed," became frequent and from the way this was received I think it is likely to become a slogan by many of our ladies.

Senator J. A. Calder of Ottawa was then called upon, and one of his points was that it was undoubtedly a great privilege to have ladies with us but he suggested to the committee that in future only stamp collectors be eligible to attend and if they wished to come he thought they all should start collecting. Senator Calder pointed out how he started as a general collector, very lonely and without guidance, but that he had found the greatest pleasure since he had become a specialist and a real student of British North American stamps.

Dr. Lewis L. Reford who has been appointed President of the Canadian Philatelic Exhibition to be held in Montreal in October next, stated that he hoped we would look upon Montreal as preliminary to our own exhibition of 1926 and would both send exhibits and also go there and help to make the Canadian Exhibition a real success. In return he assured us that Canadian collectors would loyally support our own exhibition.

P. M. Wolsieffer, President of the American Philatelic Society, gave a very interesting address upon that great organization. He traced its growth from the days of John K. Tiffany until today when it numbers 3,200 active members.

Mr. Wolsieffer also drew attention to the fact that under the Constitution the capital funds were not available for Philatelic propaganda and the income from the funds was barely sufficient for the activities of the society.

H. M. Lydenberg gave an interesting account of many branches of our great public library and described some of the valuable and important donations made to it in recent years. In particular he drew attention to a visit he had last year from a well known specialist in United States stamps who informed him that it was his wish to leave his collection to the Library together with a fund for its maintenance.

Mr. Luff stated that the Collectors Club had in the course of many years conferred Honorary Membership upon four noted Philatelists. Two of these have passed on, Mr. G. H. Worthington and the Earl of Crawford, and we still have with us as Honorary Members Messrs. C. L. Pack and E. D. Bacon. He then called upon C. J. Phillips to make an announcement of the extensions of this privilege, who stated that the Governors had decided to ask two of the greatest living European Philatelists to honor our Club by accepting Honorary Membership in it: Mr. Carl Lindenberg, representing Germany and Dr. Emilio Diena, representing Italy.

The motion was then put, by Mr. Luff, that these two great Philatelists be elected Honorary Members of the Collectors Club, and this was carried unanimously.

The meeting broke up shortly after midnight and the general opinion was that it was the most successful and enjoyable of these annual functions that has been held for many years.

The arrangements were in the hands of Charles M. Ams, Chairman of the Dinner Committee, who acquitted himself with credit.

THE PHILATELIC LOBBY.

By H. L. LINDQUIST.

The latest sensation in stamp circles is The Philatelic Shillalah, a small eight page anonymous publication that holds promise of much scandal to follow * * * While suspicion has centered on two or three likely perpetrators actual proofs are lacking to fasten it on anyone in particular * * * According to the publishers it is sent to only "the first thousand in philately" so if you did not get a copy consider yourself a has been or a never was * * * Max Ohlman when interviewed on the subject by Percy Doane gave it as his opinion that the sheet was the work of Bolshevik's * * * To quote Max verbatim "That's the way them Bolshevik's always propagate" * * * Max has good reason to be suspicious of all "propagating" for at the Collectors Club Annual Dinner he almost lost his wife to Frank Crane, philatelic writer on the New York Times, who swings a wicked line with the ladies * * * Frank also tried his wiles on George Sloane's intended but he didn't get to first base * * * George took no chances * * * The wedding bells are scheduled to ring out in June and Rose Cooper, the magnet that draws most of Ohlman's trade, has started to solicit contributions for a suitable gift for the occasion * * * Next to the Shillalah the most absorbing topic of philatelic conversation is the International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York in 1926 * * * Although this event is almost two years off, it has secured a remarkable lot of publicity * * * The Executive Committee have the financial program well in hand * * * The Honorary Vice-Presidents and the International Jury are almost completed * * * The Tentative Program has been released so that suggestions can be made and intending exhibitors begin to groom their collections * * * In fact more has been accomplished on this Exhibition than any previous event of a similar nature has accomplished a year later * * * It is of course too early to actually make reservations but a booklet covering the exhibition will be issued before very long, a year and a half before the actual event * * * That collectors are alive to the possibilities is evident from the marked increase in demand among those qualified to exhibit * * * J. M. Bartels is at work remounting his splendid collections of Venezuela and the Danish West Indies * * * Charles J. Phillips recently purchased the Confederate collection of Leon Adutt and reports that the demand for these issues is practically unlimited * * * He says that Confeds sell better than anything else he handles but that British North Americans run them a close second * * * It was Phillips who started the present interest in U. S. Departments * * * He systematically circularized all of the dealers and collectors in the country and obtained a big quantity before he encountered any competition * * * Now good used departments are almost unobtainable * * * There is a good story on Phillips now going the rounds * * * Some years ago he was the secretary of a Dealers Protective Assn. in England and in that capacity prosecuted two stamp counterfeiters Benjamin and Sarpy * * * After they got out of prison they got a little cur dog, christened it Phillips, and gave it a couple of swift kicks every morning to relieve their feelings * * * The Uptown Stamp Company have recently started a Bulletin that every reader of MEKEEL'S should get * * * It is advertised in this issue so write them for a copy as proof that this column is read * * * The U. S. C. also announce that they will enter the stamp auction field in April and have engaged a "recognized expert" to prepare their catalog * * * A new firm composed of M. Herbert and Stanley Rice and to be known as Herbert-Rice are about to start in business at 87 Nassau St., and will also enter the auction field * * * Percy Doane when interviewed as to the effect these new firms would have on the business was emphatically in favor of them and believes that they stimulate business * * * He says that a large number of auction sales create an active market and stabilize values just as an active market stabilizes values on the stock exchange * * * In the month of February there are now scheduled 18 sales out of 22 possible sales days in New York * * * He prophesies that in a few years we will have at least two sales each day and replace London as the auction market of the world * * * Already we dominate this section of the world and collections from Canada, the West Indies, South and Central America, etc., that formerly would have gone to London are coming to New York * * * George W. Rehse, at one time cartoonist on the New York World, is selling his collection of U. S. at auction * * * Doane will handle the bulk of it and will hold the first session at the Collectors Club * * * This is the first time he has ever held a sale at the C. C. * * * Herman Toaspern will handle many of the finest pieces in his de luxe Specialist Sales * * * The collection is remarkable for the condition of even the commoner pieces * * * Harry M. Konwiser is one of the busiest and most prolific writers in philately * * * He writes controversial articles for Gossip, reviews auctions for the American Philatelist, does some heavy stuff on Denmarks for the Collectors Club Philatelist and now breaks into MEKEEL'S as an inventor * * * Judge Emerson was in New York recently exhibiting some of the purchases that he made at the Waterhouse Sale * * * His prize pieces were a block of 6 of the 10c 1851, showing four recuts and a block of 6 of the 30c 1857 used * * * Admiral Harris added some very fine Ceylon's to his collection from the latest Morgenthau Sale * * * Incidentally Morgenthau's recent sales have been particularly noteworthy and brought exceptionally good prices * * * Ernest Wiltse, an old time member of the Collectors Club, is back in New York after a two-year sojourn in South Africa * * * E. R. Jacobs and N. B. Paulson, both of Chicago, were recent visitors to New York * * * B. D. Butler also made a brief visit on his way to Bermuda * * * It is rumored that Dr. Carroll Chase will dispose of his fine collection of the U. S. 1c, 1851, through Kelleher's Auction Sales in Boston * * * B. L. Drew of Boston was recently in New York showing the James English (New Haven) collection to private buyers * * * Drew announces that he will hold no sales from April until Fall as he intends to take a good rest * * * Burger Brothers are showing a beautiful cover which they secured from the Benno Loewy collection * * * It is a superb horizontal pair of Hamburg, No. 7, the 9sh yellow of 1859, on cover * * * It is probably unique and the asking price is $600. * * * Burger Bros. still have several sections of the Herrmann collection to dispose of * * * In this collection there is a copy of Hawaii, No. 20 (2c black) with saw tooth perforation * * * This stamp has never been listed in this condition but the stamp is undoubtedly genuine with large perfect margins * * * Specialists take notice * * * A Krassa attended the Drew Sale in Boston where he met with his usual success and came back with some fine things for his stock * * * A real tragedy took place at the Collectors Club Annual Dinner when one of the members died in the ante room * * * practically none of the diners were aware of the death until they read about it in the papers the next day * * * Philip Lotze had been a member of the C. C. but a comparatively short time but was well liked by all who had the privilege of knowing him * * * He had toured Europe with Sousa playing the French Horn * * * Charles Curie, Percy Doane and Walter Scott attended the funeral * * * A column or two of this kind in every issue of MEKEEL'S would enable the editors to cover every bit of gossip of philatelic importance throughout the country. If you approve of the idea tell them so.

HOW THE SCOTT STANDARD CATALOG IS PRICED.

auction catalogs are consulted and unless recent sales show a sharp advance in price no change is made in the catalog.

On new issues a totally different method must be employed. If an ordinary issue is received the catalog quotation is entered at double the actual cost. Supply and demand will usually take care of any discrepancies. For instance, in the 1924 edition Sarawak Nos. 77 and 78 were priced at 10c and 15c, respectively, based on this plan. As soon as the catalog appeared two English firms each cabled for the entire supply. As this is against the policy of the company no sale was made but a local dealer bought one copy each day until his system was noted. An investigation showed that the stamps were selling in Great Britain for 5 shillings each, so the price was raised to $1.00. Scores of similar cases might be cited but no rule or policy that could be devised would entirely eliminate original errors of this kind.

There is another general rule, very flexible in its application, that enables the cataloger to arrive at a starting quotation in the absence of any definite information other than the quantity of a stamp that has been issued. By this method the price is arrived at by dividing a "certain figure" by the number of copies that were issued. The difficulty is to set this "certain figure" for it varies according to the type of stamp and the popularity of the country. If the stamp in question happened to be a Postage Due of a Portuguese Colony or a new Russian Issue, neither especially popular nor in strong demand, the entire issue might be valued at $10,000 and this sum divided by the number of stamps issued to arrive at the catalog price. If the stamp happened to be a British Colonial this "certain figure" might be $15,000 to $18,000; if it were a very popular country it might be raised to $25,000 or $30,000. If a United States stamp no real limit could be set. This rough basis works out in a surprisingly large majority of cases. It gives a basis for the first quotation and if it should be too high or too low, the methods first outlined will soon correct the error.

The suggestions of specialists are noteworthy for their untrustworthiness. The average specialist does not have a sufficient back ground nor a sufficiently broad view of the entire field to enable him to intelligently suggest prices. Moreover he is usually so immersed in the minutiae of his particular specialty that he overemphasizes the value of minor items. The true specialist, in fact, is much more interested in the study of his stamps than in the prices they bring and the majority of big specialists of my acquaintance frankly admit that they consider prices of secondary importance and would be very poor judges of changing market values.

There are so many interesting instances of strongly conflicting ideas as to values that could be cited that we could fill an entire issue of MEKEEL'S with them and those who are under the impression that the question would be solved by having a recognized expert in each country price it himself are due to have an awakening.

Of course, Scott's can be improved. The assistance of qualified critics is very much sought, but we are sincere in believing that no catalog ever published is less biased by commercial considerations than the present edition of our Standard Catalog.

This article is a well written story of a postal genius who has left his mark upon philately for all time. We consider the article sufficiently philatelic for us to pass it on to our readers.—W. O. W.)

The fiftieth anniversary of the World's Postal union was recently celebrated in Germany. At that time a new stamp bearing the likeness of Heinrich von Stephan, the chief promoter of the first congress, was introduced.

Von Stephan was largely responsible for the calling together of the international congress which met at Berne, Switzerland, October 9, 1874. At this congress the International Postal union was formed and agreements made at that time still bind the world. Joseph H. Blackfan was the American representative at this congress.

UNIFORM RATES FIXED.

A uniform rate of from 5 to 7 cents was fixed on an ordinary letter to a foreign country. Before that time every country had a different rate and it was an ever changing one as well. Many treaties were made and a great deal of money was spent in negotiating for advantageous transportation of mail. All this confusion has been eliminated by the universal rates for all countries.

The rates have remained remarkably uniform although much difficulty has been encountered in maintaining them in some European countries where the exchange value of money has been fluctuating so much. At the present time the charges for sending a letter to America is about 7½ cents from Germany and the range for northern European countries runs from 7 to 8 cents, except from England, where the rate is still "2 pence hapenny," or the equivalent of about 5 cents.

VON STEPHAN POSTAL GENIUS.

Von Stephan was born in Stolp, Pomerania, January 7, 1831. He had a great talent for languages and could speak a great many of them fluently. Because of this, he was often called upon as an interpreter between Germany and other countries and was one of the few unofficial representatives of the world to receive a special invitation to be present at the opening of the Suez canal.

His special field was the post-office and it is here that he did his greatest work. He first organized the postal system of Prussia and later that for the entire empire. He took over the private postal system that has been in vogue in some parts of Germany for generations, making it a well organized governmental one.

ORIGINATED POST CARDS.

Post cards had never been sent before he thought of them. They were introduced into Germany in 1865 and were first used extensively there although the Austrians acted on his suggestion at a postal conference between these two countries and adopted them a few years before Germany did. They are now used by all countries in the world.

He organized the field post during the Franco-Prussian war and more than 89,000,000 registered letters passed through his hands at this time. It was his boast that even the soldiers in the front line trenches were supplied with regular mail delivery.

DEVELOPED PARCEL POST.

The development of the parcel post system owes much to his organizing genius. He did this so efficiently that in 1883 the German post-office dealt with 79,000,000 packages while in all other countries of the world together only 52,000,000 packages went through the post. It had not even been introduced into America at that time, as it did not come into general use in the United States until about 1908.

He continued to serve as head of the German postal department until his untimely death in 1897 as a result of blood poisoning. The world owes him much for what he did for the establishment of better relations between countries, and for his ideas in the handling of mails.

Some of the rulings of the first congress of the International Postal union have been changed. For example, if anyone wanted to send a post card to a foreign country in the early days he had to write "Universal Postal Union" on it. This is no longer necessary.

Stamps often fall off after leaving the country that sent them, but unless the letter is stamped with a "T" no extra postage is required. The stamps used may be red, green or blue, although some countries (Holland for example) have pink ones, which indicates that this ruling is no longer enforced. If insufficient postage is put on a letter, double the amount of the insufficiency will be charged. That is why a person sometimes has to pay 6 cents extra postage on a post card that has too few foreign stamps on it.

$1.00 CANCELLATION CARDS

Odd and colored cancellations on old U. S. stamps are daily increasing in popularity and incidentally in price. Nothing can touch them in adding tone and attractiveness to any collection.

I am again making up special lots for those who have not progressed far in this interesting side-line. Each lot is mounted on an approval card with the year of issue, catalogue number and a description of the cancellation written under each stamp. All stamps are selected for distinct cancellations such as "Paid", targets, odd designs, colored inks, numerals, letters, etc., and no issues later than 1890 are included.

Postage stamps were first used in America in 1847, although stamps for taxation purposes had been used in early colonial times.

GIBBONS, 1925 FOREIGN.

The Foreign portion of the Gibbons Catalogue will be published on February 16th, nearly three years having elapsed since the last edition of this volume was published. In the interval there has been an enormous output of new issues, with marked fluctuations in the prices of war and post-war issues. The period has also been marked by the decision of the publishers that they will no longer bar the war-time issues of ex-enemy states from their catalogue.

As a consequence, the new edition of "Gibbons, Part II", is of exceptional interest, containing, as it does, full lists of all the ex-enemy issues, and of the multitudinous new issues of the past three years, with accurate quotations of their present values. The prices of the older issues have also had to undergo very careful and exhaustive revision in practically all countries.

With so much general revision to be done, the re-writing of lists has been limited to the provision of an entirely new list of PERSIA, based on the researches of three leading specialists, who have provided collectors with a list which will give them a reliable guide to the issues of this interesting country.

The price of the catalogue remains at 10s (postage U.K. 9d, abroad 1s1d) while copies interleaved for taking notes or pasting up Supplements can be supplied at 16s6d (postage extra).

The publishers make the important announcement that Part II will henceforth be published annually on the same day as Part I, so that collectors will have a completely new and up-to-date Gibbons Catalogue at the beginning of every winter stamp season. Arrangements are being made for publication at the beginning of October in each year.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

The fat Forum mail of the past couple of weeks shows that you do read something other than the ads on our page. Fine work, glad to see so many keen about our little oddities.

Will you who have sent in so many fine and interesting items, please be a bit patient with me if these items do not come back like "10 day approvals", tho henceforth I will be able to get more speed into things. This Forum mail takes up space, and it looks as tho it might be feasible to "hire a hall" very soon! Put on "Urgent" if you want them right back, and they will come back fast, I assure you, unless out of town at the moment.

A cover bearing a 3c '51 has at bottom in mss. "With dispatch unprincipled". That was a "new one" to me, and being a CWP fan, I dug out Noah's great work, as we say, to find that unprincipled means without principle—helpful certainly! Principle gives among other meanings "a settled rule of action", so the sender of that missive wanted dispatch at any cost, even if they broke a rule, or a leg or something else. You of course may count on me to do that when your letter bears a similar instruction.

"Paid Thro the Lines".—From Mr. H. C. Brooks comes a wonderful little folded cover 2½" tall and 3¾" long, bearing all of this—"Prisoner's Letter" and "Mrs. Jane E. Hynes, Cawbia View, Caldwell P. O., North Carolina" all in mss. Also this blue pmk. in double ring "Norfolk Aug 28 1862 Va". Inside this letter is headed "Governors Island Aug 21st". The letter instructs the reader to address him when writing, "Fort Columbus, New York Harbor". There are two stamps crowded on to this wee cover—a 5c green litho Confederate which the writer undoubtedly had on his person when captured at Newbern, N. C. (as related in the letter), together with a 3c U. S. '61; both these stamps are covered by the one pmk., a neat double ring in black "New York Aug 22" in that thick letter type pmk. N. Y. used at that time. This 5c green pmkd. neatly with a black N. Y. pmk. is fairly startling when looked at alone! Were it off the cover you would "know" it to be a "fake", and you would fool yourself, as it is a Genuine rarity.

Mr. Brooks also encloses a "Patriotic" dated "Jul 17th 1861 Cambridgeport Ms" as his earliest Patriotic cover in answer to our Query. This is two days earlier than the one mentioned further on in this number of Forum. These early Patriotics of course bear the 3c '57 Type II stamp unless otherwise mentioned.

Two other "Pats" from Tiffin, O., are unusual in that the year date is above the month and day. His "Earliest" date on a "Pat" is "Murfreesboro Tenn May 2 1861"! ! ! The stamp is a 3c '61, this sounds impossible; but it lies (lays) before me as I write, and is to all appearances OK in every way—you'd say so, and I say so. How the P.M. came to put May 2, 1861 on this stamp which we find came out late in Aug. of that year may be answered as best suits yourself. You know Sumter, S. C., used 1861, or 186 , (leaving the last figure blank) throughout the war. Mr. Whitnall has also reported a Black Jack dated 1861, while yet another is known dated 1862. No, we don't believe all we read, Forum excepted of course!

"Caps on 2c 1890's".—Mr. B. S. King has apparently made a study of these interesting plate varieties, he writes, "Referring to Mr. Whitnall's query re 'Caps on the 2c issue', presume he means 'Cap on the right 2' (That was my own stupid error, right is right H. P. A.). I have a mint block of four 'Cap on left 2' in which the caps though distinct, are covered with a film of carmine. Another block of six, same variety on which the left caps show distinctly white. My specimen of 'Cap on both 2s' show the left cap brighter than the right. Specimen of cap on right shows cap with film of color, but quite as bright as a number of caps on the left. I also have a copy showing a half cap on the left 2".

This letter seems to summarize the cap situation very definitely, and agrees that the right 2s have this film of color over the cap, unless "retouched", means scraped white by a knife or some faking done. Have seen such of course.

"Transf. Clk." canc. on a 2c green pmkd. "Pueblo Jan 4 1890 Colo" comes from Mr. W. H. McLin Jr. These Railroad pmks. on stamps and covers are beginning to step to the front. They are now being offered as single items in auctions, instead of as "500 3c greens on cover" when you used to pay round $1.50, pick out all the pretty purple stars and such, dump the rest into your "Morgue", and wonder if they had cost you too much.

Mr. R. C. Wilcox has sent in a most picturesque early dated "Patriotic". This cover bears a drooping palm tree like that 1893 Hayti palm, which you recall. Hanging from one of the leaves is an officer, plumed hat, sword, buttons, spurs et al, the inscription reading "The Bragg fruit of palmetto trees-on". Mr. Wilcox speaks of a coincidence at this point, his cover is dated "Jul 19 1861 Burlington Iowa". He found this cover himself, and on arriving at his home he picked up the WEEKLY, and found the query about earliest date for a "Patriotic" right before him. This is the earliest date from west of the Mississippi. From Mr. August Bode comes one of those pretty pmks. on 2c red browns where the county curves around under the town, and the P.M.'s name goes straight thro—"Washburn, Woodford Co. Jun 13 1887 C. Haase, P.M., Ills." target over the stamp, all in Loganberry juice color, nice!

A 3c green from Lima, O., looks to be canceled with the famous hard to grow bean of that name, a curved pod as 'twere, in black. A cover with a poem in three stanzas, entitled, "Write often", lined border and dotted lines for address, is posted from "Old Point Comfort, Va." These are advertised at the bottom of envelope "20 Envelopes of various sizes, colors, and songs, sent by mail free of postage for 10 cents. Address J. A. Howells, Jefferson, Ashtabula Co., Ohio, 1863". On a 3c '61 off cover is a perfect wheel canc., 9 spokes, balloon tires, and a hole thro the hub for the "ex". Another 3c '61 has a most unusual and pretty star of 8 thin points, large open center, a circular saw tooth frame round the design. On a 1c 1882 is this rare pmk. in a single line circle in black, "New York Apr 26 '82 D L O", meaning probably Dead Letter Office, tho we usually think of Washington having the only D. L. O.

There are other items to enroll that are of much interest, these will appear in our next issue. For the time being no Query at all. Watch out for some pretty cancs. to have illustrated soon.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

FREDERICK W. ALLEN, Editor,
312 Walnut St., S. E. Mplis., Minn.

Introduction—This week we wish to call attention to a number of Minnesota cities and point out to the precancel collector that which should be of interest.

Albert Lea—The one dollar, old issue, has been reported to us by Messrs. Grimes and Rudolph. It should be a difficult stamp to pick up and merits a catalog value of several dollars.

Austin—The 20-cent, old issue, appeared last Xmas season. Hitherto, Austin had precanceled only up to the fifteen cent denomination. Surely it is safe to surmise that the former will be very scarce, as the stamp is now obsolete at the Austin office.

Crosby—One seldom runs across anything from this little mining town. The latest to report is the 6-cent, new series. Crosby is using a package roller cancellation which should not be confused with the regular precancellation. This latter shows a rather heavy set of capitals between bars. The "C" of "Crosby" is slightly larger than any of the other letters.

Erskine—A U-71 handstamp of ten subjects has been received by the Erskine postmaster, who states that he has, as yet, precanceled only the one-cent, new series. Perhaps other values will be issued next Christmas, but I deem their appearance before that time unlikely, as there is not an appreciable volume of parcel post matter handled at this place, except during the holidays.

Fairmont—During the summer of 1924, the first precancels from here made their appearance. The style is U-51. We have seen of the old set the following: 5, 6, 12, 20, 30, 50; and of the new the 1, 2, 4, 8, 10.

Granada—The precancel history of this town began Dec., 1924, when a handstamp of twenty-five subjects, similar to U-53, was received for the holiday rush. John Fox of Minneapolis has shown us a 3-cent offset bearing this precancellation.

Lakeville—The Type I listed in the catalog is a handstamp which had a very limited life. A second handstamp is now employed which resembles U-59 but has a bar only at the top. It must be, as Type I was, a one subject affair that will soon be discarded. The overprint described has been seen on the 3-cent offset and 20-cent new series, reading horizontally in both cases.

Le Seur Center—Last July, Dr. Rolf Hovde, eminent specialist of Minnesota precancels, favored us with a view of several different positions of cancellation on the old issue rotary perf. 10x10, which had come to him on circular matter. Since then we have added to our collection a 6-cent new series with a double inverted strike. The style of type is much like U-53.

Long Prairie—Bushnell formerly listed this city as "Lone Prairie" which error has since been corrected. A fine showing of these scarce precancels is represented in the collection belonging to John Fox. Mr. Fox has among others a fine block of six of the 9-cent old issue, and single copies of the 1, 2, 4, 5, 10, new issue.

Hastings—The new series seems to have become well established at this office for all the precancels which seem to be coming thru from there are of the new set. A friend who has a splendid source of supply, exhibited quite an array of "gems" which he had just received on cover from the stated source. Quite a number of Hastings were in the lot and I particularly noted the 3, 7, 8, 9, 15 and 20 cent.

Montevedio—Just a newcomer. The regular U-53 handstamp does the work. All that we are able to mention as having seen are the 1, 6 and 15 cent of the new series.

Morris—The 8 and 20 inverted and 9-cent normal, all of the new issue, were salvaged by us when we chanced to turn over a stray wrapping paper that had flown from an alley. It is strange how something impels us to always examine both sides of every paper which bears possibilities. Though it lies upon the floor, reposes in the wastebasket, or flutters on the street we ought not pass it by, for it often contains treasure dear to the heart of the precancel "fanatic."

New Ulm—The latest arrivals, bearing that striking style of electro, also used by Fergus Falls, are the 9 and 30 cent new series. The 30-cent reads up, and is one "Bison" that will lead the hunter a long race. New Ulm is an enterprising community, located in the southern part of the state, which figures prominently in the milling industry. The New Ulm Mills uses precancels the year around and finds the greatest need for the 1, 2, 5 and 10 cent denominations. All other values seem difficult to secure.

Pine City—Pine City has discarded the handstamp known as Type I, and described as "two lines of condensed capitals without bars or lines," for a regular stamp having bars above and below. The letters are all caps of approximately the same height but are a trifle thicker and noticeably extended. Similar to U-51 would be the best description in reference to the U-system. The 5 and 50 cent, old issue, are before me and are all that have come to hand in Type II. The 50 cent Type I exists and should be a very good stamp in view of its short life.

Ruthton—The Hardings have been out for many months and regrettably have a shady reputation. My first sight of a regular issue was caught by a 20-cent old series. The style is much like U-51 and upon the aforesaid item, reads down.

Wilmar—Every overprint will show an error in spelling as the party at Washington who struck off the handstamp put an extra "l" in the name "Willmar" is not correct as any citizen of that city will attest. The 3 cent offset and 1 cent old issue perf. 11 has been shown us by John Fox. The style of the precancellation is like U-53, being similar to the description of Granada Minn.

Windom—A new handstamp, like Granada and Wilmar, is now precanceling at Windom. Likewise at Winthrop Minn., a similar stamp is doing the work. Winthrop has long been known to collectors as the home of Dr. Hovde but it actually burst into the fold last December, and issued a Christmas batch of the real "dyed in the wool" precancels.

Minneapolis—Three unusual pieces have been brought to our attention, information on which we are prone to pass along.

First, what is believed to be an unmatched item, rests in the wonderful collection of our good friend, Dr. Rolf Hovde. His copy of the 25 cent Parcel Post Due with the Type X overprint is truly unique in our opinion. The catalog price of ten dollars should experience a steady increase in forthcoming editions of the book.

Second, Mr. J. M. Grimes of Mankato who runs Dr. Hovde a close race for Minnesota honors—owns a Victory I precanceled by the Type IX plate in the reading down position. Who has a mate to it? Probably this also is unique precancel.

TO BUSINESS MEN
Looking for a Sound Investment in their Postage Stamps, I can only recommend the class of stamps I have been stocking for the last three years as an Investment for my own Funds.
The following new approval books have been made up from the most recent purchases. Shall be glad to submit these or selections of any other country in stock to collectors desiring sound old issues in choice condition.

Third, a block of four of the Victory precanceled by the Type IX plate in a horizontal position has been discovered by a well known Saint Paul philatelist. He, not wishing to retain four copies of a variety when one would suffice for his collection, broke the block and disposed of three. One of course found its way into the great collection of Victory precancels owned by Mr. Howard S. Wheeler of Boston, and the other two passed into the hands of Dr. Hovde and Mr. Grimes. We understand that five dollars was the price gladly paid by each of these specialists for his copy.

Saint Paul—A 6-cent aeroplane strayed into the Montgomery Ward & Co. branch as part of a remittance and was duly precanceled with the rubber handstamps. Then it took a short little journey, riding on a packet of merchandise to the fair city of Minneapolis. A local collector spied it and tracked the little beauty to its destination. Why, of course, he could have the stamp. What good was it anyway? Who has not had that question "shot" at him? Well, to make a tale less of a tale, that orange aeroplane precancel is the first which has come to light with the Type X overprint and will probably be the last. It has gone to a happy home in Winthrop where it will be much admired by a certain doctor and his many precancel friends.

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 7 West 42nd St., New York City.

The Five Shilling stamp was issued on April 15, 1921, printed from an engraved plate of 30 subjects, i.e., 6x5, in one sheet on white paper watermarked old type CA multiple upright, perforated 14 comb. The design is treated in upright rectangular style and the size is uniform with that of the preceding shilling values.

The subject of the design is an allegory of the origin of the name of the island. Pages have been written, devoted to speculation on the derivation of the word Jamaica, but up to the present nothing authoritative has been found. Many writers in their efforts have practically re-christened the island, although the earliest Spanish records, dating from July, 1511, use and spell the name as we know it today, but it was then also spelled Jamica and X a y m a c a. Bryan Edwards in 1793 records the last form, and states that, "It is said to have signified in the language of the natives, a country abounding in springs". Commissioner Butler, shortly after the British Occupation in 1655, spelled the name Gemecoe and Gemegoe. The Germans also had a turn at naming it, on early maps and atlases it is given a distinctly Spanish form "Jamaiqua", while Spanish maps of the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries use the form Xmaica.

In attempting to fix the derivation of the word, John Atkins in 1737 states that "Jamaica was altered by King James (II), it being a compound of his name and "ca" an island. This is ingenious, as the letters "ca" can be made to do duty for "cai" or "cay", both of which mean island as in "Caicos" or "cay" in "Lucayos" (Bahamas). The terms "cay" and "key" are still in use throughout the West Indies.

These are but some of the speculative attempts, all more or less having some support from the syllables of the word, to fix its derivation, but strange though it may be, the derivation most often used is provided by a writer noted for his imagination, and not for reliability as a historian. Bridges, writing in 1828, goes to Florida for inspiration, and states, "In the speech of Florida, Chaubaan signified water, and Makia wood. The compound sound would approach to Chab-Makia, and harmonized to the Spanish ear, would be Chamakia, denoting a land covered with wood, and therefore watered by shaded rivulets, or, in other words, fertile". He advances nothing in support of his theory, and it appears to be purely imaginative, as we do know that the language of these islands was Carib in some, Arawak in others. In the Carib tongue, wood is cotch, and water tona. In Arawak, wood is ada and water winiab. No possible combination of these words can produce anything approximating Jamaica in sound, but the imagination of Bridges has provided Jamaica with a lyrical derivation of its name which is more truly descriptive than any other, and possibly accounts for its wide adoption. The allegory which the stamp portrays is adapted to this derivation. The centre, printed in blue, shows a rivulet passing through a shaded glade, the constellation of Aquarius is seen at the back through the trees, and the sylvan god Pan is seated on a rock at the side of the stream. The frame is very ornamented, but printed in ochre, and the combination of colors is not pleasing; if there was a desire to introduce the Sun or a suggestion of Sunlight, it would have been better to have used the orange of the frame of the 3sh stamp, but one does not usually see the Sun and Aquarius at the same time, unless perhaps Bacchus is exercising his influence.

The design of the frame is very o r n a t e. At the top is the word "Jamaica" in serif capitals in a scrolled frame, at the corners are spandrels on which are white circles divided from each other by a heavy and thin circle in color, and in the centre is the value 5sh in color on white. At the left side is a scrolled panel with foliate ornaments, on which is the word "Postage" in small white letters reading up, at the right is a similar panel with the word "Revenue" in similar letters reading down. At the lower corners are spandrels with the value as above, and between is yet another scrolled panel on which are the words, "Isle of Wood and Water" in two lines in small sans-serif letters.

The official record of the stamp, taken from the Gazette of April 14, 1921, is as follows:

"Stamp Office, Kingston
12th April, 1921.

The following is the description of a 5sh adhesive stamp to be used for postage and revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation on 15th April, 1921.

The design of the stamp is intended to show Jamaica as the "Isle of Wood and Water". The spirit of the woodland country is symbolised by the God Pan and water is symbolised by the constellation Aquarius.

The denomination 5sh is shown in a circle at each of the four corners.

and at the bottom, between the denomination

Isle of Wood and Water

On the left and right are the words Postage Revenue. The colour of the borders of the stamp is orange and the design is of blue.

C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner".

JOPLING IN ENGLAND.

G. H. Jopling, until recently located in Mirandela, Portugal, is now at 44 Risca Road, Newport, Wales, England. Business conditions in Portugal have been such that Mr. Jopling has removed his business to the address given and added his stock to that of the Portuguese Stamp Exchange, and the new firm name will be noted in the advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Much difficulty has been experienced by Mr. Jopling in receiving his mail, due to local troubles in Portugal. But at the new address he expects to give one hundred percent service. The firm's stock of Portuguese stamps is a very extensive one and sample books showing the stamps offered indicate that the Jopling company will live up to their advertised offerings.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—M. T. Mauck, 911 Harlem Av., Baltimore, Md., sends us his latest wholesale pricelist which deals entirely with the stamps of the German Empire and Republic. His offerings are priced per ten and hundred and his quotations are for unused stamps entirely. Particularly low prices are quoted.

—In our Precancel Review page 60 we referred to counterfeit "Farmingham" precancels. This should have read "Framingham".

—The Cortlandt Stamp Co. has had a sad experience with a collector at Atlanta, Ga., who used the name of a prominent A. P. S. member in soliciting approval selections. Blocks of four of Malta and Trinidad and Tobago (value about $100) are represented. Mr. Meyer informs us that one other New York firm has been bitten and this warning may save others a "Peck" of trouble.

—Herewith two envelopes. One shows a regular U. S. A. 2c red stamp, with Washington's portrait, postmarked Porto Rico with the date in English and a message in Spanish. The message translated, says—"Co-operate for the well-being of your town by helping in the planting of trees". The other envelope comes from Mexico, showing postmark date and Spanish text, reminding that—"The name and address of the sender should not be omitted on mails". Contrast this with our—"Address your mail to street and number".—FRANCIS M. BOTELHO.

—Rochester, Minn., does not want to be confused with Rochester, N. Y. This is evident from a letter just received from W. H. Lemm, the secretary of the local stamp club in the first named city. The mistake occurred in a recent WEEKLY and we hasten to make the desired correction.

—On Tuesday evening, Feb. 3rd, the members of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society were the guests of Dr. F. A. Kraft and took advantage of the occasion to examine his wonderful general collection, which is especially strong in the early issues, Old Europe and British Colonies, in blocks, shades and the completeness of issues. The superb condition and very beautiful manner of lay-out and mounting make Dr. Kraft's collection one of the finest in the country. Its value is now about $75,000.—R. L. HUSTIS.

—The Mack Stamp Co., Goshen, Ind., advises us that there are counterfeit Goshen Harding precancels in circulation. Collectors of precancels will please note.

—The Pilgrim Stamp Co., 35 Ann St., N. Y. City, has sent us a specimen of a new pricelist of United States stamps. It is a fine large pamphlet of twelve pages, covering not only straight postage but also postage due, envelope, telegraph and revenue stamps. It is well worth sending for.

—The Firelands Stamp Co., L. E. Rood proprietor, Norwalk, Ohio, has taken out a fifty-line adlet contract and the firm's advertising will be seen in coming numbers of the WEEKLY.

—In the Columbus (Ohio) Citizen of Jan. 23 appeared an article on the value of old stamps, illustrated by a picture of George W. Linn. This is good stamp publicity and we commend it to stamp collectors in other cities.

—The Brooklyn Stamp Club meets the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at 123 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, N. Y. Visiting stamp collectors will be welcome.

—K. A. Heijmans, Jr., Rotterdam, Holland, sends us a copy of the third annual Year Book of Dutch philatelists. It is a substantial book of 160 pages and while primarily given over to information of interest to Dutch philatelists the address book will be found convenient for all collectors. The Appendix contains a strong list of those who are engaged as dealers, auctioneers and publishers throughout the world.

THE NEW RONSARD.

By CHAS. G. WILSON.

In the year 1524, four hundred years ago, Pierre de Ronsard, known as the "Prince of Poets", was born near the little village of Couture, Vendômois, France. This event has been commemorated by the issuance of a special stamp bearing the head of Ronsard which will be in use until December 31st. The value is 75 centimes, the duty on all stamps leaving France, and thus the stamps will recall the fame of Ronsard to all the world.

Ronsard was born to a family of wealth and lineage and on his father's side they could trace their blood back to the Slav provinces South of the Danube. It may well be that to this blood the poet owed his genius. His father, Loys de Ronsard, was high steward to Francis I.

Pierre was sent to the College de Navarre at Paris, at the early age of nine. He disliked the rough life of the medieval school but had little experience with it as he was quickly appointed page to the Duke of Orleans. When Marguerite of France became the bride of James V of Scotland, Ronsard entered his service and spent three years in Great Britain.

He returned to France to enter again the service of the Duke of Orleans and in his service journeyed to Flanders and Scotland. He received more important employment later but his promising diplomatic career was cut short by deafness which the doctors held incurable. He decided to study literature and enrolled at the College Coqueret at Paris. At the end of seven years he published the first of his many works, which met with instant and complete success.

He was ever a favorite at the Court itself, though many disliked him. It was his lot ever to be extravagantly praised or violently attacked. Charles IX gave him quarters in the palace and bestowed upon him various abbacies and priories. His preferments at Court made him in easy circumstances and he neither asked nor received gain from his works. He was the recipient, however, of gifts not only from the French Court but from many other sovereigns, among them Elizabeth of England.

The latter years of Ronsard's life were saddened not only by the deaths of his most intimate friends, but by increasing physical infirmities. This did not interfere, however, with his work. He was rarely idle and his last works are among his best.

At the death of his royal patron, Charles IX, he left the Court and took up residence in retirement in his native province of Vendômois. He lived there only for one year, for in 1585, in the 61st year of his life, he died. His remains were entombed in the Church of St. Cosme at Tours.

PRECANCELLED STAMPED ENVELOPES.

Hon. E. R. Ackerman sends us a bill authorizing the Postmaster-General to permit the use of precanceled stamped envelopes. It is Senate No. 3799 and is very simple in its scope, consisting of only eight lines. The bill has been favorably reported from the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, and we submit the report of the committee:—

The Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, having had under consideration the bill (S. 3799) authorizing the Postmaster-General to permit the use of precanceled stamped envelopes, reports the same back to the Senate with the recommendation that the bill do pass without amendment.

This legislation is desirable in order that users of large quantities of Government stamped envelopes may thereby secure more expeditious handling of their mail, and that the Government may be saved the time and expense involved in canceling the envelopes at the time of mailing.

For a great many years the Post Office Department has authorized the use of precanceled adhesive stamps on mail of persons and concerns having large quantities. The saving to the Post Office Department by the use of precanceled stamps is estimated to be more than $150,000 a year.

The Post Office Department has also heretofore been authorized to grant permits, under certain regulations, for mailing different classes of mail without stamps affixed, the postage thereon being paid in money. While there is no doubt some saving to the department under the permit system, it involves considerable bookkeeping. It also necessitates a considerable investment on the part of the mailers for meters. In the precancellation of stamped envelopes, no such investment will be necessary.

In the last fiscal year more than a billion and a half "special request" envelopes were ordered. "Special request" envelopes are the Government stamped envelopes, ordered in lots of 500 or more, bearing the purchasers return card. The Post Office Department estimates that if all of these special request envelopes had been precanceled, which would have made it unnecessary for the Postal Service to cancel them, there would have been a saving in the cost of cancellation to the department of more than $52,000. Under regulations which it is expected the department will prescribe if this bill becomes law, requiring the separation of such mail by States and cities, there will be an additional saving to the department.

The Post Office Department recommends the enactment of the bill, as will be shown by the following letter from the Postmaster-General to the chairman of the committee:

Office of the Postmaster-General.
WASHINGTON, D. C., January 13, 1925.
HON. THOMAS STERLING, Chairman Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, United States Senate.

My Dear Senator Sterling: I have your letter of the 10th instant, transmitting a copy of Senate bill 3799, providing for the precancellation of embossed stamped envelopes.

The enactment of such legislation would relieve the Postal Service from the time and expense involved in canceling the envelopes at the time of mailing and would, therefore, in cases where large quantities of mail are presented, materially facilitate and expedite the handling and dispatch of such mail. The department, therefore, recommends the enactment of this bill into law.

Very truly yours,
HARRY S. NEW,
Postmaster-General.

CANADIAN STAMP EXHIBITION.

By E. E. GOODCHILD.

To ensure a complete and independent judging of the large number of exhibits promised and expected, the Executive Committee in charge of arrangements will appoint the judges from leading philatelists both in Canada and the U. S.A. The Judges will be requested to base their awards upon a consideration of Philatelic knowledge and research displayed in the exhibits, completeness, condition, arrangement, neatness and rarity in the order named. Classes are almost complete and will cover every field in Philately, and it is hoped afford an opportunity both for the ordinary collector and specialists to enter with an equal chance of securing one of the very many prizes which will be offered.

JUNIOR ALBUM COLLECTORS SPECIAL U. S. LIST

We have just issued a large, 12-page price-list, listing every stamp for which a space is provided in the International Junior album, and nothing else. Absolutely free on request. No U. S. collector should be without it.

We also have a fine big list of stamps at ONE CENT each, all of which will be found in the Junior album. Also free.

We have a high grade approval service at 50% discount for the beginner and medium collector, and to introduce it we will enclose a sheet with each price list unless asked not to do so.

EDITORIAL.

What is one to say when a letter is received as follows: "I am much interested in my collection which I started several months ago and wish your advice on the question of investing some two thousand dollars that I have received from two bonds that have been called for payment. I think that if I buy early U. S. and such things, I shall have the satisfaction of adding to my collection and making a better investment than would be possible in anything else." There is more to the letter which goes to show that the writer is convinced of the stability of the stamp market and of the future possibilities of large profit through his stamps. Communications of this tenor come frequently but they are rather general in their statements while here is a specific case that calls for a definite answer. We wish that we could give an unqualified answer to our correspondent but when an attempt is made to do so, we find that we slide off the main track and run into the sidings. It means nothing much for us to say that we firmly believe in the future of philately and that we know that well-selected stamps will show a profit, year after year. However, experience is necessary in order to exercise the best discrimination in the choice of the stamps and this consideration must be emphasized. While stamp sense is developed more rapidly in some collectors than in others, yet some preliminary examination is required before the years of stamp wisdom are reached, in every case. We must say, then, that we advise our reader to wait somewhat longer before he gives his ideas full play in an investing sense. He must understand the market by observing the tendencies of the times and dwelling in mind on the present position of the stamps that appeal to him and their future movement, as he thinks. We do know that the result of independent investigations on the subject may work to the advantage of the investor and after all, the conclusion that the thinking collector may arrive at is about as sound, as that he may receive as the opinion of another that may be consulted. The general proposition is that the collector should spend some time in studying stamps in their philatelic sense instead of yielding to the lure of profit possibilities, almost at the outset of his stamp career. The longer the period of stamp training that a man has as a collector, the more acute he becomes in his findings as to values and on the contrary, he should be sure that he can fly before he tests his wings by jumping from the nest. A working knowledge of stamps and of conditions as affecting their future comes only after an actual contact with stamps in the album; and we should let the other fellow have "beginner's luck" until a thorough philatelic seasoning was had.

From Mr. Henri I. Baer, Springfield Gardens, Long Island, we have received the February number of Printers' Ink Monthly, with the article, "Advertising on Stamps," illustrated with a pair of Italian stamps with the Singer Sewing Machine advertising labels. We remember that many years ago we contributed a number of articles on stamp advertising to Printers' Ink, describing the New Zealand stamps with advertisements on the backs and the advertising bands around the earlier U. S. envelope stamps. In the present article, mention is made of the New Zealand stamps and it is said that the public was not particularly appreciative of the enterprise of the government. We quote: "Kings are funny persons, as philatelists have known for a long time. . . . In this year of 1925 an Italian postal employee may batter away at the face of the king until it is so smutted with ink as to be unrecognizable, but the chances are that he will be called on the carpet if he tries to thwart the government's scheme by inking the advertisements too heavily." Evidently, the little schoolmaster is not inclined to encourage this form of advertising as its comments caustically on the misapplied enterprise of the exploiters of the stamp.

At the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., Chicago, there has been the sixth annual hobby and pet show, indicating the activity of the exhibitors, school boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years. Needless to say, stamps were well represented in the show and there was some newspaper publicity that was acceptable. As one paper said: "If any one imagines that the collecting of stamps and coins is a hobby forgotten by the present day youth, he's mistaken badly." The "hobby" exhibit is a good idea and one that is commended to the attention of those who are interested in properly directing the energy of the young. In the case of the "show" mentioned, neighborhood merchants were among those who contributed prizes which were competed for whole-heartedly; and there were medals and ribbons for the winners as well. In community affairs of all kinds, an effort should be made by collectors to have their pursuit entered or recognized in some way or other, as home advertising is about the best of all for stamp collecting.

The truly great John Kerr Tiffany, the first (and for many years only) president of the American Philatelic Society was greatly interested in the printed records of philately both in and out of the newspapers. For instance, Mr. Tiffany would go to no little pains to obtain a newspaper article on a philatelic subject and we remember at one of the convention cities he tramped around to the offices of the local papers in order to be certain that he had missed none of their references to stamps or the convention. Mr. Tiffany's risibilities were tickled when he found some particularly absurd allusion to the pursuit and headlines that were outlandish were relished. No doubt his favorite story was the one that was developed in good style by the newspaper writer who, through some strange mental lapse, observed in effect that "these flea trainers were normal persons who might be doing a great work unobtrusively," in finishing his article. The fleas were introduced abruptly, as the term philatelist had been used correctly in the body of the article a number of times and it seems impossible to blame the composito for the outre expression. Why the reporter associated "philatelists" and "flea trainers" together passes understanding. Getting down to the head-lines of today

USED IN THE
UNITED STATES
The Dominion of Canada and Foreign Countries
By Dr. Victor M. Berthold

We are pleased to be able to offer to the readers of Scott's Monthly Journal, a comprehensive and authoritative article upon the above subject, so important to philately and yet so little known.

Dr. Berthold has treated this subject in a most thorough and interesting fashion. Thanks to the great efforts he has made in this too long neglected branch of philately, there will exist, when the last installment of this article appears, a standard work upon Wells Fargo & Co. Franks which will make it possible for anyone to take up this fascinating branch of philately; which, in our opinion, will accord these Franks the same importance generally conceded to U. S. Locals.

The introductory installment appeared in our January Journal. The main part of the article will start in the February number and will continue for about six months. We have increased the printing order for our February Monthly Journal, but cannot guarantee to have a copy for you unless you notify us at once that you wish a copy reserved.

The simplest way to assure yourself of receiving this series complete from February, is to send $1.00 for a year's subscription.

W. S. BARKER, Philatelist
Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

Here are the quaint descriptives used by the Chicago Daily News in labelling, Mann Hatton's" account in the New ork Post: "Stamp Fans Live on Quirks f Joy. World's Foremost Philatelists queak Ecstatically Over Their Possesons." The "squeaks" must come from M. T. Dome's" stamp hinge.

There is one collector who does not now whether to be mad or glad, as a nsequence of the airing of his knowlge of the world through his philatelic ork. He was introduced to a naval ficer and the two chatted away from the art. The subject of conversation devel- ed into the South Sea islands—O'Brien uff and all that—and as a specialist of rts of the stamps of the section, the llector was at home with almost everying from Aitutaki down the alphabet. he officer asked when the collector had en "down there" and when the answer as made that he had never sailed on the acific, the traveler was astonished and id to the one who had introduced the colctor to him that he wished to tell his ivate ear that the collector certainly was ling it on thick when he said that he id not an actual acquaintance with the aces. Thus, another recruit is added the class that thinks stamp collectors e queer ducks.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

THE MILLER U. S. COLLECTION.

The most nearly perfect and complete collection of United States stamps in existence, the product of years of effort on the part of a Milwaukee philatelist, Benjamin K. Miller, Milwaukee Club, will soon be placed on permanent exhibition in the New York public library.

Mr. Miller has just returned from taking the stamps to New York and closing the business negotiations by means of which the New York library becomes the possessor of the valued collection. Forty-seven volumes, 14 by 17 inches, and containing 50 pages each, contain the collection. The cost of the stamps, not including the time and energy spent in collecting them, is approximately $140,000 The appreciation in value of many stamps in the collection, during the years that Mr. Miller has been gathering them, adds another $25,000 to the value. It is probable that the value of the collection, representing the intrinsic worth of the rare specimens, together with the time and energy devoted to completing the collection is in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

Perhaps the most expensive stamp in the collection is what philatelists know as a "bicolored invert" 30 cent used stamp of 1869 which cost Mr. Miller $1,750. The catalogue price of an unused specimen of this issue is $4,000, and the actual amount required to gain possession of one of these treasures would be considerably in advance of the catalogue figure.

Interesting sidelights upon the business and game were recounted by Mr. Miller in connection with his comments on the great collection which the New York public library has acquired:—

"Many odd things have happened in the history of the government's issuance of stamps. In 1861 when the war of the Rebellion broke, there were many United States stamps in the post-offices of the south. The Confederate postmaster-general ordered all of them sent back to Washington and most of them were sent back, but a new issue of federal stamps was decided upon.

"It had been customary for designs to be made, submitted to the postmaster-general and O.K'd by him more or less automatically as a matter of course. In this instance, however, the postmaster-general made some changes in the designs. Some of the stamps had been made from the plates in anticipation of their approval and were sold and went into use. How this came about is the great mystery of the stamp world. There are eight different stamps in this first or August issue of 1861 and they run up to $1,000 and more each. The catalogue price on a set of eight is $5,000 but the price one must pay to acquire a set is nearer $10,000. There are only three or four sets in existence.

"In 1893 a memorial set of stamps was issued, called the Columbian set. There were no unperforated stamps in this issue. For years there has been a rumor among stamp collectors that a set of unperforated stamps of this issue, in pairs, was in existence. The story was to the effect that Postmaster-General Wanamaker had purchased and paid for a set of these unperforated stamps and taken them to Henry Hilton, a wealthy merchant of New York, for Hilton's son. It was considered, in the absence of any proof that such an unusual set existed, that the rumor was rumor and nothing else, but two or three years ago the set actually showed up and I got them.

"Three or four years ago the government got out the first airplane mail stamp, a 24 cent stamp commemorating the first use of the airplane as a mail carrier. The stamps are put out in sheets of 100. A small Washington dealer conceived a desire to buy a sheet of this issue and preserve it. He took his $24 and bought a sheet.

"The stamp was of two colors with a red border and in the center a very tiny airplane in blue. The making of the stamp requires the use of two plates. When the dealer took the new stamps out to look at them he discovered that the airplane was upside down; that the plate had been inverted accidentally on this one sheet.

"Packing his grip he went to Philadelphia, where he sold the sheet to a large dealer for $15,000—$150 a stamp. The Philadelphia dealer sold the sheet to Col. Green, the son of Hetty Green, for $20,000, or $200 a stamp. Col. Green, being a true son of his mother, took out what he wanted and returned the rest to the dealer to be disposed of at $250 a stamp. They went so fast that he raised the price to $500 and now this stamp is catalogued at $750 and you can't get one for less than $1,000. I got in early and bought one for $250 and commission."—Milwaukee Journal.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Rogers A. Lee, Bloomington, Ind.
Major C. S. Hamilton, Philadelphia, Pa.
Jos. S. Rich; N. Y. City, N. Y.

Our first application for membership this week is from Rogers A. Lee of Bloomington, Ind. Mr. Lee merely uses one of our wrappers, makes a notation of $5 thereon, and the deed is done. We are very glad to add Mr. Lee's name to our long list of members in the Honor Club.

We take pleasure in adding to our list of members in the Honor Club, Major C. S. Hamilton of Philadelphia, Pa., a philatelist of long standing and one whose name is quite familiar to many of our readers.

Our old philatelic friend Joseph S. Rich, for many years interested in the old firm of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., sends us a check for $5 for membership in the Honor Club. We count it quite a compliment to the WEEKLY for Mr. Rich to thus recognize the strength of our publication.

BIG ALDRICH PURCHASE.

By the advertisement of W. S. Aldrich, St. Joseph, Mo., elsewhere in this issue it will be noticed that this firm has purchased the large reserve stock of Stanley Gibbons, Inc., 19th century foreign stamps. We congratulate Mr. Aldrich upon the incorporating of this stock with that previously held by him, and it means that the lover of British Colonials will be interested in the transaction. Mr. Aldrich now has a stock that catalogs around $150,000.

UNITED STATES COIL STAMPS

Did you ever realize that the coil stamps are just as much a regular emission as those issued in sheet form and that the fact now being appreciated has resulted in an unusual demand for these varieties. The stock of no dealer is large because when most of them were current, few were interested in them. They are given main numbers in the catalogue and there is a space for them in the album. In other words, a good demand with a small supply —What's the answer—prices are bound to advance. I recommend fine coil pairs or strips as an investment. At present, I can offer in single copies:

	Cat.	Net
1908—Sidewise coil, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (348-351)	$1.60	$1.25
1908—Sidewise, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (352-355)	1.60	1.25
1910—Sidewise Perf. 12, 1c, 2c (385-386)	.55	.45
1910—Endwise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c (390-391)	.23	.20
1910 Sidewise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (392-96)	.86	.65
1912—Endwise & Sidewise 1c & 2c (410-413)	.40	.30
1914—Both ways 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (441-447)	2.36	1.75
1915—Same rotary (448-458)	1.06	1.00
1915—2c Imperf. rotary (459)	9.00	7.50
1916—Both ways 1c-10c (486-497)	.85	.60
1917—Endwise 1c, 2c; Sideways 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c	..	.35
One each of the above 52 varieties	..	15.00

Those buying the entire 52 varieties will receive 3 other die coil varieties not included in above list. Can furnish pairs and strips of four at the same rate. Line and joint varieties will be furnished without extra charge when in stock. Can also furnish many of the other coils, but have too few to list. In the market to buy all of the 1902 to 1910 varieties, No. 445, No. 449 Dies I and II, No. 453 Die II, Nos. 456 to 459, No. 491 Die II and anything else nice in coils. Have a good stock of paste up strips with plate numbers for those interested.

If you have omitted coils from your collection, now is the time to get them. A place in Scott's album for every one of the above listed stamps.

Can also furnish all of the booklet panes, as well as most regular varieties in blocks and singles from 1890 to date. And a good stock of earlier issues, too. May I have your U. S. want list and please do not forget that little reference if unknown to me —bank reference preferred.

The Rotary Print Varieties.

One picking up the Standard Catalogue and noticing the rotary prints being obtainable with numerous perforations is naturally led to wonder why they come perf. 10, perf. 11, perf. 11x10 and perf. 10x11. Off-hand one might almost think that they were made for the philatelist but such is not the case and everyone has appeared for a definite reason as will be seen.

When the rotary press was invented by Mr. Benjamin R. Stickney of the Mechanical Department of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, it was for quite a little time used on the tax paid stamps only. Later on they began to use these presses for the coil stamps and it is only more recently that the product of these presses has been obtainable in sheet form.

The first that appeared on the market came as a great surprise and unheralded in the summer of 1919, when the 1c, 2c and 3c appeared perforated 11x10.

Naturally in the engraving of such stamps there is a waste, that is, loose ends of coil sheets or places where the coils broke and had to be joined, and this waste portion previously has been destroyed. The Post Office felt that there would be a very fair saving if this waste was perforated both ways and issued in sheet form. As a result in accordance with instructions, the coil waste from the sidewise coils which was already perforated 10 vertically, was then run through the normal perforators horizontally and perforated 11, thus giving us our well known rotary compounds 11x10, now bearing Scott's numbers 538, 539 and 541.

There was not sufficient coil waste of the endwise stamps to warrant perforating them the other way, so that this waste has always been destroyed. There, however, appeared quite a little imperforated waste, that is, waste that had not even gone through the coil perforator to receive the 10 perforation one way, and this was run through the normal perforating machine both ways, which resulted in the perf. 11 rotaries, Scott's numbers 545 and 546. In the case of the 1c there was very little waste and I know of but one small supply which went through New York, and this stamp by the way is by no means plentiful. The 2c is by no means common. The stamps mentioned above are all from the 170 subject plates used in making the sidewise coil.

The printing of stamps on the rotary press was cutting the department's cost almost in half, and as a result with economy as the watchword, they began to consider the possibility of printing most of the stamps by this method instead of by the flat press process. The first denomination considered was the 1c and in furnishing this variety it was hoped to perforate it 11 both ways as is the normal flat plate stamp. They, however, believed, and no doubt rightly so, that the strain on the sheet in printing by the rotary method would be so great that it was necessary to have a little stronger perforation one way, that is, the way where the sheet received the greatest strain. As a result, the first rotary stamp issued in sheets of one hundred appeared perforated 11x10 and bears Scott's No. 543.

As soon as this stamp reached the public, there was a howl, for with the heavy coil paper and the heavy gum, the sheets readily curled and separated along the 11 perforation, resulting in untold work for the post-office clerk and great inconvenience to the public. As a result the stamp was perforated 10 both ways, immediately, resulting in Scott's No. 544.

Since this stamp appeared there have been numerous experiments for breaking the gum, as well as experiments with new paper in order to produce a satisfactory article at a reasonable figure. I am officially informed that it is quite possible these rotary stamps will appear in time perforated 11 both ways, so that the rotary and flat plate stamps will be similar in perforation.

The rotary coil stamps are one of the most interesting issues ever distributed b the United States Government.

RUANDA URUNDI.—The new shades of Congo noted above have been surcharged "Ruanda Urundi" in black in two lines and copies have come to hand from the same correspondents as sent in the Congo stamps.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports a fourth setting in the surcharged stamps of Union of South Africa that are used in this colony. This time the "South West" is 16mm long and the "Zuidwest" 12mm, with the space between ½mm. The following values are reported: 1d, 2d, 4d, 6d, 1sh, 1s3d, 10sh.

SALVADOR.—Señor José Simeon Canas, who was responsible for the measures which led to the abolition of slavery in Central America, is to be honored by the issue of a special 5c stamp bearing his portrait. We understand that 150,000 are to be printed, and that 100,000 of these are to be placed in circulation, and the remaining 50,000 kept in a bank selected by the Minister of the Interior, in two equal lots, to be sold by auction: the first lot on December 31st, 1933, and the second on December 31st, 1943. It is actually stipulated in the decree that the proceeds of these sales will be distributed by the Government amongst various charitable institutions. What is the stamp world coming to? Evidently Salvador doesn't intend to be its saviour.—Stamp Collecting.

SYRIA (Alawiya).—Twenty-four values of the current adhesives of France have been overprinted "ALAOUITES," and with Arabic equivalent and new denomination, that being the name of a district of Northern Syria now constituted as a separate State under the mandate of France. The territory will be found designated as Alawiya on English maps, its chief town being Latakia, famous for its tobacco. Mr. L. GIBBONS' GREAT ADVERTISEMENT.

By taking the whole of the front page of the Daily Mail (the most prominent and costly newspaper advertising space in the world) on January 30, 1925, Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., have not only added to their long record of bold strokes of business, but have given to stamp-collecting such an advertisement as it has never hitherto received.

In addition to a well-displayed summary of the many activities of their business (the purchase and sale of stamps, the production of albums, catalogues, handbooks and accessories, and the publication of their magazine, Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal), Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., have devoted the most prominent portion of this valuable space to a brief history of the hobby and a forceful summary of its many attractions, coupled with the romantic history of the seventy years' growth of the famous firm, and an announcement of its very active policy of stamp-buying.

The talk on the hobby is backed by the announcement in bold type "We Offer You a New Joy in Life" and a promise to send to any enquirer a special booklet giving further details.

This booklet, bearing the compelling title The Lure of the Postage Stamp, and written by Mr. Stanley Phillips, covers, in a few hundred words, the many-sided appeal of stamp collecting to all sorts and conditions of men and women, and gives to each reader the answer to the question, "Why should I collect stamps?" The booklet is beautifully produced in two colours and, backed by the great Daily Mail advertisement, should have a potent effect in gaining recruits for the hobby.

Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., will doubtless be glad to send a copy of The Lure of the Postage Stamp to any reader who cares to write to them.

The fact that stamp collecting is of sufficient importance to warrant a prominent and costly advertisement of this nature, must of itself have an incalculable effect in raising the status of the hobby still higher in the eyes of the world at large, while the direct recruiting value of the campaign which it initiates is probably greater than that of any previous effort made with this object in view.

AN ALBUM NEED.

By H. A. LARNED.

I have been collecting for over 30 years, and have never yet put a stamp in an album. This must sound strange to you collectors. The reason is this: for 17 years I ran a store and whenever I received a stamp out of the ordinary, or one of more than commonly high denomination I threw it into a box. I was too busy then to classify and arrange them but was always going to in the future. As my store was a drug store I naturally acquired many revenues, particularly those of Spanish War times, some Civil War ones from old bottles of patent medicine and a few of these private proprietary stamps.

What I do not know about stamps would fill a very big book. Now, however, I have the time to do something with my stamps and want an album. But I cannot find one to suit me. My idea is not one large album, but several small ones. Then anyone could have a different album for their different classifications. It would seem to me that hardly any of us want to classify our stamps exactly alike. I suggest a book about 12 inches long and five or five and one-half inches wide. I mention this width for this reason: Many people have very valuable collections of stamps and if they should be going away from home and did not want to leave their collection where someone might steal them, or for any other reason wanted to put it in a safe place they could easily slip a book of this size into an ordinary safe deposit box in their bank. I do not know as it would even be advisable to have the squares laid out and numbered and then the albums could be used for any kind of stamps.

REMINISCENCES.

By SIR N. E. WATERHOUSE, K.B.E.

Human beings may be divided into two classes, those who collect things and those who do not. The latter class usually laughs at the former and the former class feels rather sorry for the latter. Which is right I do not know but anyhow I am glad to be of the collector class. I started very early in making a collection of the little square pieces of tin to which the wick is attached at the bottom of the common nursery night lights and I advanced successively to crests, stones, birds' eggs and coins.

Never, however, did I get the full flavour of collecting till after many years of study of the aforementioned objects, I turned my mind to Postage Stamps at the somewhat advanced age of 10. That was in the "eighties" and how well I remember the thrills in those days awaiting the postman after despatching my 1sh, or sometimes even 2s6d Postal Order to Messrs. Errington & Martin, Whitfield King or Stafford Smith.

Then there was the joy of periodically remounting first from the blue copy book to the bright red "Lincoln" (cheap edition without maps) and the great change again from the "Lincoln" to the oblong "Stafford Smith" with its descriptions of the stamps in the margins. Unfortunately however, in order to save time in removing the unhinged collection from the copy book to the "Lincoln" I left the whole book with its contents to soak in a pail of hot water, with the result that every stamp emerged on a beautiful Bleuté paper. Personally, I believe this to be the true origin of the black English on Bleuté (now priced 3 used) but though my haste and ingeni undoubtedly enhanced the value of few penny blacks, it certainly made specialised lot of mint Salvador Seebe look a bit old fashioned, especially bright yellow varieties.

However, I struggled on and n really gave up my hobby and at the of 20 I was getting together quite a little general collection, rather strong U. S. A. in two or three albums removable pages. A few years before war I decided to part with my gen collection and to specialise interest in favourite country U. S. A. and from till now it has been my great ambi to be considered more insane on this ject than anyone else this side of the lantic. I am bound to say there are a few others who run me pretty clos this respect but I am not down-hea and am getting plenty of fun in endeavour to do better and to build more attractive collection than the o have just disposed of.

As to the sordid financial side of hobby, this, to a true collector must b secondary consideration. Provided seeks for quality instead of quantity specialises with a view to obtaining knowledge in a particular branch ins of only a smattering of knowledge the whole subject, the investment sh not prove an unsatisfactory one. As plied to "collecting" of any descriptio is a true saying that "a little knowl is a dangerous thing" especially if hopes to make the hobby a profitable

By N. R. HOOVER.

If anyone in or around New York wants to get a Philatelic "kick" these days, he should drop in on S. P. A. Branch, No. 1, and watch how it operates. It meets the second and fourth Thursday night of each month on the second floor of Silver's Restaurant on the south side of 42nd Street between Broadway and 6th Avenue.

The meeting held Thursday, January 22, was typical. About fifty-five people were there, three of whom were women. There were two boys. The rest were men collectors. It was a sight to behold to see that number of persons gathered in groups around tables, examining collections, stock books and approvals. Exchanges of stamps between men or sales by dealers to others of both regular postage and precancels, is the habit from 8 to 9 each meeting. From the increasing number of small dealers who are joining, it is quite clear that they are finding these meetings profitable spots for selling.

President Litt allowed everybody free run until 9, when the business meeting, short and sweet, started. After enrolling the 66th member and attending to other business matters, one hundred auction lots were put up. Auctioneer Camp worked through the pile in about an hour.

This S. P. A. Branch is just about the liveliest thing in Philately this year. The officers are so perky over it they have sent out a challenge to every other society of like purpose. President A. O. Litt, 487 Broadway, contends no other society has grown as fast as this has, sixty-six members since October, 1924. No other society has a larger proportion of members in actual attendance. No other society sells one hundred lots at auction. Will anybody accept the challenge and write Mr. Litt accordingly?

MINT MEMEL

One year ago Lithuania's small army—equipped by money made in the U. S. by one of her loyal sons—took Memel, then under the League of Nations control, disarming he French garrison and putting the City under Lithuanian influence even to its name—Klaipeda. They still hold the City and how long before Lithuanian stamps will be sed there?

Whatever you think—and you may guess wrongly—here is an opportunity to fill 'em up. Complete mint stock. This includes the rare ones. Our previous Danzig and Germany ads still hold good. Fill up in these countries with a future as our ads appear.

RURAL MAIL SERVICE.

Few institutions in the history of American progress can be credited with a more salutary effect upon the march of that progress than the Rural Mail Service of the Post Office Department.

No other single instrumentality has done more than the Rural Mail Service toward "bringing the city to the country", and relieving the prosaic existence of farm life, or has been as effective in establishing closer contact between the farmer and his markets. It has been the most important factor in making agriculture an exacting business instead of its one-time precarious classification which conveyed no broader meaning than "tilling the soil."

Twenty-nine years ago the farmer, and his wife and children, led an existence of almost complete isolation, living upon widely scattered farms, some of them miles apart. They had comparatively little communication with their neighbors or the outside world, except that derived from weekly trips to the adjacent village. More often than not the farmer lost a full day's work and his crops were neglected in order to obtain expected mail at the village post-office.

In those days the farmers' mail consisted largely of communications from relatives and friends. Today the daily mail includes, usually on the very date of publication, the metropolitan newspaper, containing market reports and agricultural news; the weekly and monthly farm journals and magazines, and business letters from the village merchant and the more pretentious establishment in the distant city. All of these are now brought to his door or to the box, a few yards away.

The rural carrier is the farmer's post-office and his agent. Through him he conducts transactions for the sale of his live stock, grain, and other farm produce. From him he buys stamps and pays his bills by postal money order. In short, the letter carrier is the medium that has transformed the once secluded habitant of the rural district into a cosmopolitan citizen, conversant with current affairs and occupying a larger place in the destinies of a great nation.

HISTORY.

It was Postmaster-General John Wanamaker who first officially suggested in 1891 the rural mail idea to Congress. The plan was fought in the legislative branch of the Government for five years before it was given a try-out.

The first bill authorizing the establishment of the service was introduced in the House by Representative James O'Donnell of Michigan, January 5, 1892. It carried an appropriation of $6,000,000, but failed of passage. A year later Congress was induced to appropriate $10,000 for experimental purposes followed in 1894 by $20,000 more. Mr. Wanamaker, believing the amount insufficient even for experimental service, declined to use the money.

On January 9, 1896, $10,000 was added by Congress and on October 1, the same year the first experimental rural delivery service was established simultaneously on three routes in West Virginia, one from Charlestown, one from Uvilla, and one from Halltown. From this small beginning, nine months later found the service operating on 82 routes emanating from 43 post-offices in 29 states. Twenty-eight years later, or June 30, 1924, the Rural Mail Service had grown to 44,260 routes with a total mileage of 1,205,714.

In comparison with the insignificant appropriation of $10,000 made by Congress more than a quarter of a century ago to inaugurate the service, it now requires an annual expenditure of $89,250,000 to keep it functioning.

The first county to be completely covered by Rural Mail Service was Carroll County, Maryland, where county service was established December 20, 1899. There are very few counties in the country today that are not honeycombed to the uttermost corners with free mail delivery.

By 1915, 26,080 fourth class post-offices had been discontinued as a result of the extension of the Rural Mail Service. It is estimated that an annual saving of $1,613,040 was accomplished by the discontinuance of these offices while the elimination of star, or contract, routes is estimated to save $3,482,670 per annum.

When the service was first inaugurated the salaries of rural carriers was only $200 a year. They may now get as much as $2,160 a year, depending on the length of the routes, while the motor routes of 50 miles or more pay salaries of $2,450 to $2,600.

Under the administration of H. H. Billany, present Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General, a marked increase in rural delivery facilities has been made, the number of routes climbing from 43,649 to 44,760; the mileage from 1,159,239 to 1,205,714 and the number of individuals served from 29,113,883 to 29,921,123.

Illinois leads the nation both in the number of rural routes and in mileage, there being 2,637 routes covering a distance of 70,677 miles in that state. Ohio is second with 2,542 routes and a mileage of 63,820; Missouri third with 2,252 routes covering 56,074 miles; Iowa fourth with 2,229 routes covering 60,734 miles; Texas fifth with 2,193 routes covering 59,998 miles; Pennsylvania sixth with 2,036 and 53,385 respectively, Kansas seventh with 1,902 and 55,464 respectively; and New York eighth with 1,863 and 47,130 respectively.

CONDITION CRANKS

By FRED JARRETT.

After selling thousands of dollars' worth of stamps, I know what a condition crank is. He is one who has unfortunately applied the collecting instinct to stamps instead of cigar bands or buttons. In him the mercenary instinct often submerges the true collector's instinct. He never forgets that perfection stamps bought at a third of catalogue are like money in the bank, and he works himself into an epileptic fit when any of the following atrocities are forced upon his attention:

1. A stamp heavily cancelled with an interesting or historical cancellation which hides the design.

2. A stamp lightly cancelled with ditto cancellation which is too faint.

3. A stamp with no gum and a peck of ink on the face, hence used, but valueless because not evidence enough of proper postal use.

4. A mint stamp with a minute scratch in the gum, or a mint stamp with perfect gum but a black dot visible under a strong glass on the face of the stamp.

The condition crank is usually a collector of perforations, ink and gum. The wonder is that when he does land the 100% perfect mint stamp he does not turn it face down to show the world how superb the gum is. As for used stamps, if you offer him one in which he can find a teeney weeney crease that might be a tear he will soak it in boiling water for half an hour and then offer you a fifth catalogue for it.

What amuses me is the way these cranks who froth at the mouth about an imperfection hardly visible to the naked eye in your stamp, will with the utmost composure expect to extract full catalogue from you for a stamp with two straight edges, a pinhole and a smudge cancellation obliterating the design.

I recently sent 30c to the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. for a Canada 5c Beaver. Although full catalogue price was paid, the copy sent was badly off center and none too lightly cancelled. Still it had to be admitted that it was an average specimen, and the catalogue states that prices are based on average specimens.

I suppose the 100% fine stamp is perfectly centered, of fine color, with full gum and unhinged, and the 100% used stamp is the same except for a light cancellation, although while some prefer theirs well smeared others want the minimum of ink on the face—others again do not consider a stamp properly used unless it is clearly postmarked with the name of the capital city and dated the first day of issue.

If but one stamp stands out from among hundreds on account of perfection in one or all details, that stamp is surely worth some considerable premium. Anyone who knows stamp tongs from ice tongs knows what an average stamp is. It is just that—average—and catalogue prices are based on such specimens.

More power to the one who diligently seeks perfect specimens, but he must expect to pay for them, and he must not deprecate the average stamp. This yearning for perfect stamps and the corresponding deprecation of anything less than perfection is the natural tendency of collectors trying to follow the lead set by the Grand Moguls of Stampdom, whose collections we have seen, but let us not overlook the fact that their pages of perfect stamps represent the pick of the world's markets, purchased in many instances at several times catalogue.

Again, many spaces in their albums now covered by perfect stamps were first covered by average stamps.

With the majority of collectors turning up their philatelic noses at average stamps and trying to buy perfection specimens and no others at a third of catalogue, we are hastening the day when 99% of the stamps now in collections including our own, don't forget, will have become utterly valueless. To one stamp that goes into a collection today there are a hundred which must forever wander about sales circuits like lost souls in Hades. Let us come to our senses a little and be real stamp collectors again—improving our condition of course, but not absolutely condemning the average stamp.—Stamp Herald.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Springfield (Mass.) Union of Feb. 2 contained a special article "Faulty Stamp Issues Sought by Collectors" written by the well-known correspondent Frederick J. Haskin of Washington. It is well written but does not contain sufficient new material for us to reprint it. Thanks to Carl H. Morrill for the clipping.

—We are also indebted to Herbert G. Ahrend for three clippings, two of which have already been well covered in the WEEKLY. The third is an article descriptive of the new German silver 3 mark piece which appears without a crown and has in its stead an eagle, emphasizing the abolition of the rule of emperors.

—We have received from J. L. Riedel, Nurnburg, Germany, a new wholesale price list. Danzig and Memel together with certain German offerings are quoted at very favorable prices and de ers interested will do well to send fo copy of the list.

—"Don't laugh at people with hobbie says Pola Negri, "They are wiser th those who haven't any. Boredom is t greatest menace to health. People w are keen on hobbies are never bor When they finish their work, they tu at once to their hobby. The brain fu tions just as actively but it works alc different channels. BARBADOS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The 1s black on emerald green, script CA, small Seal series, was received at Bridgetown previous to Sept. 9th and issued Sept. 18, 1924. This small printing of 50 sheets (6,000 stamps), considered sufficient for six months' requirements, was exhausted in ten days (one dealer alone taking £110 worth), and in less than two months the stamp was selling at 15s in London. The 1s Roman CA exhausted during the closing days of December, 1924. With the 1s script CA, fresh supplies of the ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d and 2½d were received.

Except for the 1s all values of the small Seal series are still on sale, and these, with the remainder stock of the ½d and 2½d large Seal series (1916), and the 3s Victory series (1920), are expected to last until the end of March, 1925. The unified Postage & Revenue series will then be issued and all obsolete issues burned, in accordance with instructions sent out from Downing Street early in 1924.

Burnings have cleared the Barbados Treasury vaults of obsolete issues in several instances in the past. At the end of 1901, remainders of the Diamond Jubilee series, issued Nov. 15, 1897, were burned, and on January 2, 1911, the stock of the 5d and 10d typographed Seal series (issued July 18, 1892) was burned, there being no longer a demand for these particular values. It was on the latter occasion that the following comments were made by a contemporary philatelic writer:

"The remaining stock of the 5d and 10d stamps (Seal type, typographed, 1892 series) to the number of over 30,000 was burned on January 2, 1911. The 8d has been sold out for some time, so there were no remainders to burn. In fact, only a small lot of this value on CA multiple paper was ever printed, and we should not be surprised to see it catalogued before long at 10s to 15s. It is difficult to understand why the remainders should have been burned. They have been replaced by 6d and 1s stamps, and we should have thought it much less expensive to surcharge the 5d and 10d stamps, respectively, 6d and 1s. Stamp collectors would have welcomed such interesting novelties, and the Colony would have speedily realised over £1,000 for what it has now had to pay to have burned."

On August 14, 1912, following the issue of the King's head and Seal series, in July-August of that year, the remainders of the ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2½d and 1s of the typographed Seal series, in Universal colors (the 2d and 6d had exhausted), and the 2s6d purple and green, multiple CA, of 1904-05, were burned.

While in 1923 there was a decrease in the P. O. revenue of £824, and an increase in expenditure of £218, over 1922, there was a profit of £1,094 for the year. Stamp sales decreased slightly, and the value of those sent to collectors and dealers abroad (£250.15.3½) was £800 under the figure for 1922. 1919 was another "off" year, when the philatelic stamp sales amounted to but £508.13.0.

CHAPTER VI.

Spreading Out the Nucleus.

Now that you have finished your preliminary research and created your nucleus, you reach the most important step.

Guided by a standard catalogue, you begin sorting out your specimens by countries, placing each country's specimens in separate envelopes, or boxes, or compartments. You can buy specially prepared manila cards, with directions for cutting, folding and pasting into small unlidded 1½"x2½" across bottom and 1¼" high. Material for 40 boxes may be had for 12c. These boxes are very convenient when kept in a shallow drawer or tray, and will prove very useful in sorting work, as well as for keeping distinct specimens and duplicates.

Heavily postmarked, torn and otherwise imperfect stamps should be excluded from your album pages.

As your album spaces are limited, aim to fill them up as quickly as possible, rather than to acquire the complete sets of any particular issue. Whether your consisting of mostly Nineteenth Century stamps in fine condition listing from Ten Dollars down is placed with us for sale. The collection lists $3860.00 and is for sale at $1000.00 flat. Correspondence invited.

1925 PRICE-LIST

The 1925 edition of my long established price-list of United States stamps entitled "Stamps of United States and Colonies" is still available to the several thousand readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, who have not applied for it.

It gives prices for both "good" and "fine" copies of most issues and serves as an excellent check-list for pocket use.

Mailed free upon request.

No unsolicited approvals, no follow-up letters, no "come-back" of any kind is coupled with the receipt of a request for this list. I take the chance that the list itself will merit an order—and I win nine times out of ten. [80&2 album be one with capacity for 5,000 or 30,999, the task of placing each stamp in each square allotted by the publishers would be more difficult than interesting. Therefore, set your first lot of stamps on their pages by their "face values", namely: all of 1c in a row, 2c in another, and so forth. In this way you soon will be able to show results in the way of "filled" spaces.

Thus it comes about that your main objective is sharply brought out: i.e., you are keeping within the limits of your album, thereby facilitating "completing" a collection, yet allowing yourself all the leeway you may desire in the way of any particular range of values for each page. Another advantage of this method lies in your being the master rather than your being the slave of your album or catalogue.

Let us suppose your album is for 12,000 stamps, and your nucleus, after sorting, enabled you to spread 1,150 different specimens among the pages of your collection book. You have still 10,850 different stamps to acquire before your ambition to fill the album is attained. Your nucleus probably left you with a quantity of duplicates, perhaps 100, perhaps 500.

In the course of hinging your specimens, your mind has been working subconsciously. Before you realize it, your subconscious self will have decided upon certain of your original favorite countries as being the ones to which you would like to give preferred attention.

Your more substantial fun now commences.

Shall you buy for filling those 10,850 unfilled spaces? What would you buy? Another packet?

There are several ways to acquire stamps for one's collection. They may be enumerated as follows:—

1. Buy from catalogues.
2. Buy from approval sheets or books.
3. Buy special packets.
4. Exchange with other collectors.
5. Buy from other collectors.
6. Ask non-collecting friends to give you such stamps, old and new, that they may have.
7. Search old files or bundles of old letters.
8. Dig into waste baskets of banks, import-export houses, etc.
9. Buy at stamp auctions.
10. Trade with philatelists in other countries.

Is it not wonderful to have so many avenues?

INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, NEW YORK—OCTOBER 1926.

The Publicity Committee announces that the Officers of the Exhibition are as follows: President, Charles Lathrop Pack; Vice Presidents: Hon. E. R. Ackerman, Alfred H. Caspary, Carroll Chase, William H. Crocker, Judge Robert S. Emerson, Hon. J. S. Frelinghuysen, Col. Edward H. R. Green, Abraham Hatfield, Jr., Major T. Charlton Henry, Arthur Hind, W. R. Ricketts, Ferrers H. Tows, George Walcott.

The Exhibition Committee. This is really the Executive Committee and is the one upon which will fall the bulk of the work of organizing the Exhibition. It is temporarily constituted as follows: Chairman, Alfred F. Lichtenstein; Vice Chairmen, Arthur E. Owen, Charles J. Phillips; Secretary, Charles M. Ams, 101 Park Avenue, New York; Treasurer, Theodore E. Steinway; J. M. Bartels, Dr. J. B. Chittenden, H. M. Clark, J. A. Klemann, E. Klein, E. S. Knapp, H. M. Lewy, H. L. Lindquist, J. N. Luff, L. B. Mason, J. C. Morgenthau, E. Stern, H. Toaspern, P. H. Ward, Jr., and two members of the Boston Philatelic Society to be nominated by that Society.

The Finance Committee. The following have been nominated to serve on this committee: Alfred H. Caspary, Colonel E. H. R. Green, Major T. Charlton Henry, Charles Lathrop Pack, T. E. Steinway.

The Publicity Committee is composed as follows: Chairman, Hon. E. R. Ackerman; Vice Chairman, Charles J. Phillips; Secretary, J. J. Klemann, 116 Nassau Street, New York; Charles M. Ams, H. M. Clark, Frank Crane, A. D. Fennel, E. B. Power, George Sloane, H. Toaspern, P. H. Ward, Jr., Willard O. Wylie.

The fourth floor of the Grand Central Palace, Lexington Avenue and 46th Street, New York, with 30,000 square feet of space has been rented for an eight days Exhibition in October, 1926.

A tentative program has been drafted and published and is thought to be in advance of anything that has hitherto been attempted. Copies of this draft program have been sent to leading philatelic societies throughout the world and suggestions to improve it asked from them. It is hoped to get out the final program by October next.

Arrangements are being made to give special attention to Junior Collectors.

It is proposed to screen off a section of the floor space at the Grand Central Palace and provide a place where lec-

Notice Extraordinary

WE ARE WITH YOU ONCE MORE

You will no doubt recall Our Eye-Opener Ads of two years ago, you will remember how anxiously you rushed your money-orders, checks and greenbacks to the Wonder City of the World, and how you kept it up from week to week as long as our Eye-Opener Ads appeared in MEKEEL'S.

A serious operation put the head push of our Stamp Company in the hospital and out of business for nearly one year—and the opening of our new store and the re-arranging of our entire stock—The Counting of Perforations, and Watermarking of many thousands of Rare Old Foreign stamps has taken up the time of from one to four assistants for another year. (We have used nearly 3 gallons on Benzine in the watermarking process alone.) We still have work to be done, but we can see the end.

We find we have a most wonderful variety of the Good Old Hard-to-Get Foreign Stamps and we have good reasons to believe we have the largest stock of Scarce Old United States stamps in the World.

We also have a magnificent stock of Unused Blocks of 4, Plate No. Blocks. Arrow and Center Line Blocks of U. S., and we advise that you get in touch with us for anything needed in that line. We find we are much overstocked on certain unused blocks—and in order to get our stock down to normal we are going to offer unused Block Specials each week. Our 1st Eye-Opener Block Special will appear in next week's Issue.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

These Forum articles seem to me to come round faster than usual. Have always threatened to get ahead of the coming week; but at this time of the year there seems to be no getting ahead. There is always a collection of Black Jacks to fall back on, but to date the readers of the Forum have kindly stepped to the front with so many interesting features in way of items that I haven't had to tap that B. J. supply. Think that this summer they will undergo a severe study, and then be presented in spasms, rather than in an intensive article as was my one time intention.

Think of a town postmark so small that a thin dime will cover it entirely! Have seen these from two towns, Mercer (this is from memory on a 3c '57, and have forgotten the state), and the other from Chicopee, Mass., the stamp a 3c '57 being covered with that double triangle star. Will have to show that star when our illustrations come along. By the way, haven't you a few of the more unusual cancellations that would help doll up our coming illustrations of rare cancellations? Recently arrived a cover with the pmk. of "Plainfield, Mass. Apr 11," sent to Williamsburg, Mass. The stamp, a 3c '61, is one of those pretty shades pen-cancelled with the letter "s". This is the smallest town pmk. I ever saw, the above mentioned dime would totally eclipse this tiny pmk.

Dr. R. F. Chambers has sent in a few oddities in recent issues, 3c Victory, double impression, the color is quite distinctly outlined just below the natural impression, giving a doubled appearance as tho it had been printed twice, the two printings not "registering" exactly. Folded corner: A top left block of four mint of the 5c Perf. 11, No. 504, is so folded that about one-quarter of the stamp is printed on the folded portion of the block, i.e., the back of the sheet. When this top corner is raised up, or back into its true position, the stamp shows white in the space which was covered by the fold. These sometimes fall to the collector who has an eye open for the freakish things in late issues, tho the Inspector usually sees them first, and collectors are fortunate to find such items. Some funny corner perfs occur when the machine tangles up the sheets, and when folded out, we get a curious appearing block with "odd perfs".

The item that I liked best was a booklet pane of six 1c unwmkd., perf. 10. This is a finely centered pane, the right margin showing a jagged crack down the entire right side, except that it runs off the pane in middle of bottom stamp, the crack having dwindled to appearance of a thin scratch at this point, and the loss of its "course" is negligible, as so much does show. At the start, which shows on the little top binding edge of the pane, this crack is 1mm wide, and this jagged break sure does run wild all down that margin, deep green, pretty.

Another cracked plate is shown in a vertical block of eight (2x4) on the 2c perf.10,S.L.wmk.I'd say. (Do you have any trouble with these recent U. S. watermarks? I do, but can't think of the word I want to use in describing them!) This block has Pl. No. 7582, under bottom left stamp, while in the vertical space between the two vert rows is this crack, a thin halting affair, tho clearly seen without any glass. I'd say take a look at the side margins of your perf. 10 2c for this variety, I once had one on a cover coming from a doctor enclosing a memo "For services rendered"—but it was a fine cover, and worth more than the contents called for to me.

Have had a call for some mention of paper varieties. Have any of you had anything to do in the study of the paper on which these Early U. S. were printed? It is presumed that the postage stamps and the revenue stamps came on the same paper. Can this be determined? I have never given any study to papers, except noticing a few of the thickest, or thinnest. The thickest I have seen come on a 3c '51 (so called) printed probably around 1853-54. They are so thick that I sometimes try to soak the paper off the back! Ever get one of those? And for the thinnest, I have a 3c grilled that is so thin the wind blows it up off the sheet when the book is open, then the pages fall down on it, making it full of creases. You can almost see thro it. I have never seen any notes on laid paper applied to the U. S. revenue stamps; but have found $2.50 revenues, first issue, that were on a paper that appeared laid in the true sense of the word. Look over some of your copies, and see if you find what I found, most of them run vertically. The 1c '61 I have found in laid paper more than in the 3c value, not numerically; but as to percentage.

There is a paper that the 1861 issue comes on, which has been termed "onion skin". You may have had stamps that felt "snappy" as to the paper, and the color of these printings as a rule is much paler than the normal stamp. If you will feel of that paper, you will find that it is greasy feeling on both sides, and that the paper is not smooth as with other stamps, it has very small lumps, tho that word is not explicit, little waves of thick and thin appearance all thro the entire surface. The face of these stamps usually looks crinkly, and soaking will not remove this appearance, it remains crinkly, and greasy, or shiny, after being in water. This paper resembles a high grade bond paper as now made more than any other I can mention. Not many are found. An article on these paper varieties taking up to the time of the Bank Note issues would be quite refreshing, and then too, you know today we are studying the backs of our stamps, as well as their faces.

Please remember the cancellations that are out of the ordinary. Think there will be a goodly number and variety, providing you will send on some of your best ones. Last week showed some pretty eagles, stars, moon face, etc., oh, and a woof. This latter is so odd that the name was coined to fit the brute. What have you in the way of birds, beasts and flowers that we'd all like to see?

U. S. POSTAGE AND REVENUE STAMPS AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK.

Report by Charles J. Phillips.

Mr. Henry S. Redfield of Hartford, Conn., delighted those members of the Club who came to the meeting on Wednesday, February 4th, with a display of six selected volumes from his large collection of U. S. postage and revenue stamps.

Mr. Redfield brought with him two large volumes of stamps on covers, two volumes of early U. S. in singles and pairs, one book of Match and Medicine stamps and one of Revenues.

The stamps on covers were a very fine lot with many interesting cancellations and rare varieties.

Stamps on Covers.

A few I noted were as follows:—
New Yorks, 5c black, pair and four singles.
1847, 5c pair, red town canc.
1847, 5c pair, canc., with "Steamer Fashion" in oval.
1847, 5c pair, canc. with "Steamer Hecla."
1847, 5c, many pairs and singles.
1847, 10c, fine pair with portion of bottom margin of sheet.
1851, 1c, strip of three with green cancellation.
1851, 1c, Type II, cracked plate, very fine.
1851, 3c, with a blue cancellation of "3" in upright oval.
1851, 3c, line through value, and R. R. cancellation in green.
1851, 10c green, superb strip of five, canceled Hongkong.
1851, 10c green, two, one being recut at top.
1857, 1c, fine example of the cracked plate.
1857, 3c, canceled "negro's head to right".
1857, 10c, Type II, fine example canceled "Collingville axe".
1857, 5c, used with Hawaiian 5c blue of 1861.
1847, 24c and 30c, fine examples in shades.

A curious and probably unique cover was one franked with U. S. 1861, 10c+ Revenues 10c blue. Contract+3c 1855 Danish West Indies.

Another Danish West Indies 1855 3c used with U. S. 1869 10c.
U. S. 1851, 3c Imperf. and 1861 10c canceled "New York Steamship".
U. S. 1861, 3c canceled Niagara Falls R. R.
U. S. 1857, 10c Type I, two stamps both recut at bottom.

U. S. Not On Covers.

New York 5c, used from Boston on piece of original.
1847, fine page of 5c and 10c in singles and pairs.
1851, 1c, Type I, full ornaments, very fine used.
1851, 1c, Type III, a beauty with red cancellation.
1857, 90c, fine red cancellation.
Aug., 1861, 24c canceled "24" in blue.
Sept., 1861, 3c pink, 5c buff, fine with gum.
1869, 2c and 15c Type II, both part perf.
1870, with grille, 12c and 24c, both very fine.
1875, Special Prints, 2c and 90c.

Department Stamps. A perfect complete set, in superb well centered condition, and a fine set of the same stamps with SPECIMEN.

Local Stamps on cover included:— D. O. Blood & Co., 1845 black; Bouton's, 2c black, red cancellation; Boyce's, 2c green; Boyd's, 1844, large 2c green; City Despatch Post, 2c vermilion; Hartford Mail, pink; Hussey 1862-63, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c and 25c; Price's, 2c green; Wells, Fargo & Co., $1 blue with oval cancellation.

Mr. Henry Redfield's Revenues are well known and among the best collections of these popular stamps, but two features in this collection could, probably, not be matched in any other collection. First, the superb condition of all the stamps and, secondly, that the great bulk of them are in perfect unused condition.

The Imperf. set is complete except the 3c Playing Card. The $1.30 a beauty, $1.60 unused, $1.90 unused and used, $2.00 Probate of Will, $2.50 Inl. Exch., $3.50 Inl. Exch., all $5.00, $10.00, $15.00, $20.00 Pro. Will $25.00 and $200.00 mint, with left hand margin and centre line and red and green mark in border.

The first perforated issue complete unused; here outstanding items were 6c Proprietary, $20.00 Pro. Will and $200.00.

Second issue complete unused with the exception of $500.00 which is unknown in this condition. In the inverted I noted the 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 70c, $1.00 and $5.00 and a used pair of 50c.

Third Issue, all unused except the $20.00 and Inverted 2c on violet, 2c on green, 30c and $1.00.

The Proprietary include 50c, $1.00 and $5.00 on violet, mint, and an extra $5.00 with imprint.

In the 1899 issue I noted $100.00 and $1,000.00 mint and $500.00 used.

The later issues are superb and practically complete.

The Telegraphs are almost all here in mint state.

Match and Medicine Stamps.

Mr. Redfield is deservedly proud this section of his collection which complete except 13 varieties.

In the whole collection there are o about ten used stamps, the bulk be unused in finest condition.

OF
J. LEON ADUTT, J. P., ENGLAND.

This collection is in three large volumes with the stamps all priced separately.

It includes a representative lot of the Provisionals, some on covers, but is especially strong in the General Issues, unused in singles and blocks and used in singles and pairs and several hundred stamps on covers. It includes:

1861, 5c green	16 unused, 57 used	1862, 5c blue	189 unused, 41 used
1861, 10c blue	9 unused, 26 used	1862, 10c rose	7 unused, 21 used
1862, 2c green	14 unused, 4 used	1863, TEN cents, blue	9 unused, 2 used

There are many of the small 2c, 5c, 10c and 20c unused in all shades, blocks, rare imprints, and many flaws and re-entries. In the used there are many rare cancellations and a great many stamps on covers.

Approval books from this collection can be sent to collectors known to me or against references.

ASSOCIATION FOR STAMP EXHIBITIONS.

The Annual Meeting of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions will be held Monday, March 2, 1925, at 5 o'clock P. M., at the Collectors Club, 120 W. 49th Street, New York City, for the following purposes:

1. To amend Section 5 of the Certificate of Incorporation, increasing the number of Directors from 30 to 45.

2. To amend Article III, Section 2, of the Constitution in accordance with the written notice of the Amendment presented at the meeting of the Board of Directors held on October 15, 1924, and acted upon favorably at the next meeting of the Board held December 1, 1924, as follows:

"That the number of the Directors shall be increased to 45 and the 15 additional members shall be elected at the meeting at which this amendment shall be passed. Of these 15 additional Directors 5 shall be elected for the term expiring March, 1926, 5 for the term expiring March, 1927, and 5 for the term expiring March, 1928, and thereafter each annual election shall be for 15 members of the Board of Directors to hold office for three years and for such additional number, if any, as may be necessary to fill vacancies."

3. For the election of Directors.

The names presented by the Nominating Committee for your consideration are as follows: Directors to serve 3 years (1928): J. P. Benkard, J. B. Chittenden, H. M. Clark, A. Hatfield, Jr., J. A. Klemann, J. T. Lozier, W. S. Scott, T. E. Steinway, T. L. Wells, H. H. Wilson. Directors to serve 2 years (1927) to fill the vacancies of Carroll Chase and W. H. Hendrickson, resigned: Chas. M. Ams, Jos. S. Rich.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We have received from Nathan L. Levy, S.P.A. 3447, Gatun, Canal Zone, a specimen of the new Canal Zone 1c post card. The impression is in green and the type the same as the 2c envelope recently chronicled.

—W. E. Pepper sends us a clipping from the Toronto Star giving the particulars of Canada's first aerial mail, the Laurentide Air Service, in which mail is carried to Rouyon Camp. Reference to this service has already been made in the WEEKLY.

—J. L. Riedel informs us that there are forgeries of Memel, Nos. 307a and 318. Both the printer and dealer involved are now serving a jail sentence.

—Bargain Price List, No. 8, has just been received from the S. Grossman Co., Box 120, Madison Sq. Stat., N. Y. City. It contains a very attractive list of sets and will be sent to any address upon application.

—We have been shown by Harrold E. Meyers a photostat of a German cover from Hamburg. Upon its face are forty stamps of 50,000,000 marks and eight of the 500,000,000 marks, while on the reverse is a 20,000,000,000 marks stamp for registration.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

Augustus Embury, Bronxville, N. Y.
S. Carleton Rogers, E. Lynn, Mass.
F. A. Gartline, Huntington, W. Va.
Geo. W. Hull, Syracuse, N. Y.
Rev. Jos. P. Stahl, Davenport, Ia.

Our first application for membership in the Honor Club this week comes from Augustus Embury, Bronxville, N. Y. We thank him for his remittance of $5 for five years' renewal.

Through the courtesy of H. P. Atherton of Springfield, Mass., we have received an application for membership in the Honor Club from S. Carleton Rogers of East Lynn, Mass. We thank Mr. Rogers for his application.

F. A. Gartline of Huntington, W. Va., claims to be the first member of the Honor Club from West Virginia. We are very willing to bestow this honor upon him and trust that others of our West Virginia subscribers will follow in Mr. Gartline's footsteps.

We are pleased to enroll George W. Hull, 424 Boyden St., Syracuse, N. Y., as a member of the Honor Club. His application comes with check for $5 with the ordinary renewal blank which we use.

Our list for the week is closed with an application from Rev. Jos. P. Stahl, vice-president of St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa. This makes a total of five for the week and is a very satisfactory tribute to the WEEKLY's hold upon the philatelic mind.

CHICAGO DAY
March 6th
Not since Mrs. O'Leary's cow got frisky will Chicago's philatelic fraternity have such excitement! Bright and early on the morning of March 6th, Toasty will flatwheel into the office of Mr. B. L. Voorhees, 25 North Dearborn Street, bearing his THIRD SPECIALIST SALE. Prospective buyers are cordially invited to look the Sale over, and mortgage the old family homestead, because Mr. G. W. Rehse was a connoisseur, Sir Nicholas Waterhouse had the pick of Europe and Toasty picked from both. 700 juicy lots of U. S., Depts. and Confeds. 400 lots of foreign that are out-of-the-ordinary.
See you at Mr. Voorhees', March 6th.

EDITORIAL.

One of the old reliables of philately gives us the following reminiscence that at least has the merit of truth, even though it discloses the fact that some folks have an odd idea of humor: "Some years ago, the writer was acting postmaster in a small mining camp in the southwest. The post-office, fourth-class, was located in the office of the principal mine; and we boys ran it. The post-office had been moved several times with the changing conditions and the major part of the equipment was kept in a large box. It included records of twenty years or so and all sorts of worn-out stuff. Among the junk were four sets of obsolete type for the canceling stamp; and one day a certain person with a debased sense of humor spent an afternoon changing dates on this canceller. He postmarked some hundreds of letters, carefully placing dates on the stamps running from 1895 to 1935 and including such weird ones as Feb. 31 and June 46. His high mark was reached when he laboriously put a different date on a block of twenty of the two cent stamps on a package, a feat that took lots of time as the adjoining stamps had to be protected from the bars each time. So, when I read of curious dated cancellations which are reported now and then, I wonder if other people in the past may not have had the same inspiration."

A subscriber writes to say that he has been informed by Mr. Otto Edenharter, Munich, Germany, that the Zeppelin, ZR-III, also carried "U. S. Service Dienst Luft Post," letters in addition to the ordinary mail, so to say. Mr. Edenharter possesses letters, carried in the Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, showing in addition to the usual markings, the postmark: "United States Navy Department, Naval Aircraft, Friedrichshafen a.B. Germany."

The following little tale, showing how philately may be the ruling passion of even a sophisticated broker's boy is told Mr. Souren Yohannessiantz by Mr. Shea, superintendent of the registry division at the New York Post Office. An office boy was sent by a brokerage firm to receive some registered mail held for custom possibilities. While the contents of the envelopes were being inspected, the boy asked Mr. Shea if he would allow him to rummage in the waste-basket for foreign stamps. The boy's search was not bootless by any means and he departed in high spirits but left two of the registered letters behind. Later, the boy came back and was reassured at finding the letters; and then he further thanked Mr. Shea, saying that not until he had reached the City Hall on the subway did he miss the several letters. He was then in a quandary as he had no money in his pocket, but acting upon the impulse to find a stamp dealer, the boy went to a dealer near the City Hall, on Nassau Street and disposed of one of the stamps that he had fished from the waste-basket, a two shilling Malta, for a dime; and so he was able to ride back to the post-office in comfort to get the letters that had been left.

In a circular from a gentleman who has been collecting stamps since 1869, we meet the following declaration of principles that conjure up an existence that seems ideal in the mind of many of us: "I might mention I have taken up the stamp business as a pastime, having retired from active business, not for financial gain, but to occupy my leisure hours. I enjoy it, combined with Fishing, Golf, and other athletic activities." Many a collector has a picture of himself in the evening of life engaged in pleasant occupation with stamps and as being in a position where time might be given without stint to stamps, where now it has to be snatched at odd moments.

A reader who has made inquiry as to when the name of Casilear was omitted from the firm name of Toppan, Carpenter, Casilear & Co., engravers of the 1851 issue of United States stamps is informed that the exact date is not at hand, but the full name of the company is found in order No. 95, of the post-office department while in order No. 96, dated July 6, 1855, the name, Casilear, is missing.

Evidently, there are some doughty cross-word puzzlers among our readers and our paragraph recently on the subject of philately's artful aid in solving some of the problems has evoked a number of experiences that bear out the observation made. One reader says that our booklet on the ship stamps has saved his puzzled wits on several occasions and he thinks that the list of advantages to be derived from stamp collecting should be revised in order that the first should be "aid and comfort for the cross-word puzzler." It seems a long time since we had our fling as a working puzzler in the Golden Days period; we say that we were "Helix" but that doesn't mean anything to readers of this day.

The following interesting lines come from an old friend: "Is history repeating itself? You have been working for so many years for outside recognition of philately that I fear to think what will happen if the desired end were attained. Surely, like Othello, you would find your occupation gone. Now you are worried that while collecting is the subject of many a newspaper story, the manner of presentation is not of a character to gain the sympathy of the reader or words to that effect. Listen to the following: 'Undesirable Publicity. — The complaint that philately is inadequately and, as a rule, incorrectly portrayed in the newspaper press has long been voiced by observers in the philatelic ranks. In fact, not only has philately suffered distortion in the philatelic press, but occasionally it is the subject of hostile criticism. Examples of this objectionable treatment of the hobby often have been copied and commented on in the philatelic papers; and one of the objects of the formation of the National Stamp Committee is the proper presentation of authentic as well as interesting matter to the newspaper press of the country.' These are your very words taken from the WEEKLY of January 6, 1906, or almost twenty years ago. You can write your own comment but what about that National Stamp Committee that was to do so much to set things right?" We do not appreciate the view-point of our reader, especially since by referring to the WEEKLY from which he quoted, we find that his paragraph is taken from a rather long analysis of the publicity question in the light of distorted information about philately in the press. In justice, the whole column or two of observations should appear with the excerpt given,—but it would be interesting to know why that committee, fired with such laudable enthusiasm, never got into action."

One of our contemporaries includes a page supplement in its February issue, repudiating the advertisement of the Philatelists' International Finance Corporation which appears in the advertising pages of the number, in the sense that the advertisement is withdrawn, theoretically

ERNEST TAYLOR PUTNAM

speaking, it having been impossible to withhold the advertising actually. It seems that "certain rumors" make it advisable in the opinion of the publishers to nullify the advertisement. When the advertisement of the Philatelists' International Finance Company was received by the WEEKLY, we took steps to learn whether in our opinion the facts available would justify the publication of the advertisement. Not having any definite information on which to base a finding favorable to the inclusion of "financial" advertising of this kind, we declined to bring it to the attention of readers in our advertising columns. In a letter from Mr. L. R. Saunders, vice chairman of the recruiting committee of the American Philatelic Society, he says that the philatelist having the pre-organization in charge is not within his rights in advertising that he is a member of the American Philatelic Society, a circumstance that does not have a tendency to establish confidence in the flotation.

BUNKER HILL STAMPS.

We are informed by Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, M. C., that the House of Representatives has passed a bill providing for a set of three stamps 1c, 2c and 5c denominations with which to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, "and events akin thereto". Mr. Ackerman also advises us that the House on Feb. 16 passed the bill providing for precancelled stamped envelopes.

UNITED STATES COIL STAMPS

Did you ever realize that the coil stamps are just as much a regular emission as those issued in sheet form and that the fact now being appreciated has resulted in an unusual demand for these varieties. The stock of no dealer is large because when most of them were current, few were interested in them. They are given main numbers in the catalogue and there is a space for them in the album. In other words, a good demand with a small supply —What's the answer—prices are bound to advance. I recommend fine coil pairs or strips as an investment. At present, I can offer in single copies:

	Cat.	Net
1908—Sidewise coil, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (348-351)	$1.60	$1.25
1908—Sidewise, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c (352-355)	1.60	1.25
1910—Sidewise Perf. 12, 1c, 2c (385-386)	.55	.45
1910—Endwise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c (390-391)	.23	.20
1910—Sidewise Perf. 8½, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (392-96)	.86	.65
1912—Endwise & Sidewise 1c & 2c (410-413)	.40	.30
1914—Both ways 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c (441-447)	2.36	1.75
1915—Same rotary (448-458)	1.06	1.00
1915—2c Imperf. rotary (459)	9.00	7.50
1916—Both ways 1c-10c (486-497)	.85	.60
1917—Endwise 1c, 2c; Sideways 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c	..	.35
One each of the above 52 varieties	..	15.00

Those buying the entire 52 varieties will receive 3 other die coil varieties not included in above list. Can furnish pairs and strips of four at the same rate. Line and joint varieties will be furnished without extra charge when in stock. Can also furnish many of the other coils, but have too few to list. In the market to buy all of the 1902 to 1910 varieties, No. 445, No. 449 Dies I and II, No. 453 Die II, Nos. 456 to 459, No. 491 Die II and anything else nice in coils. Have a good stock of paste up strips with plate numbers for those interested.

If you have omitted coils from your collection, now is the time to get them. A place in Scott's album for every one of the above listed stamps.

Can also furnish all of the booklet panes, as well as most regular varieties in blocks and singles from 1890 to date. And a good stock of earlier issues, too. May I have your U. S. want list and please do not forget that little reference if unknown to me —bank reference preferred.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the address of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

24c Continental, Issue of 1873-1878. Scott's No. 164.

Students of our issues have always had difficulty in distinguishing between the 24c purple as issued by the National Bank Note Company and the later one turned out by the Continental Bank Note Company. It will be recalled that when the contract was given to the Continental firm that they immediately carved secret marks upon the dies that were turned over to them by the National company and started to make plates for the lower values from 1c to 15c, so that it is not believed that they ever used the plates for these lower values produced by the earlier company.

Mr. Luff informs us in his well known book that the secret mark on the 24c die as shown from proof impressions is to be seen in the star at the extreme right of the semi-circle above the medallion. In this, five lines have been deepened and two others slightly so.

Mr. Luff further states that the work of the National company had been of an inferior quality and in order that stamps of their manufacture, which were still in the hands of postmasters in large quantities, should not be thrown back upon the new company by the department, resulted in their preparing the new plates before starting the printing. There was no immediate demand for the 24c, 30c and 90c and as a result, plates for these were not made. Later on in 1874 when there was a demand for the higher denominations, it was believed that there was little likelihood of any of the National product being returned, and as a result they did not take the trouble as well as expense of engraving new plates for these denominations. Hence, it has been necessary for us to consider paper, color and gum in distinguishing between the product of the two companies.

Experts are pretty well agreed as to the 30c and 90c, but there are still controversies as to the 24c.

It is a well known fact that stamps with a deep brown gum are the product of the National company. Mr. Luff states that the Continental use a yellowish or brownish gum and that in certain cases, the gum is almost white. The Continental gum, however, is quite distinctive in appearance and can be easily told from the National. As a guide to shade, Mr. Luff has used as a comparison the copy of the well known 24c with Continental grill, which exists in used condition.

Quite recently Mr. John A. Klemann wrote a very able article in the Collectors Club Journal calling attention to the fact that all of the bank notes issues, as well as the Newspaper stamps, which showed silk threads were the product of the Continental Bank Note Company. In accordance with his theory, he claimed that those showing these threads in the case of the 24c, should rightly be classified as Continental prints.

As some of the deeper shades which are supposedly National prints showed these threads, his theory of distinguishing the two stamps was not generally accepted.

I have just located a mint copy of this stamp in wonderful condition, which agrees with Mr. Luff's theory in that the stamp is in the bluish purple shade of the grill variety—that is, the shade which has been used as a guide in distinguishing this stamp from the first. Then too, the stamp shows tiny traces of silk threads, so that it agrees with Mr. Klemann's theory, and in addition, has the yellowish white gum peculiar to the Continental product.

There is no doubt the stamp rightly belongs in the catalog, for the records show that the variety was issued, and that this copy will confirm its present existence.

The Dr. Chase Collection.

In my Chronicle for February 9th, mention was made of the fact that certain portions of the well known collection gotten together by Dr. Carroll Chase would be sold at auction in the near future. I mentioned that the sale would not include the 3c and 10c issues of 1851-57 because of the fact that D Chase had sold these privately. D Chase writes me that he is retaining th 3c denomination and will continue h collection of this interesting variety. learn with regret that Dr. Chase sai for France on the 28th and while we wi not have him in our midst, we sincere trust that we will continue to find a ticles from his pen in the philatelic pres

Air Mail Records.

From July 1 to December 31, 1924, the 3 air mail pilots flew a total of 1,288,350 iles in carrying the United States mails, ccording to figures made public today y Postmaster General New.

Since these same pilots entered the ser-ice of the Post Office Department they ave flown 6,602,657 miles or a distance pproximating 265 times around the earth.

During the same period these flyers overed a distance of 328,887 miles in ight flying, while during the day they ew 959,463 miles.

Pilot Lewis holds the record for night ying, the figures showing that he flew 3,410 miles without the assistance of aylight. Pilot Short has the most mile-ge covered to his credit, having flown 0,376 miles both day and night.

According to reports received at the ost Office Department from the air mail lots the parachute flare is the best afety measure in use for night flying. ach plane is provided with two flares as factor of safety in the event one does ot work. All planes assigned to fly etween Cleveland, Ohio, and Rock prings, Wyoming, are equipped with ares.

AUSTRIA.—The new stamps referred to st month are not yet issued and our ienna agent now informs us that the alues will be expressed in "shillings" nd "groschen" (not stuber) and that e Austrian shilling will be equivalent about 8d in English money.—Whit-eld King & Co.'s Bulletin.

BELGIUM.—We have received from Mr. enry Hooreman copies of the 50c in a ustard shade. Mr. Hooreman advises ey were placed on sale the 2nd inst.

stamps were authorized, consisting of three values, 5c green, 10c red and 20c blue, bearing allegorical designs. The total issue consists of 15,000 sets perforated and 15,000 sets imperforate and after these are printed the plates will be destroyed. A charge of 10 cents per stamp will be made in addition to the face value, the amount realized by this extra charge to be handed over to the Olympic Games Committee as a contribution towards their expenses.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

FRANCE.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the 30c, Sower type, in an old rose shade.

GERMANY.—It is proposed to hold a big exhibition in Munich from June to October, to show the development of all modes of communication in Germany, when all the latest types of aeroplanes will be on view. We learn from the Aero Philatelic Club that special stamps issued by the postal authorities will be sold during the exhibition.—Stamp Collecting.

GOLD COAST.—Mr. R. Roberts calls our attention to the 1sh on emerald and the 2s6d, both script watermark, which have just been placed on sale.

GUATEMALA.—Mr. Lucien B. Wellborn writes, "I do not see Scott's 1925 catalog numbers 203 and 204 listed with the surcharge "Oficial". I have these two stamps and have had for some time."

JAMAICA.—Mr. Harry Griffin sends us a clipping from a Jamaican paper The Gleaner from which the following is taken: "The sale of Child Welfare stamps in Kingston and at District Post Offices will cease after the 31st of January, 1925. Ellis Wolfe, Postmaster for Jamaica."

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—A new supply of the 2s purple and blue on blue, Plate II, Script wmk., has been sent to Montserrat.

Messrs. Whitfield King & Co., kindly submit copies of the K. G. 3d purple on yellow, the one being in a paler shade with orange-buff back, and the 5s Mult. wmk., on two very distinctive tints of yellow.—Stamp Collecting.

MAURITIUS.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 5R on new yellow paper, script watermarked.

NEW ZEALAND.—For the following exclusive news, which we are assured is absolutely authenticated, we are indebted to Messrs. Wilcox, Smith & Co., of Dunedin, New Zealand:—

1.—The new higher values, 2s to 5s, ordinary postals, are to be of the same size as the current Niue, Penrhyn, &c., stamps, and pictorial designs are being prepared.

2.—The new 6s upwards are under way, and the New Zealand Coat of Arms will take the place of the Queen's Head.

3.—The new design, 1d Map, will be issued probably this month.—Stamp Collecting.

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

Barbados.—The new combined Postage and Revenue set for this Colony is now being printed from copper plates, the values being as usual. All stamps will have Script watermark.

British Honduras.—The $1, Nyasaland type, Script watermark, colours black and red, has been despatched to the Colony.

Ceylon.—The 20 rupees has been printed on paper with Script watermark, and despatched to Ceylon.

An interesting point concerning the new 12c, listed this month, is that it shows Die I and Die II in the same sheet, the upper panes being printed from Plate 7 (Die I) while the lower are from Plate 12 (Die II). This is believed to be the first occasion on which both Dies occur in the same sheet.

Fiji.—The 2s6d is being printed on Script paper.

Hong-Kong.—The $5 Script is now on order.

India.—C. E. F. According to a letter from a gentleman, lately Postmaster at the Base P.O., Tientsin, kindly sent us by Miss P. Aubrey, the Indian F.P.O.'s in North China closed down in November, 1923.

Charkhari. Mr. P. N. da Souza tells us that there are two types of the current issue. One measures 23x19¾mm, this being the original type, while the later type measures 22¾x19mm, and the 1 pice, and ½, 1 and 2 annas exist in this type. The ½a in the first type is obsolete. In the specimen shown us, the inscriptions in the second type are much thinner and weaker than in the first type.

Jamaica.—Further printings have been made of the ½d and 2½d Child Welfare stamps.

Kenya.—A reader on leave from Kenya kindly gives us the history of the 12c, in the current type. Supplies were ordered of this value and a repeat order had been placed before it was discovered that there was practically no demand for a stamp of this denomination. Stocks have been distributed to Post Offices and have probably been cleared by now at most of them, but it is very unlikely that further printings will be made of this value.

New Hebrides.—This comic-opera condominium (sub-title, "The Collector's Curse") is to have two new sets of stamps, one a French series on paper watermarked "R.F."; the other a British series on Script paper. In the French series the value will be in French currency on the right-hand side and in English on the left, the reverse being the case with the British series. The values are not the same in both sets, and we note that the British currency is converted into French at the pre-war rate of exchange. If the franc is still worth 10d in the New Hebrides there will be a rush of war profiteers and speculators, which might even make postage stamps a neces-

ARE YOU AWAKE??

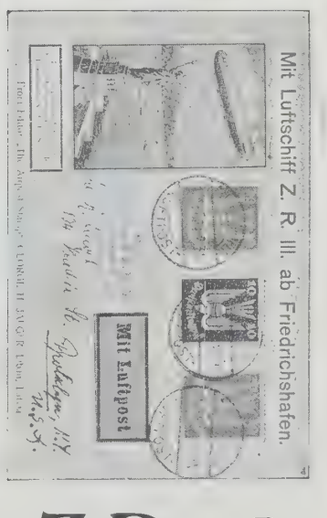
ARE YOU—as a Lover of Stamps, yet reasonably concerned about a return, some day, for the Money you have invested in them—are you awake to the Fact that 20th Century British Colonials are an investment PAR EXCELLENCE?

Have you followed the catalogues and observed the STEADY, CONSTANT advance in the quotations on these issues—this year, last year, every year?

HAS IT OCCURRED TO YOU that during the Great War the collectors of Central Europe, shut off from the rest of the world, were unable to buy the new issues of the British Colonies, although they had formerly been keen collectors of them, that during the economic deflation that followed they exchanged their tremendous holdings of the earlier issues for fictitious, paper profits, and that TODAY, again in the market for stamps, they are demanding these issues, creating a shortage everywhere and forcing prices steadily upwards?

I am very proud of my new Price List of 20th Century British Colonial stamps.

It is the most complete offering of these desirable stamps ever published by an American Stamp Dealer.



A letter received from Mr. Arthur C. Powers of Colorado Springs, Colo., is typical of many I have received this month. He writes: "I wish to thank you for remembering me with your new price list of 20th Century English Colonials, received several days ago. You deserve the highest credit and thanks from collectors and lovers of good stamps, for it is a very great achievement, the assembling of a stock which enables you to place before collectors at one time so complete a list of worth while stamps. Speaking from experience, this is the most remarkable list of offerings which has ever come to my attention in over twelve years of active collecting."

Appreciation of this kind is what makes Life and the Stamp Business worth while.

Mr. Powers and myself are mutually pleased and satisfied, and what finer relationship could exist between dealer and client?

A copy of this new Price List will gladly be sent you on request.

I Am Now Offering My Private Collection of U. S. 1847 issue, consisting of 115 selected copies of the ten cent value, about one-third of lot on original covers, including a pair, about a dozen unused copies, rest fine used specimens, many rare cancellations, including one used pair, the 115 copies, as a lot for $4,000, lot not to be broken up. These would make a fine lot for plating, as I have been 7 years gathering this fine collection, and I believe at my price they are good buy for a rise in value. Anyone interested in this fine lot of 10c 1847 please communicate with me.

A GRAND Collection of FIVE CENT OF 1847 ALSO, consisting of 265 selected copies, about one-third of lot on original covers, including many pairs, 12 to 15 unused copies, rest pairs and singles, cancelled, including many scarce cancellations, a wonderfully fine lot, the price is also $4000, lot not to be broken up. Will sell either lot for $4000, but will not break up either collection.

In my regular stock I have many ordinary copies of both 5c and 10c values which I will send on approval.

I have spent about 7 years careful buying to amass this fine array of this 1847 issue, always very popular, and fast advancing in price. If interested in either or both lots, please write at once.

AM ALSO BREAKING UP MY FINE PRIVATE COLLECTION of other U. S. postage stamps from 1851 to 1875, many wonderful copies contained in this lot, which represents a value of approximately $10,000. There are fine unused copies of nearly all issues, great variety of used copies, singles, pairs, strips and blocks, fine lot rare cancellations, etc., etc. Advanced collectors will do well to let me show them some of these fine things before they are gone. China.—Mr. H. Scrimshaw sends us an official notice stating that 5, 10 and 20 dollar values were to be withdrawn from sale on January 1st, but they may be purchased, cancelled to order, by stamp collectors, up to 30th June. From 1st July they will no longer be valid for prepayment of postage. This should make these values in the re-drawn types rather good, as they will have had a very short run.

Denmark.—Mr. Svend Ramsing kindly sends us particulars of some unissued stamps of Denmark. On the occasion of the 8th U.P.U. Congress at Stockholm, the Danish authorities issued to the delegates a book containing all Danish stamps, those to 1870 being reprints and the later issues originals. New Postal Jubilee stamps were also included, in blocks of four, though they had not then been issued. Unfortunately they had not been presented for the approval of H.M. the King of Norway, and when he saw them he disapproved of the quality of the design and printing and ordered the destruction of the stocks which were ready for issue. The unissued stamps therefore went out only in the presentation books, given to the U.P.U. delegates, and the stamps which we recently listed were issued to the public instead. Our only remark apropos of this interesting sidelight on the history of the new stamps is that, if the rejected ones were much uglier, then they must have been very bad indeed, and His Majesty is to be congratulated on his sound judgment in having them destroyed.

France.—The Touring Club de France, a body with 170,000 members, has issued a strong protest, which we cordially endorse, against the poverty of design and impression of recent French stamps. We are not sure that we can give so cordial an assent to the Club's project for a ballot among its members, with a view to selecting views and monuments which should make of future French stamps an advertisement, bringing before the world the beauties of the country. A great nation should be typified on its postage stamps, not illustrated, and if modern designers cannot provide anything better than the French stamps to which we have been treated recently, let the authorities turn to some of the designs submitted in previous competitions, which were in nitely better than those chosen. If t national printing works cannot do sat factory work, it might be overhauled, the work might be done in another co try; but we think it could do the wo and produce worthy stamps from a s isfactory design, if it was given t necessary funds.

Mr. G. P. L. James has kindly sho us the 20c Semeuse, with a distinct dou impression of the inscriptions.

Germany.—Mr. E. K. Crews holds record for high covers, so far, as possesses one franked with 14 50-mi ard stamps, making 700 milliards marks in all.

Holland.—Colonial Jubilee issue. P. Gordon Wimberley kindly sends particulars of the Jubilee stamps Curacao and Surinam. Complete sets fetching very high prices in Holla Figures for Dutch Indies are not available.

Italy.—The new "Holy Year" sta should prove to be the best-sellers 1925, as every visitor to Rome during year of Jubilee will want a set, as as the millions who will not be able make the trip. They will be disappoin with the stamps themselves, as the colo are crude, the designs inartistic, and production shoddy in the extreme. S as souvenirs of a great event they worthy of a place in a collection.

Japan.—New printings of the 1½ pre-earthquake type, and of the 4 an sen, Mt. Fuji-Yama type, are to hand, do not show any great differences.

Monaco.—This spot seems to be sett down to produce a new issue of sta for public use instead of for the be of speculators and Continental st dealers. Unfortunately, as only pu service is in question, the designs poor and the production not too good.

Peru.—The Battle of Ayacucho, wh finally broke the Spanish power in Sc America, and consolidated the inde dence of the various republics, took p in 1824, and stamps to commemorate Centenary are now reaching us. F Peru we have the first value of a new of eight stamps, bearing the portrait Bolivar, and the name of the ba From Venezuela comes a special dou portrait stamp celebrating the same ev Possibly other countries will follow There is no reason why they should for the battle was an historic event first-class importance to the nations in cerned, and only our ignorance of Sc American history could lead us to little it.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

STAMP CLUB MEETINGS IN FRESNO.

By ROBIN LAMPSON.

Fresno and the San Joaquin Valley now can boast of two clubs of philatelists, or stamp collectors—the Fresno Junior Stamp Club, formed about a week ago, and the senior Fresno Stamp Club, which held its first and organization meeting on Friday evening at the home of Robin Lampson, 551 College Avenue.

The senior club was formed by a small group of local collectors who wish that Fresno follow in the steps of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland, Pasadena, and other large western cities which now have collectors clubs with hundreds of members. Nearly a dozen Fresno collectors gathered at the Lampson home and unanimously agreed to back up the newly organized club, and they are now making plans for an early meeting in some local public hall, for the purpose of electing officers and initiating the work of the club, which will consist chiefly of talks and discussions about stamps and exchanging between members. There are several large and valuable stamp collections in Fresno, some of them owned by prominent and influential citizens.

At the Lampson home, Mr. John G. Tyler exhibited an almost complete and very valuable collection of entire U. S. envelopes from the earliest date to 1900, and Mr. Lampson showed the members a nearly completed collection of the postage stamps of Russia.

The Fresno Junior Stamp Club held its second meeting Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, 1550 M St., near Calaveras, with about twenty-five persons, mostly youngsters of grammar and high school ages, present. An election of officers was held, and Harold Pearson, 837 Glenn Avenue, was unanimously chosen president, no other candidate opposing. Robert McClain was elected secretary, and Ardash Johnson treasurer. Lee Cronbach was chosen vice-president. The term of office was set for a period of one-half year. Three new members were admitted, and with them the list of charter members was closed.

The first act of the new society was to vote for the purchase of the latest stamp catalogue and a subscription to the leading stamp journal, as donations to the Fresno Public Library. The catalogue now in the library has been obsolete for five years.

Mr. Louis F. Gundelfinger exhibited to the youngsters present his magnificent collection of United States stamps, valued at several thousand dollars. It is housed in a very large volume, and is the hobby-rider's work of a life-time—a collection that would be prized by any university library or museum in the country.

A BERMUDA FLIGHT.

By special arrangement with the Navy Department, 200 pounds of fully prepaid letters and post cards for Bermuda will be carried by the airship Los Angeles, which is expected to leave Lakehurst, N. J., about February 19.

Letters in their usual and ordinary form must be paid at the rate of two cents for each ounce or fraction thereof, and post cards must be paid at the rate of 2c each. No more than 200 pounds of mail will be carried, and if a quantity in excess of that weight is received, only the first 200 pounds at hand will be dispatched.

Letters and cards must be plainly marked on the face, "Air mail by airship Los Angeles from Lakehurst, N. J.," as letters and post cards for Bermuda not so marked will not be included in this special dispatch.

Postmasters will cause letters and post cards to be distributed so as to reach New York as the exchange post-office concerned, at which post-offices the mail will be prepared and labeled for ultimate dispatch from Lakehurst.

CLEVELAND CARNIVAL.

The Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, Ohio, is going to celebrate its thirty-fifth anniversary. There will be a two-day celebration starting Friday evening, March 20.

The celebration Friday evening, March 20, will be held at the club rooms, Room 324, Caxton Bldg. There will be collections belonging to local collectors on exhibition and further entertainment will also be provided.

Saturday afternoon will be given over to stamp exhibitions and an auction. This will take place at the Hotel Cleveland. Among the collections to be shown is Dr. Warren L. Babcock's wonderful array of stamps. Mr. Ralph Henn's revenue collection, which is said to be the largest in the world, will also be shown. Major Harris of Cleveland, whose general collection is said to be worth over $100,000 will also be shown. The afternoon session will begin at 1 P. M.

At 7 o'clock Saturday evening, a banquet will be held in the Rose room of the Hotel Cleveland. During and after the banquet a real entertainment will be provided by professional entertainers.

Many prominent stamp men will attend the celebration, among them: Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, the president of the A. P. S., Dr. Warren L. Babcock of Detroit, Mr. George Linn of Columbus, Ohio, and others.

Out-of-town collectors are especially invited and will find it well worth their while to attend. The wives of any out-of-town collector attending will be entertained by the wives of local collectors.

The following committees have been appointed: Banquet, W. H. Barnum; Invitations, W. W. MacLaren; Finance, Otto F. Moses; Exhibitions, Alvin Good; Entertainment, Dr. J. N. Schneider.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR.

It has been aptly said by one of our leading philatelists that the stamp-collector is born and not made. If, for instance, you want a complete set of triangular Cape of Good Hopes you must have, on the mental side, a natural gift of acumen, and, on the physical side, a natural gift of prehensile acquisitiveness.

Unless the beginner has attempted to form a collection of stamps in early life when force prevailed, it would seem to be almost impossible to develop the faculty of acquiring these fragments — at once adhesive and elusive—of printed paper.

The various methods adopted by philatelists to obtain coveted stamps are most interesting. Some collectors lurk in the neighbourhood of lonely country post-offices, where by gifts and personal charm they fascinate the postmistresses. They are thus enabled to inspect the reserve stocks of stamps, often extending back into Victorian times. Complete sheets of unused "penny blacks" are obtained for their face value in this way.

More opulent philatelists hire yachts for the summer months, and proceed to the obscurer isles of the British Empire, where rare stamps were issued in the early-Victorian period, and by the employment of local detectives to attempt to locate the bureaus of old ladies. A burglar, brought at considerable expense from England, does the rest, and much correspondence of an intimate nature in the original envelopes is often revealed.

The library of an expert stamp collector contains a multitude of interesting things. Come, let us visit the well-knowu house of Mr. Percy Watkins, of Upper Tooting, one of our most famous collectors. Here in this strange apparatus of glass retorts and pressure-gauges are the four-penny blue provisional 1861 Cape of Good Hope wood-blocks turned bright red for the benefit of other collecting friends. There in that dainty machine of steel and porcelain a clever mechanism refixes the perforations and the backs of damaged stamps cut or thinned in some past accident, thus considerably improving their appearance.

Round the walls are seen massive safes containing nearly every forgery known, for it will surprise many to learn that forgeries are more valuable than originals, so eagerly are they now collected. A bogus green one-shilling of Great Britain, issued in 1872 for the benefit of the Stock Exchange Telegraph Department, is now worth several pounds, whereas the original stamp is treated with well-merited contempt. In the bookcases above will be found rows and rows of volumes on such erudite subjects as "With Forceps and Perforation Gauge in the Balkans," "The Wood-Blocks of Piccadilly," "Fifty Recipes for Flavouring Stamp Hinges," "The Strange Behaviour of the Water Marks in the 1892 issue of Patagonia," "Hunting Gibbons in the Strand," "The Stamp King of Highgate." Here will be seen perforation-gauges, water-mark detectors and surcharge measurers in glittering rows, and magnifying glasses of every size. The larger pair of forceps can be used to extract the most elusive stamp from the boots or the back of the neck or even from the pockets of frien

Many collectors entirely paper th dining-rooms with unused Central Am can issues, thus adding to their coll tions when all other receptacles are ov flowing, and further stimulating stamp-producing Republics to renev efforts of activity.

Really rare stamps are a const source of excitement to their own They are usually placed in transpar envelopes of talc, riveted to thin she of steel, bound up in fireproof volur with locks attached, placed in the va of the Bank of England and inspected frequent intervals by a Committee of fewer than five trustees.—London Pun

UNITED STATES LOCAL STAMPS AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK.

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Wednesday, February 18th, was a great night at the Collectors Club and the largest attendance of members gathered together to see the famous collection of Mr. Henry C. Needham, that has been seen at the club this season. "Coming events cast their shadows before them" and when we see enthusiasts like Mr. Horace Ropes coming from Minneapolis, Col. H. S. Redfield from Hartford, L. B. Mason from Cranford and Costales taking full notes of unchronicled varieties, one is apt to think that these highly interesting and historical issues are just beginning to come into their own after many years of neglect.

Mr. Needham brought with him four huge volumes packed full of stamps, all well studied and arranged. He turned over the pages of his albums and gave us interesting details of many of his finds, also very necessary particulars of bogus varieties.

Mr. Needham has been collecting stamps some forty years and for fully half that time he has specialized in these Local Issues. He has been, and still is, not only a collector and accumulator of these stamps, but has always been a keen searcher after the historical details and of the facts that caused each issue to make its appearance. With his trained lawyer's mind he has been able to analyze evidence and to get at the real history of almost every issue.

The result of this has been seen in a fine series of articles that he issued some years ago in The Philatelic Gazette and which I much wish he would bring up to date and publish as one of the monographs of the Collectors Club.

Space will only allow me to mention a few of the more important rarities in this grand collection:—

Adams & Co.'s Express—25c black, type L3a, fine vertical pair and a fine copy used on cover; 25c black on blue on cover cancelled PAID.

American Express Co.—2c on green on cover, type L8; 2c black on vermilion on cover, not catalogued.

Baker's City Express Post—2c pink, on cover. Only one other known.

Barnard's City Letter Express—Black on yellow, on cover.

Barnard's Cariboo Express—A wonderful lot of these on covers, mostly used with Western Franks and some rare combinations with other stamps. Red "PAID," and green "COLLECT" in many types, but I did not see any of the rare pinks.

Barr's Penny Dispatch—Red on white on cover; only two known.

Bigelow Express—Four colors are here: vermilion, crimson, yellow and green, on covers penstroked.

Bishop's City Post—2c black on blue.

D. O. Blood & Co.—1841, type L22, 3c red and 3c black on covers. 1845-47, a wonderful lot of these, mostly on covers The envelopes of this post are a very fine lot with a number of rare varieties.

Boyce's City Express—2c green on cover used to Germany and cancelled "New York British Packet."

Bradway's Despatch, Millville, N. Y.—Gold on lilac; only two others known.

Brigg's Despatch—Type L73, small size. Pink and yellow, on covers.

Browne's Easton Despatch—Type L82, 2c black on vermilion; only two others known.

California City Letter Express—1st type, 10c red, 10c blue and 10c green, all cut square and rare in such condition. Also a fine lot of the California Penny Post with the large 5c blue used on cover.

Chicago Penny Post—1c orange, a common stamp unused, but here it is used on cover, really rare thus.

City Despatch Post—A really magnificent lot of these popular stamps, both without and with the C. C. Among the rarest I noted: 2c pink, only two others known; 2c white C. C.; 2c buff, four copies and 2c real yellow, the only known copy; 2c vermilion, several copies on letter.

City Express Post—1846, 2c black on rose.

City Letter Express Mail—1c red used with U. S. 1851 3c, canc. Newark, N. J.

City Mail Co.—Black on greenish, on cover addressed to Rob. H. Morris, postmaster New York.

Clark and Hall's Penny Post—1c black on pink; only one other known.

Cook's Dispatch—Green; only one other known.

Cumming's City Post—Type L113, 2c vermilion, Cummings erased, the only one known; type L114, 2c black on green, only three known; type L114a, 2c vermilion, one other known.

Cutting's Despatch Post—2c vermilion; one other known.

Davis's Penny Post (Baltimore)—1c lavender; two cancelled in red.

Eagle Post—Type L122a, black on pelure paper.

Essex Letter Express—2c vermilion, single used and another used on cover.

Fiske and Rice—This is only catalogued in vermilion, but Mr. Needham has it in vermilion, red, green and yellow.

Frazer & Co.—Type L130; 2c black on grey, canc. Cincinnati in red; 2c black on green, one other known; 2c green with "& Co." erased.

Glen Haven Daily Mail—A superb lot on covers, many used with U. S. stamps and cancellations tying them on.

Gordon's City Express—2c red on cover; only two others known.

Grafflin's Baltimore Despatch—1c black

$1.00 CANCELLATION CARDS

Odd and colored cancellations on old U. S. stamps are daily increasing in popularity and incidentally in price. Nothing can touch them in adding tone and attractiveness to any collection.

I am again making up special lots for those who have not progressed far in this interesting side-line. Each lot is mounted on an approval card with the year of issue, catalogue number and a description of the cancellation written under each stamp. All stamps are selected for distinct cancellations such as "Paid", targets, odd designs, colored inks, numerals, letters, etc., and no issues later than 1890 are included.

Wood's City Despatch—Black on yellow, very rare.

Whittelsey's Express—2c red, used, not on cover.

Zieber's One Cent Dispatch—1c gray-blue, used on cover; the only one known.

I should like to express my sincere thanks to my friend, Mr. L. B. Mason, for his kind assistance in drawing up this list.

NEW SIAM AIR-MAIL STAMPS.

The Oriental Stamp Co. of Bangkok, Siam, sends us specimens of the new air-mail set, consisting of four values, 3, 5, 15 and 25 satangs. The set is a very striking one and we print the letter received from the firm:—

"The long-anticipated issue of air mail stamps of Siam made its appearance on January 1st in four denominations, viz., 3 satangs brown, 5 satangs green, 15 satangs red and 25 satangs blue, perforation 14, oblong in shape and printed by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons Limited, London. We are able to state that the complete set consists of 7 values, viz.: 2, 3, 5, 10, 15, 25, 50 satangs and 1 baht. The design shows a ferocious mythical bird in actual flight or 'Garuda' the emblem of the Siamese Royal Coat of Arms. The Siamese characters reading from left indicates the value, 'Air Mail' and 'Siam'. We do not know whether the new air mail stamps will be valid for the prepayment of ordinary postage or not but we are told by one of the Chief Post Office officials that the matter is left to the Director General of Posts and Telegraphs to decide and the public will soon come to know of the result. In view of the great interest taken by collectors in air mail stamps we trust you will describe the enclosed stamps in detail in your paper. The design is certainly very striking."

PACKETS OF EARLY U. S.

These are "educator" packets made up for the many collectors who are not sure where to find album spaces for the early issues of United States postage stamps. All are clean, sound stamps, good condition.

Packet "A" contains 30 varieties U. S. postage stamps including all issues from 1851 to 1887, each one dated for you, price $2.00

Packet "B" contains 20 varieties of hard-to-place Bank Note issues of 1870 to 1887, every stamp identified for you, price $1.00

Four hard ones, 50c: the 4c Green, 4c Carmine, 5c Brown and 5c Blue U. S. stamps of the 1880's. All sound copies.

We solicit want lists of seasoned 19th Century issues of United States or Foreign stamps and will gladly send approval selections to general collector or specialist against dealer references.

We buy and exchange stamps; the collector's duplicates, the dealers' "Hard to move" items, old correspondence, or accumulations. [H

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Mr. H. C. Brooks has sent in one of those old "Overland—Via—Los Angeles" covers. If you have never seen one, they show as a rule a 10c '51 or '57, for coming East the rate was 10c, yet they never seem to come on the 10c stamped envelopes. The design is in the top left part of the cover, being a coach and four. This does not mean an ordinary c. and f., nor yet a tally ho; but one of those old time affairs, such as one sees if they have to go to the circus, 101 Ranch, or a wild and woolly western extravaganza. The back of the coach shows a drooping canvas extension to hold the luggage. This picture shows a full passenger list, four men, three wearing the typical high hats, and a lady in yellow—it matches the wagon wheels. This coach is crimson, and the spirited steeds are tan and olive, four of 'em, going pretty. This driver also wears a "plug" hat, and is dusting off the off leader with a rattlesnake whip. The cuts are tinted by hand with water color, and this particular cover is mailed with a pair of 10c '57 Type II stamps, making a very fanciful ensemble.

Mr. Leon G. Young sends memo of a 2c 1869 used for revenue, also a 15c '69 blue line thro this dot extending up into in the middle of this line, with a vertical with a blue line at bottom, a dot showing the 5 of 15. The construction lines are frequently met on these '69's.

Mr. C. K. B. Nevin writes that he has a cover bearing three 2c brown 1873 stamps on U. S. Bank Note issue, on a cover mailed at the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai, to Yokahama, latter pmk. appearing on reverse of this cover. Please do not overlook the fact that this cover went from China to Japan, and was franked by the stamps of a country not in their own hemisphere, truly unusual. Ever see such?

Mr. K. T. Setre encloses a nice little lot of cancellations,—a 3c '61 with a very small black Maltese cross, in a square which has rounded corners; another 3c '61 with a star cancellation cut from wood or cork, and probably from New Haven. This star is made of two triangles, a type which found favor with many small towns in the early '60's, and earlier sometimes. A 1c 1882 shows a very large letter "R" covering most of the stamp, with two big dots like a colon before the R, which is in black. Tho without a frame, it reminds one of the Canadian Registry "R". He also encloses a pair of the 2c U. S. 1903 canceled in two lines in black, "Ponce P. R."; and ends with a large type 2c Postage Due canceled with a cross in circle in black. Many of these old dues look precanceled. Who can say something about this?

You have doubtless seen the purple N. Y. marks, the two letters being crossed, and surrounded by a circle composed of dots, in a purple ink. As they are so often hit squarely in the center of the stamp, it would be hard to say if they are actually precanceled, unless one could find an off centered copy on the cover.

Mr. Henry Merlo sends in three odd stamps, a 3c '61 shows a cluster of wee circles and dots, gathered into a little group at the top left, giving a very odd appearance to this stamp. A 1c 1882 shows the stem of the ornamental leaf starting at quite a distance from the small circle, or ball, fully a mm. away. A 2c claret 1890 is liberally bestrewn with gashes of color down thro the whole design, from top right to bottom left, there being no regularity, yet appearing as tho a plate variety. Who has seen a similar copy?

Mr. Leverett Belknap writes that on reading the Forum he found a first issue post card used from Hartford, Ct., May 13 (1873), this being the day after they were issued, and the earliest used card that has been called to my attention.

Mr. E. F. Bodurtha reports having found a 2c orange U. S. I. R., with printed cancellation — "Nathan Fenn's Matches", which he says is probably uncommon, as the shop was not in evidence after 1870. It is of much interest to him, as the proprietor was his grandfather. These stamped revenues are a form of provisionals, and you have probably noticed in the catalog that provisionals are looked on with some favor—note the prices annexed. If you have any revenues with printed initials, take a run thro the private Match & Medicine group in the catalog, and you'll perhaps find those same initials indicating the firm who eventually received their supply of private stamps, then discontinued the use of the printed regular issue stamps.

From Mr. C. P. Hubbard comes the present issue stamped envelope, 2c, with a distinct break in the design. This starts from a point just below the front of the bust, and runs down thro the double ring framing the word cents, passing between the E and N, showing as a white line. The paper is crimped a bit here, indicating a broken die. The other envelopes in this bundle were all with this white line. Very often errors are found in these stamped envelopes. One sent me years ago had the bottom bar of the letter "E" broken, making the word "CFNTS".

Mr. R. F. Molitor has sent a 2c brown 1873 on cover mailed from Buffalo. Across the back of this cover is stamped in black ink "Have your Letters Directed

Mr. H. C. Jones mentions having found a used copy of the 2c vermilion with nice even margins all round, and a wide boardwalk margin at right, so wide that a part of the next stamp is showing, with an arrow at top of stamp. He has another copy with wide margins at top and bottom, measuring 21¼ mm from the bottom of the perforation holes.

Don't forget about those cancellations—anything strange is needed for our illustrations in a coming number.

STAMP COLLECTING IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

(From "A Boy in the White House: Recollections of my father, General Grant," pt. 2, by Jesse R. Grant, in "Harper's Monthly Magazine," February, 1925.)

But although my pets were comparatively few, my other interests were multitudinous. It was in the early days of my life in the White House that I became interested in stamp collecting.

Boys never change. I am convinced that the first cave boy was a collector. The mania for stamp collecting came upon me with the thrill of a great discovery and for a time it held me in a fervor of enthusiasm that overshadowed every other interest. No one had ever imagined such a stamp collection as I would gather!

Then I came upon the advertisement of one Anthony J. Foster, of Milk Street, Boston, Massachusetts. This advertisement offered a large assortment of foreign stamps for five dollars. I had never possessed five dollars at one time, and to me it was a vast sum. It did not occur to me that there was any possibility of acquiring such wealth except by saving it. So I said nothing of my ambition to anyone, save to a cousin of my own age. He and I at once decided that there would be no more candy or soda water until we were possessed of the price of that assortment of stamps.

And at last, at the cost of much self-denial and after an interminable time, the five dollars was amassed and on its way to Boston. Then, with impatience that reckoned not of distance or train schedules, I looked for the arrival of the stamps, and in my anxiety and fear I consulted my staunch friend Kelly.

Kelly was a big-bodied and bigger-hearted member of the Washington police force, detailed on special duty at the White House. In my eyes Kelly, next to my father, was the greatest man in Washington.

"Sure, ye better tell your father about it, Jesse," was Kelly's advice.

And so I took my trouble to father.

"What do you wish me to do, my dear boy?" asked father, displaying nothing but sympathetic interest.

I had been thinking about this, too.

"I thought you might have the Secretary of State, or the Secretary of War, or Kelly write a letter," I suggested.

"Hum-m," mused father. "A matter of this importance requires consideration. Suppose you come to the Cabinet Meeting tomorrow and we will take the matter up there."

Promptly on the hour I presented myself at the Cabinet Meeting. Hamilton Fish of New York was then Secretary of State, and William W. Belknap of Kentucky, Secretary of War—both great friends of mine.

"Jesse has a matter he wishes to bring before you, gentlemen," said father.

Breathlessly I told my story, ending with the suggestion that either the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, or Kelly write a letter.

"This is plainly a matter for the State Department to attend to," said Mr. Fish.

To this Mr. Belknap promptly took exception, declaring it his intention, as head of the War Department, to act at once.

There followed a general debate in which the other Cabinet members stood solidly for Kelly. I shall never forget with what interest I listened to impassioned speeches in which Kelly's virtues, his power and influence were extolled. He was declared to have wider powers than the Constitution bestowed upon either the Department of State or of War, and his personal ability and influence were proclaimed to be greater than that of the Secretaries who sought to usurp his prerogatives. Then the question was put to vote. Mr. Fish and Mr. Belknap voted for their respective Departments but the rest of the Cabinet voted for Kelly. Then the decision was formally announced and I went downstairs to find Kelly.

I can see Kelly now as he sat doubled over at a small desk, writing that letter on the stationery of the Executive Mansion—so headed at that time—the sweat standing out on his forehead, his great fingers gripping the pen.

At father's suggestion I made a copy before mailing the original letter. It read:

> I am a Capitol policeman. I can arrest anybody, anywhere, at any time, for anything. I want you to send those stamps to Jesse Grant at once.
> (Signed) KELLY,
> Capitol Policeman.

A dozen times the following day I was about making anxious inquiry for the reply to Kelly's letter. In due time stamps arrived. As I remember, that five-dollar assortment exceeded our expectations. For a considerable time after its arrival my cousin and I were philatelists to the exclusion of all else. One of us conceived the idea of writing to the American Consuls for specimens of the stamps of the country to which t were accredited. These requests often on fertile ground and many Consuls w kind enough to send us full sets.

But my joy in these receipts was c siderably dampened by mother's in tence upon my writing a personal let of thanks to all who responded. I th the drudgery of compliance with this quirement had considerable to do w my subsequent loss of interest. Or p haps the disease ran its course. Cert it is that we lost interest and the coll tion was forgotten. I suppose it is n among the books in the White Ho library.

Lexington-Concord Sesqui Centennial Issue.

A bill has recently been passed by Congress and approved by the President of the United States, authorizing the Post Office Department to prepare stamps commemorating the 150th Anniversary of the battles of Lexington-Concord, which were really the firing of the first guns in behalf of American Liberty. The department has prepared three designs, similar in size to the Special Delivery stamp consisting of a 1c green, depicting Washington at Cambridge taking command under the famous elm—i.e., I think it was an elm, although my history may be at fault, a 2c carmine, showing the battle of Lexington, entitled "Dawn of Liberty". and a 5c blue, showing the minute men at Concord with some poetical allusion to their good work. As the celebration will take place in April, the department contemplates having these ready for issue both in New England and Washington, around April 15th. We will advise our readers more definitely the exact date. The issue will not be extensive and because of the larger sizes, they will no doubt be printed like the Huguenot-Walloons, in sheets of two hundred and issued in post office sheets of fifty.

Norse-American Commemorative Issue.

In view of the fact that it is necessary for the Bureau to issue the Lexington-Concord series, which must be ready by April, it has been necessary to temporarily delay the Norse-American issue consisting of the 2c and 5c which were to be ready around April 1st. We may now look for these stamps some time in May, providing there is no further hitch.

Our readers, however, will be fully informed as to exact dates, so that they will have ample time to get an early supply.

Rotary Issues.

I am also informed that when the Lexington-Concord series is placed on sale at Washington, there will be offered at the same time through the Philatelic Agency, the 4c, 5c, 6c and 10c rotary prints perf. 10 in sheets of one hundred without the usual precancellation.

Parcel Post Special Delivery Stamp

The new Post Office bill now before Congress and which will possibly be passed before the end of the session, authorizes a charge of 25c on Special Delivery Parcel Post packages. If this bill is approved, new Special Delivery stamps with appropriate designs, possibly a Post Office truck or the like, will be immediately prepared and will possibly be ready for delivery around April 15th along with the other stamps enumerated above. The department is preparing to turn these out in short order, for no doubt if the bill passes, new rates will go into effect without delay.

Parcel Post Service Stamp

The same bill also calls for an extra charge of 5c on Parcel Post packages in excess of the regular rate, and it is now understood that this charge will be collected by means of a 5c service stamp which the department is also arranging to have ready to issue along with the Special Deliveries.

These new and interesting stamps of unusual and attractive designs will surely help to add many collectors to our fold, for such stamps passing through the regular mail usually catch the eye of the non-collector and arouse at least a slight interest.

Only today while at the window of the Philadelphia Post Office, the clerk handed out some of the 2c Huguenot-Walloon stamps to a casual purchaser and he immediately asked all about them and when told, I noticed that he tore off a single copy and put it in his pocket book. This certainly is at least sowing the germ of a future collector, and I personally believe that all such new issues help. I know that it was the Columbian series that started me to collecting, and I believe many others owe their early activities to some such attractive issue.

Sesqui-Centennial Series

Major Joseph A. Steinmetz has just brought forward an excellent suggestion regarding the series of stamps to be issued in commemoration of the Sesqui-Centennial to be held in Philadelphia during 1926, and that is, that the school children and art students of Philadelphia and possibly elsewhere be asked to compete and have a prize awarded for the designing of an appropriate stamp or stamps for the occasion. This will certainly aid philately, and will no doubt

EDITORIAL.

In Harper's Magazine, Jesse Grant is recounting his recollections of his distinguished father, General U. S. Grant, president, 1869-77; and he makes enthusiastic avowal in the February number of his interest in stamp collecting as a boy in the White House. He gives a picture of the normal boy in the throes of collecting and it is drawn with a fidelity that has a general application to a countless number of boys, past and present. There is no discordant note in the philatelic reminiscences, albeit the ending of the account is none too happy. "The disease ran its course" and when Jesse's enthusiasm collapsed, the stamp album was consigned to limbo; and he says that it may now be among the books in the White House library. It is apparent that while the philatelic lamp burned, it shone brightly and that as a stamp scout this son of a president talked stamps by day and dreamed of them by night. His case has many a parallel and it is evident that famous father of Jesse as well as Mrs. Grant encouraged the son's stamp bent. The article is a bit of history of smaller things engagingly told and if permission is granted by the publishers, it would look well in our columns. [Later—We make due acknowledgment to Harper's Magazine for so courteously giving the WEEKLY permission to reprint the excerpt from Jesse Grant's recollections of his father, pertaining to his collecting adventures, which appear elsewhere in this issue.]

Jesse Grant's activities in the White House as a collector were known to some members of the collecting clan of fifty years ago; and once we were told by Mr. John A. Pierce, who began to deal in stamps in Chicago, just after the great fire there of 1871, that he secured a batch of U. S. executive stamps from him or someone connected with him. Jesse Grant's recollections disclose that he was one of the first collectors to aim his enterprise at foreign consuls; and the results were happy in the main. No doubt, his position had weight and he cultivated ground that was fallow in those days. The number of different means employed by boy collectors to secure stamps in the days when the number of varieties available was relatively limited showed that the boys possessed an ingenuity beyond their years.

A reader has found the five cent current issue, precanceled Chicago, that is perforated ten on all four sides. He wishes to know if this stamp has been found by any other collectors in this gauge.

Here is the other side of the picture: "I got out my stamp album and catalogue for the first time in weeks to find the 'name of a Persian coin' in a cross-word puzzle," writes one of the intermittent philatelists. He adds that he got interested in the stamps and forgot to go back to the puzzle for "quite a while."

Mr. LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis, has sent in a clipping from a local newspaper, as follows: "One of the most original stamp cancellations ever put on a piece of United States mail was that used by the postmaster at Cassville, Wis., June 25, 1852, when he wrote 'Good Morning, Edward,' across the stamp when he recognized the name of the addressee as that of one of his personal friends." We need not say that this paragraph was based on the editorial in the WEEKLY of November 3, 1924, describing the cancellation on Mr. H. J. Stirn's three cent of 1851 on the envelope and while the rewrite man on the paper did his job well enough, he should have remembered that a little credit now and then is relished by the weakest men.

In the list of contributors to one of Life's philanthropies, the Louvain Library Fund, we notice that one of the donors of a sum of money styles himself, "An American Stamp Collector, Darien, Conn." This is nailing the philatelic colors to the mast; and we hope that the law of compensation will work out so amiably in this instance that our philanthropist will soon find a New York or two on cover.

We quote from a letter sent from the Chile "copper country": "I am leaving for home and will make a philatelic trip of it as much as possible as I shall go more leisurely than when I came down here. My stamps always attract attention when I get them out and many of the native folks here seem to be interested in them. In fact, almost anywhere I discover a more sympathetic understanding of the stamp collector than at home; and as a good American I regret to have to say so. As for Chilean stamps there are some great collections of them in the cities but even though the early Chiles are so well liked here, I think that many of them have been sent away because of the persuasive prices paid by agents of English and other buyers who insist upon having interesting stamps to study and classify."

The foregoing paragraph speaks of a condition that has been remarked occasionally by philatelic travelers and it

The Dominion of Canada and Foreign Countries
By Dr. Victor M. Berthold

We are pleased to be able to offer to the readers of Scott's Monthly Journal, a comprehensive and authoritative article upon the above subject, so important to philately and yet so little known.

Dr. Berthold has treated this subject in a most thorough and interesting fashion. Thanks to the great efforts he has made in this too long neglected branch of philately, there will exist, when the last installment of this article appears, a standard work upon Wells Fargo & Co. Franks which will make it possible for anyone to take up this fascinating branch of philately; which, in our opinion, will accord these Franks the same importance generally conceded to U. S. Locals.

The introductory installment appeared in our January Journal. The main part of the article will start in the February number and will continue for about six months. We have increased the printing order for our February Monthly Journal, but cannot guarantee to have a copy for you unless you notify us at once that you wish a copy reserved.

The simplest way to assure yourself of receiving this series complete from February, is to send $1.00 for a year's subscription.

The January number is sold out, but numerous requests for copies are arriving daily. If sufficient requests are received we will consider reprinting this entire article in pamphlet form. Kindly advise us in case you are interested.

NEW YORK, U. S. A. - HAMILTON, BERMUDA
VIA AIRSHIP LOS ANGELES

First foreign air mail from a U. S. port! Admiral Moffett, Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, who made the trip, said in an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES—"The 8000 letters dispatched in the sacks on the Los Angeles were dropped into the gardens of the Government House from that height (600 ft.)." Mails for this trip closed at the G. P. O., New York, N. Y., at midnight Thursday night. The Airship left Lakehurst at 3.40 P. M. on Friday, February 20th.

The following Cablegram was received by us February 22nd:
"BERMUDA NFT 22 FEB 1925—JOSEPH WELLS, JACKSON HEIGHTS N Y
LETTERS ARRIVED NONE OUT
BELMONT"

Covers sent by this epoch-making trip will be exceedingly rare. In fact they will be more rare than the famous "Z R-3" covers. We offer these as long as our stock lasts—POST FREE & REGISTERED for only $1.00

It is expected that the LOS ANGELES will make a second trip to Bermuda very soon. We shall dispatch mail on this trip and request that you book your order now. The price will be reasonable.

"THE FAMOUS M. C." BLOCKS OF FOUR

A collection of BLOCKS OF FOUR makes an excellent investment, delights the eye, and adds interest to your collection of singles. We have started many collectors along this somewhat new trail, you are invited to join in. To stimulate interest, we strive to make exceptionally attractive offers. Your money back if you don't think these packets are worth more than we charge for them, or if you are dissatisfied.

THE MARK CLIMAX EXTRA 155 MINT BLOCKS OF 4 GERMAN REPUBLIC $2.04

Every block absolutely different. The 50 Mlrd. ROULETTED (No. 309) is included, along with many other scarce items. We believe that this is absolutely the best Block Bargain on the market, not only because of the price, but because of the content. Every packet is made in our office. Send that order today.

LOTS MORE CLUTTER 85 MINT BLOCKS DANZIG FREE STATE $2.04

Already wholesale prices are climbing upward with the news of the burning of vast stocks of these stamps. We doubt if we can buy this lot on the market today at anywhere near the old price. Take advantage of this offer at once while our stock lasts. The Air Mail stamps 250,000 to 5 Mil. are included complete. Other items of interest and value will be found.

YES, WE HAVE "THE MORE CLUTTER" 102 MINT VARS. DANZIG (SINGLES) $1.02

For the man who "can't make up his mind to collect blocks", here is the next best bargain. The 5000Mk silver and many other good stamps included. NICE LOT.

THE MOR COMMEMORATIVE 125 MINT BLOCKS VARIOUS EUROPE $2.04

The chief feature of this packet is a set of three stamps in blocks issued to commemorate the centennial of the birth of MOR. JOKAI, a noted Hungarian poet and novelist. These stamps have just been received and show a portrait of Jokai.

We include also 122 nice blocks of Ukrainia, Liechtenstein, White Russia, C. Lithuania, etc. A jazzy lot which should add a splash of color to your collection. If you haven't started your Block Collection yet, here is your best chance. No blocks from Danzig or Germany included in the MOR COMMEMORATIVE. LET'S GO.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

on the continent and the sapient conclusion is made by Mr. Toaspern: "With the Europeans enthusiasm is seldom so manifest as with us. It lies deeper in the people, rarely coming to the surface, and is much longer lived. But stamp collecting today has a firmer hold on the Old World than ever before." Mr. Toaspern says that "condition" demands are so exactly as here, where with "the American collector, condition has become almost a fetich."

The newspapers are giving greater space to stamp topics now than ever before and from the clippings that are coming in, much that is readable could be gleaned. For instance, a despatch from Latvia says that it is the intention to "reimburse" the treasury by the sale of stamps to collectors; another notice devotes itself to a description of the Paris bourse and a third tells of the possibility of making stamp finds in out-of-the-way places. Even those who have been somewhat dubious over the efforts made by enthusiasts to secure stamp publicity in the press must admit that well-ordered publicity is the one way to secure recognition in the large sense for stamp collecting.

In an old clipping from the Boston Transcript that has been received, there is an interesting "Talk With a Franklin Street Dealer Who Has Been Many Years in the Business." The paper is yellow with age and reflects a by-gone day. In answer to the question, "When did the custom of stamp collecting begin?" the answer is well made: "It is not known exactly; but it was undoubtedly of spontaneous growth, people naturally preserving what is odd and strange. It was at its height in this country about 1865, at which time nearly everybody was engaged in it, although as a rule, not scientifically." That is a good general answer to the question so often asked, who was the first collector or when did collecting begin. The Boston dealer plumed himself on the fact that he once sold a Russian local for $80. The Brattleboro is mentioned, of course, and a "stamp that there was now good reason to believe was issued in a small Massachusetts town" was given a place in the sun,—evidently the Millbury.

happens that in the New York Times, of February 15th, we find an interview with Mr. Herman Toaspern, New York, who recently returned from Europe, in which a phase of this question is referred to. The head is: "Stamp Collectors Favored in Europe" and the observation is made that the stock of the stamp dealer abroad is regarded as collateral by many of the European bankers and that in consequence, the financing of the purchasing of large collections is not the problem that it is apt to be in this country. One reason for this circumstance is that a knowledge of stamp collecting is more widely diffused there than here, but even so, now and then, we hear of banking relations having been established in the United States by a dealer in some city or other. Mr. Toaspern's views are very interesting as so intelligently presented in the Times and a goal that should be in sight here is the realization by bankers that stamps have an "international value." Mention is made of the different "bourses"

DEATH OF I. W. RISDON.

We are advised by Percy C. Smith, our editor of foreign new issues, of the death of I. W. Risdon of Cambridge, a well-known figure among Boston philatelists. About a month ago Mr. Risdon went to the Massachusetts General Hospital for an operation and had been home about two weeks. On Friday, Feb. 20, he was found dead in his room in the morning. Mr. Risdon was sixty-four years of age and his funeral was held Sunday, Feb. 22, from his late home on Lowden Ave., West Somerville. Besides being greatly interested in philately as a collector of British North Americans he was also an ardent lover of music and had for many years been a member of the Handel and Hayden Society of Boston.

ATLAS STAMP CO., (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville 44, Mass.

UNITED STATES ISSUES I BUY

During the last several months, I have no doubt purchased some of the finest things in United States items that have ever changed hands and it is doubtful if any dealers' purchases within the time have equaled mine—around $50,000 cash purchase from the Lozier Collection, nearly $10,000 from the Waterhouse Sale, upward of $3,000 from the last Ferrari session, somewhat more privately while in Europe—several nice general U. S. collections and one fine 20th Century, etc.

In other words, if you have anything fine in United States, either a single item or a collection, get in touch with me—the cold cash is ready—you will not have to wait two months, or even a week. I count among my clients most of the foremost collectors of the day, consequently can place properties to any value. The few that are not now purchasing from me should certainly have their name upon my mailing list, otherwise they are likely to miss many unusual items. The day is passed when the collector depends upon one dealer to supply his wants or "eats right out of my hand", as a New England dealer so phrases it. The wide awake collector eats out of no one's hands, he picks and chooses where the market offers his requirements. My unusual purchases have resulted in many items coming my way, result—I offer a wonderful stock from which to select.

I SELL

I want your trade. If you only require the scarcer items, I possibly have them, if not am likely to run across them any day. Your want list should be in my hands. If you require the less expensive stamps, I have them, too. Send me your want list—will fill a $2 order as carefully as a larger one. A superb lot of early U. S. now on hand, mostly used, also a very extensive stock from 1890 to date in mint blocks and singles, and this includes coils and booklets which but few dealers stock.

CHRONICLE.

result in a publicity in the general press, which we could not otherwise obtain.

While the Department has not in recent years accepted the design of an outside party, they have used as their main illustrations, suggestions of the committees having such projects in charge. However, I feel quite confident the Department would welcome some such idea, providing, of course, that certain rules and regulations were brought before the contestants so that they could embody these requirements within the design. For instance, there could not be a great amount of detail, for it must be remembered that there is only a limited space for the engraving. The figures of value must always occur together with the monetary value. It is of course desirable that the name of the country appear, either in full or in an abbreviated form, together with the notation that it is a Sesqui-Centennial stamp. The Official Committee now seem to be wide awake and it is hoped that we will be in a position to present something definite in short order.

Air Mail To Bermuda

Under date of February 16th, the Second Assistant Postmaster General announced in the Postal Bulletin that the airship "Los Angeles" formerly the ZR-3 would carry mail for Bermuda from Lakehurst, N. J. Arrangements were made with the Navy Department whereby two hundred pounds of fully prepaid letters and postal cards for Bermuda would be carried via airship. Letters in their usual and ordinary form must be prepaid at the rate of 2c for each ounce and fraction thereof, and postal cards at the rate of 2c each.

The trip was made on February 20th, the full weight of two hundred pounds of mail was dispatched but these only included those marked "Air mail by airship, 'Los Angeles' from Lakehurst, N. J.," in accordance with the department's rulings.

The airship was unable to land, having become water soaked, and there not being ample facilities for making off, consequently simply dropped the mail and returned. Sufficient time has not elapsed for the covers to be returned to the States, so that at this writing I am unable to give any of the post markings.

Bureau Plate Numbers

A number of our readers have written to ask as to a further list of plate numbers, and would advise that I expect to have these by next week. There has recently been a new director appointed, and like all new officers in new positions, is always careful about precedence and consequently has not furnished this data but has taken the matter up direct with the Post Office Department. As the Post Office Department has always granted this permission in the past, there is every reason to believe that they will continue to do so, and in such a case, our readers will receive the list of new plates in short order.

Alaouites.—Syria appears to be undergoing a process of dissection into separate States and it appears to be considered necessary to issue a separate set for this State, which is situated to the North of Grand Liban, Latakia being the chief town. The new stamps are overprinted on the current French, as follows:—10c on 2c, 25c on 5c, 50c on 10c (Pasteur), 75c on 15c, 1 piastre on 20c, 1p 25c on 25c, 1p 50c on 30c (Sower), 1p 50c on 30c (Pasteur), 2p on 40c, 2p 50c on 50c (Pasteur), 3p on 60c, 4p on 75c (Pasteur), 5p on 1 franc, 10p on 2 francs, 25p on 5 francs. Also air-post stamps, additionally overprinted "AVION", 2p on 40c, 3p on 60c, 5p on 1 franc, 10p on 2 francs. Postage Dues (on French Postage Dues), 50c on 10c, 1p on 20c, 2p on 30c, 3p on 50c, 5p on 1 franc.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Chili.—Air Mails. A Decree published on December 19 sanctioned a concession for the establishment of various commercial air routes with the condition that preference is to be given to the transport of correspondence and public servants. A start will be made with regular routes to and from Santiago and Valparaiso and Iquique to Concepcion.—Philatelic Magazine.

Danzig. (Polish P. O.).—The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us for chronicle the following values of the stamps of Poland with the surcharge "Port Gdansk" in two lines: 1gr brown, 2gr purple brown, 3gr orange, 5gr olive green, 10gr blue green, 15gr scarlet, 20gr blue, 25gr claret, 30gr violet and 40gr indigo and 50gr magenta.

Germany.—Mr. J. L. Riedel has shown us a copy of the 10m, post horn, without the underprint. It is not listed in Scott's 1925 catalog but is the same stamp as No.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson sends us the 50 aur and the 5kr of the King Christian type surcharged "30 aur" and "50 aur" respectively. Both the overprints are in two lines and in black.

LATVIA.—We have received from Mr. Karl Koslowski a new value, the 5 san. green. Our correspondent adds that the stamp is perf. 10x10, it also comes 11½x11½. Note the following: No. 116 comes 10x10, 10x11½, 11½x11½, also imperf. between vertically; No. 118 comes 10x10, 10x11½, 11½x11½; No. 119 comes 10x10, 11½x11½; No. 123 comes 10x10, 10x11½; No. 124 comes 10x10, 11½x11½; No. 125 comes 10x10, 11½x11½; No. 126 10x10, 11½x11½.

ROUMANIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. sends the 2 lei yellow green, 7.50 lei light ultramarine and 10 lei blue, all with the portrait of King Ferdinand, perf. 13½.

SIERRA LEONE.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the change of color of the 1½d. It is now being printed in red, script watermark.

RUSSIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski forwards for chronicle the Lenin Memorial set of four values, all of the same design, showing a Mausoleum in the centre of the stamp. The values and colors are 7k blue, 14k green, 20k red and 40k brown. All are imperforate on white paper and Mr. Koslowski's correspondent informs him that the 20k value was sold out in a couple of hours in Moscow and the rest in a couple of days.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—In a letter to the WEEKLY J. L. Sloanaker calls attention to a matter to which reference has frequently been made in the past. Mr. Sloanaker suggests that the whole fraternity could profit by using obsolete stamps upon their correspondence instead of the current issues. This he observes is particularly true of registered letters.

—The Exchange Stamp Co., of Auburn, Calif., is now holding auction sales on the 10th of each month. Their next sale is Tuesday, March 10th, and their 63rd sale will be on Friday, April 10.

—A debate on, "Is Radio or Stamps More Interesting?" was recently held at the Morey Junior High School, Denver, Colorado. Stamps won, of course.

—Lawrence Bros., Anamosa, Ia., are publishing a Stamp Bulletin, No. 4 of which has been received. It will be sent any applicant on request.

—The well-known firm of Wilcox, Smith & Co., Dunedin, New Zealand, has just issued Price List No. 40, in which Australian stamps are to the fore, as might be expected. This firm is a long-established one and has specialized for forty years in the stamps of Australia and New Zealand. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement which will give one an idea of their offerings.

Persia

Centuries ago, Persia was the all-powerful nation of Asia; her warriors were famed for their valor and during, her philosophers were renowned throughout the world for their superior learning and knowledge. The magic word "Persia" was whispered with respect and fear.

Slowly, but as surely as night is followed by day, the Persians began to retreat before Western progressiveness, and from a nation of "Immortals" Persia sank to the depths and finally became a country of roving, illiterate gypsies, of brigands and religious fanatics.

But with the recent establishment of a reliable system of transportation and post offices, new life seems to have been breathed into the Persians. Western ideas are fast being introduced and practiced, more attention has been given to education, and in 1909 a new and liberal form of Government was established.

The postage stamps of Persia symbolize the performance of a most miraculous task —the saving from utter oblivion of a potentially great nation. Those philatelists who are interested not only in the mere stamps themselves, but also in the history, the romance, the rise and fall of the nation which issued them, will unanimously acclaim as well deserving of special attention—the postal issues of Persia.

We offer at special prices:

PERSIA 19th and 20th Century, complete sets Beautiful "Gold & Silver" issues, etc.

TEN-DAY SPECIALS!

Special Low Prices to get acquainted.

100 diff. PERSIA for $1.25

For the collector who cannot afford the complete sets and high priced stamps, here is one of the finest little packets of Persia which we have ever been able to offer.

One hundred distinct varieties, used and unused, and representing both 19th and 20th centuries. Total catalogue value over $7.50! This packet regularly retails for $2.50, but our special "get-acquainted" price is only Net, $1.23

200 Persia, all dif. (Cat. $25.00) Our Price, $5.95

300 Persia, all dif. (Cat. $50.00), mounted Our Price, $12.50

100 diff. DANZIG for 60c

Representative of practically every issue from start to finish, this packet will fill a lot of spaces at a most enticing price. Danzig stamps showed increases as high as 1,000% in catalogue value last year, and since the recent change in its currency, thus making obsolete all of the old "marks" issues, further price-advances may possibly be expected.

We still have on hand a small stock purchased last summer before the rise took place, and make the following co-operative offer:

100 dif. Danzig, including provisionals, high values, dues, airpost, charity, etc. Catalogue value about $5.00. Regular price $1.00; special for 10 days 60c

150 dif. Danzig .....Price, $1.75

175 dif. Danzig .....Price, 2.60

200 dif. Danzig .....Price, 3.75

P. S. For good things philatelic—"Write Right to Reimers."

THE C. P. S. ANNUAL DINNER.

The Chicago Philatelic Society staged its yearly banquet on February 19, 1925, at Morrison Hotel to a capacity house. Fifty-two members and guests were present, including a sprinkling of the ladies and the evening was made memorable by the presence of past presidents, Mudge, Leland, Huber, Jacobs and Severn and old members, including E. M. Rosenthal, Iver Johnson, James Abbott and J. S. Hardy. Telegrams were read from Franklin Coombs and Marshall Hancock, once of Chicago, from Habana, conveying felicitations to their old friends and from P. M. Wolsieffer, Philadelphia, president of the American Philatelic Society, one of the founders of the C. P. S., who is Number One on the rolls of the Chicago society. From a distance came Hugh M. Clark, manager of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company, New York, an old Chicagoan, who revisited the shrine; and A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, collector extraordinary of early U. S.

The new president, Dr. C. W. Hennan, presided and tapped his tank of table-talk for the refreshment of his hearers, and the new secretary, Mr. DeWitt was at his post. Henry N. Mudge, although still suffering from his accident incurred months ago, made a triumphal entry and gave a little phantasy with philatelic application based on the Walrus and the Carpenter of "Alice in Wonderland." Paul MacGuffin, the laird of Libertyville, Ill., garnished his words of wisdom with some apt stories and running in high gear, the lavished language that proclaimed his undying love for the classic stamps. Julius Huber said that he was still a bug but that his fancy had lightly turned to thoughts entymology and Samuel Leland contrasted the present days with those of the past when some of us were just beginning to feel our oats. James Abbott, whose collection was once the largest in Chicago, told of how he could not get away from the stamp theme on his world-wide travels and that in Samoa, Egypt, and other countries, he found evidences of philately in some odd or unexpected way. Hugh M. Clark told of the tribulations of the catalogue compiler and then explained that his peace of mind depended upon how little he said about the book, which so many of us swear by and others swear at. Max Golding, in a talk that sounded sweetly in our ears, dwelt upon the services of the past president of the society for a good many years and then added to the confusion of Mr. Severn by presenting to him in the name of the society, a beautiful traveling bag, that contained a stock-book, the personal gift of Mr. Golding. The recipient of this unexpected attention was touched by this evidence of regard from those whom he knew well and knew him too well and found it difficult to rise to the occasion. With such a handsome bag, there is no excuse to stay at home.

James S. Hardy, suspected of philatelic affluence beyond the well-known dreams of avarice, modestly disclaimed any recognition on the score and told his story. It remained for Edward M. Rosenthal to make reply to the pointed allusions that the toastmaster so freely dulged in during his exercises of evening and he toasted him in an un gettable manner. However, the g doctor managed to withstand the gal laughter that would have carried alm anybody else off his feet and was abl close the enjoyment of the evening appropriate remarks.

The dinner itself was well-selected the committee having it in charge quitted itself with credit. The new ministration of the society starts off the right foot and under the stimulu the pleasures of the banquet, the yea running at a rapid pace. It was the tention of Mr. Severn to tell that fiftieth anniversary of the organizing the Chicago Philatelic Society w fall in 1926 but the sight of that tra ing bag caused him to relinquish hol his one and only original idea.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY HONOR ROLL.

It belongs to Charles R. Morse, attorney at law, Knoxville, Tenn., to have the honor of causing the insertion this week of our Library list. He makes the necessary remittance for the local public library, the Lawson-McGee Library.

We have also received from M. B. Edgerton, Brussels, Belgium, a subscription for a local stamp bourse which is really a stamp club carrying a complete line of French and English stamp periodicals but no American papers. Mr. Edgerton adds:—"This gift subscription is made in the expectation of widening their horizon".

R. ROBERTS AND H. ROBERTS

The firm of R. Roberts of London, which has advertised in the WEEKLY continuously for several years wishes us to state that it is in no way connected with H. Roberts of the same city, who has recently been accused of fraudulent transactions. We publish this statement for the benefit of our long-time advertiser.

OVERLOOKED.

Richard Breaden, of Berwyn, Md., works for the United States Government. He is assistant superintendent of the stamp division of the Post Office Department. It seems that he has developed a device for the precanceling of stamps, a device estimated to accomplish an annual saving of $250,000 to the Government. On recommendation of the Committee on Experiment, Research and Design, the Postmaster-General has awarded $1,000 to Mr. Breaden. The award is the maxium permittd by law.

Breaden developed the device, which is used as an attachment to rotary presses, with the assistance of Blair McKinzie, a machinist in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The department recognized McKinzie's assistance, but the law made no provision for an award to him.

In competitive business their work might have received greater award, as they probably know. To save a quarter of a million dollars for any employer is important and notable. Although the name of the committee concerned with the award suggests that individual initiative is not unusual in the postal service, the inventive enterprise of the two men cited is refreshing evidence that the committee does have occasion to recognize and reward progress in behalf of the public interest.—The Nation's Business.

A CURIOUS COLLECTION.

By C. E. R.

Some years ago, while I was running an assay office in Arizona, I was visited one morning by an old man who was acting as watchman for an idle mining property in the vicinity.

"Know anything about stamps?" he inquired.

"A little," I admitted.

"Got some you might like to see," he went on. "Come over some day and take a look," and out he went with no more speech.

I was not collecting at that time; had quit some twenty years before. But some of the nineteenth century knowledge still lingered, and when I called on my friend a few days later, I had some hazy idea of what to tell him.

His collection was housed in a hardwood box about four inches square and a foot long, built into the sea-chest which held most of his property; he had been a sailor for some thirty years. It consisted of about two hundred old daguerreotypes, such as were common in Civil War days, and on the back of each one were glued from one to five old U. S. stamps, none later than 1869. They were mostly one's and three's, but I counted seven twenty-four's and thirteen thirty's of the early issues and quite a few twelve's.

Of the '69 issue, which I remember best from my younger days, there was one complete set and some twenty odd ones, including five fifteen's, a stamp that I have always loved above them all. There were also a lot of revenues. In all I think he had about 350 stamps.

About half of them were in poor condition, rubbed, dirty and greasy; but when I suggested soaking some of them off and selling them, the old man froze up. He was quite pleased with the value I put on them, the accuracy of which I will say nothing, but he was content to have them as they were. Evidently there were associations between the pictures and the stamps not to be mentioned.

That was my only sight of them. A month or so later I went to the mine to see him, but he had gone; where, his successor could not say, and I have never seen nor heard from him since.

NASSAU STAMP CO.

116 Nassau St. New York, N. Y.

A PLATE VARIETY OF THE 5 CENT WALLOON.

By E. J. NEWCOMER, Yakima, Wash.

A defect occurs in some of the 5c Huguenot-Walloon stamps that has created a great deal of interest. This is found in most of the stamps of the two upper panes of plate number 15,754. It has been variously referred to as an "error", a "die shift", and a "double transfer", none of which appellations is correct, and it has been advertised as a "rarity" at a considerable premium.

I have studied this defect rather carefully with a binocular microscope, and I have come to the conclusion that it was produced by a defective transfer roll. Before going on to a discussion of how the defect occurred, of what it should be called, and of its philatelic value, I will explain what and where it is. The defect consists primarily of a flaw in the lower part of the thin colored line encircling the right figure 5. For the sake of convenience, I will consider the sheet of stamps as a whole, before being divided into post office panes of 50. In the whole sheet, there are 20 horizontal rows of 10 stamps each.

Stamps 1-4.—Normal.

Stamps 5 and 6.—Colored line slightly bent outward at bottom.

Stamp 7.—Colored line broken (Fig. 1).

Stamp 8 (under upper right plate number).—Broken part of line bent down, right end almost touching outer colored circle.

Stamps 9 and 10.—Broken part touches outer circle. Very thin line in normal position of broken portion (Fig. 2).

Row 2.

Row 3.

Stamps 1-4.—Same.

Stamps 5-10.—Same, but diagonal colored line has disappeared.

Rows 4-10.

Same.

I have not seen the two lower panes from this plate, but I presume the lower portion of the colored circle is thin on these stamps as well.

Now as to the cause of this defect. In making these stamps, a transfer roll of soft steel is rolled over the master die, producing the stamp design in relief on the roll. This is then hardened and used to roll in the designs on the plate. It is evident that the designs are entered from left to right and from top to bottom. In this case, the thin ridge of steel forming the colored circle in question broke away gradually as the stamps were entered. It started when stamp 5 of row 1 was entered, and the broken portion became more and more out of place as the succeeding stamps in this row were entered. (Fig. 1). Enough seems to have remained in place, however, to make a slight impression on the plate, which prints very lightly (Fig. 2).

When the end of the row was reached, the broken bit of steel seems to have broken off entirely, as it does not show in the second row. A short diagonal line (Fig. 3) on the stamps of this row and part of row 3 may have been caused by a part of this broken piece of steel adhering to the transfer roll. This disappears in stamp 5 of row 3, but all the other stamps in the upper half of the plate show the lower part of the circle thinned, and it is probable that the same defect continues throughout the lower half of the plate.

Four plates were used in making this stamp, numbers 15,752, 15,753, 15,754 and 15,755. Aside from 15,754, I have seen stamps from 15,753, and the defect does not show in this plate. If the plates were made in numerical order,

This is the $2.00 bicolored issued in 1918 and printed in orange red and black. It has always been one of the most difficult of late varieties to obtain. It was superceded in 1920 by the carmine and black variety and now the deep blue 1922 variety is beginning to come into use. So it is doubly obsolete.

U. S. 20th Century Stamps in Singles and Blocks of Four

I am breaking up a fine collection of these stamps in unused condition. I also have a fine lot of blocks of the 19th Century from 1893 to 1901. Send me your want list, please. It will pay you to get on my mailing list, as well as my new issue service of British and French Colonies.

H. F. COLMAN 509 SEVENTH STREET, N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

stamps from 15,755 should show the thin circle. However, number 15,754 may have been made last.

It is my opinion that this defect should be called a "plate variety". Having been produced on the plate by the transfer roll, it must occur on all sheets printed from this plate.

As to the value of this variety, it depends entirely on the individual collector. Most collectors do not care to collect such minor varieties. The relative number of stamps showing this variety would also affect the value. The broken circle shows plainly only on stamps 7 to 10 of row 1, four stamps of the 200. Since there are four plates, making a total of 800 stamps, one stamp in 200 will show this broken circle. The thin circle, of course, is much commoner, showing plainly on 90, and possibly on 190 or more of the 800 stamps. The diagonal colored line appears on 14 of the 800 stamps. In order to show the whole story of this defect, one should have both upper panes of this plate, or at least the three upper rows of both panes.

In addition to the above, several lesser varieties are evident on this plate. On every stamp of row 4 there is a slight irregularity in the lower part of the colored circle about the left 5. On the stamps of rows 5 to 8, a small colored dash appears in the horizontal white submarginal line, below and slightly to the right of the left 5.

I am indebted to Mr. Donald Burbeck, of Mill Valley, Calif., for calling my attention to this variety.

MOZIAN'S SALE IN NEWARK.

The collectors of Newark, N. J., and vicinity will no doubt appreciate the enterprise of Vahan Mozian, who will hold an auction sale in that city on March 21. The sale will be at the St. Francis Hotel and we call attention to the advertisement of this firm elsewhere in this issue of the WEEKLY. If Newark collectors respond in goodly numbers the firm will no doubt place another sale in this vicinity.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Philatelic Literature. How's your library? Suppose you have hand books on foreign countries that you like; but how about a few concentrated facts on early U. S.? Have you got the facts, and if so, can you go and pick out what you need in way of reference the first time you reach for it?

There are a lot of very fine articles written, and we have probably kept them and know they are round somewhere, but we would have to take a day off to hunt them up.

Often collectors write me asking where can I find out about early postmarks and cancellations on U. S. stamps used from the West, or where is there an article on shield cancels, or what was the rate from West to the East in 1849?

These are merely samples of the questions asked from time to time, as a rule there is an answer, but how and where to find the answer is the trouble, and then to pass it along so that the questioner may secure the book or pamphlet containing the information is about hopeless.

Every time I need to refer to any stamp or cancellation of France, simply reach for Yvert & Tellier Specialized Catalog of France and Colonies, and there you are, all in one volume, neat, concise, well indexed, and a book you enjoy looking over at any time.

Could U. S. stamp literature be encompassed in one volume? French cancellations are in sequence, their foreign office marks are chronicled, Paris cancellations fixed and tabulated, railroad cancellations designated by letter, — all is methodical.

In our U. S. cancellations we have no such system, birds, beasts, flowers, leaves, shoes, faces, numerals, letters, heads, stars, and a deluge of queer conceptions obliterate our stamps. As to the postmark part, we are fairly well along. We have never done much with town postmarks, except to pick out and note the smallest diameter postmarks, then to mention the great big ones, and note a few with double rings, and the odd shaped ones, etc. Our railroad and packet postmarks are very well studied and listed, but when it comes to hunting up data on some particular postmark, we make a mental note that this will have to be done later, and hope we can stumble into it going through the lot. I usually start at the bottom, for it seems as though the ning you look for is generally on the ottom of the pile.

Who wants the job of classifying and nen getting out a comprehensive study f U. S. stamps, rates, cancellations and inor varieties?

In a year or two, or three, working wenty-five hours per day, you could acomplish a lot toward that object, and nen someone would buy a copy, or borow one, to see if the book listed his uck billed platypus cancellation on a 3c 869. Not finding it, he would utter ords of disgust, forgetting that it was p to him to enter this item when called or by the compilers of the work.

There is a book that may be had which ontains more postal information than ou ever dreamed of. It is a book that ou may get for your philatelic library, erhaps many of you have this book, if ot, you probably will order one some ay. Of first importance is a list of very town in these United States, and hat alone is worth the price of admison. If you ever need know any little . O. regulation, or rate, or anything like his, you need this book, for it contains ll that, and everything else to do with . O. rules and regulations. It is called he "United States Official Postal Guide", ublished every year, and in big type it eads that under his contract with the P. . Dept. the printer is authorized to sell opies thereof to those outside the postal ervice. Am not advertising for this rinter, but if you need some helpful nformation in P. O. lines, write to the rinter—J. B. Lyon Co., Albany, N. Y., nd you may add another book to your hilatelic library—one you'll like all thro s 1,000 pages.

From the above come two thoughts in his week's Forum:—

1. Can we here in the United States et ourselves up a book, big and comrehensive, that will show us something bout what we want when we want it.

2. We are to show a lot of odd and nteresting cancellations preferably beore 1880, in the Forum. Are you willng to help out with some from your wn collection?

BARGAINS

In order to secure one spectacular item we often have to buy several good copies which are not in demand among the specialists to whom we cater. If we had the clerical help these stamps could be retailed at a good profit. Without this help we cannot send the stamps out fast enough, so more than $30,000 worth of good to fine U. S. has accumulated in our stock boxes during the past two years.

We consider these stamps as money in the bank or as first class securities. To raise some money on these holdings we are making these cuts in prices for quick returns. Several copies of each in stock at this writing, but supplementary lists are advisable.

Prices are quoted only on two grades of condition: first, "A" very fine to superb; second, "B" good to fine. There are so many differences of opinion regarding proper condition classifications that we can only stick to our old motto "your money back if you want it". However, there are no soiled, repaired or badly damaged stamps in our stock. You may be certain that anything you order will be clean and presentable. Stamps we often rate as "good" many collectors regard as fine. In fairness to those who send remittances we cannot attempt to send approval selections until two weeks after appearance of this advertisement, but we hope anyone ordering and feeling any dissatisfaction with the stamps sent will at once return them and get his money back.

Watch The St. Patrick's Day Parade in Philly

Every philatelist and stamp collector in Philadelphia will be marching up to the office of Mr. Eugene Klein, Tuesday, March 17th, at 1318 Chestnut Street, armed with a THIRD SPECIALIST SALE catalogue. In a two-day sale of March 21st and 25th, I will sell some of the fine things it took Mr. Rehse ten years to assemble.

Come up whether you want to bid or just look.

Mr. Klein also has a sale later in the month.

My day in Philadelphia is March 17th.

BUNKER HILL STAMPS.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7—Paul Revere's friends in Lexington and Concord have failed to muster sufficient influence to place him on the memorial stamps and coins which will be issued in connection with the observance of the 150th anniversary of the beginning of the war for freedom April 19th and 20th.

As a result of the always present friendly rivalry between Lexington and Concord, a compromise has been effected so that each will be represented on the stamps and on the coins. One stamp will depict the battle of Lexington. Another will show the Concord Minute Men. A third will show Washington taking command of the Continental troops under the Washington Elm in Cambridge.

Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger of Cambridge, a member of the federal Lexington - Concord commission, convinced the post-office department after some argument that there was a relation between Washington taking command and Lexington and Concord and obtained authorization for the Cambridge stamp. Each will be oblong. One will be a five-cent stamp, another will sell for two cents and the third for one cent. The post-office department will soon announce the price at which each will sell, and a rush of stamp collectors is anticipated.

The memorial coin will show the Concord Minute Men on one side and the Lexington belfry on the other and will be known as the Patriot Half Dollar. The design has been made by Daniel Chester French, noted New York sculptor.

KATCHAK

What is Katchak?

It sounds like one of those ephemeral New Republics or a province of Russia.

No, Katchak is not a new country, it is a surcharge used on the Turkish stamps in time of the tyrannical reign of Sultan Hamid.

Katchak means contraband, smuggled, BOOTLEG, if you want. In Turkey nobody was allowed to carry letters, and they used to search every traveler and if they found any letters in his pocket they taxed each letter with stamps surcharged Katchak, in Turkish characters. They used to even open the mails and if they discovered more than one letter in one cover, they taxed each letter.

We have a very fine lot of these stamps, all 19th century. We offer these as long as they last:

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

Malay-Borneos.— The few days between Xmas and New Year showed the usual slight lull in philatelic activities in the market, but the general strength in any desirable lines is marked and even the (in some quarters) despised War Stamps are a slightly better market than this time last year.

Many "get rich quick" schemes of buying stamps on particular lines almost inevitably fail, if practised generally. The latest suggestion contained recently in a letter in this journal, is to buy up all colonial or other stamps that are frowned at when issued. Two cases are instanced, the Malay Borneo exhibition issues and the famous Kitts-Nevis set of 1923. The former cannot really be stated to be showing any marked improvement, except a few high values and scarce items that never were readily obtainable. Some fair stocks of the lower values have been coming on the market recently, and most sets can still be obtained at a small percentage over face, and one cannot predict any sensational rises at the moment.

St. Kitts.—The other set instanced is the St. Kitts Tercentenary issue, which, of course, is in a different category. Although these were derided at one time as unnecessary, they appear to be as justified as the Commemorative sets issued by Newfoundland, Barbados, etc. St. Kitts has a very clean record, but they happened to announce openly what they were going to do with any money raised, so that collectors and dealers neglected them during the entire year they were on sale. When, however, the remainders were burnt in a business-like way and it was announced that very small numbers had been sold, the fun began. Only two or three months ago, it was pointed out in these columns what good value they really were at current quotations; since then the value has risen enormously and the set has been selling during December for about £14 in auction. It has everything in its favour for further rises. A popular country, handsome design, no speculators stock, and once the continental demand comes in strong there is no telling what the set will ultimately rise to. Many values are already selling for 8 times face, whilst one of the leading dealers is offering the commonest or ½d value at 1sh, or 24 times face. Thus are our chances neglected!

Some Recent Europeans.— When we turn from the open way these commemoratives were sold to all and sundry for a year, to the devious methods by which some of the recent commemoratives of certain European countries come on the market, the difference is very striking. All sorts of petty methods are adopted, so that the public are hardly able to buy the stamps at the Post Offices. Issues of which quite substantial numbers are printed, are cornered, sometimes by officials, and the sets boomed at several times face. Recent issues of old established countries, like Italy and Monaco, are amongst the worst offenders, as the practice is not confined to the newly formed European states from whom one had learnt to expect, and ignore, a flood of unnecessary issues. It is rumoured that the Soviet government is going to emulate these practices on a larger scale, and it is to be hoped that all collectors in this country will ignore them.

Turks Island 1sh Script.— The 1sh Turks Is. script keeps its price up, and is hard to obtain at any large discount off catalogue. It is stated that only 1,550 were sent out of this stamp, which would make it about four times as rare as the analagous stamp of Barbados which recently caused such a furore. It is probably, however, that the above figures do not include what were sold by the crown agents.

Palestine Dues.— Comparatively few collectors wax very enthusiastic over postage dues, so that these stamps have a much more limited market. The first issue of those of Palestine were difficult to obtain when first brought into use. More recently, a few have been released on the arrival of the second issue, and the set is now obtainable more reasonably.

Tomorrow's Past.—One constantly hears certain collectors bemoan the fact that they did not live in the "good old days," when Triangular Capes and 1d blacks were obtainable at a few pence each. The opportunities for wise investment for money are probably as great as ever, and it is easy to pick out plenty of stamps that have increased quite as sensationally within the last two or three years. These are chiefly stamps issued in too small numbers to go round, whereas the big increase in the classic stamps was due to the advent of specialisation on an extensive scale, which has forced up the price of comparatively common stamps to a high level. Both recent and classic issues of Colonial stamps still contain big probabilities of further rises, but for really sensational increases we must look to the scarcer items of modern Colonials, many of which have only just begun their upward soar, and which may become almost unobtainable in the near future.

The two low values of Australia recently made a surprise appearance on watermarked paper and relatively prices have been paid for these. Ei another printing has been made or were printed than were stated, as they now, particularly the 1d green, co through much more freely. It wil remembered that the 1d red engraved also on multiple watermarked paper commanded high prices when first iss only to fall again, and it behooves t interested on the financial side to be c ful before purchasing low values of countries at high prices.

Rhodesia.—Despite the cloud Rhodesia owing to the postmarked mainders—which, by the by, are abo larger numbers than ever—there is a demand for many of the issues scarcer varieties, particularly in state. Some of the perf. 15 varieti the 1910 and 1913 issues are also w picking up at present prices, and t do not appear to be any substantial st of mint stamps. In the recent emiss the unused varieties have gained popu ity as the used have lost it.—Phila Magazine.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—An advertising label has been issued in connection with the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Concord fight. It is upright rectangular in shape and bears a representation of the Concord Minute Man. The colors are blue, black and orange, the central design having a white background.

—The Rutherford, N. J., Stamp Club has moved to the Fire House, Ames Avenue, where a large and very pleasant room in which to meet has been secured. The club meets every Monday evening. W. O. Staeb, the energetic sales manager of the club, does not hestitate to take advertising space in the WEEKLY to present the merits of this enterprising stamp club.

—A novel auction sale was held by the Hoover Brothers in January. It consisted of 532 lots of precancelled stamps, and the firm claims it is the largest precancelled mail auction ever held. The firm is planning to hold another sale in a few weeks.

—We have received from Robert Scypes, Quakertown, Pa., a card which shows the impressions of five handstamps in their natural colors as used in the Quakertown post-office from 1803 to 1857.

—Bright & Son inform us that their Europe and Colonies section of the A B C Catalog will be ready in March. It will contain the countries formerly included in the Russian and Turkish Empires which are at present independent.

—The Jeuves de Excelsior of Mexico City in its issue of Feb. 5, has a full page feature devoted to the postal museum of that city. We are indebted to Arthur King Clark for the clipping.

—A stamp club has just been organized in Huntington, W. Va., and a junior club will be organized later. All stamp collectors in Huntington and its suburbs are requested to write Howard M. Jones, secretary of the club, at 222½ 8th St., Huntington, W. Va.

—A. M. Lazier, Jamestown, N. Y., has received word from the Post-Office Department of Canada that the new 7c red brown stamp is not likely to be issued in imperforate condition.

—A. E. Hussey, M. D., is so loyal to the Cincinnati Collectors Club that he is unwilling to permit the New York Local Branch of the S. P. A. to have all the honors accorded it in a recent number of the WEEKLY. Dr. Hussey claims that the Cincinnati Branch was the first to organize, the first to hold auctions of no less than 125 lots, and the first to broadcast by radio. Organized with five members it now has an average attendance of twenty-five and is somewhat jealous of the position it has attained. Meetings are held the first and third Tuesday of each month. (This will close the argument between our two friends so far as the WEEKLY goes.—ED.)

—The WEEKLY of Feb. 9, 1925, names several philatelists who refer with pardonable pride to the amount of postage on the envelopes coming from Germany, during the last few months of 1923. I read of Mr. G. S. Wilkins' envelope bearing stamps of the face value of 364,000,000,000 marks, and of Dr. Brownlie's 400 milliard cover. It may be of interest to the readers of the WEEKLY that I have in my possession an envelope which bears stamps of the face value of 520,000,000,000. I have another envelope, dated Dec. 6, 1923, with 220 milliards postage. At the time, when this letter was mailed, the price of four times the face value was charged for each stamp. Consequently, the postage on this letter represents an actual value of 880 milliards.—REV. PETER PFISTER.

DEATH OF CAPT. HASELTINE

A. F. Henkels of Philadelphia announces the death of Capt. John W. Haseltine of that city, which occurred at midnight Feb. 27, 1925, after a lingering illness of several years' duration. At the time of his death he was the oldest stamp dealer in the United States. He is survived by his widow and one daughter.

Capt. Haseltine's activities were indeed numerous and the following clipping does but faint justice to them:

Capt. Haseltine was born in Philadelphia Sept. 6, 1838. He commenced collecting stamps and coins in 1867, and launched out as a dealer in 1868. Many are the discoveries in his chosen profession that are to be placed to his credit, among which may be mentioned the New Jersey, Washington Cent, the 500 and 1000 mil "Nova Constelatio" pieces, known to numismatists as the "mark" and "quint". The 1000 mil piece is unique, and but two of the 500 mil are known. His latest discovery was the two varieties of the $50 gold pieces, known as "Unions". They are pattern pieces and were never issued. These two are all that are known to exist, and now rest in the cabinet of the Philadelphia Mint.

In 1895 he retired temporarily from the curio business to take charge of his brother's Art Gallery in New York City, but in 1897 he returned to his old line of business, since which time he has been one of Philadelphia's foremost dealers, and an ardent advocate of everything philatelic and numismatic.

Capt. Haseltine has also done somewhat in the publication line, having issued in 1888 "A Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of all Nations" in conjunction with the late L. W. Durbin, and at a later date an illustrated type table of United States dollars, half dollars and quarter dollars. In 1859-61 he was engaged in business in New Orleans, but started north when Fort Sumter was fired upon. After much trouble he succeeded in reaching Philadelphia, where he raised a company of cavalry and was mustered in as First Lieutenant, August 21, 1861. His company was assigned to the 2nd Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry. He served with the army of the Potomac, and was promoted to a Captaincy Oct. 1, 1863.

Having fought in twenty-five battles of the Civil War he was wounded at Deep Bottom, August, 1864, after having three horses killed under him.

He comes of good old Scotch stock, descended from Jock of Hazel Dean. The fighting proclivities of his ancestors are not only manifest through his war record, but through the fact that he was a member of the "Washington Grays of Philadelphia" for five years before the war.

EDITORIAL.

The decision of the postal authorities to issue two stamps in commemoration of the centennial of the arrival of the first Norwegian immigrants in America or New York City, next October, is further evidence of the liberal treatment that is accorded demands for special stamp attention, officially. Say it with stamps, seemingly, is the accepted slogan of the department and stamp collectors, as a result, are in a somewhat embarrassing position. It is not becoming for them to look askant at the modest issues of stamps that have given so much satisfaction to those people who accounted themselves among the class, clan or crowd that has been so signally honored. Still, the philatelist if he does not grumble at the sudden shower of stamps every now and then cannot be expected to make the rafters ring with enthusiasm for the newcomers. There was a time when the question of an unnecessary stamp or two occasioned a great division of opinion and arguments were roared back and forth in an inspiring way. Now, the best that is to be heard is a purr of approval here and a squeak of protest there; and the philatelic world rolls on. As readers know, there are to be two stamps, each in two colors, with appropriate designs of the Norse sloop and borders having their own significance. The date at which the stamps are to be ready has been named as April 1, 1925, but it is possible that we shall not see these new stamps until some time later. The New York Times is entitled to all consideration for having presented particulars of the new issue in such early season.

The receipt from Mr. Armond R. Milot, Newport, R. I., of a block of the two cent U. S., bearing the naval postmark, "U. S. S. Niagara" with the "Gulf of Venezuela" cancellation extension, leads to the observation that the postmarks of this kind are of strong appeal to some collectors and it is hard to conceive of a more interesting side-line than a good representation of the markings in question. We remember a reader in Galveston who showed us a large collection of the navy postmarks a number of years ago and if he has been collecting since that time, he has a collection of much historic interest.

We have been informed by Mr. Hugh M. Clark that it is the intention of the Scott Stamp and Coin Company to issue another edition of the catalogue, Specialized United States, in the autumn of this year. It is said that the present edition has been in a demand to exceed the expectations of the publishers.

A letter has been received from Prof. E. G. Young, homeward bound to Peking, China, dated, "At Sea, S. S. Taiyo Maru, near Kobe, Japan," in which he speaks of his recent valuable contribution to our columns, as follows:

"Anent my paper 'Notes on the Stamps of China', I am constrained to write another note or two, to protect myself against the darts of some one who knows more about the subject than I do!

The other day in Yokahama I received a large surprise on the subject of China first issues: I saw several of the third printing first issue stamps, running along about 1883 with clear 'Newchwang' postmarks, and a single copy of the five candareen has joined my personal assortment with a green 'Ningpo'; these indicate the extension of the service beyond the original offices at an earlier date than I had before known.

Further relative to the recent issues—the selling of 'splits'. A split is a stamp which has been used on a money order or remittance certificate: stamps are affixed to the full value of the paper, and then the whole thing cut apart down the center more or less irregularly; one-half is given to the purchaser and the other sent as advice to the paying office. After the order has been paid there is or has been a lot of leakage in the final repository, for these splits, joined and canceled by some obliging postal employee are very common market material in the stocks of the Chinese dealers. I have seen the five and ten dollar values of the last issue so treated, and most other high denominations as far back as the two dollar 1902. The only guide I can give to their value is that the $10 green and black sells for about 60c Chinese in this shape—that is 1/16th catalog!"

We have recently an interesting article on the position in the sheet of the tete beche, five centavos, 1871 of Guatemala. Mr. Charles S. Langstroth, Long Beach, California, sent us, not alone the article but also, his specialized collection of this stamp in order that we could have the satisfaction of verifying his discovery. He has the distinction of defining the position of the second error on the sheet as in the eleventh row, third stamp from margin, in the sheet of 150 stamps, arranged fifteen horizontal rows of ten stamps each. It is evident that Mr. Langstroth's collection of this stamp is one of the best that could be imagined.

Here is a letter that shows how the brook joins the brimming river of publicity for stamps; and at the same time, tells of the development of a force for good. A few concrete examples of this kind are object lessons that encourage the ones who believe that publicity properly presented is the one factor that will make philately an accepted pursuit in the eyes of the world. Further, signs are not lacking to indicate that the coming convention at Los Angeles will receive an unusual amount of attention on the printed pages of the newspapers of the section. Mr. G. A. Martin, editor of the Morning Press of Santa Barbara, California, writes: "I wish that you would loan me a cut to illustrate a story on stamps. I have been a collector in a small way since boyhood and now that my son is old enough to take up stamps, I am alive on the subject again. I have very recently written several articles for California papers on stamps, in con-section with the coming meeting in Los Angeles of the American Philatelic Society, stringing in some interesting facts about commemoratives, stamp collecting as an educator, etc. I have also contributed some on commemoratives in connection with the announcement of the forthcoming Norse issue. I am going to print a Sunday feature in my own paper and I would like to illustrate it with a few cuts."

The International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York City next year is estimed to be one of the best advertised of enterprises and it will be far and away the most important date on the philatelic calendar of America. We are in receipt of letters from readers asking for details of the scheme of the exhibition and gratifying tendency is that the young collectors are much interested in the forthcoming stamp conclave. As one reader asks: "Can you tell me if in the 1926 exhibition, there will be a junior class for collectors under eighteen?" The prospectus of plan of exhibits and list of awards has not yet been issued and so, it is premature to say anything definitely as to the actual plan of exhibits but it is taken as a fact that due recognition will be made of the aspirations and ambitions of youthful collectors. In a copy of the New York Times just at hand, we find a reference to the subject, in the following words: "A preliminary program of the various classes and awards has been drawn up but it will probably be several weeks before it is definitely approved. In its preparation the opinion of all the prominent philatelic societies will be asked." Due notice of the finished product will be given in the WEEKLY.

With the new Norwegian commemorative stamps in the offing and the set of stamps to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill, in all likelihood, to follow in short order, the collector has something to think about. Already, we have heard expressions ranging from dismay to delight over the prospect; and it is possible that many collectors will be so moved over the outlook that they will take their pens in hand to indite words of commendation or indignation. With our country, celebration stamps seem to come in bunches and Washington seems to be true to tradition. There is no need for undue emphasis in discussing the subject of special stamps from various angles, as any reason for vehemence on the subject disappears on the admission of even the opponents to such extra issues that it is not the thought of the government to profit through its additional issues. Sentiment alone must be the impelling force that brings the stamps into being and it is not an inviting task to run full tilt against it, unless the stake is a high one. Evidently, there will be "more anon" on the subject.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP
JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

GUATEMALA, 5c 1871, "TETE-BECHE".

By CHARLES S. LANGSTROTH.

The 5 centavo of the first issue of Guatemala (1871) is found in tete-beche pairs, and writers on that country have not agreed as to the exact position of the inverted stamp in the sheet. R. R. Thiele, in the Adhesive for November, 1903, said that the inverted stamp had appeared twice in the sheet, being No. 10 in the top row and No. 3 in the eleventh, the sheets having consisted of fifteen horizontal rows of ten each.

Apparently never having seen Mr. Thiele's article, J. R. M. Albrecht, in Gibbons' Weekly for June 18, 1910, said that the inverted stamp must have appeared at least twice in the sheet, since he had it in the right upper corner of a block from the right upper corner of the sheet, and also in the middle of a horizontal strip of three, thus showing that it had appeared somewhere in the body of the sheet as well as in the right upper corner. He advanced the theory that the position of this second inverted stamp was probably No. 3, in the fourth row, reasoning from the analogy of a French stamp that had been printed about the same time in the same establishment. The same suggestion was made by C. R. Duffy in the Philatelic Gazette for November, 1912. (Note. The Thiele and Albrecht articles were reprinted in the WEEKLY for November 14, 1903, and October 17, 1910, respectively.)

About the time the last of these articles appeared, I acquired a block of forty of these stamps, being four complete horizontal rows, which I was able to place, by fitting it in with some other blocks, as the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh rows of the sheet. And in this block no stamp was inverted, thus disproving the hypothesis of Messrs. Thiele and Duffy. But then what had been the position of the inverted stamp? Was Mr. Thiele's assertion correct, that it had been the third stamp in the eleventh row, or was he also in error?

This was just the kind of a problem that gives zest to stamp collecting, and I decided to undertake the hunt for a solution, even though it required me to reconstruct the entire original sheet, no small task with a sheet of 150. Of course plating in the usual meaning of the word is hardly feasible with these stamps, but I found that many of them contain flaws and other minor differences, so that fairly large blocks and strips can be fitted together, and in many cases even the pairs as well.

Accordingly for the last twelve years I have conducted a search for this stamp in pairs, strips and blocks, taking or at least examining all that I could turn up. Having acquired a total of 372, most of them in large blocks of from 28 to 40 each, I was able finally to cover all but twelve of the spaces that could have been occupied by the inverted stamp. Then my search seemed to reach a deadlock, and for a year or more I was unable to cover another blank. No more large blocks could be found, and small ones were included in what I had covered already, when suddenly I found the solution in my hand. I was in Brussels at the time, and having entered a modest little stamp shop, my question in poor French brought out what I had never really hoped to find, a block with sheet margins still attached to identify exactly its position in the sheet, and showing the inverted stamp. I saw instantly what a find it was, and concealed my impatience while the old gentleman slowly figured out the price of a tete-beche pair plus 38 singles all at half catalogue. I never did understand his explanation of the calculation, for the price he named in Belgian francs cost me exactly $6.54, not extortionate for what I believe to be a unique piece. The block is from the lower left corner of the sheet, five horizontal rows of eight, with the inverted stamp the third in the top row of the block, i.e., the eleventh row of the sheet, thus confirming Mr. Thiele's statement quoted above.

UNITED STATES ISSUES

By keeping in close touch with the larger stamp centers of the world, I am daily receiving attractive and unusual United States items for my clients. Every piece is marked, not only with reference to selling the particular item, but with a view of making clients by every sale. The best possible advertisement any professional can obtain is to have his sales give permanent satisfaction to the purchaser, and this can only be accomplished by selling him something that pleases, at a fair price. It is possibly true that stress should not be laid upon stamps as an investment, for the pleasure that can be obtained from their collecting is of main importance. Nevertheless, the collecting of postage stamps has now reached such a point with many that the returns from their possible sale must be seriously considered. There is nothing in the philatelic world today that can be more quickly sold and generally at a substantial profit, than fine United States stamps. If you have a fine collection of our issues, there is always a market. Can as much be said for most foreign issues?

If you are at present collecting our issues, I would like to be favored with your want list. If you desire to start, I will be pleased to make up from my substantial stock a selected collection from $5.00 up. A few dollars invested monthly will produce wonderful results.

Remember, I have a good stock of our early issues, and an unusually large one from 1890 on (especially mint blocks and singles). I have added to and helped to build up some of the most important collections in the country. May I help you—whether you want the rarities or the less expensive items—always in the market to purchase fine United States.

BOOK REVIEW.

In our issue of Feb. 23rd we published an extended notice of Part II of the Gibbons catalog. A review copy is now at hand. It is a mammoth book of 1140 large pages and may be obtained from the publishers, Stanley Gibbons Ltd., 391 Strand, London, England, at $2.75, cloth. As we indicated in our previous notice, Part II will hencefroth be published annually in the same volume with Part I and collectors will have at the opening of the stamp season in October a complete catalog. This will be not only keenly relished by the stamp trade, but profitable to the publishers. The book will be so generally read by our readers that a further review seems unnecessary. As in the past, the publishers have enlisted the assistance of various eminent British philatelists in making up the work and the revision of the book has been in experienced hands.

United States.

The President Approves Postal Increase

The President has approved the Act of Congress increasing the postal pay of the employees of the Postal Department, and the same bill carries certain increases in postal rates that will necessitate changes of interest to the philatelist.

The bill in its final form judging from the information given in the daily press is somewhat different from the bill as originally proposed. We will now have two new stamps as mentioned in this column last week, namely a 25c Special Delivery stamp for use on all Special Delivery Parcel Post packages, in addition to a 2c service stamp, which will be a special tax or charge on every Parcel Post package irrespective of size and destination, and will be collected in addition to the regular rates now prevailing. The original bill, if I remember correctly, called for a 5c service charge. The papers report that the bill as passed makes this charge 2c. The new rates are effective as of April 15th and the new 2c and 25c stamp to collect these charges will be available by that time. As they must be distributed throughout the country, it is quite possible that they will appear early in April.

This bill is one of the first pieces of general legislation, outside of the appropriation measures, to be sent to the White House this session. Controversy over the rate increases centered on the 2nd and 4th classes. On the former, the rate is made uniform on all reading matter at 1½c a pound, while for advertising sections the rates are 2c a pound in the 1st and 2nd zones, 3c in the 3rd zone, 6c in the 4th, 5th and 6th, and 9c in the 7th and 8th zones.

The 4th class includes the Parcel Post and their charges are as mentioned above.

In the 1st class, the rate on private mailing cards, as well as souvenier cards is doubled and raised from 1c to 2c.

In the 3rd class, the rate is increased from 1c to 1½c for each two ounces. All matter under eight ounces must be sent in this class, and all over that amount must be sent as Parcel Post in the 4th class.

I have been shown a most interesting cover bearing a 5c 1847, mailed from Montreal and addressed to Glastonbury, Conn. The charges at the time were 10c and being prepaid from Montreal, the cover should have had a 10c stamp instead of the 5c. The postmaster through error marked the cover "Paid" but later evidently noticed the mistake — ran a manuscript line through the word and added "Due 5c", stamping it with a figure 5 within a square. The cover shows the Montreal postmark, as well as the stamping of the prevailing Canadian rate of 4½d. This is the first cover of this type that I have ever seen.

Late Compounds and Part Perforated Varieties.

Those who have been faking the 1914 issues with the compound perforations in addition to the part perforated varieties of the later issues seem to be again active, and are endeavoring to dispose of stamps with faked perforations made from the imperforated variety. Collectors are again cautioned to be careful in their purchases, and only to obtain these from reliable dealers, for it seems that the fakes are not only being offered privately but are coming up at auction. Although numerous attempts have been made to fake the Bureau perforation, as yet no one has succeeded, and it is doubtful if they could without such a great expense that it would not compensate them for their nefarious work.

Newspaper 10c 1879 "Specimen" Overprint

In the February 17th sale of Messrs. J. C. Morgenthau & Co., there was one item offered and sold that I have not seen heretofore and is worthy of listing, namely, a copy of the 10c black 1879 with a double "Specimen" overprint. The stamp was straight edged at the bottom and sold at $21.50.

New 1925 Envelopes

Through the courtesy of Mr. Marcus W. White and Mr. H. Clay Reed, we are able to chronicle quite a few of the current envelopes showing the new 1925 watermark. All of these have the "1925" reading diagonally, running from the upper left to the lower right of the monogram, "U. S."

North Dakota Cigarette Stamps

Prof. A. F. Gamber kindly sends me a clipping with a Bismarck, N. D., heading dated February 26th, advising that a tax bill has been passed by the State Legislature and approved by the Governor, calling for taxes on cigarettes, which will necessitate the issuing of nine stamps of the following denominations: 1/5c, 2/5c, ½c, 4/5c, ¾c, 3/5c, 1c, 2c and 3c. These stamps have been ordered by wire from the American Bank Note Company, and it is expected that they will be ready to place on sale on April 1st when the new tax law goes into effect.

Canal Zone News

Mr. R. S. Carter advises under date of February 9th, that a new Postage Due set is being prepared for the Canal Zone and that the set will consist of the present series of Canal Zone stamps in denominations of 1c, 2c and 10c, and that these will be surcharged "Postage Due." He writes that he has been informed there will be 15,000 of the 1c, 25,000 of the 2c and 40,000 of the 10c. The surcharge will appear in red on the 1c and 10c and in blue on the 2c.

I wish to thank Messrs. Henry C. Hitt, J. William Harman and Elmer F. Bodurtha for notes of interest.

Azores. — From Mr. R. Roberts come the 3c ultramarine, 6c brown, 8c orange, 32c green, E1.60 blue and E20 light green all overprinted in the usual manner for use in the colony. Also the 15c on 1 lilac and 30c on 2c Assistencia stamps of Portugal surcharged "Acores" in black.

China. — The current 5, 10 and 2 dollars stamps have been withdrawn from circulation and are no longer available for prepayment of postage.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Curacao.—Jubilee issue. Mr. P. Gordon, Rotterdam, informs us that the quantities issued were as follows: 5, 67,468; 7½c, 66,422; 10c, 49,219; 20, 60,399; 1g, 7,045; 2½g, 4,482; 5g, 4,00 It will be noted that the quantities of high values were unusually restricted.—Philatelic Magazine.

French Oceanic Settlements.—A provisional has been made at Papeet says the Victorian Phil. Record (Dec. by surcharging the 10c value with "45c —Philatelic Magazine.

Morocco Agencies.—Mr. W. T. Wilson reports the appearance of the ½c being the first value to be placed on sale in the new Waterlow print and water mark.

HEJAZ.—Mr. G. N. Taylor sends for our inspection some new surcharged stamps that came to hand on the 19th of February last. Mr. Taylor's correspondent, who is not a collector, informs him that the surcharge reads "Al Hukumat-ul-Hijaziah 5 Rabi-al-awal 1343" but does not give the translation but Mr. Taylor thinks it means "Government of the Hejaz" with date. He states further that these stamps have replaced the unsurcharged stamps, which are no longer valid, owing to the fact that many of the unsurcharged stamps fell into the hands of Wahabi tribesmen when Taif and Mecca were captured. Since the stamps of Hejaz were printed in Mecca I think it likely that we shall see not only other surcharges of new values, but a new series as well.

From letters I have received from Jeddah, I know that these stamps came into use sometime between Dec. 15th and Jan. 1st. Mr. Taylor describes the surcharged stamps as follows:

Postage Due Stamps.

1 piastre Red surcharge on No. 104

(This surcharge is like the surcharge on stamps at head of other list as far as arrangement is concerned, but is smaller.)

The following surcharges, which are all in Black, show still another arrangement. The date is the second line. The third line is enclosed in a black rectangle.

⅛ piastre surch. on No. ?
½ piastre surch. on No. 114
1½ piastre surch. on No. ?
2 piastres surch. on No. ?
2 piastres surch. on No. 117.
3 piastres surch. on No. ?
3 piastres surch. on 3pi red with "Due" surcharge.
5 piastres surch. on No. ?

⅛, 1½, 3 and 5pi are new values in the "due" stamps and not listed.

HUNGARY.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. have shown us a set of three values commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of Morris Jokai. In the centre is a front view portrait of the hero with the name of the country at the top while just below to the left are the words "Jokai Mor" in two lines and opposite "1825 1925" also in two lines. At the base is the value with figures in the centre. 1000kr green and brown, 2000kr light brown and brown, and 2500kr blue and brown. Also in the design of the 1921 issue, type A23, a 2500kr brown and light brown.

LEBANON.—The Economist Stamp Co. note the 85c rose stamp of France with the surcharge "Gd. Liban 4 Piastres" in two lines and also two lines of native characters below. The overprint is in black.

MONACO.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 30c orange and 40c brown, in the sculptured head of Prince Louis type.

The Economist Stamp Co. inform us that the 1fr black on yellow has been issued in the design that pictures the Viaduct and Cathedral of St. Devote.

NEW GUINEA.—The long-expected definitive stamps, replacing those of the N.W. Pacific Islands provisionals, were due for issue last month, on January 1st, consisting of the following values:—½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 9d, 1s, 2s, 5s, 10s, 20s. The stamps, which have been engraved by T. S. Harrison (Commonwealth Government Stamp Printer), show a fine picture of a native village. They are printed in sheets of thirty, 6x5, on unwatermarked paper, perf. 11, and are in the same colours as the current Commonwealth stamps. The Victorian Philatelic Record, to which we are indebted for this information, says that most values will also be issued overprinted "On Service" for official purposes.—Stamp Collecting.

RUSSIA.—Mr. Serge Kazakoff informs us that, to safeguard against forgery, the Soviet stamps are being printed on paper watermarked with a petal and key-pattern design. We have already seen specimens of paper so watermarked.

From the same esteemed correspondent we also have news of the appearance of the Lenin Memorial stamps, foreshadowed in these columns some weeks ago. Mr. Kazakoff shows us one value of the set, viz., 7 kop. blue (transverse oblong, imperf.), and informs us that the other denominations are 14, 20 and 40 kop. They are in a uniform type, the subject being the Lenin Mausoleum, near the Kremlin, Moscow. Further particulars next week.—Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGAL.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the following new issues of this country: 6c brown, 8c orange and E1.60 blue, all in the current design A64.

SURINAME.—Jubilee issue. We are indebted to Mr. P. Gordon, Rotterdam, for quantities issued: 5c, 67,915; 10c, 66,526; 20c, 31,132; 50c, 10,263; 1g, 7,846; 2½g, 3,934; 5g, 3,408. As with Curacao, the high values look like being scarce.—Philatelic Magazine.

SYRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the 85c rose stamp of France which has been overprinted "Syrie 4 Piastres" in two lines and also 2 lines of native characters. The surcharges is in black.

12,000 Varieties--Net $145.00
With Big Free Premium!

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL
The 12,000 variety packet (mounted) was most certainly a wonder and we'll want another one shortly. We have found your prices and treatment unequalled by any dealer with whom we have come in contact during the last seventeen years.—H. W. Myers & Co., Richmond, Calif.

Our special collection of 12,000 varieties represents for the collector, dealer or exchanger a real, dyed-in-the-wool opportunity.

The majority of the stamps are by no means of European origin, for all parts of the world are well represented: pages of the picturesque Persians; animal stamps from Benadir, North Borneo, Nyassa; war tax and commemorative issues of many British Colonials; hundreds of South and Central America; over 1,100 France and Colonies and over half as many Portuguese—these are but a few of the good things contained.

The collection was made up in Belgium, the Yvert & Tellier catalogue being used as a guide, and it will therefore contain a few hundred stamps not listed by Scott. These few stamps will not detract greatly from the value of the collection as a whole.

Catalogue value is estimated at approximately $1,000.00

The stamps are neatly mounted in twelve large books, the pages being blocked to hold 25 stamps and ruled to permit the insertion of catalogue number, value and net price under each stamp. If desired, the pages can be removed from the books and sent individually to approval customers. For the dealer or exchanger, this represents a big saving of time and labor.

We guarantee the collection unequivocally to give complete satisfaction. Any purchaser who is not highly pleased with it after a rigid examination may return the collection for a full cash refund, plus postage!

Only two collections on hand. Avoid disappointment by ordering today!

A BILL BAILY LETTER.

(This clipping was taken from one of the San Francisco papers. It was published in a feature called "The Letters of Bill Baily". This one in particular was addressed to "Edwin P. Seebohm, Postage Stamp Shark, San Francisco". It cannot be said that Bill has any too much love for our hobby, but the article is readable. Mr. Seebohm writes us that stamp collecting is receiving continual publicity in the local papers. The Stamp Club is also getting its share. A very enjoyable annual dinner recently secured an attendance of nearly one hundred.—W. O. W.)

MY DEAR ED:

Outside of golf, the other thing I don't understand is why folks get goofy over collecting postage stamps that wouldn't carry a letter anywhere.

Next Tuesday, they tell me, you are going to hold your twenty-second auction sale at the San Francisco Stamp Society, and if it's anything like the preceding 21 a lot of people are going to fight like a flock of strange bulldogs over buying stamps, a couple of hundred of which affixed to a letter wouldn't carry it to Oakland, because most of the stamps are canceled anyhow.

A fellow can go to the general postoffice and get a stamp that has the picture of George Washington right side up on it for 2 cents. That's the way a postage stamp should be made. But if he could locate one where Washington was shown standing on his head it would be worth $2,000 uncancelled with another couple of hundred bucks added on if a postal clerk had given it a second-hand effect by running it through a canceling machine.

They call a fellow who collects stamps a philatelist. I call him something that should be under observation and treatment, and yet, after all, it's none of my business.

Not so many years ago I had a friend who was going to buy a house and had saved up $820 as the first payment. He was all cheered up over the prospect of having a home that he could make installment payments on for the balance of his natural life, when some person who was no real friend of his showed him a rare old postage stamp.

I don't know what was the matter with the stamp. It may have had pink mucilage on its reverse side instead of white, or it may have shown Daniel Webster winking, or sneezing or something, but it was defective somehow, and that gave it tremendous value. He asked the chap what he'd take for the stamp, and the fellow told him $830, so this man I knew borrowed $10, drew the $820 out of the bank and gave it all to the fellow. He never did buy that house, but a couple of years later his baby got hold of his stamp collection and ate most of it, including the $830 one. Some bab having appetites like goats, you knc So it may safely be said that the ba swallowed a whole house and lot one gulp.

It's funny how the stamp collecti boys act, too. About a year ago I g a letter from Moscow, Russia. It w quite a long letter and carried rights double postage. To the best my recollection and belief there w 2,000,000 rubles worth of stamps on representing at that time about t price of a sack of Bull Durham in c money.

I asked a stamp collector friend h much those stamps were worth. looked at them closely and sa "What's the matter with them? don't see any defects in them."

"Bet your life you don't," I sa "They're doggone good stamps a there's at least four bit worth of pa and mucilage in them."

"Don't want them if they're not fective," he said.

If everything had, like stamps, fixed value according to their def tiveness, I figure that I've got a set brains that are worth all the mor John D. Rockefeller ever had. I stamps are the only things that wo out that way, and that's why I don't this philatelist business at all.

Yours for the best quality stam that will carry letters,

BILL
